The Ex-Goatee Select-man

Last year it was my privilege to wear the goatee. The distinction seemed necessary with town fathers three, But changes escape not the ravages of time however, And the last may be first and the first may be last forever. That's one reason why I take sides with a boy High or low, rich or poor, mischievous; me he may annoy, But I'll be his friend and stay with him, come what may, For this same lad may be our president some day. So all ye wise men, for your own good take note— Whatever you do, don't kick the goat.

War Savings Stamps

The following letter received by postmaster E. E. Sargent discloses a continued interest, here and elsewhere, in the purchase of war savings stamps.

To the Postmaster,
Belchertown, Mass.

Dear Postmaster:

I am advised by the Boston post office of the orders you have placed for government savings stamps during January and February. I appreciate your co-operation in this movement to create new capital for the benefit of our government, and beg to thank you for the interest which you show. I hope you will be successful in speedily disposing of your stock on hand, and be in a position to order a new supply.

Please do not overlook the advantages which treasury savings certificates possess. Communities tributary to the 3rd and 4th class post offices, are usually lacking in banking facilities, and investment in treasury savings certificates presents an ideal way to safeguard extra money which your patrons may have on hand. They are fire-proof, loss-proof and burglar-proof, and pay a very fair rate of interest. It is probable that if you keep this possibility in mind, you will find several people in your community who are willing to invest in the $25, $100, and even the $1,000 certificates.

Very truly yours,
F. C. Ayres, Government Director of Savings

Work Begins at State School

The season's construction work at the State school began Monday, when O'Connor of Northampton arrived with a large force of men. The chief emphasis at present is on preparatory work, such as the improvement of the roads leading to the building sites, which will enable heavy trucks to do their hauling to advantage.

Five buildings are also under construction: a power house, laundry, service building and two dormitories. It is planned to finish these this fall.

During the summer, the grounds will be a busy spot. One hundred twenty-five are now at work and this number will be considerably augmented later on. A commissary department has been established at the Stacy place with Michael McKillop in charge. The workmen hail from Northampton and from other cities near and far.

That labor is indeed plentiful is attested by the fact that workmen have applied for jobs in large numbers.

Annual League Meeting

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Belchertown Community League Inc. was held in Community hall last Friday evening. Directors chosen for the ensuing year were Mrs. E. C. Howard, Mrs. H. F. Curtis, Miss Marian Bardwell, A. F. Bardwell, Wm. Orlando, Roswell Allen, E. O. Howard, H. F. Curtis and L. H. Blackner. A. F. Bardwell was elected clerk and Miss Ella A. Stebbins, treasurer. The latter has tendered her resignation.

A committee was chosen consisting of G. E. Scott, Wm. Orlando and A. F. Bardwell, to see that the paint, already purchased, is applied to the Community League building, as funds are available for accomplishing the task.

At a meeting of the directors, immediately following the stockholders' meeting, Roswell Allen was re-elected president of the board, and A. F. Bardwell, secretary.

Another Big Game

Another big basket ball game will be played in the town hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, between Bondsville and the Belchertown Independents. The lineup for the visitors will include Henderson, Shea and Cunningham of the Fisk Red Tops, and Robarge, Shepherd and Carlson of the Westfield Interstate League team.

The Independents will put up Chas. Austin, Herbert Story, Em Grayson, Bucky Davis, Dame Grayson and Howard Spencer.

W. R. C. Notes

At a recent meeting the W. R. C. elected the following officers:

Mrs. Lottie Cook, pres.; Mrs. Ella Witt, senior vice-pres.; Mrs. Nellie Dewey, junior vice pres.; Mrs. Geradine Howard, sec'y; Mrs. Alice G. Hazen, treas.; Mrs. Belle Morse, chaplain; Mrs. Jennie Chamberlain, conductor; Mrs. Maud Camp, asst. conductor; Mrs. Mary Hadlock, guard; Mrs. Amy Cook, asst. guard.

All those who desire to retain membership in the corps are requested to be present at the next regular meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Nellie Dewey at 7.30 o'clock.

Advises Regarding Schools

Burr F. Jones of the State Board of Education was in town yesterday to confer with the authorities regarding improved school facilities. He came at the invitation of the special committee and his findings will be of interest. He thinks our facilities are decidedly inadequate but considers it unwise to reconstruct the present building. He thinks it desirable to have all the grades and the High school under one roof.

He believes the Hopkins' site much to be preferred over the present lot which is surrounded by back yards. He sees also a greater opportunity for expansion and more room for playgrounds. He said that a new building could be constructed sectionally so that the cost might be more easily borne, but with present building conditions, he failed to see how the town could build what it really ought to have. Furthermore a special act of the Legislature would be required to issue bonds, so that really nothing could be done this year.

He will make a formal report later which will go into the matter in more detail.

Mr. Jones visited the school room in Community hall and was much pleased with the new quarters.

Station Break

What a little wrong doing leads to, was well illustrated by the break at the station last Friday night. 61 cents and one grape fruit were all that was secured, but forces were set in motion whereby human life was endangered. Briefly stated, it seems that an officer from New London and the local sheriff lay in waiting Sunday night for another call. A fliker in the darkness of the station aroused a young man passing by to make a capture, so after procuring a shot gun and revolver, he fired from the bridge into the station at a point near where the men were waiting. Luckily no one was injured.

Later, the veteran who had seen service of a real sort, attacked from the rear. The lights were soon turned on and each party recognized the other—a funny story, but—

The Pied Piper of Hamelin

Reproduction story by Katherine Dressel, Grade IV, Center school.

Once there was a little town. It was full of rats. The Mayor said, "I will give a thousand guilders to any one that can get the rats out of town." At last there came a loud knock at the door. The Mayor called, "Come in." And in came the strangest looking man. He was tall and thin. "Dear people," said he, "I am called the Pied Piper. If you wish me to drive all the rats out of this town I will. But you must give me a thousand guilders." "We will give you fifty thousand," said the Mayor. So out into the street went the piper. Before he had played three notes all the rats came out into the street. Big rats, little rats and black rats all followed the piper. Afterwards the piper came back. "Please, my thousand guilders." "A thousand guilders!" said the Mayor. "Take fifty," said the Mayor. "Not one less than a thousand," said the piper. So he set out into the street again. This time he played soft sweet music. Out of the houses came the children. The piper went toward the river. All the people thought that he was going to drown the children. But he turned and went toward the mountain. A door opened. The piper went in the door and when it closed, it shut the piper, children and all up. Then the Mayor said he would give a thousand guilders to any one that would get the children back. But no one could get them back.

CHICK FEED AND CHICKEN CHOWDER FOR THE BABY-CHICKS

A. H. PHILLIPS

Los Angeles, California

Mrs. C. F. D. Husen

I think it best to change our way into the city as I am not as familiar here as with the southern part. We will take up our route at the Arcade-depot where we first landed from the Southern Pacific. One who passes the gate out, cannot go in unless he has a ticket, so it was a long time before I knew what was behind the door, but in a walk I went in the back way. I was almost frightened. It was where rich folks like the Vanderbilts park their cars and leave their servants. In here were all kinds of foreign trees with the name on each tree. But we are going into the city.

We go up 5th street a short half mile and bring up at Main street. At 4th street is the Van Nuys hotel, right on a corner with a whole corner of glass so that you see all over the room. There are no piazzas at the hotels. This is a first class hotel. Westminster is opposite.

On our first walk we were glad to see Peniel Hall with a Scripture text in the front of the nice brick hall. In connection with it goes a story. Mr. Studd was a young Englishman and heard D. L. Moody in England. He was converted and joined Mr. Moody in his work. In Los Angeles he found a Mrs. Furgerson with a little mission on a side street. He built the hall there with rooms to rent above the hall. Mr. Studd played the organ and sang and talked here many years, had a room there, etc. But there were people who came to Los Angeles, claiming that they had the gift of tongues, and rather late in the movement he began to attend the meetings. There was a woman who had two besides her own and he left Peniel and married the woman. The last I knew, he had not gotten the gift, but he was to be seen on the street with a nice, tall silk hat on. Many religious people would first attend Peniel hall meetings and later find a home somewhere else.

A man from Boronoro came with nice pictures. He would praise his handsome women, the houses built on stilts, and such wonderful vegetation, ferns as big as trees. Later he was asked into the big churches.

The first winter we were there, Jack Cook, thirteen years old, preached every night at a large Baptist church. The church was closed till the hour to begin, then the doors were opened and pell mell in went the crowd. Jack was an English boy and was really smart. His father and a brother were with him. Mr. Smale, the minister, would come out and sing, "I'll sail the wild seas no more." The crowded house went on for some time and Mr.

Smale got mad and gave us an awful talking to; we were keeping his people out. But this is not about Main street.

As we go north on Main, there is a variety of shops, a shooting gallery and many saloons on the corners. I remember a very nice provision store, the cathedral on the east side, etc. There are no dry goods shops on Main street.

We will follow up 4th to Spring. This is a nice, clean street, banks, druggists, men's clothing stores, etc. Next is Broadway. At 4th and Broadway is a nice store for all the people. Farther on they sold dearer goods and a floor walker would aid you all over the store. There were china stores, the windows of which were very pretty. Up here is the Chamber of Commerce, a very entertaining place; an elephant made of English walnuts, life size, a tall wine bottle made of many bottles, large glass cans with slices of water melons, bunches of grapes half a yard long, and other fruits. It is quite a grand show.

I have said nothing of the red persimmon, ripe in November. They had a disagreeable taste to me. Recently I read in a widely circulated paper that a gentleman saw in a fine sunset yellow persimmons and red quinces. I do not know but that they may be natural, though I saw only red persimmons and yellow quinces. But you know there is a wizard in California, Burbank.

With Our Subscribers

Extract from a letter sent by a subscriber and former resident. The old Baptist meeting house referred to, stood on what is now the Towne place on State St.

Mr. Editor—

I read your paper with much interest every week, but having been so long away from town, I recognize but few of the names I see.

In a recent issue I read of that boy who hates the wood pile, and it brought to my mind how I, too, loved the saw and buck. The dislike has grown through four score years so that now I hold it in sovereign contempt. I recall my dear old father-telling me that it was more work to get me to saw the wood than it would be to saw it himself, and I recall that I wondered why he did not do it himself in the cause of labor saving.

As I thought of the old days in Belchertown, I wondered how many of your readers could remember the old Baptist Meeting House that stood on the street leading to the R. R. station. As a boy of eight years in 1842 I remember how it looked.

Externally it resembled a barn save for the rows of windows upon each side. There was no tower or spire. No regular services were held there after my remembrance. But I have been in the building and sat upon the straight, high-backed seats. The tops of those backs for twelve or fourteen inches were made of spindles set some two or three inches apart, and were higher than my head.

As I sat and looked toward the pulpit, I had to look through those spindles. To see the preacher, I was compelled to lay my head back upon my shoulders and look up at an angle of forty-five degrees.

The minister would come up the aisle, step up on a little platform in front of the desk and open a little door, very narrow, then he would go in, shut the door, and find himself in a little room where he could leave his hat and wraps. Then by narrow stairs he would ascend to the pulpit. First one would see his head appear, then his shoulders, till at length he would be in position to address the audience and pound the cushioned desk.

After the dismantling of the church, some of these pew backs were used to fence the garden of Dea. Wm. Owen who then lived a little way out on the Ware road.

The Fire Whistle

The fire whistle arrived last week and was given a try-out under adverse conditions. The alarm thus given did not startle anyone and was heard at no great distance. When it is erected on the top of Community-hall, as the plan now is, different results are expected.

The machine was purchased from the American La France company, a reliable concern dealing in fire apparatus, and is here on trial.

A rumor has gotten started that the machine purchased is not the one talked about town meeting day and is less expensive but such is not the case. The price is $300 plus $50 for installation.

Nevertheless the town needs to be sure it is getting a powerful enough machine, otherwise it would only be an aggravation. To be of any use as a school signal it will have to blow some.

Gets Big Surprise

The Belchertown Independents handed the Bondsville aggregation a big surprise package last Saturday night in the town hall. When they opened it they found the frazzled end of a 75 to 10 score, which was far from their expectations for they were planning a nice little presentation themselves.

It was all over at the end of the first half for the figures then read 25-7. Story had secured 3 baskets, D. Grayson 3, Em. Grayson 5 free tries with 2 baskets, and Austin and Spencer one basket each. Carlson got one basket and Rebarge three free tries.

The second half resulted in Story 3, D. Grayson 4, Em. Grayson 7 and 6 free tries; Austin 6; McDonald 1 basket, Shea 1 free try.

Grayson only missed two out of thirteen free tries. Austin's clean, long shots were a feature. Belchertown put in good floor work, while McDonald featured for Bondsville.

Ray Shaw refereed the first half and George Williams the second.

To the People of Belchertown:

ATTENTION!

Again we find Memorial Day almost upon us. And the Chauncey D. Walker Post finds that it cannot show the respect and honor that should be given to the boys who fought and gave up their lives that we might live, and also to impress upon the children what it means to love and honor their country in which they live.

And so we are asking you to give us the sum of one hundred dollars to be expended for the following:

- Feeding of children on common $ 30.00
- Wreaths for monument and honor roll 15.00
- 144 flags for decorating soldiers' graves 20.00
- 4 grave markers for boys who died overseas 20.00
- 50 poppies to be distributed about town 5.00
- Speaker for afternoon address 10.00

The town raised and appropriated $125 for Memorial day, all of which is needed for the hiring of a band, so we make this appeal.

Some member of the Legion will call on you next week, so please do your bit.

R. L. Blackmer,
Post Commander

Begin at Home

The problems of the world are found in a miniature form in every community. No man need to go outside his own town to tackle a difficult problem. The community contains within itself all the factors which make the problems.

It is more fascinating to work away at a problem which is remote. It is much more difficult to solve the problem of living in friendly fashion with a next door neighbor who is a foreigner and who does many things distasteful to us, than it is to give money to a charitable institution which is laboring among the poor in our cities, or to a night school which is instilling American ideals into our foreign speaking boys and girls. We get more delight in wrestling with the labor and capital problem in a big city than we do in knowing what to do with some cantankerous individual in our own community who is always stirring up something.

Our hardest problems are right at home. Any father knows that the problems at his own fireside tax his powers to their utmost. There are enough problems within the church or within the lodge to puzzle the stoutest hearts. Social estrangements, class antagonisms, even within a church, baffle the saintliest souls.

We ought to do more intensive work at home. We ought to sweat more with the problems right at hand. We ought to grapple more strenuously with the difficulties in our own midst.

For it is the man who has first solved the difficulties at home who can be depended upon to solve difficulties abroad. The man who gets on with the Italian next door will be the one who will render the largest

B. H. S. Notes

The clock has returned to its old home on the school walls. Since its return it hasn't stopped a minute.

The Junior play is coming off tonight. We hope it is a success. If it is, we shall read about it in the next Sentinel; if it isn't, we shall have heard enough about it before then.

Lovers of comedy shouldn't miss the play. This is your chance to see your school-mates in a new light. A couple of the boys will appear in full uniform at last. Miss Flaherty is starring in some sensational costumes. Reddy Wood is playing the part of a model husband. Come and see Miss Kennedy win the heart of a British officer,—and he declares he doesn't like red hair.

Literary Senior: "It is well to take a book along when travelling for you may miss a train and have a couple of hours to wait. Then you can read something worth while."

A. Hanifin: "I think it is better to walk to the next station."

Freshman, on an exam: "The Indian chiefs descended from their forefathers."

Remarks of the fire fighters: H. Hazen, with needle and thread in hand, "It's never too late to mend."

Reddy said, "Gee, I like to fight fires. Just think how nicely you can break in a new pair of shoes."

Paul Austin said, "I am going to be a fireman when I grow up because you have fire engines n' everything to play with."

Hazen and Bracy have been christened. Hazen has taken the name of "Petey, old boy," and Bracey, that of "Friction." There is some mystery about Bracey's name, for, from his actions when anyone calls him "Friction", it seems as if he had been christened against his will.

On the way to the fire: "Yell when you go past the house, fellows, so mother will know I'm with you." —Bardwell

Any farmer of experience can tell about how long his farm machinery will run before the parts that need replacement will wear out. These include with many others, shares, shovels, guards, knives, sections, blades, teeth, etc.

Order Repairs Early

All these items should be listed and ordered early, far in advance of the time when they will be needed. You will save time and money by ordering all the repairs at one time. This will save you money later in the season, when you may be obliged to pay for long distance telephone calls, and express or parcel post charges on numerous small orders.

A large forest fire, believed to have been set by sparks from the 11.35 B. & M. train, burned over more than a hundred acres in the Mill Valley district on Tuesday. The fire burned from the railroad to the canal over land belonging to Myron Shaw, E. F. Blackmer, Garvey Bros. and others. —A large force of men, augmented by scholars from the High school, was necessary to extinguish the blaze. There were also fires in the north part of the town this week.

The Belchertown Sentinel; I am renewing my allegiance to the little "Old Hometown paper", that comes with its weekly message to the far places, where some of the sons and daughters of good old Belchertown have strayed.

It was with sorrow that I read of the passing of Henry Jepson; and I am glad that it was my privilege to meet him last fall and renew our friendship.

And what a wonderful visit I had in your town, met so many old friends that were very kind to me, and extended the real western brand of hospitality; I can never tell them how much I appreciated them, and their efforts in my behalf.

The old village has improved a great deal in the last thirty years, the old chain fence around the common had disappeared, the grass was trimmed, dooryard fences gone, good sidewalks, and a real prosperous look. I found the ometeries in town nicely cared for, very different from their condition a generation ago.

Will you like me as well as ever if I say that your school houses are too much out-of-date and not worthy of the class of your citizenship; and Belchertown is no whit worse in that respect than most of the towns around you.

We "Yanks" like to tell of the high class schools of New England and you do have them, in some places, but your small town schools are very far behind the country schools in the state of Washington; no one except Normal School or University graduates are allowed to teach in the state, every school is graded and nearly all school houses are up to date.

Of course in this vigorous young state we had no old traditions to hold us back, or old ruts to crawl out of, and it was as well to start out right at first.

Please pardon my criticism, for I want you all to remember me as a friend and a loyal son of good old Belchertown.

The Junior Play

"Patty Makes Things Hum" was very successfully presented by the Junior class last Friday evening in Community hall. The play was a light comedy with no striking literary value. Its purpose was merely to entertain, and that purpose was achieved. The audience responded heartily to the bits of humor and amusing action.

The cast of characters follows:

Doris Greene, the hostess	Ruth Gildemeister
Patty, Doris's sister just home from boarding school	Anna Mae Kennedy
Hyacinth, the colored maid	Alice Flaherty
Helen Braithwaite	Irene Vesina
Mrs. Smith, a friend of Doris	Margaret Landers
Hope Dunbar	Emma Dodge
Mr. Smith	Milton Wood
Mr. Greene	Robert Dunbar
Capt. Little, Doris' brother, engaged to Helen	Walter Dodge
Capt. Braithwaite	James Aldrich

The chief source of excitement in the plot was Patty's scheme to get even with her sister for not letting her attend the dinner party given in honor of the Braithwaites. Patty dressed in a borrowed costume and took the place of waitress at the table. Her sister, of course, could not give away the secret of her identity before the guests and Patty had ample opportunity to attract the attention of Captain Braithwaite. Unfortunately Miss Braithwaite saw her fiance, Captain Little, giving the supposed waitress a brotherly kiss, and she declared their engagement at an end.

The next day when the captain called and found her busily cleaning up the living room, Patty still played the part of a servant. The necessary explanations were made in the third act; the suspended engagement was saved, and Captain Braithwaite found Patty ready to take a place in his social circle.

All the characters played well for persons with so little experience. Two, perhaps, deserve special comment. Patty's role was given with vivacity and charm. Her dialogues with the captain and with Hyacinth

Librarian Resigns

Mrs. Cora Burnett, for the last ten years librarian at the Clapp Memorial library, has tendered her resignation. The library was built in 1885 and for a quarter of a century Miss Lydia A. Barton acted in the capacity of librarian. On her retirement Mrs. Burnett was appointed and has served continuously ever since.

Mrs. Burnett has endeavored to be of the greatest service to the patrons of the library who have appreciated her very courteous treatment. She has been in touch with library work as carried on elsewhere and has sought to raise the standards here to meet the standards set by the state. This she has succeeded in accomplishing.

TRUSTEES TAKE ACTION

The trustees of the Clapp Memorial Library held a special meeting on the evening of April 12, 1921 to act on the resignation of Mrs. Cora Burnett as librarian. It was voted to accept her resignation with regret and that a note of appreciation be presented Mrs. Burnett for her faithful services for the past ten years.

Miss Marion Bartlett was elected to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Burnett.

ANNUAL CLOSING

The library will be closed Apr. 16 for the annual vacation of two weeks.

Not Quite Satisfied

The fire whistle, which has whistled several times since our last issue in an endeavor to get its voice, does not quite come up to the expectations of a large number of our citizens. Perhaps some are elated over the affair but those haven't been the ones we have happened to meet.

The whistle doesn't seem to have the stattle in it that was characteristic of the old town bell although of course the fact that it can be operated instantaneously is a feature to be reckoned with. People within a few minutes of the center have gone complacently about their tasks undisturbed by the new voice in the community. Of course that kind might not be of any great use at a fire anyway.

Our Reading

It is well to examine occasionally one's list of magazines and one's library. It would be worth while to go over rather carefully the books on the shelves and the magazines on the table and discover what we are reading.

The world has never had such a supply of books as it has today. There are plenty of clean, wholesome stories for boys and girls, as there are plenty that are not. There are great books of devotion as there are books which cultivate irreverence. And even though the price of books is high, they are within the reach of the average home.

A fellow townsman of our President was telling us the other day that he had read one good book every week for many years, 38 if our memory serves us correctly. There was every evidence that this reading had left its mark upon this man's life.

A careful observer declares that "the ordinary home library shows a striking deterioration from the days of our fathers." If this is the case it is high time to eliminate the second and third rate books and replace them with books of the first rank.

B. H. S. Notes

The classes do not seem to be rallying very quickly to the aid of the over-worked reporters. Better help them out by sending in a few notes.

It's funny how the Junior boys lose their class pins so mysteriously and do not seem a bit sad over the loss.

There may be some motive other than the desire to economize space that makes the Juniors group together in pairs. Perhaps they believe there's safety in numbers.

Alice Howard suggests that school seats be made of steel rather than cast iron. We wonder why!

"Stop calling me 'kid,' you get my goat." Anna Mae.

A freshman girl remarked that when one heard a noise the olfactory nerves were excited. Well, you ought to know, Miss Peeso.

Junior girls have just received their (?) class pins.

The Junior play had a very abrupt ending, even as the author had written it, but it was abbreviated still further by accidentally cutting nearly two pages.

E. Merriam: "Isn't the scenery on the C. V. delightful?"

Important Announcement: The Class Will has been assigned to Agnes Hanifin, and the Class Prophecy to Mildred Sullivan.

The Junior class thanks all those who helped to make their play a success.

Los Angeles, California

Mrs. C. F. D. Hazen

The Chamber of Commerce gives very interesting illustrated lectures on California. And there are nice pictures about the hall, and they give away lots of illustrated literature.

Farther south is the City Hall. When we first went to California, it housed the library, also a reading room. I used to go in and see if there was news from home in the Springfield Republican. Sometimes I found a man looking over the papers but he seldom found what he wanted. One morning a lady was looking at Western Massachusetts news. We both looked at the other and this followed. "Are you from Massachusetts?" "Yes." "Where?" "Holyoke." "What name?" "Mrs. Dr. B." "Why, I know who you are. I know several of the family in West Brookfield." And so on. She and her husband called on us.

The library was soon crowded out and went farther out. It seemed as though everything went farther from the center.

All the named streets in the city run north and south, and the numbered ones east and west. I think all the dry goods stores were on the west side of Broadway, though there were fancy goods on the east.

Quite a good many of the trolley cars run round the end of Main St. from Spring and make Main badly crowded at that end and worse as you go on towards the depot. It is almost impossible to get across the were especially successful. Hyacinth's was the most difficult part, since it called for real character interpretation. Miss Flaberty played it very well. Much amusement was furnished by Hyacinth's ideas on managing husbands, and by her constant slips of the tongue.

In spite of rainy weather the hall was filled, and the audience was enthusiastic. The waits between acts were made pleasant by music. There was music by the agony quartet, with accordin accompaniment, song by Mr. and Miss Vezina sung in French, general singing with Mrs. Earl Shumway of Amherst at the piano, cards, games, and a general good time beside. One amusing event of the evening was the presenting of a box to Mr. Newman which took nearly one half hour to unwrap. Ice cream and cake were served for refreshments.

Need Free Colleges

Below we print a letter written by Newell Booth, which was published recently in the Boston Telegram. Mr. Booth is a student in Boston University.

The free college, in which the state pays the tuition, would in my opinion, decidedly augment the educational system of the country. The free grade and high schools have greatly raised the educational standard of the nation. There were even those who opposed that; but now it is impossible not to realize and commend the results of it. The free college would act in the same way.

We want, naturally, great men to be made greater by their environment, average men pushed up on a higher level, and men below the average given a better chance to display special powers. I believe that the free college will be the best agent for giving men this chance. In old Athens all the citizens lived on an intellectual, moral, and civil level. Property was no bar. Nowhere has there been such a government as that of Athens. Is not this an impressive argument for the free college?

We have a democratic country in which everyone can vote. Why not have a system of collegiate education in which everyone who is mentally fit may be educated, so as to be able to cast a more intelligent vote?

The future, the so-called "cooperative commonwealth," is going to demand more and more people who can take an intelligent part in civil life. The grade schools prepare one for high school, the high school for college; but college prepares one to live, and so where are we going to look for the preparation of the coming generation for this task, but to the college, and what better way is there than the system of free colleges?

but then, there would be a good many exceptions to that.

So far the contrivance has only been tried out on perfect June days. Probably running up against a good wind would not increase the noise.

When one gets a plaything, it is a temptation to keep it anyway. It's sort of a bother to go back and change it. But if "Johnnie's whistle" doesn't wake Johnnie up when he blows it, it's sort of common sense to do something about it, isn't it? What's the matter? Is it Johnnie, or is it the whistle?

Death of James Robinson

James Hardman Robinson, 37, died at the Huntress House in Rutland where he went for treatment six weeks ago. Mr. Robinson was born in Manchester, England, and in 1913 became agent at the union depot, a position which he held until the end of 1915. His family came here in 1914. After his appointment as auditor, a position which he held up to the time of his death, they resided here for a time but later came back.

Mr. Robinson was Senior Warden of Vernon Lodge and a director of the Gauge Club, a Masonic organization in Randolph, Vt. He was also a member of St. Paul's Episcopal church of Brattleboro, Vt.

He leaves, besides his widow, a daughter, Dolores Elizabeth, and a son, James Aris, also a brother, Wm. Robinson of Waterbury, a sister, Mrs. Aris Shellman of New York City, a brother, Charles Robinson, and a sister, Elizabeth Robinson of Manchester, England.

The funeral was held in the chapel Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Hervey C. Parke of Amherst, officiating. Mrs. Bertram Shaw sang two selections. Vernon Lodge had charge of the committal service. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Special Town Meeting

A special town meeting is called for tomorrow at two o'clock for the consideration of the following articles:

Article 2. To hear the report of the committee chosen at the last annual meeting to name some of the roads and streets of Belchertown and take action relative thereto.

Article 3. To see if the town will vote to continue the use of standard time.

Article 4. To see what action the town will take in regard to constructing a bridge over Swift River at the present location of the so-called Chapin bridge and to raise and appropriate a sum to be used in conjunction with a sum appropriated by the town of Ware for that purpose.

The bridge proposition is the same as that brought up at the last town meeting and voted down. What fate it will have this time depends to some extent on the report of the state bridge man who was in town Wednesday afternoon and went with the town fathers of both Belchertown and Ware to look the present bridge over. He will send a letter in time for the meeting, advising the voters of his opinion.

The matter of retaining standard time is but a spark from the wild-fire of secession now spreading over the small towns of the state against daylight saving. Whatever the results, he who travels abroad much this summer will have to scratch his head some to get within an hour of the right time.

Annual Meeting

The Park Association held its annual meeting Wednesday evening, and elected the following officers:

President, F. D. Walker; vice-president, J. W. Jackson; secretary, H. A. Hopkins; treasurer, M. S. Barton; executive committee, E. C. Howard, R. L. Bridgman, M. S. Barton, E. O. Witt, L. H. Blackmer.

The Park Association is at present in a quiescent state, awaiting the time when the people will be glad to make use of the charter which it now possesses. It would add greatly to the appearance of the park if the walks were cut out and it is hoped that the matter may be gotten at someday. Every citizen, no matter where located, catches in on the appearance of the center, so it is no more than fair to have every one cash out.

Wrestling Bout

The first wrestling bout in some time was pulled off in the town hall on Wednesday evening. Both amateur and professional attractions were put on. Each was exciting at times but the finishes were not startling in either case.

James Aldrich 120, and Walter Dodge 133, surprised the audience by their fast performance. Dodge won the first heat with a body seissors and Aldrich the second with the same. Both took seven minutes. In the deciding match Aldrich yielded after six minutes of scrimmage.

Trombley had an easy time with the self-styled Boston Bone Crusher, winning in seven and one-half minutes with a double arm lock.

The Greenfield Wonder did not prove so easy and the contest bid fair to be more evenly matched, but the referee found the Wonder in the defeated position, (although his opponent had no hold upon him) and had nothing else to do but call the bout ended. Trombley guaranteed to defeat the two men in an hour and accomplished the task in twenty-two and one-half minutes.

As an extra Trombley again met the first man who was outmatched in four minutes.

The usual entertainer was on hand with stunts new and old, among the former being ventriloquist performances.

Public Poultry Meeting

There will be a poultry meeting in engine house hall next Tuesday evening when those interested along this line are invited to be present. This meeting is called by local poultrymen.

It is also understood that the coal situation will be discussed and collective buying considered.

How We Are Controlled

Some men are governed by their feelings. They do the things they feel like doing and they decline to do those things which they do not feel like doing.

It is our observation that feelings fluctuate, and that we are never quite certain of one who is governed by his feelings.

Some are governed by their emotions. It is true that life would be dull without emotion. We like emotion. We like enthusiasm.

Some are governed by their intellects. They have their feelings and their emotions under control of their intellects.

Some men by their reason have made white appear black and black white. Many a husband, if he is honest, will Beware of the Seniors; when they hear anything about declamations, they are not very lovable.

The Sophomores ought to be given a lecture about taking the Freshmen's pencils.

The latest fad among the girls of B. H. S. is fortune telling. One young lady owns the wonderful book which contains all this mysterious knowledge.

Remember the "Favorite Songs" in last week's Sentinel? B. H. S. did not know that she had so many musical prodigies.

A Conversation with a Book

It was late in the afternoon of a cold winter's day. I had just got through studying my civics lesson for the next day.

I had no more than got to sleep when I was awakened by an angry little voice beside the sofa. I got up and looked under it and saw the puppy trying his best to separate the two covers of the little book and that little book was certainly telling the puppy some things that were not wholly untrue.

I drove the puppy away and then that little book began to tell me all its troubles, and also what it thought of me, which was not altogether to my liking. It told me that the year before, it had been written all over and that when it was given to me it thought it was going to like me because I erased all the writing that was on it.

I was just going to apologize to it for my treating it so roughly, when my mother awoke me and told me supper was ready. I looked to see if my book was still there. It was just where I had thrown it.

Remembers Birthday

Friends of Mrs. Irene Finley Bassett of Barre will be interested in the following quotation from the Barre Gazette which tells how the Woman's association of the Congregational church in Barre honored her 80th birthday at their Easter tea and food sale. After the introduction the Gazette says:

"Preceding the tea, a surprise was given Mrs. Irene Bassett, the oldest active member of the association, in honor of her eightieth birthday. A mammoth birthday cake, made by Mrs. Geo. C. Allen, decorated in pink and white and sparkling with eighty lighted candles, was presented Mrs. Bassett, who responded in a very effective manner, and cut the cake that all might enjoy it with her.

"The poem, 'Growing Old Gracefully,' sent by Mrs. Sarah Bothwell in honor of the occasion, was read by Mrs. Charles G. Allen. A book, 'The Manhood of Christ,' by Dr. Harry E. Fosdick, was presented Mrs. Bassett by the Association."

Burnett-Newman Wedding

TURKEY HILL

Mrs. Cora E. Burnett and John R. Newman, Jr., were married at the home of Mr. Newman Sunday at 10 a. m. by Rev. H. P. Rankin, the double ring service being used. Mrs. Amy North, sister of the groom, attended the bride, and J. R. Newman, Sr., the groom. Only immediate relatives were present, including Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Newman, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Meade and daughter, Betty, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur North from out of town.

The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers by Newman of Boston, pink being the predominant color. An elaborate wedding breakfast was served.

The bride wore a gown of brown chiffon, and carried bride roses. The gifts were numerous, including money, silver, china, and a swarm of bees.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Shaw of this town, and has lived here practically all her life, having been the efficient librarian at Clapp Memorial library for the past ten years, resigning her post recently. Mr. Newman of New Meade farm has been a resident of the town for about five years and is extensively engaged in poultry raising.

They will be at home to friends after June 1st.

Grange Notes

The 3d and 4th degrees were conferred on the incoming class on Apr. 19th and all agreed it was a very pleasant evening. It was also the Annual Inspection and Rev. C. H. Smith of Granby was introduced as the Inspecting Deputy.

The Auxiliary Committee had been busy and many bright touches had been given the hall, conspicuous among them being a new silk flag.

We hope that all members will realize that in "unity there is strength" and all lend a hand to make this a banner year for Union Grange, No. 64.

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed by all.

Anna M. Ward, Sec'y.

The entertainment for the regular Grange meeting Tuesday evening promises to be very interesting. Raymond Blackmer, Commander of Chauncey D. Walker post, is chairman and is arranging a patriotic program. Come and enjoy the evening. Geraldine Howard, Lecturer.

Special Town Meeting

At the special town meeting last Saturday three matters of business were acted upon. The report of the committee who were to suggest names for the various streets in town, was accepted and adopted with no debate.

The question of retaining standard time called forth a variety of opinions. No one spoke who was really in favor of daylight saving, but there were a number who did not see how we could legally adopt standard time when the state had already acted. The school authorities said the schools would probably have to run on the new schedule, anyway, but the farmers and their friends were insistent upon joining the ranks of some of the small towns of the commonwealth who are rebelling against the state law, and they were in the majority.

The matter of constructing a new bridge at West Ware called forth discussion similar to that carried on at the annual meeting. That "ascent of 45 degrees" is evidently still there. The letter from the state bridge engineer was not positive enough to convince the voters that a new bridge was a necessity. A little "horse sense" of the selectmen and some of the voters was followed and $300 appropriated to put the present structure in a safe condition.

It remains to be seen whether Ware will accept the half loaf offered her.

The report of the committee on naming the streets is appended.

REPORT OF STREET COMMITTEE

The committee chosen to name and determine the limits of some of the more important streets and roads of Belchertown, hereby submit the following report for your revision, adoption or rejection.

First we considered the streets to which names had long ago been given and had been tacitly accepted by the people. We recommend the

Daylight Saving Nevertheless

Daylight saving is fast becoming adopted in town. The schools found that they must operate upon it, the stores and the bus line followed suit, the town clock had to be advanced, the library is to go on the new time and the Federated church will do likewise. The network of affairs in which we are entwined seems to forbid our living to ourselves alone.

About thirty dollars was cleared by the young people for this most deserving cause.

Governor's Arbor Day Proclamation

As required by the laws of the Commonwealth, I hereby make proclamation setting apart Saturday, the thirtieth day of April, as Arbor and Bird day, and recommend its general observance by the planting of trees, shrubs and vines, particularly those attractive to birds, and by promoting forest grounds, places and ways, and by individual resolution to do everything possible throughout the year to atone for the sin of wasteful and needless destruction of birds and forests.

I further recommend that the Friday preceding be observed in rural and suburban schools by exercises which may lay emphasis upon the necessity of conservation.

A tree does not reach its growth in a day. It is impossible to provide cover for birds over night. It is for us to deal fairly with the coming generations of men. We shall deserve their gratitude and we shall be enriched and ennobled ourselves if we preserve the beneficial influence of our trees, shrubs and vines, and our birds.

Federated Church Notes

Attention is called to the fact that it is time to send in subscriptions to the Federated church. Bringing your pledge card Sunday or mailing it to a member of the committee will make it easier for those who go next Sunday on the every-Protestant-resident canvass.

Congregationalists, as a national body, are raising this year five million dollars for benevolences, so those affiliated with that church are requested not to overlook that part of the card.

The Methodist Centenary project is running over a term of five years, the pledges for which were secured some time ago.

To Dwight Shumway and the Time- Mixers

"The times have changed." How oft we hear this phrase

In accents tearful, and in tones disconsolate,

When churchmen dread the wicked
sinner's fate,

And curse the evil of these modern days!

Well, I have laughed. . . . "Does pessimism craze

These godly ghouls, who see no good of late?"

But now . . . I fear that, on this April date,

The changing times hold me, too, in amaze.

For now, my poor brain's in a whizzing whirl;

My Ingersoll has cramps in both its hands.

Too early by an hour, I wait my girl.

"Too late!" The boss stamps out his reprimands.

Oh, goah! Away my useless watch
I hurl,

And hie me forth to saner, timelier lands!

Some Facts About FORD

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Here are authentic figures from the Ford factory at Detroit.
They show you just how many Ford cars and trucks have been built each month since January 1, 1921 and how many have been sold to retail customers, in the United States.

	Produced	Retail Customers
January	29,383	57,208
February	35,305	63,603
March	61,886	87,221

Total 127,074 Total 208,032 showing that actual sales for the first three months of 1921 exceeded production by 80,958 Ford cars and trucks!

April requisitions already specify 107,719 additional cars and trucks and the estimated April output of the factory and assembly plants combined calls for only 90,000!

These facts clearly show that the demand for Ford products is growing much faster than manufacturing facilities to produce and were it not for the Dealers' limited stocks, which are now being rapidly depleted, many more customers would have been compelled to wait for their cars. It will be only a matter of weeks, therefore, until a big surplus of orders will prevent anything like prompt deliveries.

If you would be sure of having your Ford car or truck when you want it, you should place your order now. Don't delay. Phone us or drop us a card.

This shows the reason why some of our local people are having to wait for their new Ford to be delivered. Adv.

That Screaming Whistle

BY GUY O. ALLEN

One day in my chair a-nodding, Pleasing thoughts within me plodding,

Pleasing thoughts of yore; Quickly each hair stood like a bristle,

Sounds of that electric whistle. Sounds I never heard before.

Quick upon my feet I bounded, Faint from fear, and brain confounded

At the bellowing roar. Then ears pricked as with a thistle

From that screaming, shrieking whistle, Screaming evermore.

And my heart almost stopped beating,

Groans and cries each one succeeding

From a darksome shore. Have the imps of hell a meeting,

As they gather this their greeting? May they meet, no, nevermore.

Called I on the gods to witness

If in the eternal fitness Heard they screaming such before.

"Yes, in Hades," where the wicked Cannot have a cooling liquid,

Screaming then forevermore.

Of an angel sent to quiet

Stop my brain from running riot, Ask one question more.

"Is there, is there balm in Gilead? Tell me, tell me, I implore."

Seek Postmastership

Petitions for the appointment of Edward G. Sargent as postmaster are being circulated in all sections of the town and are receiving a large number of signatures. Mr. Sargent is the son of E. E. Sargent, whose term expires in February of next year. He has been assistant in the office for some time.

Another candidate, who as yet has not circulated a petition, is F. Dudley Walker, an ex-service man, now in Rutland because of being gassed in the war. The doctors promise release in the late summer or early fall so that he would be in a position to undertake the work.

We understand that these candidates are not the only ones in the field but are the only ones that have been definitely called to our attention.

Death of Francis S. Wilson

Francis Sawyer Wilson died at his home near lake Metacomet, Friday, April 29, after a long illness. He was 71 years old.

Mr. Wilson was born in town and was the son of Nathan and Elisabeth Towne Wilson. He spent all his life here, most of the time on his farm in the north part of the town.

He leaves besides his widow, two sons, William Wilson of Amherst, and Robert Wilson of Springfield, a daughter, Mrs. Della Duncan of Palmer, besides seven grandchildren. He also leaves two nieces in town, Mrs. Geo. Akers and Mrs. Raymond Gray, and several nephews and nieces residing in the west. A brother and sister in the west also survive.

The funeral was held in the chapel on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. H. P. Rankin officiating. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Annual Meeting of Historical Association

The annual business meeting of the Belchertown Historical Association was held in Clapp Memorial Library on the evening of April twenty-eighth. President Willard A. Stebbins of Chicopee presided.

The following officers were elected: trustees, Mrs. Maria Longley, Miss Marion Bartlett, Myron Barton, Harry Hopkins; Herbert Curtis, Willard Stebbins, Daniel Hazen, George Green, Everett Howard, Mrs. Alice Kendall, Merrick Morse, John Jackson, Lewis Blackmer, Fred Walker, Miss Lucy Thomson; president, Willard Stebbins; vice-presidents, Fred Walker, Everett Howard; recording clerk, Miss Marion Bartlett; corresponding clerk, Mrs. H. F. Curtis; treasurer, Lewis Blackmer; auditor, H. F. Curtis; custodian, Mrs. M. D. S. Longley.

It was voted to make an annual contribution for the work of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities.

Miss Lucy Thomson was unable to be present as she had planned, because of the illness of her mother, but sent blue print specifications of the Association's new home, and encouragement that work would begin on the Stone House before many months. Owing to the fact that the date for the annual meeting fell on the prayermeeting evening, no literary program was arranged.

The Heroism of Prevention

The world today is strong on surgery and weak on prevention. It is easier to find people who will answer the call of heroic surgery than it is to rally an army whose aim is prevention.

After the boil of the world had assumed immense proportions, then men went forth to fight. They responded heartily. But now that prevention of troubles that will cause a similar disaster is talked about, how hard to interest people.

Yet how great the need. We find it everywhere. People are going about today, armed as never before for fear of bodily harm. Citizens rally in our cities and try to maintain a degree of order. They are doing surgical work. But how about prevention? Will the social diseases of the world ever be done away with until we use prevention? We think not.

Murders are committed. Officers of the law heroically arrest the offenders, but the stream of criminals flows on. Stores are broken into by mere boys, but back of it all there is a reason. Some day we must strike the evil at its source if we would eradicate it.

We have in our own town an illustration of the "hospital at the bottom of the hill." Millions of dollars will be spent because of feeble-mindedness in our state. Is there anyone so sordid for gain but wishes that this curse of our commonwealth could be prevented at its source?

Along all these lines there is a call for men to go forth and battle for prevention, and it will take brains to shoot.

If there are people or organizations that are tackling evil at its source, line up and support them, even though the bands are not playing or the colors flying. There is where your life will count for the most and your money do the greatest good.

Leaves Eldon, Iowa

Rev. J. B. Adkins, former pastor of the local Congregational church, and for the last four years pastor of the Congregational church in Eldon, Ia., has completed his work in Eldon and is preparing to take up his new work in the interests of the Hospital and Home for the Friendless, carried on by the denomination in Des Moines.

During his pastorate in Eldon, Rev. Mr. Adkins has been the means of putting the church on a self-supporting basis and of bringing about many improvements in church and parsonage.

The esteem in which he is held by his parish manifested itself in an all-day farewell reception replete with basket lunch, a fine program, and a purse of $55.

That Mr. Adkins is also appreciated for his helpfulness in the community is evidenced by these words in the Eldon Forum: "Everybody who knows him is his friend, both church and non-church workers. He is one of those jolly sort of fellows who is always alert to do and say things which make life worth living."

GOVERNOR COX ON MOTHER'S DAY

"It is not necessary to issue a proclamation urging the good people of Massachusetts to observe the second Sunday in May as Mothers' day. Of their own free will and accord, with hearts filled with tenderest emotions, sons and daughters will seize the opportunity to give expression on that day to the respect and love in which they cherish 'the best mother that ever lived.' Certain it is that nothing can so stimulate the citizenship of Massachusetts to true and noble purposes as on that day, next Sunday — thinking the thoughts and doing the deeds that we know would gratify our mothers. May we strive on that day to be worthy sons and daughters of our mothers. May we receive the inspiration that must come to us in the realization that nothing can repay for the tender care and countless sacrifices of mother except lives well lived. Let us pay worthy tribute to her of whom all of us can say:

"If I were damned of body and soul,
Mother o' mine, O mother of mine,
I knew whose prayers would make me whole,
Mother of mine, mother o' mine."

Los Angeles, California

Mrs. C. F. D. Hazen

The curio stores are nice and there are a good many on 6th St. Central Park was nice, but it had to get a touch of the pruning knife, and much shrubbery that I liked had to go.

Around this park were many churches. At the Congregational church the pastor was Dr. Day. His son followed, a nice preacher. I remember one sermon plainly. It was on home missions. An agent came to him and he went round. He said there wasn't much more west, so they went down into San Diego and preached in stores and anywhere, and visited the people. I see he is a minister in Bridgeport, Ct., and was at a meeting in Amherst. That was a nice church and I never was treated better. Several ushers meet you at the door and one gives you the nicest seat in a large, easy chair, and, "Do you like this?" Of course I did.

Opposite was the Methodist church and nearby was Hazard's pavilion, a big, two-gallery affair, a theatre where notable people spoke. It was removed and a great auditorium is in its place. Rev. Robert Burdette held services there for a Baptist church. It is a theatre and church combined.

The western part of the city is another high hill, but not so abrupt as some of the others. The city has built a tunnel through to the other side at 3rd St. It was hoped that people would locate on the other side but they didn't take kindly to the tunnel. They made a garden over the entrance and I dare say it's very pretty.

Normal school was on the hill farther south, but they were talking of moving. Los Angeles street was below Main and devoted to wholesale houses. On the south end was an old, barn-like church, though there was plenty of music inside, two pianos, a harp and brass instruments in plenty. This was presided over by Dr. Breese. He had been a Methodist but was a Nazarine at first, I think. He had large congregations, and poor mothers with little children would come in after all were seated and sit by the door. I thought that very nice. He had other clergymen to help, but he was not satisfied and he talked up a nice brick church on Los Angeles street. Lo and behold, it's just like any of the best of them, no rocking chairs for old people or mothers with children and babies in arms.

12th Main St. had the Childs' place of a few acres of ground en-

Winter Quarters

Winter months are months of luxury for horses. They do little and eat heavily at this season.

But the Fordson eats only when it works and its belt power is useful for feed grinding, sawing, pumping or other winter jobs.

And in the spring, as soon as the ground is fit, the Fordson and the Oliver Plow complete the plowing job promptly and economically — two very important factors to be considered now — in the interests of better crops. A full line of Oliver Plows is built specially to use with the Fordson in all soils.

I am to have the teachers' training class. Just this morning I was asked to do a similar thing for the children in another part of the city. So you can see business is booming.

Young Peoples' Sociable

Sociability reigned supreme at the chapel Wednesday evening. The low price of admission—five cents—did not hinder its presence; probably it helped. Anyway it was the main object of the occasion and it was secured. The moment the peanut hunting contest began, the chilly air started to warm and by the time the last song was sung it was just right.
In the ability to hunt peanuts Robert Dunbar showed ability sufficient to win first prize while Charles Scott had no taste for them at all. His prize commenced with the letter "b".
The "age" contest in which the answers of several questions ended with the syllable "age" taxed the ability of some who had no difficulty in assimilating the cookies and lemonade. On the theory that two heads are better than one Madeleine Orlando and Gladys Gay ran off with first prize.
The games that were sandwiched in afforded plenty of action for those who were in pursuit of happiness. The evening closed with a "smile" and a "grin" song for the benefit of those who perchance had missed the point of the whole occasion and "God be with You" was a gentle hint to go home.

Attractions at Catholic Entertainment

Arrangements are not yet complete for the entertainment to be given in connection with the Catholic Mission supper next week but some of those who will take part are Miss Irene Vezina, who will render a piano solo, Miss Mildred Sullivan, Claire Vezina and Wm. Atkins who will sing, and Miss Isabelle McKillop of this town and Mr. Quirk of Holyoke who will render piano and violin solos.
Besides other outside talent, Mr. Griffin of Williamsett and Mr. Moriarty of South Hadley Falls are expected.

Death of Robert L. Bridgman

The sudden death last Saturday of Robert Longley Bridgman a well-known citizen and prominent business man. Just back from a business trip, apparently in his usual health, and looking forward to a family reunion the day following, he worked about his grounds and greeted his townsmen in his customary fashion. In the afternoon, however, he had a sinking spell and fell on a stove in his home, dying a little over two hours later. Death was due to cerebral embolism.
Mr. Bridgman was born in town Sept. 24, 1856, and has always made his home here. He was the son of E. Rutphen and Julia Longley Bridgman. On March 2, 1881, he was married to Elizabeth M. Bartlett, who survives him.
While Mr. Bridgman has always had his residence here, his work has taken him out of town most of the time. For about thirty-five years he (continued on page 4)

Death of Mrs. Emma Fuller

Mrs. Emma Morgan Fuller died at her home on No. Main St. last Saturday after an illness of five weeks.
Mrs. Fuller was born in Holyoke Oct. 22, 1831, the daughter of Joseph Warren and Emma Wolcott Morgan. On Nov. 8, 1859 she was married to Luther D. Fuller, who died May 5, 1903. Before coming to town Mrs. Fuller resided in North Dana and in Greenwich. She belonged to no organization. Here was a life of devotion to her home and its work.
She leaves a son, Fred M. Fuller of this town, and two daughters, Mrs. Joseph LaPointe of East Lansdowne, Pa., and Mrs. Clara Piper of Northampton.
The funeral was held from the home Tuesday afternoon at one-thirty, Rev. H. P. Rankin officiating. Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Curtis and Mrs. Clarinda Shaw sang. The bearers were Edwin Shumway, Edward Morgan of New Hampshire, a cousin, and Edward and David Hunter of Greenwich. Burial was in Greenwich.

Death of Mrs. Carrie A. Powell

Mrs. Carrie A. Powell died last week Saturday as the result of a shock suffered four weeks ago. She was the daughter of Estus H. and Mary Brown Barnes and was born in Pelham. She was twice married, the first marriage being to George Capen and the second to Edward Powell. She has resided in West Pelham and also in Kansas.
She leaves three sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Nellie S. Munsell of this town, Mrs. Hattie L. Watts of Amherst, Mrs. Lulu M. Farnsworth of Marlboro, George H. Barnes of Southwick and Arthur D. Barnes of Feeding Hills.
The funeral was held in the chapel on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. H. P. Rankin officiating. Burial was in Wildwood cemetery.

Community Club Fair

Not the best of May weather favored the Community club on the day of its fair held in Grange hall last Thursday, but the painstaking work of the club members transformed the hall so that its appearance was quite "summery" and its atmosphere so balmy that those who had not forgotten what the Community club is capable of doing and came out to greet it once more, were glad that they had come.

An individual would have found it somewhat of a task to erect and decorate all the booths that circled the hall in such a variety of festal colors, but the community and the community idea made it possible. And besides the booths there was the "Pot o' Luck" suspended from three birch poles where the children delved into the unknown with bulging eyes for a glad surprise. There were also the two guessing propositions where those older in years but not in spirit ventured the number of beans and seeds in sealed bottles in a hazy expectancy of getting a quilt and a pillow.

Hope

It is normal for a man to look forward. Man lives as much in tomorrow as in today.

And it is natural for a man to look forward with hope. Hope is a natural instinct of man.

Man works by hope. Hope is the spring which gives him energy. The thing which keeps a man at his task with a song in his heart is hope.

Man lives by hope. Man can live through many a dark day if he is still hopeful that the sun will shine.

Life seems hardly worth living when hope has fled. We do not realize how deeply we depend upon hope.

The tendency is that as we grow older we lose hope. When we are young and life in all its attractiveness looms up before us, it is easy to hope.

Happy the man who in the face of the stern, hard facts of life, in face of declining age, keeps aflame the fire of hope.

The regular B. H. S. team will journey to Brimfield next Tuesday to play Brimfield Academy.

B. H. S. Notes

Guy Allen must be susceptible to the suggestions of music. Did you see him yawn the other morning when we sang "pretty little eye-lids sleep"?

Say, Jimmy, the girls would like to know if singeing the hair will make it as curly as yours was Wednesday afternoon.

The Senior class honors have been announced. Orin Braeey is valedictorian and Irene Hanifin is salutatorian.

LOST: Two camera films by Braeey and a hair-ribbon by W. Austin.

Mr. Allen: "Which holds more germs, a ten dollar bill or a one dollar bill?"

L. Austin: "A one dollar bill because they are handled more."

We must give the High School pupils the credit of being bashful, at least when it comes to buying pictures!

Fitz: "May we have a new bat to practise with?"

Mr. Allen: "Well, you don't seem to be doing much practising out there playing with the girls."

Fitz, (hastily): "Oh, really we couldn't take the bat away from them."

Fitz surely has a spot in his heart for the girls!

Bardwell would like to know who said, "Give my love to Deacon." He sorrowfully says that he hasn't received any yet.

Alise Flaherty is thinking of taking up photography as a pastime.

Bracey nearly met with an accident at the fire. It was a case of mistaken identity.

Wood's ability to render Lincoln's Gettysburg address is really astounding.

Once more the valiant and sturdy fire-fighters of B. H. S. were called out. Now that it is over it looks as though the opticians, laundrymen and tailors would have a rush of trade.

What promises to be the most thrilling game of the season will be played Friday, with the Juniors and Seniors against the Freshmen and Sophomeres.

Soft Horses and Hard Tractors

Horse flesh does not improve with winter idleness. Like athletes out of training, horses are soft and have to be worked carefully in the spring.

But the sturdy Fordson keeps fit. Through the winter there are tasks for it to do and in the spring it is on the job early with the Oliver Plow to do the plowing on time and well.

This spring, though farm help may be cheaper, every efficient method must be used to insure economical production.

There is a special Oliver Plow to use with the Fordson for every farming need.

A large forest fire swept over Butter Hill near the Gulf road on Tuesday, burning over about 200 acres. The fire started about on the line between Belchertown and Pelham. It was of unknown origin and a large force of men was required to extinguish it.

The supper and social in the chapel Wednesday was largely attended. It was in charge of the Ladies' Aid, who have done much this season to beautify the grounds about the building. The entertainment was given by Granby Grange, Rev. C. H. Smith being instrumental in making the presentation possible. Over twenty from Granby were present. W. D. Randolph died yesterday. Funeral will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. Obituary next week.

Missionary Auxiliary Meeting

The Missionary Society of the M. E. church entertained their extension members last Tuesday with a fine program. After the usual opening exercises a missionary salad was served which represented egg salad with questions hidden in its leaves. The answers brought out a short history of the W. F. M. S., also of the auxiliary of the local M. E. church. Lillian Upham spoke, "My Doll"; Eben Campbell sang "Tell it Again"; Miss Effie Witt gave a reading "The Missionary and the Child Widow." Interesting and true stories were told by Mrs. E. C. Witt and Miss Sarah Lincoln. The members of the auxiliary each told how they became interested in missions. Light refreshments were then served, which closed a very enjoyable time.

Miss Sarah Lincoln enjoyed a rare treat in once more attending a meeting of the auxiliary of which she has been treasurer some 28 years. It was through the kindness of Miss Eastman, our district nurse, who carried her to and from the meeting. Her kindly act was appreciated by every member of the auxiliary.

Death of Wm. D. Randolph

DWIGHT NEWS
William Dwight Randolph died at his home last week Thursday after an illness covering more than six years during which period he passed many crises when he was not expected to live.

Mr. Randolph was 58 years of age, being born Feb. 13, 1863, the son of Alanzo A. and Clarissa Bishop Randolph. He was married Jan. 5, 1898, to Etta B. Gold. He has resided in Belchertown all his life, farming being his occupation. He was a member of Union Grange and has been a trustee for fifteen years of Union Chapel.

Besides his widow he leaves two daughters, Mabel A. and Marion G. and a son, Herbert A., all at home. He also leaves two brothers, Frederick A. Randolph of Blue Meadow and Lyman A. Randolph of Dwight.

The funeral was held in Union Chapel Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, Rev. W. O. Terry of Warren, a former pastor, officiating. "Tell Mother I'll be There" was sung by Mrs. Clarinda Shaw and Charles Morse, Mr. Morse sang "Alone" and Mrs. Shaw and Mr. Morse sang in closing, "In the Garden." The bearers were Theodore Hazen, Harold Hazen, Harold Staples and Elmer Staples. Burial was in Union cemetery.

Catholic Mission Supper

It was a gala night for the Catholics Wednesday evening. It always is when they come together and especially so when a supper is on hand. Distance makes no difference, unless it is to add to the enjoyability of the occasion.

It was a gala night for everybody for there were many there catholic in spirit if not in name.

Mrs. Garvey was chairman of the supper committee and she and her corps of assistants served salads and sugared doughnuts and all that came between most sumptuously.

The program rendered in the Community hall auditorium delighted the large audience. Miss Anna Shea of Bondsville opened with a piano solo which was followed by a vocal solo by Claire Vezina who captivated the gathering.

Francis O'Day of Northampton was perfectly at home in his clog dance, Miss Mary Sullivan of Bondsville sang pleasing vocal selections, and Howard Quirk of Holyoke played most acceptably on the violin.

It remained for Mr. Driscoll of Father Griffin's choir in Holyoke to carry the audience off its feet. It simply could not get enough of his humorous interpretations.

The dancing of Loretta Lord of Chicopee Falls was rendered quite artistically. Wm. Atkins contributed a vocal solo and all joined in "America" in closing.

Among some of the notables present at the gathering were Father Griffin of Holyoke, a former Belchertown boy and Father O'Toole, one of his curates. Delegations came from all the surrounding territory. To all comers Father McGrath of Bondsville, who has the local mission in charge, tendered words of welcome and did all in his power to make the occasion a pleasant one.

Flowers for Memorial Day

The Chauncey D. Walker post of the American Legion, through its commander, Raymond L. Blackmer, sends out a call to the citizens to bring flowers for Memorial day, leaving them at the vestry either Sunday morning or Monday morning.

The passing of so many flowers this spring is the reason for this special call for these usual Memorial day necessities.

For Baseball Equipment

There will be a benefit show for the Belchertown baseball team in community hall next Monday evening, May 23. The management advertises grand vaudeville and dramatic productions with 10 big acts by local and out-of-town talent. J. A. Griffin will appear in scenes from "Women Thru" "The Devil" and "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde". Wm. Sullivan, an ex-actor, and Levine of Indian Orchard will be on the program. Miss King has also consented to make a contribution and there will be music in charge of C. F. Aspengren. Harold Kimball will furnish instrumental music. A dance will follow at the Park View.

The team wants to start the season with new uniforms and equipment and takes this opportunity to get the wherewithal.

The opening game will be with Indian Orchard, Monday, May 30, at 4 p. m. on the park.

Grange Notes

Palmer Grange to the number of 41 visited Union Grange No. 64 on Tuesday evening and furnished the entertainment which consisted of vocal music and an illustrated reading. "Wanted—A wife." Supper was served at 7.30 and a social hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting. All voted it a very enjoyable evening.

Pomona members please take notice that the next meeting will be in Granby, June 2. Please make an effort for a large attendance.

The Power of Gentleness

There is power in gentleness. A long look proves that gentleness has greater power than cruelty. It is so in the animal world. The gentle animals, like the cow and the sheep and the horse have conquered over the fierce, blood thirsty beasts, like the lion and the tiger and the bear. The gentler animals are found everywhere; the fiercer animals are decreasing, and the only place where many of us have seen them is in menageries.

It is so among the races of men. The gentler races have subdued the savage races. The cannibals are gone, a relic of the past.

It is so among the nations of the earth. The gentle nations and not the brutal nations are the nations of power and influence today. The fiercer and more brutal nations lost in the World War.

It is so in any community. The man of most influence and power is the man who is a gentleman and not the man who is a beast.

There is more power in gentleness than in force. How prone we are to use force if force is ours, especially if we are certain that right is on our side! And if we lack the proper force, we are quite ready to call upon some one else who has the force, to exercise it. We cannot dispense with force, but we claim that the true dynamic is the force within a man and not the force outside. A gentle father has more lasting power over his son than one who knows no power but force.

We at heart recognize the truth of this, for the finest type of man in the community is one whom we call a gentleman.

B. H. S. Notes

The B. H. S. baseball team met the Hitchcock Academy at Brimfield, Tuesday, and was defeated 6 to 8. A closer and more exciting game is seldom witnessed. The teams were well-matched, although the Belchertown team's field work was weak.

The Academy's dreams of an easy victory were abruptly dashed to pieces when the local team started in on "high". H. Hazen scored the first run in the third inning; Allen added another in the same inning. H. Hazen scored another in the fifth; Keyes followed his example. Then Keyes came through in the seventh with one more. Dewey suddenly came to life in the eighth, giving the local team their sixth and last run.

The whole game was closely played and if it is a sample of games to follow, the B. H. S. team will have an enviable record.

Keyes played a good game, and the ball sure does stick in his glove. Bardwell was good on second, and Wood made a fine catch in the left field. Fitz did some fancy twirling and Hazen had to become almost an aerobat to get some of the balls.

Following is the line-up:

B. H. S.	Hitchcock Acad.
H. Hazen, c	Smith, 1f
Keyes, 3b	Cheney, cf
Allen, cf	E. LaBoard, p
Fitzgerald, p	Pease, 1b

The game which was to have been played last Friday by the Seniors and Juniors vs. Sophomores and freshmen will take place this week Friday. This game will establish the long-disputed supremacy between the classes.

We would like to say that if a few Belchertown players would only use some glue or gum on their gloves, maybe they could hold a ball.

Manager Wood says that there are some awfully nice girls in Brimfield. How about it, Belchertown? Do you think so?

We have noticed a lot of gum-chewing around school recently. T. Hazen says that chewing gum makes the muscles of the jaw more flexible. The result is that you become more talkative.

We wonder how A. Hanfin enjoyed her seat in the bus going to the ball game.

Found: A small box of face powder in the front seat. We would like to know if Wood lost it.

Guy Allen wonders who started crying when he went to bat. Bracey threatened a home run, but "friction" didn't drive him as it does in French and Physics.

Treatment of Criminals

For the following synopsis of an address by John Mott Osborne, given at Boston University, we are indebted to Newell Booth, a student in that institution.

Thomas Mott Osborne, at an assembly of the College of Liberal Arts, Boston University, gave an address on prisons and especially on their reform, which was for the whole world and not only for the students gathered there. He was advertised to speak on "Our Duty to the Criminal Man", but as he said, "I never keep to my subject and would prefer to speak on 'Our Duty to Society Regarding the Criminal Man'".

His speech in substance was as follows: The self-preservation of society demands that it deal with criminals in order to protect itself. Our duty is to reform the prisons, for we cannot reform the criminal, he must do that for himself. It is simply a waste of time to go to the man and try to make him conform to our ideas and leave his surroundings in conditions which are diametrically opposed to them. On a Vermont prison is the motto, "Love one another"; it is the bitterest sarcasm, for the prison system is built on hate and revenge. In prison the prisoners get a natural feeling of revenge and when they get out they are quite apt to retaliate.

The speaker said that up until the time that he was made a commissioner on prison reform, he had never been behind the bars. He lived in Auburn, whose prison is the ancestor of the reform systems in the United States. He visited this prison as a boy, and that lasted him until he was appointed commissioner. Then he and the rest of the commission decided that someone should go to prison in order to become acquainted with prison life. He, as chairman, was the one to go, so he went and stayed there a week; during that time the prison got such a hold on him that he has spent most of his time there since.

After he had been warden of the Auburn prison for some time, he asked one of the prisoners why he got along so well with the men. The man replied that the men considered him half a crook.

He was invited to become warden of Sing Sing after his success at Auburn. Before accepting the offer he asked twenty-five of his prison friends if he should; the vote was seventeen to seven, that he should go.

He took the system with him to Sing Sing and it succeeded there so well that in two years he was asked to become commander of the naval prison at Portsmouth. He went as a prisoner again and got acquainted with the system. After being in command there for three years he went in again to see the effects of the change.

Mr. Osborne said that he told the preceding to show that his relations with prisons and their inmates had been very close and that he knew their requirements. Then he went on to give some of the conditions under which the prisoners have to live.

Cheating the Fly

Spring brings flies and flies bring trouble to the plowman and his horses. A half dozen persistent horse flies can ruin the pulling power of the best team.

The Fordson heeds not the flies. Its steady, powerful pull is the same in and out of fly time. And for the spring and fall plowing it handles the specially built Oliver Plow as only a good plow can be handled.

Present conditions demand that use be made of every efficient method of crop production this year. Fordson farming has cut costs for thousands of other farmers. It will do the same for you.

There are special Oliver Plows built to work with the Fordson in all soils.

Exhibit of Junior Clubs

"Belchertown is richer tonight because sixteen of its boys and girls some four months ago started something and just stuck to it." So said Geo. F. Farley, state leader of boys' and girls' clubs, as he closed his remarks at the Blue Meadow school last Friday night.

Anyone would have said so if he had seen the long row of garments that hung on one side of the school room, and the handicraft exhibit, and had realized that it was all the work of the young people. The retail value of all that was shown would be hard to estimate, but certainly there was a great many dollars' worth. The greatest cause for commendation, however, was not that the articles had a pecuniary value, but that the club members had learned to help in the world's work.

They were happy about it, too. How heartily they participated in the opening program, how closely they hung upon the words of Mr. Farley, and how proudly they gathered up the articles they had made in preparation to take home.

The address by Mr. Farley interested old and young alike—for there were some older ones present. He vividly portrayed the fact that all who undertake club work are helping Uncle Sam. He said that the young people are the ones to put new things across. He illustrated it by saying that in the south no one thought they could raise much but cotton and when an effort was made to introduce corn, it was met with rebuff, but the young people took it up and succeeded.

Mr. Farley said that there are eighteen different projects being carried on in clubs all over the country. Conditions are not suitable for all in every locality, but garden, canning, sewing and bread clubs are adaptable almost anywhere.

The speaker startled the children by telling them that the one who wrote their geography made a mistake by leaving out the biggest industry in the country. That, he said, was the industry of setting, and endless effort is needed to keep it going. "Hard, tedious work, no money in it," you say. "Yes, but (continued on page 4)

Memorial Day Observance

Belchertown will honor its soldier dead with due ceremony this year. Yesterday afternoon the schools paid their tributes, the center schools holding special exercises in Community hall.

On Memorial Sunday, May 29, the Civil War Veterans, Sons of Veterans, the Veterans of the World War, and the Woman's Relief Corps will meet at the American Legion headquarters at 10.15 a. m. and will attend the morning service at the Congregational church on invitation of Rev. H. P. Rankin.

The complete program for Memorial day will be found elsewhere in this issue. Professor Chas. H. Patterson of M. A. C. will be the speaker of the day.

Commander Raymond L. Blackmer desires to call attention again to the fact that many flowers will be needed and asks that the public respond with contributions of this nature, bringing the same to the M. E. vestry either Sunday or Monday morning.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of veterans and citizens at the memorial service on Sunday morning and at the exercises on Monday. They are days for reverencing and bringing to the front ideals in our national life.

Benefit Entertainment

The benefit entertainment for the Belchertown baseball team was quite well patronized last Monday evening. A varied program was put on, to all of which the audience was very responsive. Encores, however, were not the order of the evening.

An interesting feature of the program was the appearance in three acts of J. A. Griffin, who up till six years ago, travelled quite extensively over the country with theatrical companies, and who shortly expects to re-enter the profession. His interpretations were especially well received.

The following is the program: Selection, orchestra; "New National Anthem," orchestra; reading, "The Trump," J. A. Griffin; song, "Eben Campbell," reading, "Mim King; selection, orchestra; duet, Messrs. Aspengren and Atkins; reading, "Women Three," J. A. Griffin; solo, Claire Vezina; stunts, Mr. Aloetti; solo, Wm. Atkins; selection, orchestra; Transformation scene, Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, J. A. Griffin. A dance followed in Park View hall.

The management is planning to put on a similar show in Enfield tomorrow night, the proceeds to go for the benefit of the team.

The Food Sale

Weather stops some things but it didn't succeed in stopping the food sale of the Social Guild on Wednesday afternoon. Some people must have their cup o' tea anyhow, and the appeal of various other things on sale was irresistible. As long as people work, housewives want aprons; as long as people eat, they want food; and as long as they remain in a normal state of mind they want ice cream, so the ladies dealt in everyday necessities and as a result transacted considerable business in the hour and a half the sale lasted.

Tea was dispensed by Mrs. Beach and Mrs. DeMoss, the apron table was in charge of Mrs. Barton and Mrs. Bardwell, and Mrs. Scott and Miss Marian Bardwell presided at the food table. Mrs. Cook and Mrs. Taylor sold the ice cream.

Good taste characterized the articles offered for sale, the manner of their selling and the decorations, the general color scheme of which was pink and white. Snow balls and white fleur de lis graced the apron display, purple fleur de lis and bridal wreath decorated the food table, pink ladies' slippers and weigelia rosea made the ice cream inviting and weigelia and hawthorne reigned at the tea table.

Bags for weekly deposits toward the Chapel extension fund were also dispensed to many who were willing and anxious to contribute toward this special enterprise of the ladies.

The Opening Game

Belchertown meets Indian Orchard at baseball next Monday afternoon at 3.30 or 4 o'clock, depending on when the Memorial day-exercises are concluded.

Manager Griffin wants to make the opening game a good one and so has engaged Davis, "the crack pitcher of Orange High School, who hasn't lost a game in two years," to twirl the ball for Belchertown.

Honoring the Dead

They died. And when you have said that you have indicated sacrifice.
Strong men prize life and they hesitate, if in their right minds, to give it up. But there are certain things for which they will exchange the known existence for the unknown, and one is the love of country. This is not characteristic of our country alone. It is a feeling that finds expression in all the world.

They died. How many millions of them since the world began have died for their country. Intelligently or ignorantly they have laid life down for one cause or another. We cannot but feel that whatever their vision, they have their reward. Other rewards may be greater but here is something which commands our respect and deserves our honor.

They died. Here in our America where May 30th is of such significance, they died. In the North and in the South they fell, but all exchanged the known for the unknown with the desire for a better world.

We pause today to honor the men who died that we might live to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness and we pledge ourselves that if to live is disgraceful we, too, will share their fate, for to die and live is better than to live and let our spirits die.

FRESHMAN AND SOPHO-MORE VICTORY

The Freshmen and Sophomores temporarily established their supremacy by defeating the Juniors and Seniors 7 to 15 in Friday's game.
The cheers of the upper class girls failed to produce the desired effect.

The game proved very interesting to the Freshies, Sophs and Charles Scott. They say that the Juniors and Seniors aren't there at all. The Juniors and Seniors say that the freshmen are young and inexperienced, so the upper classes thought it best not to discourage their vain young hopes. Every one knows that when a person meets with failure too many times, it kills ambition.

A word of advice to the Sophomores, "He laughs best who laughs last."

We wonder why:

Banty Bardwell struts around so much.

H. Hazen looks interested, sometimes.

Guy Allen is always grinning.

Katie Landers blushes and looks wise.

Mike Keyes looks offended.

Tom Austin has been given the nickname, "Speel."

Charles Scott is hoarse since Friday.

All the boys have had their hair cut.

Det Orlando wants to go to New Salem.

Red Wood falls asleep every morning.

The baseball team is going to New Salem next Wednesday. All

Agnes has a neat sense of humor, but she can't appreciate a joke when she sees one in the Sentinel.

1st freshman: "Are you ready,

2nd freshman: "No, I'm his broth-

C. Landers sends in an urgent ap-

We prefer it as it is. Anyway it was a mere slip of a girl.

Treatment of Criminals

NEWELL BOOTH

They meet the least admirable public officials that we have; one prisoner said that if the police go to heaven, "Me for hell with a fourteen carat smile on." Three months before he went to the Auburn prison as warden, Mr. Osborne in an address to the prisoners, said that they were going to ask advice from them.
Soon after he got a letter from one of them, who said to come to him as he was a finished product of the prison system. He started in an orphan's home and then went to a reform school; since then he had been in seven penitentiaries and three state prisons.

When children are sent to Homes under the present system, it makes them worse than they were in the first place. There is one constant element in all the public institutions:

it is that there is no personal responsibility in the good conduct of the community. The prison also puts them in an unnatural place and makes them do everything in an unnatural way.

Mr. Osborne summed up the things which he could not do naturally. He could not walk, eat, talk or do anything the way that he would outside. There is no preparation for the coming back; the prisoners come back into the world with a hatred for honest work and a natural association of the prison with it.
He has less responsibility than he had when he went in. He gets a contempt for the state officials, the state government and society as a whole.

The criminal is put in prison for disobeying the rules, and while there his only enjoyment is to break some more rules. One of the rules that is most frequently broken is the silence rule. One day the guard will allow the men some liberties and the next he will be very strict and send the miscreants to the cooler where they can talk as much as they please, on the slightest provocation.

Mr. Osborne, when in prison, disobeyed a rule and was sent to the cooler. Before he went in, the guard took away his handkerchief;
when he asked the reason, the guard said that a prisoner had strangled himself with one once and since then they had kept them away. However, they left the underclothes, and Mr. Osborne said that he was tempted to try it with them. But he knew that if he did, the men that were put in the cooler would be deprived of these comforts.

This farce, however, is a tragio one, for all the men there are given to sustain them for twenty-four hours is one slice of bread and a gill of water. Some of them go mad with thirst.

Seven years ago at Auburn the prisoners took charge of the prison and have been running it since.
They have made many improvements, and there are no guards there now. The same system has been taken to Sing Sing and Portsmouth and is working well there.

there will always be some who are going to love to live outdoors and put in long hours. Some day they will be paid for it." He went on to say, "I think it is a crime for a girl not to be able to sew or to cook, and I verily believe that nine-tenths of all the divorcees are due to the woman's not being able to do these things. Keep the man eating and you'll keep him happy."

He pled for the children, that they be given a chance to mess things up in the kitchen if only they might come to know how to do things. "A kitchen isn't meant to keep in a glass case, just to look at," he said. He dwelt on the importance of good homes, which are the foundation of the nation, and said that club work puts fun into the doing of useful things.

In closing he reminded them that stick-to-it-iveness was essential in club work and that bull-dog tenacity was something they must cultivate in all their tasks.

He drove home his truths in realistic fashion and their memory is bound to linger in the minds of those who heard him.

Gives Legion Flag

Chauncey D. Walker Post 289, was the recipient last week of a beautiful Legion flag with the name of the Post inscribed thereon in letters of gold. The flag is a very expensive one and is the gift of B. B.

Snow of Worcester, who by this act shows his love for his native town and its community interests. Belchertown owes much to those who have moved away, yet whose hearts are still with us.

Sunday Memorial Service

The special Memorial service at the Federated church was attended by all the patriotic organizations, who were guests of honor.

Rev. H. P. Rankin, in a strong sermon, commented on the spirit of altruism which, he said, led this country into the conflict, the sacrifice there manifested, the opportunities of democracy, the part women played in the struggle and the influence they will exert in preventing further world catastrophes.

Electric Storm at Packardville

The Packardville church was struck by lightning in a severe electric storm which visited Packardville Sunday morning. About 25 members of the Sunday School had reached the church before the storm broke. The Sunday School had just begun when a bolt struck the church and shattered the spire. The bolt jumped to the belfry, and entering the auditorium, followed the wire supports for the stove pipe. After tearing off a piece of the ceiling, throwing down the stove pipe and doing several other stunts known only to lightning, it made an ample highway for itself by removing a piece of the floor. It next visited the vestry, where, after running the length of the kitchen, it jumped a dish cupboard to the doors and there grounded itself, leaving splintered woodwork and falling plaster in its train. Fortunately no one was injured. The heated wires, as they fell, set fire to the carpet in several places, but these were quickly extinguished. The rain came down in torrents and a special jitney service was instituted to take the children home. The jitney was not even of the Ford variety but a horse and buggy plus an umbrella.

In the storm a barn of James Martin was struck and slightly damaged, and one of the towers in the high tension line provided some remarkable fire works.

Honors Soldier Dead

Belchertown honored its soldier dead on Memorial day. The weather was all that could have been expected and the ceremonies were appropriately rendered. Many citizens came out to witness the exercises and many familiar faces from out of town were present to participate in the observance.

Shortly after ten o'clock the line formed at Legion headquarters. The Boys' Brightside band of Holyoke, consisting of some thirty pieces, led the procession and escorted the twenty World War veterans, in charge of Commander Raymond L. Blackmer, and members of the G. A. R. in automobiles to the M. E. Vestry, where some fifty children were in waiting with flowers to hand to the soldiers for the decoration of graves. They too fell into line with sons of veterans and invited guests and marched to the cemetery where prayer was offered by Rev. H. P. Rankin, a recitation given by James Aldrich, after which the graves of fallen comrades were decorated.

The line then marched to the soldiers monument, exercises taking place there in the following order: Prayer, Rev. H. P. Rankin, selection by band, address and placing of wreath to unknown dead, by E. E. Sargent. His remarks are to be found elsewhere.

At the Honor board whence the line marched, Com. Raymond L. Blackmer of Chauncey D. Walker Post placed a wreath in honor of those who gave their lives in the World War, and made appropriate remarks. He said in part:

"When we recall the things they did, the hero hosts seem mighty in our midst. When peril threatened and their country called, with what divine self-sacrifice they left their paths of peace to spring to arms, to make their throbbing breasts a barricade against the nation's foes. No sorrow for the loved ones left behind could dim the purpose in their eyes. No weariness of march and watch could keep them from their heart's desire. No horror of the field or trench, of gas or bomb, could beat their courage down. No poison of insidious propaganda, whether stirred by timorous friend or treacherous foe could gain entrance."

Loses to Indian Orchard

Belchertown lost to Indian Orchard in a game of baseball played on the park last Monday afternoon. A large holiday crowd was in attendance and an Amherst pitcher was hired for the occasion but neither of them saved the day for the locals. They started out with good intentions and held the lead for a few innings, but after the visitors crossed the plate three times in the fourth inning, making the score 4 to 2, things began to grow worse for Belchertown and hope faded from the faces of the locals as they came up to wield the stick.

Nash pitched a good game for the home team, but when the visitors did connect they had a faculty of hitting safely. Hearle, the opposing twirler, struck out 14 men to Nash's 13.

A rainbow appeared in the sky in the fourth when Pierce smashed the ball through the maples for a home run, but the umpire made him go back a couple of laps on account of ground rules, so the pot o' gold wasn't there, for when the inning closed he died on third.

Several decisions of the umpire caused "confab". They tried to kill off Flaherty early in the game by accidentally hitting him with a pitched ball, but being Irish he survived. Parent watched the bases for awhile but finally surrendered to Raymond Blackmer.

But of course the big feature of the game was the opening pitch by "Mayor Fairchild", chairman of the town fathers. Being a town officer he is used to hits but he saw to it that the batter didn't get a chance.

Address at Monument

Extracts From Address
By E. E. Sargent

Memorial Day so closely touches the hearts of the people that there should be no lack of effort to assure its continuance during the coming years, and it is the patriotic duty of you young veterans of the World war to carry out the observance of the day with all that it signifies, for the time has come when we need more than ever the spirit that animated us during the war, when we all stood ready to answer and obey (continued on page 3)

B. H. S. Notes

BASEBALL

The B. H. S. baseball team met its second defeat on the common last Friday afternoon, when the Brimfield Academy went away with a 15 to 13 victory. The local boys were defeated in Brimfield the week before by two runs, and they expected to put one over on Brimfield last Friday, but the Brimfield boys were too strong for them.

Smith started the ball rolling in the first inning and scored. The next three men up all hit Fitzy and scored. This gave Brimfield four runs for the first inning. Keyes made the only hit for the local boys, but no runs were brought in.

In the next inning E. La Board knocked a home run on errors, his being the only run in that inning for Brimfield. The local boys turned around in this inning and got four runs. From then on Brimfield gradually walked away from B. H. S. until Keyes was put in pitching. Mike held them down for a few innings but they finally got him going.

The game was a walk-away for Brimfield the rest of the time until the last of the ninth, with a score of 15 to 8 in Brimfield's favor. Then our boys stepped up to the bat for their last wallop, feeling rather blue. Keyes made a hit. Fitzy was sure of hitting but the pitcher got him and also Allen. T. Hazen then made a base hit. J. Wood stepped up and brought in Hazen and Keyes. H. Hazen, Dewey, and Wood scored after that, making a total of 13.

The B. H. S. loss was due to lack of practice and poor field work. B. H. S. has good baseball material, for two of its players were used Monday afternoon to save the town from getting a no-run defeat.

There seems to be some sort of spell cast over the High school baseball team, for they lost their third game in New Salem last Wednesday. This makes the third game the boys have lost by two runs, the score being 10 to 12. For some reason, they are bound not to be beaten by more than two.

Last year New Salem was easily beaten, but this year their team is greatly strengthened. The boys started off very well, the score at the end of the first inning being 7 to 2 in favor of B. H. S.

The town boys thought it would be merely a practice game and put them in trim for Amherst High on Friday, but they were greatly fooled. The main feature of the game was H. Hazen's three-bag hit, on the first ball that was thrown over. Fitzgerald and Allen made hits the same inning.

T. Hazen held first base down better than he has done this year. All the boys played a good field game and an extra good batting game.

New Salem's life-saver was Spenser, the center fielder. Five flies were knocked to him and he got every one. Paige, Smith and Doubleday were New Salem's other feature players. Aside from a few arguments over rules (B. H. S. always winning the argument) the game was well played and clean.

The Memorial Day exercises were held in Community hall Thursday at 2 p. m. The afternoon's program was very good and the speaking was enjoyed by all. The speakers from the High school acquitted themselves with honors, but we think that the speakers from the two primary schools did much towards making the program a success.

Speaking Thursday must have had a fearful effect upon J. Aldrich; he was absent Friday.

"The High School team need never mourn over the fact that none of the girls will raise their melodious voices in a good cheer for them," says Charles Scott. "Just give me a bag and a bench, and I'll do all the yelling necessary."

H. Hazen, who for several long years has been trying to cultivate a grouse and a bored look, forgot all about the aforementioned objects and smiled three or four times Friday afternoon.

any call that the nation might make.

In war we learned the lessons that prepared us for peace, and in peace we should practice the lessons we have learned, so that the world may be a constantly improving place in which to live. That this is the desire of those high in authority, was demonstrated recently in addresses by the Chief Executive of the land and by the Secretary of War. Secretary of War, Weeks in speaking on universal peace before the Presbyterian conference last week said, "The first line of defense of the republic from the enemy without and the enemy within, is not in the army and navy, but in the home and the church."

When President Harding attended a memorial service for 5000 dead war heroes on the great "army piers" in Hoboken a week ago, he said, "It must not be again" and he prayed "that we shall never be called upon to make war so long as God and men rule together."

We have with us today a remnant of the "Old Guard", old in years but young in spirit, and our most sincere and heartfelt wish is, that they remain with us for many, many years to come, for we honor them for what they stand for, for what they have been and for what they are.

Year by year we have gathered here, to honor the memories of those comrades who have answered their last roll call and gone to their reward, and we who remain have learned the lesson that the greatest wealth to accumulate is friendship, and that as we grow older, old time friends and associations become nearer and dearer to us, and when in the natural course of events, old time friends take their departure from among us, we love them none the less, we honor them the more.

It has been said that the greatest sacrifice a man can make for a friend is to give up his life or his love, to lay down his own to find it in the good of another, but how much richer, how much holier should be the praise of those men who were called upon to perform a duty, and who laid down their lives for us that we as a nation might live.

Let us remember however those that have gone before, that we should mourn not that they died, rather rejoice that they lived, for living they did their duty as men, and so are deserving not of grief or sorrow, but rather emulation on our part to better and more useful deeds.

On the battlefields of the southland, on the poppy covered fields of France, there lie scores, hundreds, aye thousands of our heroes in unknown graves, and it may be that on some of those graves no friendly hand will lay a tribute of love, and affection on this their Memorial Day, so we, as a mark of esteem, regard and honor, place these laurel wreaths of victory consecrated to the memory of those heroes who made the supreme sacrifice for flag and country to whom belongs the undying honor which will grow with the coming centuries.

Our floral tribute may wither, but the spirit and fraternal love for which it stands shall endure until the stars and sun are sunk in night."

Prayer was offered by Chaplain Roland M. Shaw, and the audience sang two verses of America. The ceremonies concluded here, all marched to the common where the W. R. C. served lunches to the guests of the day, including the school children.

In the time intervening between lunch and afternoon service the band gave a concert, which was its last appearance for the day. The afternoon exercises were in Community hall where there was a good attendance. The program was as follows:

Prayer, Chaplain R. M. Shaw; reading of General Orders of W. R. C., Mrs. Geraldine Howard; music, quartet, consisting of Thos. Allen, C. F. Aspengren, Wm. Atkins and R. L. Blackmer; Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Thos. Allen; reading, The Sons of the Blue and the Gray, Mrs. Nettie Allen; selection, quartet.

Prof. Patterson of M. A. C. was the speaker of the day. He likened the world's progress to aligning one's self with the great electrical forces of the world. Lay ourselves athwart them and we perish. The people who have led this nation on have simply allied themselves with the great forces.

He said that there are two characteristics of nationality, one that a nation is an organization, orderly arranged and the other is that it has in it the breath of life, an aim and a soul.

He stated that much of our progress was due to the fact that the men of '76 and those since had the genius of compromise that let them go ahead together. Washington realized the evil of slavery but left it out of account for the time being.

Vividly he portrayed how the nation's patriots, in the midst of events, did the duty that lay next them, not realizing the full meaning of events as a whole. Even Lincoln was no great, outstanding personality at the time of his election; but the people voted for him, for it was the best they knew. Like the men who participated in the battle of Lookout Mt., they saw only their immediate surroundings and their present duty. As a result of the Civil war, Professor Patterson said that the nation's organism was reunited so that the blood of its ideals could once more flow through its arteries.

No nation lives without ideals, he said. Prussia had only the ideal of force and down it went. There were no Cromwells, Burkes, Washingtons or Lincolns in Prussia. As the Civil war freed our national organism, so the World war opened the sluiceways and revealed to America her soul. Today we may wonder, he said, whether these ideals still persist.

We are passing through a period where ideals are not as active, when the profiteer is to the front, when the emphasis is on the other thing. Many insidious voices are not yet stopped. Pro-German voices are not yet stifled and people are jelling us that we can have order without authority. Hasn't the time about come for one loyalty, one language, one flag? He invoked great applause when he said, "It is no time for green, black, red or yellow ones."

He said that thirty soldiers out of thirty-one died on a hillside in France and though the last was injured in many places, he said, "It doesn't matter. We've opened up the way." Opened up the way for what? Professor Patterson said: for this material conception of life which we now have, for juggling with national destinies and the destinies of civilization?

In closing he said that America is not a destiny but something to be achieved. Do the best you know. Thus you will avoid destruction. Thus, like these veterans here, you may be building far better than you know.

Let America take her position in moral leadership as a brother of mankind. He who proclaims anything short of that for America is stabbing her in the back. Let us cultivate her virtues, let us line ourselves with the best, let us be true to her great ideals and let us fear not, no matter where they take us.

The exercises closed with the singing of America and benediction by Rev. H. P. Rankin.

Has Car Stolen

Clinton Rhodes had the misfortune to have his touring car stolen from his garage, probably early Sunday morning. The law breakers forced the lock and after securing their objective, carefully replaced the lock in position so that Mr. Rhodes did not find out his loss till after noon, Sunday. The police authorities were soon on the trail and found that a suspicious car passed through Ware on the way to Palmer early in the morning. No further clew was ascertained until the car was found Monday night by the Springfield police by the side of the road near Watershop pond in that city. The thieves loosened some bolts on the car before abandoning it, trying to make it evident that the car was disabled. Mr. Rhodes went to the city and drove the car home Tuesday.

Social Union Entertainment

The entertainment under the auspices of the Ladies Social Union on Wednesday evening in the M. E. vestry was of a truly entertaining character and was well worth the price the ladies fixed for admission.

The program consisted of music by male quartet, composed of M. M. Alden, E. E. Gay, C. W. Morse and Raymond Gay; recitation, Lillian Upham; reading, Mrs. Geo. Davis; musical selection, Mrs. W. E. Shaw, pianist; A. R. Ketchen, violinist; Paul Barrett, clarinet; solo, Miss Gladys Gay, with tableau scene participated in by Mrs. E. C. Howard, Edna Howard, Charles Howard and Lillian Upham; monologue, Mrs. Henry Witt; solo, Miss Gladys Gay; recitation, Harlan Davis; farce.

Just before the farce an intermission was provided for the sale of ice cream to cool the audience off for that mirth provoking presentation of "A Lady to Call." Ann and Eliza Bray in the persons of Miss Mary Howard and Miss Irene Orlando were old maids manifesting an interest, concealed and otherwise, in a fashionable new-comer, and when opportunity seemed to present itself to entertain that personage (Miss Violet Page) as a result of a stranded automobile party, fell all over themselves to do her honor, getting a very surprising invitation — to visit Zorotta, the snake charmer.

The old maids went to "great lengths" in enticements and in dress, while "the lady to call" was in the "height" of everything. The Social Union realized a fair sum as a result of the evening's program.

Death of Edward A. Gildemeister

The death on Sunday of Edward A. Gildemeister adds one more to the list of those who have suddenly departed from our midst. While cultivating in one of his fields on Saturday, a handle to the implement he was using flew up and struck him, causing his death twenty-four hours later.

Mr. Gildemeister was one of our newcomers, but had, during the short time of his stay here, fitted into the life of the community and made many friends who will greatly miss him.

Mr. Gildemeister was 57 years of age, and was born July 1, 1864, in Bunker Hill, Ill., the son of Henry M. and Mary Spencer Gildemeister. Thirty-five years of his life were spent in Kansas, thirty in Council Grove and five in Bucklin. He was married June 6, 1894, to Miss Alice Cady. From Kansas the family moved to a plantation in Bayaman, Porto Rico, where they remained for fourteen years, when they came to Belchertown, purchasing the Dunbar farm.

Mr. Gildemeister studied for two years in Kansas University, preparing to be a physician, but his health failing, he took up the outdoor occupation of ranching. He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America and also of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Besides his widow he leaves five daughters, Alice Loftland of Kansas City, and in the home Stella, Mary, Ruth and Grace, also a son, Edward Hamilton. He also leaves three brothers and two sisters, all living in the far west.

The funeral was held at the home Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock, Rev. H. P. Rankin and Rev. C. G. Burnham officiating. Mrs. H. A. Hopkins and Mrs. H. F. Peck sang, accompanied by Mrs. Wm. Shaw. The bearers were Roswell Allen, Thomas Allen, Leroy Blackmer and Roland Shaw. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Annual Meeting of Library Trustees

The report given at the annual meeting of the trustees of Olap Memorial Library which was held last week, show that the library is active in its mission. 16,717 books and periodicals were put into circulation during the year. 128 new books were added to replace those which are continually being discarded because of wear.

Some of our readers are showing their appreciation of the library by placing their magazines on the reading room table; these, in addition to those for which the library subscribes and others sent by the commission, give the public an ample supply of valuable magazine material. Bulletins on various subjects are sent from Washington and from the Mass. state college.

Miss Marion Bartlett will continue the work of librarian. Mrs. Doris Squires will assist her. The officers of the library are: Mrs. M. D. S. Longley, pres.; M. S. Barton, vice pres.; A. H. Bartlett, sec'y and treas.

The Idol We Worship

We worship ease. We bow down to comfort. Ease is the idol we set up in our homes. We procure everything we can afford to make the housework easy. Ease is the idol we set up in our reading. We want difficult reading made easy for us. T. C. Clark of Chicago says: "An examination of the ordinary home library shows a striking deterioration from the days of our fathers. Instead of books of devotion, biography and history, we now find the reprint editions of the ephemeral novels." We do not wish to be compelled to do hard thinking. We avoid any hard concentrated attention which taxes our grey matter. Ease is the idol we set up in church. The pews must be easy, the preaching must be simple, the work must be light. Ease is our idol everywhere. We shirk heavy responsibilities, we avoid weighty burdens, we run away from difficult duties, we shun the road which has stones and briars in it, we shrink from sacrifice and blood.

A life of ease is not good for us. It is a road we should flee from if we were born in it or find ourselves walking in it. Dr. Watkinson has pointed out that even trees growing in a sheltered spot have not the fine texture that similar trees have growing in the face of winds and blasts, and that fish in calm water have not as fine a flavor as the fish who live in a turbulent stream. So also is it with man. No man can have fine texture of life who avoids hardship. Man grows by discipline and not by luxury, by toil and not by ease, by obstacles and hard knocks and pain and suffering and not by comfort and delicate living and soft couches. History proves to us that only those have left an enduring name who "climbed the steep ascent of heaven through peril, toil and pain."

Let not America seek ease today.

May she find her joy in sacrifice for the suffering nations of the world.

"Then welcome each rebuff,
That turns earth's smoothness rough,
Each sting that bids nor sit nor stand but go!"

Be our joy three parts pain,
Strive, and hold cheap the strain;
Learn, nor account the pang;
Dare, never grudge the throe!"

B. H. S. Notes

BASEBALL

The B. H. S. baseball team went up against Coach Williams's team from Amherst High last Friday afternoon and was defeated by a score of 18 to 5. The town boys expected a defeat but they didn't realize that it would be "rubbed in" quite so hard.

Amherst started off the first inning with three runs, while Belchertown got only one. In the next inning Bracey managed to lay his hands on a fly knocked by Dorsey. Fitzie struck the other two men out, stopping the run that was coming in from third. During this inning Belchertown got three runs, putting the home team one ahead. The game was a true ball game from then on, until the last of the seventh inning when Amherst began to get a little worried and put in her first string pitcher. He was a little too much for Belchertown and struck out Dodge, Wool, and Fitz.

The next inning being the first of the eighth, Fitzie gave Keyes a chance to try his luck at pitching, but Amherst walloped him all over the field. In this inning Amherst High got nine runs. This discouraged the local boys and they were not able to catch up again.

Anyone who saw the game will say that it was a good game until the first of the eighth inning, also that Amherst got a better practise game than they expected.

Belchertown's infield work was much better than it has been before this season, and Fitzie was certainly equal to Amherst's pitcher, or we should say pitchers, since they used three.

The ball team met another defeat at the hands of New Salem on Wednesday afternoon. No one is talking about the score, or about the spirit which some of the team showed. The less said, the better. However, it is much to the credit of the team that they pulled themselves together in the last three innings. Guy Allen was put in to pitch. The first man did not succeed in hitting him at all, which gave new courage to our team. He struck out four other men and showed good field work as well. The team supported him, and the game ended in a much better spirit than would otherwise have been possible.

GIRLS AWARDED MEDAL FOR SCHOOL SPIRIT

The girls of B. H. S. were awarded one of the highest honors ever given by the institution on Friday, June 3. Directly following the baseball game between B. H. S. and Amherst, the girls were presented with a leather medal at the "Boys' Heart Auditorium." The honor was conferred by the ball players in a body, for the inspiring cheers which rang out from the local bench all during the game.

Never before have the B. H. S. girls shown such a spirit (of silence) and never before have the boys played such a game. All went well until the seventh inning when the girls became hoarse from cheering and the boys lost heart and lost the game.

The girls have practised every afternoon at four o'clock while gathered together in their respective homes (separately together, so to speak), until the unison and volume of their voices is stunning. Every time Fitzie struck out an Amherst hitter, a cheer like a siren rang out from the bench.

The B. H. S. team is very generous this year. They are giving away games to anyone that comes a long and asks for one.

Mildred says that she can make pies,—mud pies.

Dodge has a new suit, also a three strand rope watch chain which he wore at the Belchertown Fair. When he appeared at school the other day dressed thus, we thought that he was an escaped fashion plate.

Do you know why we lost the game last Friday? A terrible thing! Fitzie swallowed the package of gum which he had been diligently chewing. The loss of this companion made him feel so bad that his eyes became blinded with tears of rage, and he threw the ball wildly about in trying to console himself over his loss.

Why do you envy Teddy's vocal talent, Guy?

The Backwoodsman's Centennial

My father said to go to school,
It wont make you no better,
A jayin hens worth more to me
Than if she is a setter.

There was no law in them old times
Blige boys to go to school.
There was a law and 'twas enforced,
To pay your dete in full.

And parents, brothers, sisters all,
Worked hard and saved each penny,
We never seen a circus tent,
And katel shows not eiry.

It seemed to me it took long time
To pay the note we owed,
They all agreed wed paid so much,
To lose we cant afford.

Youre askin how we paid the det?
Im real ashamed to tell.
The hogs themselves et up the staf
That father couldnt sell.

Ill stop right here and rest a spell,
And then cominence to show
The difference tween the tools you have

And a hundred years ago.

The wagons that we had to use
Were great big pondrus things,
I never saw in early years
One on elliptik springs.

For them today youve little use—
Big trucks and an auto,

You jes get in, let on the gas,
And fast away you go.

The plows had hard wood mold boards,
Iron strips along the jints,
Iron strips upon the land side
And a blacksmith made the pints.

It took three men to use them,
One bearing on the beam,
And one man holt the handles,
And one man druv the team.

Come plantin and a hoin,
Id bite my tongue for fear
I should be usin kus words
That my old pa would hear.

Now the plow is made of iron,
All the tools are like a toy,
When i pare with the ones i used,
When ise a farmer boy.

We long have used the hosses
To mow the verdant grass,
And now they got a steamer plow—
Five furrers at a pass.

Hind that they hitch a harrer,
Hind this they sow the seed,
And far behind a reaper,
And the thrasher that they need.

We have no further use for gals,
For the queerest thing ise seen,
They hitch the cows up in the barn,
And milk with a machine.

Ill tell you things is movin
They is not goin slow
And ise sorry that i must be born
A hundred years ago.

The trolley run up West 1st St. and right through the oil wells, which sometimes overrun and reach Figuero St. where there are nice residences and it spoils the nice lawns. 1st street is quite a hill but it grows higher as you go south.

On Figuero there are gorgeous vines on the walls of nice houses. One belongs to the honeysuckle family, but the blossom is much heavier and richer than any I ever saw east. The color is red and yellow.

Between Broadway the top of the hill have been built churches and the Y. M. C. A. building.

There is another part of the city we have not touched, Bayle Heights on the east. You reach it by trolley. Here is where the old peoples' Home is. It was given by Mrs. Hollenbeck. It's very nice, built in a park which is very pretty. There is a little lake on the side of which in the spring is spread a lovely moss solid with flowers, a beautiful sight. There are many rare birds in this park.

In this vicinity is Evergreen cemetery. It's kept green in the summer by irrigation. It's not like ours: there is one part devoted to people that want but one grave, as there are so many tourists. They can buy one grave and pay for perpetual care, then another will be placed next and so on. I saw one lot all overrun with English ivy, monument and all. It's a nice yard though, and there is another farther south in the eastern part of the city. This is nicer maybe, very nice stones with a good deal of inscription.

On the way back we will stop and see the Santa Fe (but always Santa Fe in California) depot. It's wholly unlike the Arcade; it's all open to view. The building is low and long and on the back side all filled in with palms and roses. The running white is quite conspicuous, so they all know at first that it's the land of roses.

In the spring they have their great Fiesta, and President McKinley and wife arrived the day before; and we met them at the Arcade. Mrs. McKinley had a little black sun shade she shook at the man who expected to snap her picture and then she covered her face with it.

After dinner a host of people went as near the Van Nuys as they could get and tried to get in the hotel and shake hands. Mr. McKinley asked if there wasn't a veranda where he could go out and let them see him. No, they don't have anything of the kind, but there was a fire escape at the third story and he stepped onto that and made a little speech of which I heard every word, and that ended that day for the people.

Children's Day Concert

The Children's day concert given by the Federated Church Sunday school was held last Sunday morning. There was a large number of children present to participate in the exercises and also a good attendance of parents and friends.

The children rendered their varied parts in a commendable way. The singing of the boys' quartet, consisting of Theodore Hazen, James Aldrich, Robert Dunbar and Walter Dodge, added to the program. Mrs. H. F. Peck accompanied them on the piano. Mrs. Mabel Stebbins and Miss Edith Towne accompanied the selections sung by the children. The pastor, Rev. H. P. Rankin, baptised two infants.

The church was profusely decorated with mountain laurel, which was contributed by the superintendent, E. C. Witt.

The concert committee consisted of Miss Marion Bartlett, Mrs. Hattie Taylor and Mrs. Mabel Stebbins, all of whom, with others, spent much time with rehearsals. The concert program is printed elsewhere.

After 125 Years

That the sins of the fathers are visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generations is the sad reflection as one reads the article entitled "Tit for Tat" in a recent issue of the Ware River News. We quote:

"If Ware 'puts the law' on the people of Belchertown because they will not pay their share towards repairs of the Ware-Belchertown bridge over the Swift river, the town will simply be getting even with Belchertown, after the lapse of 126 years.

"In Rev. Arthur Chase's history of Ware, it is recorded that in 1795 an action was brought against Ware, apparently inspired by Belchertown but presented by James Sullivan, attorney general, because the town had 'suffered' this very same bridge to be dangerous to pass and to be out of repair. But Ware hastily repaired the bridge and got out of it by paying costs of $5.56 for the action in the supreme court.

"Now, in the special town meeting,

Ware will consider asking the county commissioners to make Belchertown to do a little repairing on the same bridge."

—And they did.

An American Legion Ball Team

The American Legion is making plans for the formation of an American Legion baseball team in town. It held a meeting last night in regard to the matter and now calls upon the citizens willing to back up such a movement, to meet in the Legion rooms next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Bear this in mind, please.

Sunday Funerals

The decision of the cemetery commissioners and clergymen of Ware not to have funerals on Sunday except in case of absolute necessity, should be considered by people of our own community who could be a little more considerate in this respect. Not only is Sunday the clergyman's hardest day, but it cheats other people out of their day of rest.

We are glad of the stand taken by this neighboring community, which is merely following out the law in many cities where Sunday funerals are not in vogue.

Ordained Here 50 Years Ago

Rev. Payson W. Lyman of Fall River was ordained here fifty years ago and became pastor of the Congregational church, remaining for fifteen years. In celebration of this event Rev. Mr. Lyman will preach next Sunday morning and greet his parishioners of other days, whose numbers have now greatly diminished, and also those younger in years who revere the early history of the local church.

Rev. Lyman is engaged in newspaper work in Fall River and has used his pen much in behalf of the suffering people in other lands.

The World a Community

We boast oftentimes of what civilization has done for us. And yet civilization takes away our independence. If a man wishes to be independent, civilization is a bane and not a blessing. With every new convenience which civilization brings, we lose a bit of our independence. With every new advance in society, we sacrifice some of our independence.

In very primitive life, a family could live independently of its neighbors. It could produce all the necessities of life, food and fuel and raiment. In primitive life a community could live apart from all sister communities. But now not one of our readers raises all the food he eats or makes all the clothing he wears. The whole world is now, by the advance of civilization, one neighborhood. We are affected by people whom we have never seen and by countries we have never visited.

Let miners cease to work and we are cold! Let engineers strike and we are stranded; let the milkmen strike and babies in New York City and Chicago die; let farmers refuse to plow and to sow and we have no bread. Trouble in one class in society causes havoc in every class. Engineers can hold up the whole country. An epidemic of influenza in the trenches of France affects every hamlet in the world. We greatly deceive ourselves when we say that it matters not to us what takes place in the Philippines or in Africa or in China. Let trouble brew in Ireland, and America is in peril. Modern civilization has brought the ends of the earth to our very doors. We touch elbows with those in most distant lands. Relief in Armenia or in Belgium finally works for the higher welfare of America. We may wish to be isolated, but it is impossible.

The whole world is knit together as one neighborhood. Of course we lose much independence because of this, but we gain more than we lose, just as a man gains more than he loses when he establishes a family.

B. H. S. Notes

"Where are you going, my pretty lad?"

"I'm going 'parking, ma'am," he said.

"May I go with you, my pretty lad?"

"Anna Mae get jealous," he said. How exquisite roses seem to the members of B. H. S. since they have been tabooed!

Last week while practicing music, Walter failed to observe a rest. While all the room was in a perfect calm, Walter's lusty voice broke the spell with a long-drawn-out "Hail".

Some one made the remark that Red was getting bald. Well, we always thought that an empty barn needed no cover.

Guy Allen is passing around a petition to have curfew ring early for B. H. S. pupils. While enjoying a quiet snooze the other day, James Aldrich fell out of his seat. While he was scrambling back to the vicinity of his desk, Guy was made to laugh, and in consequence, occupied a front seat for the afternoon. We don't blame you for laughing, Guy. We have seen dunces perform before.

Since the Seniors have become sure of their passports into the cruel, cold world, they have installed a telephone system and may be seen talking any hour of the day. The best of it is, they're never sentenced to the front row! O how I wish I were a privileged Senior.

Hang on to that will, Agnes, or someone will will it so that he will have the will and you will be without a will.

Next week we hope to put through a school statistic stunt, so put on your thinking caps and decide who are the most popular and the most conceited boys and girls in the school.

If many of the girls take up home nursing, we see where all of the fellows will be wounded heroes when someone brushes their hair backwards.

Joseph Tremblay of Willimansett, employed by the Standard Oil Co., has been making improvements on his camp at Edgewood farm and this week he celebrated the opening of the camp by giving two dinners. On Sunday he had a party of 15 business men—from Willimansett, and Wednesday p. m. his hospitality was extended to the lady employees of his office, the Misses Anna Baker, Anna Harrigan, and Regina Stacy, and friends to the number of eleven, chaperoned by Mrs. Frank Chaloux and Mrs. Tremblay. Dinner was served at two and a late supper before the return home, both of which were prepared by the men. The table was prettily decorated with roses and maiden hair ferns and wild flowers.

A walk through the woods and meadows for wild flowers was greatly enjoyed, and sports filled in the remainder of the afternoon. A general good time was voted and the praises of Turkey Hill air sung.

Harry Dickey was entertained Sunday at the home of C. R. Green. Jacob Winter returned home Thursday from the Holyoke hospital. Mrs. E. F. Shawway went to Maiden this week with her mother who has been here for a visit. Miss Merle Gay visited her home

These officers will also serve as directors of the Association. J. C. Bothwell has been appointed manager and E. B. Parent assistant manager. The baseball captain will be selected by the players.

American Legion Carnival

The Chauncey D. Walker Post of the American Legion will stage a big carnival on the common, Monday, July 4. In some respects it will resemble a Belchertown fair, differing only that the fakirs will be all local people.

There will be auction dolls, roulette wheels, wheels of fortune, and stands where candy, lemonade, pies, cake, coffee, hot dogs and everything of like nature will be dispensed.

The Post expects to attract to the town many from other places who will be glad to attend this mammoth event which will be an all-day affair.

Incidentally, the proceeds will go to the furnishing of Legion headquarters which at present hasn't much to boast of in the way of sound furniture.

Moore-Hanifin Wedding

Miss Katherine Elizabeth Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund E. Moore of Ware Center, and Thos. E. Hanifin of Belchertown, were married at 8 Monday morning at All Saints' Church by Rev. J. F. Griffin with a nuptial mass. Miss Nellie Carroll played the entrance and recessional marches. The bride was attended by Miss Beatrice Rohan, also of Ware, and the best man was Robert E. Hanifin of Belchertown, brother of the groom. The bride's gown was of orchid georgette, with hat in harmony, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses. Following the ceremony the wedding party motored to Springfield, where a wedding breakfast was served at the Highland hotel. The bride has been a teacher in the Ware schools the past three years and is well known and popular with the young people of Ware. Mr. Hanifin is associated in business in Belchertown with his father, Peter Hanifin. The couple will take a two weeks' motor trip through the Berkshires and will then be at home at Park View cottage, Belchertown.

The Strawberry Festival

The Strawberry Festival Wednesday evening began with a salad and bean supper, topped off by a strawberry shortcake that was "just great". Those who sat down at the big table on the chapel lawn found one of the few reasonably cool dining rooms in town that night, which added to their enjoyment of the bountiful repast served by the young people.

With the long dining table for a background, booths of several varieties gave a festive appearance to the occasion and vied in colors with the pinks and blues of the feminine gowns. The weather man saw to it that conditions were right for a thriving business in ice cream, punch, ginger ale, etc. Of course everybody bought home-made fudge and pop corn.

But, popular as all these booths were, there were other booths to come, and as long as they were in evidence, the former booths were all party.

Celebrates 50 Years' Ministry

The worshippers at the Federated church last Sunday morning had the privilege of listening to a man ordained to the ministry fifty years ago and still a power for righteousness in the world today. This alone was worthy of interest, but the fact that Rev. Payson W. Lyman was ordained to the ministry in the local Congregational church, of which he became pastor a half century ago and served for a term of fifteen years, added to the significance of the occasion.

As Rev. Mr. Lyman looked into the faces of his audience on Sunday, his thoughts reverted to the 9th of May, 1871, when he drove from Easthampton to Belchertown to take up his first pastorate. He spoke of his ordination by the council that met in the old brick hall on the day following and stated in that connection that all but one of that assembly which passed upon his credentials, had entered the life beyond.

He told of the homes where he was first entertained and gave by name the families that resided in the outlying districts, commencing with Mill Valley and making a complete circuit of the town. "Tell me," he said when he had completed the list, "if one of these houses I have mentioned is occupied at the present time by any member of the family." Only one came to his memory, that of the Blackmer home in Mill Valley.

Rev. Mr. Lyman called to mind many memorable days in the 15 years he stayed here, mentioning among others the dedication of the soldiers' monument in connection with which he did considerable work in Boston, securing data; the abolition of the fence around the common and the substitution of the round posts with chain which has now shared the fate of its predecessor; the grand reception tendered by Col. Myron P. Walker, and the 100th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Lengley's grandfather at the Sabin farm. He also remembered distinctly the gathering of the townspeople to set out trees in vacant places around the common.

The particular tree which he himself helped plant was the elm on the west side at the southern entrance.

B. H. S. Notes

Some school statistics were compiled by a vote of the school this week. We intended to publish the results. However the only item we feel it wise to divulge to the critical public is the best natured Boy and Girl,—namely; Guy C. Allen, 3d, and Alice Howard. Everyone else is on the war-path.

If anyone finds the pencils are disappearing, go to the Information Bureau, Catherine Landers.

We wonder why John Wood sharpens his pencil so often. Is he so industrious that he wears it down three times in a period?

One thing that is impossible to understand is why the boys become so warm that they have to remove their coats, but still they keep on their sweaters. Sensible boys.
Why don't you wear gloves?

Some of the pupils in the B. H. S. have been heard to say that the School Column was "rather foolish." Well, we work with the material that is supplied us.

Next week's column will be the last one until next term. Choice bits from the Will and wise selections from the Prophecy will be printed. We hope that no great objection will be raised by the sensitive high school pupils against printing these items.

Dies in Holyoke

Joel S. Walkley of South Hadley Falls, a native of Belchertown, died on Tuesday in Holyoke. He was born Aug 12, 1833, and became a member of Vernon Lodge of Masons in 1869.

Mr. Walkley was a carriage trimmer and harness maker, for several years conducting a shop in South Hadley Falls.

Celebrates 50 Years' Ministry

The remodeling of the church took place early in Mr. Lyman's ministry here. The side galleries were removed and the ten small windows upstairs and down on both sides, changed for the present ones.
He reminded them of significant gatherings that had taken place in the edifice, at some of which Amherst college was present in a body.

He also gave some interesting statistics. He received into the church 88 persons on confession, baptized 47, performed the marriage ceremony in 87 instances, attended 32 ecclesiastical councils, 8 of which were held in Granby, and said words of comfort on the occasion of the death of 300 of the townspeople.

Rev. Mr. Lyman then preached a short sermon on what his ministry had stood for—the Bible as an authority on that for which it was written, the carrying of religion into affairs of citizenship, an intellectual Christianity, and the citizenship which culminates in Heaven. These with other declarations constituted a program of belief that has not outgrown the years.

In closing, Mr. Lyman gave a ringing challenge to his listeners to support the church now Federated and make it the center around which the life of the community would revolve.

As the strains of Blest Be the Tie that Binds were sung by the choir, the congregation greeted Mr. Lyman at the front of the church, the pastor, Rev. H. P. Rankin, and Rev.
C. G. Burnham assisting in receiving. Several elderly people made a special effort to be present for the anniversary occasion, as they were more closely linked to the days that were brought to mind. Among them were Mrs. Sarah Cowles of Amherst in whose home he resided while pastor here, and Mrs. C. F.
D. Hazen.

Rev. Lyman is now doing editorial work in Fall River but is also serving as acting pastor of a French Protestant church in that city.

Almost every year he comes to Bel-chertown to renew his friendships in the parish and town which he still holds dear.

there was a song and encore by the young men's quartet, Mrs. H. F.

vised platform in front of the church appeared Farmer Stubbins and his wife (Harold Booth and Miss Alice Booth). The next character, to be introduced was the book agent (New-

"Of which I am the author." With the arrival of the deacon (Raymond tions ensued. Amelia (Miss Violet plications, although it was true as the book agent said, "I am the author."

From start to finish the farce showed not an imperfection. All the parts were very cleverly taken.
The audience showed their apprecia-

Grammar School Graduation

The graduating exercises of the Center Grammar school were held in Community hall Thursday afternoon before a good sized audience of relatives and friends of the graduates. These young people were not a whit behind their seniors of the night before in their preparation of interesting material or in their ability to present it in a pleasing manner. Some one in the audience remarked that it was even better than the High school exercises. Another said, "I never heard such a good Grammar school graduation."

Not the least interesting was the musical part. Solos, trios, two-part songs, all were rendered with the ease of sure knowledge. No one could fail to see the worth of the musical training our children are receiving at the hands of Mrs. Clough.

The Class Advertiser and the Scrap Bag were quite novel and full of personal interest. We hope to publish extracts from these next week. The class gift was a picture of Lincoln listening to the pleadings of a mother for her boy.

Certificates of entrance to the High school were presented to the graduates by Supt. A. R. Lewis who gave them a few apt words of counsel.

Community hall was very effectively decorated with the class colors, blue and gold. Streamers of blue and gold crepe paper flowed down either side of the motto, "Onward and upward." A lattice work of blue and gold ribbons stretched across the front of the platform and great bowls of ox-eye daisies adorned either end.

B. H. S. Graduation

The class of 1921, B. H. S., received their diplomas Wednesday evening at the close of the graduating exercises held in the Congregational church. The class numbered six; or seventeen less than the original number that entered the school four years ago. It was comprised of three girls and three boys and was unique in that a colored boy was a member of the class and its valedictorian, and also that two of the graduates had walked a distance of several miles each day to school.

The exercises that consummated the four years' endeavor of the class of 1921 were not held under proverbial graduation skies, but the baptism of rain on a parched earth while the program was in progress proved a most acceptable substitute.

To the strains of a march played on the organ by Miss M. L. Allen the school marched into the auditorium which had been neatly trimmed for the occasion, and where hung in front the class numerals "1921," and the motto, "En Avant." Rev. H. P. Rankin offered prayer and the exercises proceeded according to program. The speakers received appreciative ovations and the audience demanded another duet from Miss Sullivan and Theodore Hazen. Mrs. Clough, the music supervisor, directed the music which was of graduation standard.

There were two declamations, one by Garfield Hubbard and the other by Orin Brosey. Constantius and the Lion was rendered by the latter in most vivid fashion. Extracts from the prophecy by Miss Sullivan and the will by Miss Agnes Hanifin will be found under the B. H. S. notes. Miss Irene Hanifin, in her essay on the Value of Play, and Theodore Hazen in his oration stated vital truths which are deserving of repetition.

Miss Hanifin stated that work and play are not antagonistic but that play is to fit a person for better work. Art, literature, games, all let us down from high tension, and make us fit. She said that lessons learned from playing the game, assisted one in work. He must do his best to overcome obstacles, he must be cheerful, no matter the result, he must be fair both in play and in work. She said that if one did not succeed he could

Radcliffe Chautauqua
July 8, 9, 11

The Radcliffe 3-day Chautauqua, signed for last fall by twenty of our citizens, is scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Monday, July 8, 9, 11.

The publicity agent for the Bureau was in town last week, posting the outskirts of the town and making arrangements with the local management for further advertising, sale of tickets, etc., etc. Committees have been appointed to take care of the various departments of the work which must be done before the tent arrives.

The Radcliffe Chautauqua is not coming to every town, by any means, and it is a privilege indeed that awaits our townspeople. Entertainments will be given, afternoon and evening in the tent, with a new party of entertainers each day and no two programs alike.

Season tickets will soon be on sale, the price of which will be $2.00. Single admissions will be 50 cents. Children's season tickets are $1.00. It is urged that as many as possible buy season tickets early, thus getting a lower price per entertainment and at the same time disposing of the financial obligation which the guarantors were kind enough to assume, thus making possible a Chautauqua for Belchertown in 1921.

We append herewith a program for the three days.

Belchertown Loses

The Belchertown Athletic Association baseball team lost to the Amherst Independents last Saturday afternoon by a score of 12 to 3. The local boys fought to the finish, but the score had been gathering too much momentum to have the course varied. There seemed a fighting chance at the start but the fatal sixth with its corresponding number of runs settled the game.

The Belchertown team appeared with their new uniforms; and under new management, hoped to win, but Ed Grayson's delegation from up country proved a little too much.

It was a real Belchertown team put in the field this time; that is, with the exception of Hartnett who did the twirling. Faischild had difficulty in caging the balls and retired in favor of "Hooper" Pierce, who found his mit was none too big. Several bases were stolen and several runs let in because the batteries didn't seem to operate. In the 6th inning all the Amherst men had a crack at the bat and then some.

But "It's only a little hard luck" one of the players said, and they are all on their toes for the next game which will be with the Eagle A. Cs. of Ludlow, tomorrow afternoon at 3.30 on the park.

Next Monday afternoon the Athletics will play the Indian Orchard team.

B. H. S. Notes

SUMMARY OF CLASS PROPHECY BY MILDRED M. SULLIVAN

The prophetess of the class of 1921 dreamed a dream in which she saw herself as a teacher of music in the schools of Syracuse. One day, in the round of her duties, she met Irene Hanifin who was teaching science. Inquires about Agnes Hanifin brought forth the information that she had been employed as a private secretary after a course in Boston University. Later she had answered in the affirmative the oldest question in the world; and now, in addition to her household duties, was answering door bells and telephone calls for a young physician who was rising to fame in a prosperous city in the middle west.

Soon after this meeting with an old acquaintance, the prophetess attended an important trial, and the young lawyer for the defense she recognized as Theodore Hazen. He pleaded the case with such feeling that every heart in the audience was moved.

Theodore reported that Braoey had graduated from Pratt University at Brooklyn after a course in Colorado University of Mining. He accepted a position with Standard Oil, had an office in Wilkesbarre, and was already well-fixed for life as far as filthy lucre is concerned. Apparently climbing Pelham hills in his youth got him in the habit of going up.

Garfield Hubbard didn't climb such hills as Braoey, but he covered the grit just the same, even if he didn't get a front page announcement in the local. Hazen said Hubbard was given a chance as salesman where he made good, and the business due to his foresight and ability had wonderfully increased.

Thus ended the vision of what the future held for the class of 1921. Success seemed to lie before them all.

have the satisfaction of having played the game of life well. A beautiful landscape, a wonderful sunset and things of beauty have the power of bringing to the mind true refreshment so that work will not be drudgery.

"Not in Our Stars But in Ourselves" was the theme of Theodore Hazen's oration which was delivered in most animated style. He said that we are masters of our own fate. Whether we were born under a lucky, or an unlucky star we are makers of our own destiny. "God is not partial with his gifts," he said. He gave as one secret of success the consciousness of doing right. "Let one have a keen sense of right," he said, "and he becomes irresistible." He attributed Lincoln's success to this fact and mentioned Roosevelt as one who was not a child of luck but of energy, who let no door bar him, if he thought he had a right to enter. Other men have reached the summit and we may if we follow in their footsteps. Courage and an overmastering purpose are essential requisites of success. We must have courage in the face of all danger even if it takes life itself.

Supt. Lewis presented the diplomas, but reminded the class as he did so, not to entertain the idea that they had finished their education, for neither a high school or college graduate was necessarily educated. To be truly educated, he said, one must be prepared mentally, physically and morally for life's work. It is high time that you choose your life work and prepare for it. He reminded them that the end of all education is character. It is not who you are, what you can do, how much of this world's goods you have, but what are you that is of importance. Character is worth more than wealth or power. Like a block of marble before the sculptor, every boy and girl has an ideal in life and character and must cut away the stone until his vision becomes real. He closed with an appeal to the class for high ideals and broad visions of life.

A reception followed in the Park View hall, members of the class receiving congratulations beneath a canopy of laurel and rambler roses. Refreshments were served by members of the Junior class and dancing completed the festivities connected with graduation which are a prominent feature in our community life.

Chautauqua Cancelled

The Radcliffe Chautauqua will not appear this week as previously announced. It fares the fate of some other events which have been advertised in our columns but which failed to materialize. This last offense was due to a misunderstanding between promoters and guarantors as to their respective obligations, and was brought to a head by the refusal of the selectmen to allow the money-taking affair in these stringent times.

Belchertown Wins

Everyone cheered when Crane of the Indian Orchard team crossed the plate in the 9th inning. He was the first one of the visitors to find his way around the circuit, whereas the Athletic Association team had been traveling around at a great rate, making a dozen trips. This team from the Orchard had about given up hope of making the last station when Crane showed up. His presence surprised everybody, even himself.

It was Belchertown's day this time. Where it was weak in the preceding game it was the strongest on Monday. Crayson pitched a great game, having the privilege of delivering the third strike to fourteen men. Davis, who caught, did his part of the battle, and the support everywhere was good.

Maynard came near scoring in the 9th but was nipped by a close call at the plate.

Story scored the first run of the game, coming in from third on a wild throw in an attempt to catch him napping. It was the fifth inning that decided the game. Three men were passed on balls, Davis made a three base hit and Sutherland a two-base hit. It was then that the visitors put in a new battery, but it was too late to save the day. Then too they were unable to solve the local pitching.

The Indian Orchard team was favored in one inning by one of the team catching the ball out of a tree near first base and making a double play. The Athletics later tried to duplicate the trick but luck didn't seem to favor them.

Eugene Flaherty umpired strikes and balls and Thomas Allen, bases.

Dies in Providence

Harvey Pepper, who died in Providence this week, was brought here for burial Wednesday. Mr. Pepper was over 90 years of age and spent his early years in Belchertown. Mr. and Mrs. Pepper celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last February. Mrs. Pepper was Sarah Griggs before her marriage, being a member of the family for whom E. J. Grigg's Post was named.

Why the Fight

Well it is over. The fight is fought. Our beloved nation still holds the championship for fistic encounters. We can resume our ordinary life. The "dignified senators and busy congressmen" can return to the halls of congress and tinker the tariff and attend to other national affairs without the distraction of an impending pugilistic battle that would imperil American supremacy in such a field of dubious distinction. The "magnetic influence" which it was reported "permeated the capital" has lost its magnetism.

O yes, "the wooden bowl" in Jersey City, U. S. A., was a great magnet. Its power was felt over wide circles in our own and other lands. It drew bearers of distinguished names from their homes and business. It drew the lawyer from his clients and cases and the doctor from his pills and patients. There was an unusual compelling force in its attraction for hundreds of (white) women were "expected to lend color" to the event, and did. They were there to grace the occasion if not their sex by their presence. But O women, women, why were you there? What attraction was there for you of the gentler sex in seeing two men pound each other till one could pound no longer. Well as for that matter, why was anybody there. Why was the fight anyway.

I confess to being on the point of condemning the affair in toto. It did not seem to stand for any great object or cause. Those who attended it were not patronizing a show supposed to be refining and instructive like a country town Chautauqua. It seemed a sordid affair. There was money in it for the manager, for the fighters, for the press which gave it such publicity. The whole affair seemed at first to me to savor rankly of sordidness and brutality, and I felt a sense of shame that it should have come off, and that so many thousands of people eagerly thronged the arena to see such a disgusting sight. I thought of the brutality of old, wicked Rome and the gladiatorial contests that marked the decadence of a great empire.

But I had a second thought which gave me another point from which to view the sight of one man knocking out another. Some were thinking of the honor of America holding the championship of the pugilistic ring.

I am an American and I want my native land to attain all the respect and prestige and glory that she can, and I am feeling a little depressed over some recent events in our borders that dim our glory. After Tulsa and West Virginia and some other dubious happenings, we seemed to me to be caught in the market a little short on glory.

We prided ourselves, that is, some of us did, perhaps the most of us indulged in the same mistaken feeling, on the part we finally took in the late world war. But Ambassador Harvey tells the world that we went into that great scrap to save our own skins and not from any noble, altruistic sentiment like saving democracy for the world.

So, with our idealism stripped from us and our selfishness exposed so openly and our laws dishonored by race riots and labor riots and by the burning of homes and the lynching of people and such sad events, I felt we were a bit short on glory, and if this recent prize fight won by an American adds a bit to our glory, perhaps it has some ground of justification. Has it? I wish I felt more

Game Tomorrow

The Athletic Association baseball team will play the Hemlock A. C. of Chicopee Falls, on the park at 3.30 tomorrow afternoon.

The new management expects to put on a fine quality of ball this summer, but as it costs money to buy balls, pay for printing and settle expenses of visiting teams, they request that the financial offerings at the games be a bit more generous.

WANTED

Five capable stenographers and two assistant book-keepers at Hazen's Department Store Apply in person at desk, 1 between hours of 9 and 10 a. m. Friday

Rachel Randall, Head Book-keeper.

These are the things I have found most interesting to me, so I have been glad to pass them on to you and share with you this remarkable find of mine, that it may answer for you as satisfactorily as it did for me, the all important question, "What is going to become of the class of 1921?"

THE CLASS PICTURE

Andrew Ketchen

I hesitated when I was asked to prepare the picture of the class of 1921 for your inspection. I am not an artist and everybody knows it.

Besides, I am only one person of decidedly individual opinions, and can only look at my classmates through my own eyes. I cannot see them as they see themselves, nor as you would see them if you might stand for a time in my position and be able to look at them from my point of view.

This then, dear friends, is the class of 1921 as I see it today. I am sure you will pardon the exact measurements as I would make a better carpenter than an artist.

The class of 1921 is made up of 12 members, six girls and six boys. One of them, Myrtle Campbell, is not here with us today. We range in age from Darsa Dodge's plump 14 years to the 12 year baby of the class, Rachel Randall.

We range in height from Blanche Haesaert's 5 ft. 4 in. to Emile Vezina's 4 ft. 6 in. We range in weight from Blanche Haesaert's 180 lbs. to June Atwood's 73 1/2 lbs.

You can see too, what a heavy proposition we are by the fact that, taken together, we tip the scales at 1187 lbs.

Our head is of sufficient capacity to hold even the vast amount of knowledge we have been cramming into it for the past eight years, for we require a hat that measures 238 in.; and if we do not make in life the success that we desire and expect, it will surely not be because we cannot get a foothold upon the world's battleground by way of understanding, for we wear a number 51 shoe.

Taken together as one in a body, that we are supposed to be in spirit, we make up an individual of sufficient age to know a great deal, if he is ever going to learn, for he would be 143 years old, surely an age of wisdom, power, and dignity.

Our height is 50 ft., which certainly raises us far enough above the world to allow us to tower over our enemies and look down upon the inferior undergraduates.

This is the class of 1921 in her big moments. We are all Americans, for though we may be descended from different nationalities, we are all united under the red, white, and blue of the Star Spangled Banner and the colors of our class.

We are accomplished in all things; we have often proved to you how well we can sing, read, recite and perform to you in many entertaining ways before the public.

Ask me thirty years from now and perhaps I may be better able to say, for, of course they are still in a state of partial development. And while I can tell you what they are now, "It doth not yet appear what they will be."

sure that the brutality and sordidness of the affair could be transmuted into some pure metal for the glory of America.

The opening line of our great Lincoln's favorite poem reads:

"O why should the spirit of mortal be proud."

Well, why should it, if such an event can add glory to America, or bring credit to those who patronized it.

Defeated by Hemlock A. C.

The Hemlock A. C. of Chicopee Falls defeated the Belchertown Athletic in a close and interesting game last Saturday afternoon. With a few touches by a baseball artist, it might easily have become a thriller. With the score at 3 to 1 in the visitors' favor, in the last of the 9th Holland scored after two men were out. Two men landed safely on the bases and, with Hawes at bat, a hit apparently meant tying the game. The batsman struck out, however, and the suspense ended.

Many of the Hemlock players were small of stature but they had evidently played baseball before, for they put up a good argument. Donahue, their pitcher, did fine work and had a few more strike-outs to his credit than did Grayson, although the honors were not very evenly divided. The latter passed three men to first while Donahue let only one walk.

The Hemlocks scored their first run in the second, and Belchertown bid fair to duplicate the score in their half. Grayson had made a pretty steal to third and was all ready for a hit when the batter fanned. That seemed to be the trouble at a number of times during the game. The managers tried to save the day by putting in pinch hitters.

Atkins substituted for Lynch in the 6th, while Pierce was used in the same spot in the 9th, but the score still stanted the wrong way.

Belchertown got its first run of the game in the 5th when Hawes' hit scored Story. The locals pulled out of a hole in the 3rd when a batted ball hit a scoring runner.

Riley made a three-base hit in the 7th, but he was still on the bag when the inning closed.

Sutherland caught for Belchertown and played his position well.

Social Union Lawn Party

The Davis home on North Main street was the attraction of the evening for a large number of people on Wednesday night. The Japanese lanterns and electric lights beckoned patrons from far and near to visit the novel attractions offered by the ladies of the Social Union.

Right by the side of the road was an orange grove—at least fruit looking like oranges hung from the green branches, and within the enclosure could be obtained the juice of the yellow skinned edible.

Tulips and orange groves may not always be found side by side, but a tulip bed was by the grove entrance. Here "youngsters" pulled the paper flowers from the sawdust and drew bulbs of dolls or whistles.

Cake, candy and ice cream each had their respective booths and their usual number of admirers. Under "the old apple tree" the fortune telling tent with its enticing ornaments and paraphanelia lured those who wished their past reviewed and their future prophesied.

On the front piazza were contests and a fake exhibit that gave opportunity for one's mental faculties. And if one didn't care to stir himself, he could have peanuts, pop corn and home-made root beer brought right to his door, while the hand organ man with the enticing "monkey" in red pants took one's extra pennies to the tune of merry music.

The booths were trimmed with varying colors and styles of architecture. Before them, facing the house, were settees brought from the vestry, where the audience sat to listen to the following program:

Song, Stunting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground.

Led by Thos Allen

Stunt, Tell us a story full of fun,
And something that's really true;
Or, if you cannot think of one,
Any joke will do.

Wins 18 to 8

18 to 8 was the score that prevailed as the shadows fell over the State street ball grounds Wednesday night. At least, that is a very good estimate. It was a very hard game for the scorers and the Amherst man was unable to keep up with the procession in the second and had to take the enemy's word for it.

My, how the runs did sputter in that fatal inning. They came in with the rapidity of machine gun fire. A regular fan would read no further when he knew that eleven runs were turned in by the locals.

The Amherst pitcher stuck to his post for the most of it but finally surrendered to Grayson, the Amherst-Belchertownite, who can twirl without compunction for either company.

Amherst started out bravely. In the first they got three men on bases, but only scored one. In their half of the 2nd, however, it was a case of one, two, three.

Much merriment was caused in the 3rd when Grayson was called out for interfering with Blackmer's catching a foul.

Holland made a big hit for Belchertown in the 5th, with the bases full, which turned them all into the score column.

Davis pitched five innings for the locals and Wetherwax the rest of the game.

Several double plays figured in the game and a double steal.

Giving and the Giver

Whenever we speak of giving, we think of the one who is to receive the gift and not of the one who gives it.

But once in a while it is advisable to think how giving affects the giver. And this is what we are thinking about as we write this editorial.

But unless such conditions exist, giving pays the giver. The more kindness one gives, the more kindness comes back.

Giving enriches the mind. It broadens a man's outlook upon life. He who refuses to give lives in a narrow, prescribed world, and dwarfs his mind.

Giving makes a man finer and sweeter and kinder. He who refuses to give becomes miserly. And no one is attracted to a miserly soul.

Giving gives the giver the satisfaction that he has done his duty. There is an inner voice of approval.

No one really finds happiness by piling up wealth. Real joy comes in giving.

"Blame the Schools"

We print herewith at the suggestion of one of our citizens and by permission of the Springfield Republican, these verses contributed by F. C. Sears of Amherst, a retiring member of that town's school committee.

Is your child's digestion bad? Blame the schools!

Is he sick, morose or sad? Blame the schools!

Do your children learn to fight? Do they lie awake at night? Do they fail to do what's right? Blame the schools!

Do your boys smoke cigarets? Blame the schools!

Are your girls all suffragets? Blame the schools!

Do your children's shoes wear out? That's the school board's fault, no doubt!

Are your children getting stout? Blame the schools!

Are your children getting thin? Blame the schools!

Do they choose the path of sin? Blame the schools!

Do your children work too hard? Are they playing round your yard? Do they play the wicked card? Blame the schools!

Is the noon recess too short? Blame the schools!

Do they need more time for sport? Blame the schools!

Is the noon recess too long? Oh, that plan is surely wrong! They should spend the time in song! Blame the schools!

Is your child a nervous wreck? Blame the schools!

Are there pimples on her neck? Blame the schools!

Blame the schools for what they do And for what they don't do, too; They should seek advice from you! Blame the schools!

Do your children's teeth decay? Blame the schools!

For the tax you have to pay. Blame the schools!

For the teachers they have hired And the ones that they have fired. Tell the board they make you tired! Blame the schools!

Is your daughter's eyesight bad? Blame the schools!

Is your son a little odd? Blame the schools!

Do your children learn to swear? Is there something in their hair? Is there trouble anywhere? Blame the schools!

If your daughters are too bold, Blame the schools!

If the winters are too cold, Blame the schools!

Los Angeles, California

But the next day President McKinley was in the parade with his wife. They were in a chariot covered with white carnation pinks, solid blossoms. It's a great show, horses trimmed with roses, some rigs with marigold, fire engines with the blossoms of wild mustard, and all kinds of flowers are used. They go up Main, round into Spring and back on Broadway.

They were anxious to get the Chinese Dragon, and did get it. It was carried on the heads of a dozen or more Chinese and covered them so you would not guess what it was. It was made of silk all covered with gilt and shimmered, and with every step of the men was kept in motion.

People come early in the morning and take their places on the sidewalk and won't leave till the show is over. The trolley cars are all mixed up and one don't see a way home as none points his way, so some get on any car and in time they get home.

There are several parks I have not mentioned. West Lake is fine. There are parks in the southern part but I don't know much about them. There is Griffith Park with its hundreds of acres. It's the remnants of the city land after it was laid out, wild land and in an out of the way place. But since the auto has come into such common use, no place is out of the way.

A Mr. Griffith gave the land. In later years he got into trouble. He shot his wife at one of the beach hotels, gouged out one eye, and as one woman said, he had to go to prison for some years and had a chance to think over his sins. I knew the wife's people. He had a son about twelve years old, and of course I knew about the affair. The city felt they couldn't have a park named for such a man but I don't know as the name was changed. I think Griffith wrote a book on prison reform.

Wins Close Game

The Belchertown baseball team won from Thorndike on the park last Saturday afternoon by a score of 10 to 9. While replete with errors it was a game most interesting and the kind the crowd appreciated. With the score at 4 to 0 in favor of the visitors at the end of the third inning, the locals shrugged away and by the end of the sixth had turned the tide with the figures reading 9 to 8 in the proper order. Thorndike's run in the first of the eighth tied the score, thereby setting the game right on edge. The Athletics were unable to score in their half, so the last inning started 9 to 9. Thorndike was unable to get a run in their half, but Belchertown soon got busy in its turn. Davis got to first, stole second and came in on Grayson's smashing hit, thus ending the game.

Not only was the game interesting from a standpoint of score, but it was also conspicuous for the sporty way in which it was played. The visiting nine had their little say on occasions about the "ump's" decisions, but in a minute they were grinning and playing ball.

Fairchild pitched for Belchertown and kept cool when the skies were not auspicious for his team. Grayson held down the third bag.

Things didn't commence looking favorable to Belchertown till the fourth inning. Then the bases filled with none out. Allen and Atkins didn't connect, however, and the big opportunity faded, but three runners crossed the plate.

A feature of the game was Grayson stealing home in the sixth which was Belchertown's big inning. Six runs were turned into the score column in this inning.

The Thorndike catcher had bad luck nipping runners at the plate, dropping the ball on at least three occasions.

Double plays and double steals added to the game and good support in tight places was usually the good luck of the local battery.

Catholic Mission Lawn Party

It was a lawn party. The rain tried to change it into a house party by furnishing a liberal supply of wetness just preceding the hour for supper, but to no avail. The Catholics would not be cheated out of it. The big outdoors is so much more roomy and inviting than the little discomfort was put up with and the former plans carried out. There was no dust to bother, anyway.

So at the appointed hour the guests began to arrive, not in as large numbers as on some occasions, but there was a liberal sprinkling that sat down to supper and more kept coming till the affair began to savor of the genuine article, and when at the close the soft drinks and ice cream men got warmed up over their wares, the excitement reached its height.

The most popular spot on the grounds was the confectionery stand where boxes of chocolates were "whirled" away to the ones with the lucky numbers. The fancy containers were soon gone and the proprietors adjourned to the fancy work table to assist the caretakers there to dispose of their wares. Everything conceivable in fancy work was offered and seemed to be equally enticing to those of both sexes. The method of selling was the same as at the other stand.

About fifty people "hefted" the large frosted cake and guessed how many pounds it would weigh, while those who cared not for what they spent their cash, took a grab out of the basket and found no fault whatever.

So back and forth under the double row of electric bulbs surged the crowd, making sure that no attractions were missed. With the bountiful supper and what followed, all went home filled to overflowing with something.

No great combination of color was in evidence. The simple red, white and blue was the color everywhere, and if the colors blended on account of the shower, it was no matter.

As far as the cake contest, several outrageous numbers were submitted, ranging up in the "teens," but the correct weight was 6 lbs., 1 oz. Four guessed six pounds, so the monster had to be divided. The winners were Miss Nora Connors, A. J. Sears, Mr. Thomas and L. H. Blackmer.

Mrs. A. D. Lapolice had charge of the grab basket, Mrs. A. J. Sears the cake contest, Miss Gertrude Riley, Miss Margaret Moriarty and Miss Anna Carmody of Bondsville (continued on page 4)

Historical Association Notes

We hope the townspeople will look upon the fitting up of the Stone House for the Historical Association as something in which they all have a share in interest and responsibility, —not simply as a memorial to a dead past or a branch of a family no longer represented here. History is always being made and the association stands for a continued interest in it as long as there is a town of Belchertown. We have, for instance, war relics and records of our soldiers from the French and Indian wars in 1752 down to Cyril W. Van Cortlandt and Fred Wood (are there any more?) who are keeping our record open today.

The value of our collection will lie in its continued growth, and we hope you will look upon its new home as a safe place to put records, papers, old journals or letters, or copies of them, and where interesting possessions may be placed either as gifts or loans. A very brief loan will give a good many people the pleasure of seeing something they would otherwise know nothing about, and give the Association an opportunity to record the possessions in the town. We hope to reserve a part of the Ruthven Bridgman case (refitted with locks) for temporary loans and for special loan exhibits of some special class of articles.

From time to time I hope we may through the Sentinel suggest some of the special collections we are building up that need accessions.

As an example of one way to cooperate, does any reader of the Sentinel know whether there is still in town one of the old floors painted in the style fashionable here about a hundred years ago, painted in one shade with irregular spots of a darker shade, giving a rather mottled effect, or any example of an old floor with a pattern painted as border?

Untransferable Things

Many things can be transferred. Money can be transferred. And so can all material goods. Many things can be carried down from generation to generation. Fathers can hand traits and tendencies to children.

But there are things which cannot be given from one to another. We might like to transfer them, but we cannot. They cannot be imparted to another. We can relate our experiences but we cannot impart them. Our individuality we cannot transfer. That which separates us from all the rest of humanity cannot be given as we give dollars or possessions. A man after many years can acquire patience, and through his patience he may inspire a like quality in others, but his own patience he cannot give. It is his own. It is an untransferable possession. Some tasks cannot be transferred. There are duties which the husband cannot shift to the wife. There are responsibilities which the family cannot turn over to the church or Sunday school or lodge or club.

One of the temptations common to humanity is to shift responsibility. "Let George do it" is too frequent an expression among us. In a day when so many duties are delegated to committees, we are apt to get out from underneath many burdens we should shoulder.

The work of the world would be done if each man did his part. The reason why many men break down in life is because they are compelled to do not simply their work but the work of their fellows who have shirked. We injure society when we fail to do the part which properly belongs to us to perform.

Library Notes

Extracts by Miss Marion Bartlett from an address given by Miss Sarah B. Askew of the New Jersey Library Commission at the Library Institute recently held in Boston.

The library slogan should be Books for everybody, Everybody for books.

Books are closely connected with education and books rightly used will help people earn more money; they also show how to save more money.

Give to the man who is digging a ditch a book that will help him to dig a better ditch. Learn through books how to dressmake, all about collars, how to make the best coffee and cook good food, how to repair an automobile, how to wash windows and wipe them with newspaper, that floors and linoleum look better when one tablespoon of milk is placed in the cleaning water.

Learn that raisins rather than candy should be given to children, and that butter is more healthful than lard in cake as it takes lard five hours to digest.

If your potatoes do not do well, borrow a book and find the reason. If your hens are on a strike, go to the library for a book that tells you how to break it.

Books make young people love their homes; they give descriptions of customs and habits and histories of our neighbors in this and in other lands.

Books teach about the trees and birds and flowers. One little fellow was asked if he ever thought about a bare tree. He replied that he didn't have any "bear" trees near him, but he knew the elm and maple. The teacher explained that she meant trees in winter without leaves and he said, "O yes, I know naked trees." The teacher informed him that there are books in the library which tell about bare trees.

Through books as well as in other ways, young people should be taught internationalism, should read books about our country, and should learn to ask, "What are we doing for our country?" not, "What is our country doing for us?"

One reason that the people of Virginia and Massachusetts love their states so much is that they are continually hearing about them, they are so closely connected with historic events.

Citizens with loyalty make for patriotism and a good citizen is one who does his very best in the world.

Miss Askew appealed to the librarians to loan books to people which would give them a desire to become patriots and good citizens. Help the people of your town and schools, she added, to get interested in the lives of great men and women, for "Feed the mind as well as the body."

Los Angeles, California

Among the ministers that came and preached, the Salvation Booths made frequent visits and drew large audiences. The man who wrote, "What Would Jesus Do?" came and preached in E. Los Angeles. At first he seemed like a very different man, but after he really got into his sermon, he did not show it.

Then Mr. Ufford came and preached in a hall in the northern part of the city. We went early, as he had recently been in Belchertown, preached, and stayed with our son. "Yes, he was there," but little comfort did I get. Then he set up his "Life Line" and service began. And he began to whistle. I have heard of many kinds of whistlers, but never before of a whistling minister. But we'll not forget his most excellent hymn, "Throw out the life line; some one is sinking today."

In the same hall we met the Kansas woman who made such a whacking with the hatchet on the saloon.

She had a sister living in Los Angeles. There was nothing masculine about her. She was of medium size, dark hair, and seemed like a person you would like for a neighbor.

Dr. F. B. Meyer preached there and I heard someone tell what a wonderful man he was, but had to wait till I was home and read his book, "The Bells of Is." He was a preacher and became interested in the poor drunkard and met them as they came out of prison in the morning and invited them to breakfast at the coffee house. That kept them away from the public house. They had a good breakfast including ham, etc.

Of course I can't tell the whole story, but one poor fellow had been a tramp and was all rage, but he followed him up, asking if he hadn't a family or friends. No, they were all dead. "Isn't there some woman?" "There was one, a nice girl, but she would have nothing to do with me now." He said, "You can't always tell. Women are queer creatures, and I will go and see her if you wish." He found her in a respectable place, the front room well furnished, and he explained his errand. He said she was affected by what he told her and said she would see him, so Dr. Meyer had to dress him up in a good suit of clothes. Shortly he saw them on the street together. To make a long story short, in a year they were married and united with the church.

Another poor fellow was holding up a tree and he offered to take him home, but he was larger than he and he had his hands full and both fell in the mud, but he landed him in his home with a little help. He also took the pledge and went in better paths.

Wins from White Eagles

The Belchertown Athletic Association baseball team won from the White Eagle A. C. of Indian Orchard last Saturday afternoon on the State street grounds. According to reports the visitors have played about a dozen games this year and up to Saturday had won every contest. It was therefore time that a defeat was administered and the locals were tickled to turn the trick.

The Belchertown manager knew he was going to be up against the real thing and so stiffened up his lineup, enlisting the aid of Dowd and Ball of Amherst. These helped materially to win the game. But the game was won only after a strenuous battle. Only once was the Belchertown team ahead during the game and that was at the finish. And it took eleven innings to finish.

At the end of the second inning, the score was 3 to 1 in favor of the White Eagles. No one scored in the third. In the fourth the visitors got one and then the locals came over with three, tying the score. It was then that the crowd limbered up and there seemed some possibility of winning. But the Eagles got a run in the first of the fifth and it was up to Belchertown to score again. This they did in their half and the score was then tied again. For five innings neither side got a run and the battle was on. Fairchild, however, was pitching fine ball and getting good support, and the locals were getting a little more confidence at the bat.

In the last of the eleventh Atkins got two bases on a small bunt and managed to get around to third. Ball had been put out and Fairchild came to bat. He knocked a pop fly just over the pitcher's head and Atkins scored the decisive run.

The game was full of several close decisions. Ball was called out at the plate in the seventh when a run was badly needed. The locals used good head work in fielding the ball and out off a number of runs thereby. In the second inning three from Indian Orchard filled the bases but the man forced home by a hit was put out. In the course of the game, however, two of the visitors stole home on passed balls. Ball (continued on page 4)

Death of Miss Mary E. Richardson

Miss Mary Emily Richardson died of apoplexy last Friday night at the Farren Memorial hospital, Montague City, where she recently went for treatment. Her death came as a surprise to her many friends in town where she has lived intermittently for many years.

Miss Richardson was 60 years of age and was the daughter of Rev. Gilbert B. and Emily Spooner Richardson, being born in Edgecomb, Me. She was a bookkeeper and accommodated business firms in a clerical capacity as her health permitted. She was also a member of the Congregational church.

She leaves a brother, Frederick Richardson, of New Rochelle, N. Y., with whom she has spent her winters of late.

The funeral was held at 5 o'clock, Monday afternoon in Hardwick, where her father was pastor of the Hardwick church for a long term of years. Rev. H. P. Rankin officiated. Burial was also in Hardwick in the family lot.

Community Picnic

The Sunday School of the Federated church is arranging for a community picnic to be held next Wednesday at Aldrich lake. The committee on transportation, which will be free to children, is composed of E. C. Howard, E. E. Gay and R. A. French. A committee on sports has also been named with Theodore Hazen chairman. Supt. Witt will see to the lemonade.

The transportation committee ask all those who wish to be provided for, to let them know their names and be on hand at the chapel next Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

The Sunday School announces that as the name implies, this picnic is for everyone.

Food Sale

The food sale of the Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church on Wednesday afternoon was well patronized considering the extreme hot weather. Practically all of the food was sold, and the white elephant table with its variety (continued on page 4) of offerings, seen and unseen, was the means of adding funds to the treasury. Each patron of the table was presented a souvenir white elephant. About $13 was realized from the sale.

Thorndike Wins

It was an uphill road that the Belchertown nine traveled in its game with Thorndike last Wednesday afternoon. Try as hard as they could, their second wind failed to come and they stumbled and fell far from the summit.

The visitors played a great game and every hit by Belchertown seemed to be taken care of without effort, whereas the Athletics were always just out of reach of the ball in the field and if the sphere ever came near an infielder it rolled right by him unmolested either because of his own fault or because it hit some pebble and bounded every which way. On the majority of occasions that is just what it did do whenever Dowd, the short stop, tried to make a clean pick up.

Of course the visitors won the game and not much kick can be registered. They were quite determined to win on this occasion and were not that meek, happy bunch that showed up a few weeks ago. It wasn't a Thorndike nine, anyway—the players came from all over. In fact Landers, a Belchertown man, played for the visitors. But neither was the Belchertown team a local aggregation. More locals sat on the bench in civilians' clothes than for some time.

Both pitchers twirled a good game but Hartnett had weak and unlucky support. Rogers struck out seven men and Hartnett eight. Both passed three men on balls.

Thorndike's two runs in the first inning came in on passed balls. Belchertown's two runs in the second by Hartnett and Sutherland were scored on Ball's hit. Madelle made a hit in the third with Davis and Grayson on bases but it only gave the other side a double play. In the second inning Cavanaugh scored after a fly ball was caught in the field.

There was no exceptionally bad inning. The first three were a bit discouraging, but the non-appearance of a rally was what the locals (continued on page 4)

There is always a glamor about those things which may be attained quickly without labor and without effort, but if we are wise, we will imitate the plodding farmer.

Historical Association Notes

The Belchertown Historical Association is to have a small room in the Stone House called the nursery where all sorts of things connected with child life will be put; we have already a good deal of interest; embroidered caps and dresses, toys, including ancient rag dolls, a dolls' four post bedstead, a Mid-Victorian doll house, a cradle, little chairs, pictures, books, both early school books and children's books, etc., and hope for more.

Waiting

It has become very difficult for us to wait. What we want, we want now, or at the latest, by tomorrow. Whatever our ambition, be it wealth or position or power, we wish it without delay. If there is any short cut to the attainment of the desired end, we are likely to seize upon it. The word "haste" characterizes us.

This explains why so many drop out of school before they have completed their education, or take short courses or enter vocational classes. This explains why so many are caught in get-rich-quick schemes. It explains much war. Nations cannot wait to get what they wish by legitimate means. So they use violent methods, concluding that if they are only strong enough and wise enough they may take whatever they covet. It explains the cause for the robber and the bully and the pirate, who are not in good repute.

If we were wise men, we would discover that this method of haste gets us nowhere. The student who has rushed into business quickly finds himself outdistanced by the fellow who continued his studies to the end. It has been wisely said that "sudden success dazzles." The young man suddenly rich is likely to dissipate his fortune and be poor at the end. Power and glory that are captured by violence and force are short-lived.

We should learn the lesson of patience from the farmer who is industrious the whole season through and gathers into his barns in the fall what is rightfully his. "Long waiting nearly always ensures a wise possession." What a man gains by industry and discipline and patience is his. No prize can be retained by a man in any calling who has won the prize by false expedients.

Los Angeles, California

In a previous paper I wrote quite a little about Boyle Heights but did not mention that it's on the same ridge of hills as East Los Angeles, though just opposite the center of the city. Los Angeles river runs down through the city and is of little account as a river. They say the water runs under the sand.

We have found three sides of Los Angeles are surrounded by hills, the south part is all open, no hills to the sea some 17 miles away. Los Angeles was afraid of losing the harbor, so it bought a strip two miles wide and 17 miles long from the city to the sea, and about the same time took in places, some large, others small. Hollywood is, maybe, the largest and is very nice, on high ground.

Los Angeles has large and wide-awake papers. The Times is very large, especially Sundays. A great deal is devoted to advertisements, "rooms for tourists, sunny rooms a speciality." Once looking for rooms the lady showed me a nice large room on the north side of the house. "I shouldn't think you'd get much sun here." "Well, the sun comes in at 4 or 5 o'clock, so it's sunny, isn't it?" "I didn't want it."

Monday is bargain day. You go to the store, the doors are all chained up, but the doors are open. At 8.30 the chains are all down, the crowd rushes in and goes various ways all over the store. This is 4th and Broadway.

They had one very nice grocery store on Broadway, Jevnie's. He was a Jew. They even sold strong drink and the W. C. T. U. would not patronize any magazine that had their ad in it, and, of course, would not trade there. They had the nicest bread in the city, I think, large loaves of wheat bread like good, home-made bread. This they sold only the first day. Then it was sold to some other grocer and you could get it for five cents a loaf. Everything about the store was first class. The 5, 10, and 15 cent stores were very nice and large.

Then they had excursions, one a balloon route. You can visit ten beaches and ride fifteen miles beside the Pacific ocean; eight cities and ride 70 miles; and see much that is new, olive orchards, pine-apples, growing there in Hollywood, fields of lima beans, squashes, and watermelons. It takes seven hours to cover the route.

There is the "kite shaped track." You go all the way by steam cars and visit Pasadena, Baldwin ranch, Riverside and Redlands, the orange growing section, all inland. You also cover a good deal of it when you go to Los Angeles from the east.

I suppose the cities have grown a great deal in late years, but there were plenty of sky-scrapers, so high you could hardly see the tops and see where you were going.

LIFE'S PARTNER EASILY WON

How Business of Courtship and Marriage is Practiced Among Uncivilized Peoples.

The Azandi, a tribe living in the northeast of the Belgian Congo, sell wives amazingly cheap. A knife, costing about 75 cents, will procure an intending bridegroom a "life's partner. Another "marriage market" thrives in the mountainous district of the Mafalces, in New Guinea. The price of each girl is one pig, augmented with dogs' teeth necklaces, and so on, according to the wealth of the girl's parents. The proposal is usually made by proxy, the boy sending a female relative to the lady of his choice.

The preliminaries to courtship among the Mafalces are rather picturesque. When a young man, wishing to marry, goes out to seek his "ojande" (literally, his flower), he will light a fire on a still day, in a bush or in an open space outside his village, and wait till a slight breeze carries the flame or smoke in one direction or another. He then takes that point of the compass as an indication and walks to the next village to find his "flower."

made a telling hit in the fourth, driving in two runs. The White Eagles filled the bases in the fifth and in the ninth, but Belchertown crawled out each time. The visitors put in a pinch hitter in the tenth, hoping to save the game, but his fly was caught by Ball and another double play went on the records.

Stejna struck out three men, whereas Fairchild retired ten. The former passed six on balls and the latter only two; hit by Fairchild, one.

A remarkable feature of this game which showed Fairchild's pitching and his support, was that for six straight innings only three men faced him in each half.

Dies in Chelsea

Charles E. Case, 83, died last Sunday at the Soldiers' home in Chelsea, where he went after breaking his hip last May. Mr. Case was the father of Mrs. Roswell Allen and spent his summers with her since the death of his wife ten years ago. He was born in Vermont and enlisted in the Civil War in the 16th Regiment Volunteers. He was a member of the E. K. Wilcox post of Springfield. The greater part of his life was spent in Springfield. He leaves besides his daughter, Mrs. Allen, four grandchildren, Harold K. Allen, a recent graduate of M. A. C., Harry C. Case, supt., of the Colts Firearms Co., Glenn E. Case of the United States Marines and Velma R. Case of Springfield. Funeral was in the Dickinson-Streeter chapel at Springfield on Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Defeats Pelham

Belchertown, using a team composed entirely of local players with the exception of second baseman Madelle, won from the Pelham town team last Saturday afternoon on the State street grounds by a score of 10 to 5. Rain coming in the last of the second half, threatened at one time to cause the game to be called, but after waiting half an hour, the players and spectators in the meantime going to cover in automobiles and other places of protection, play was resumed on a slow and muddy field.

Neither side was able to score in the first inning nor was Pelham able to put a run across in their half of the second. Davis, the first man coming to bat for Belchertown in the second inning, singled, stole second, and went to third on Sutherland's bunt. Atkins drew a base on balls, filling the bases. In a series of hit and run plays assisted by poor fielding by the Pelham pitcher, Belchertown scored six runs in the second inning. They scored again in the third and fourth inning and two runs in the eighth.

Pelham got their first run in the third inning on a hit by Prescott, followed by a sacrifice by P. Thornton and a fielder's choice by V. Thornton and Robinson. Fairchild eased up in the eighth and with the aid of errors Pelham was able to score three more runs. They also scored

"Where's My Husband?"

The young people of Belchertown are planning to give another play. Almost every summer a group of old High school actors, wishing to feel again the glamour and thrills of the stage, or smell once more the aroma of over-ripe vegetables, become altruistic and help a needy organization by producing a masterpiece in that organization's benefit. This summer, the American Legion, its treasury decimated by Memorial Day expenses, seems the logical thing to benefit.

The play chosen is, "Where's My Husband?", a three act farcical comedy that plays a full evening. It is real comedy, the sort that makes one forget how hard the seats in Community Hall become after the first hour. It will prove a source of value to any matrons of the village who wonder where their "protectors" spend their evenings. It has in it a bit of the military, a bit of 'Noo York society, and a big heap of laughs.

Due to the bi-weekly movies, it will be necessary to give this play on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, probably the 24th and 25th of this month. The cast follows: Arthur Sewall, a theatrical warrior, B. F. Jackson
Ira Wilton, his father-in-law, another, R. L. Blackmer
Harry Brentworth, Arthur's friend, O. C. Davis
Reginald Dudley, an Englishman, E. G. Sargent
Jim Buckner, known as "The Parson," E. M. Witt
Conrad Melzer, a plumber, W. E. Parker
Eliza Wilton, Ira's better half, Miss Irene Orlando
Grace Sewall, wife of Arthur, Miss Ruth Gildemeister
Laura Wilton, daughter of Ira, Miss Eleanor Bardwell Lena, a German maid, Miss Stella Gildemeister

Dies in Middletown, Conn.

Mrs. Sophia S. Potwin of Middletown, Ct., died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward B. Sellow Wednesday, after an illness of about a year. She suffered from Bright's disease and also from a slight shock.

She was born in Belchertown Nov. 9, 1842, the daughter of Geo. C. and Sophia Burnett Sanford. Her home was on the Henry Jepson place until her marriage to Edwin Potwin of Amherst. Most of her life was spent in Holyoke.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Sel- low, she leaves a grandson, Roland Sellow of New Britain, Ct., and a brother, E. B. Sanford of Plainfield. Relatives in town include a niece, Mrs. Elmer Peeso, a nephew, Clayton R. Green, and several cousins.

The funeral was held at Middletown, Ct., yesterday morning with burial at Forestdale cemetery, Holyoke, at 2.30 p. m.

The Community Picnic

The Community picnic, planned for and executed by the Sunday school of the Federated church was held at Aldrich lake on Wednesday. Several trucks and more than a dozen cars parked near the entrance was evidence that a good representation from the town had shifted their sphere of activity for a day. While people trickled in from the cities to some extent in the afternoon, it was for the most part a Belchertown gathering that took possession of the lake and its environs for the day.

The lemonade, true to promise, was on hand in sufficient quantity, while those who wished to imbibe something with color to it, had the opportunity of investing in soft drinks at the lake house where ice cream and all sorts of edibles were for sale. The boats were used quite generally at $5 per, while the younger generation in large numbers dipped continually in the inviting waters.

Not the least of the things that made the event worth while were the sports which started right after dinner. A ball game was the first on the list and many names appeared on the batting order that the local manager has not caught on to. Such entries as Mary Gildemeister,

He has lost the sense of true perspective who builds the same number of windows on the side of the house that faces the alley as on the side that faces the avenue, or has the windows of the same size. So also is the man who responds equally to all calls made upon him. Some things are primary, other things are secondary. He who goes into no greater ecstasies over Mendelssohn than over vaudeville, who is enraptured no more over a line from Tennyson than by a mere jingle, who responds no more readily to the cry of the starving children of Europe than to the cry of his own soul for luxury, has not begun to live. We can understand the impatience of the Duke in Browning's My Last Duchess, when he says about her

"She had A heart—how shall I say?—too soon made glad, Too easily impressed; She liked what'er She looked on, and her looks went everywhere. Sir, 'twas all one! My favour at her breast, The dropping of the daylight in the West, The bough of cherries some officious fool Broke in the orchard for her, the white mule She rode with round the terrace—all and each Would draw from her alike the approving speech Or blush at least."

It is not enough to have a wide circle of interests, there must be heights and depths. One must discriminate between what is trivial and what is important, between the lesser and the greater good. A great educator has said, "The good is the enemy of the best." He truly lives who has learned to respond to the highest and the noblest and give little or no response to the things which are of little moment.

Particular care was taken to have the playing field in better condition than it was a week ago last Wednesday when Belchertown played the fast Thorndike team in a twilight game and lost to them principally on account of errors occasioned by a rough infield. The rain, however, made the work for naught.

Los Angeles, California

Mrs. C. F. D. Hasen

Earthquakes? Yes, we had slight ones, it's true, and San Francisco had hers while we were there. Such a still, sunny day in Los Angeles! An agent who called selling briquets first told me. It did not seem possible but we felt it afterwards. Much business was at a standstill, railroad cars did not go, mail did not come from the east, refugees from San Francisco came for homes and were scattered over the city.

One lady I knew of, a lawyer's wife, was out wandering on the hills near San Francisco, had no idea where she was, and for a long time after, as soon as her eyes closed in sleep, she would start and scream. This was a long time after the quake.

We had John Chinamen. The Chinese had gardens below Los Angeles and were our vegetable men. They were all John's and were very clever. If you wanted to make a soup, they had a little bunch of everything you needed extra, all for five cents, two or three onions, some parsley, two carrots, etc. Children eat young carrots there like candy.

The birds there were very plenty in the reports of the bird club. They had a bungalow in the Aroyo; it was made of cobble stones and cement. I expect there are more birds in the Aroyo as there are trees there, but I never saw a robin, bluebird, or many we have. I have seen a large flock of blackbirds light on a freshly sprinkled lawn, and we had the mocking bird all in the open. He was a great singer, and you might hear, "Here, here! I am glad I am here," and much more. He did not seem afraid at all. There was one who came to the chimney of the next bungalow at my last home and he would sing so loud and clear! I used to go on the porch and have a chat with him every morning. Not a bit afraid of me, he, and east or west, give me the mocking bird.

I wonder why eastern people don't build more stone houses. They are quite common there. I will tell you of one that was built near us. The builder was Charles Lummis, had been a student in Amherst college and editor of Out West. He had a wooden bungalow. He had been in the Indian reservations and had two young Indian men. They gathered the large stones from around the Aroyo, rough hewed them and built a large stone castle around the small house. He added turrets on the top and it was quite an imposing building. The Times made quite a notice of it. Our hills, many of them, are well covered with stone, and men are out of work. If they own land, the stones are plenty and how nice a nice stone house would come in. (To be continued)

HOW UNTUTORED HALF OF HUMAN BRAIN CAUSES FOOLISH DREAMS.—Manifestly there is a part of your brain that goes on thinking while you are asleep. Were this not the case you would have no dreams. What part? Nobody knows with certainty, but there is good reason for believing that it is the untutored half of the brain—the right half. Each one of us has really two brains, right and left, just as we have a right leg and a left leg. The left brain does our thinking for us, while the right (if we are "right handed") is uneducated and does almost no thinking at all. So uneducated is it that we cannot without great difficulty use a pen or so simple an instrument as a pair of scissors with the left hand. For, it is the right brain that controls the muscles of the left half of the body, and vice versa. Having almost no work to do, the right brain needs no rest. It does not get tired, and so stays awake or at least partly so, while we sleep. Its thoughts are what we call dreams. Your dreams are foolish, because in sleep your thinking is being done by the foolish half of your brain. It is simple minded; at times it seems semi-idiotic. Of judgment it possesses none at all, nothing being too absurd or impossible to be accepted by it without criticism. For example, it often happens that in a dream you meet a near relative or other person who has been long dead. Are you surprised to see him or her walking about and talking? Not a bit. The foolish brain thinks in a dull and stupid way, with no exercise of the reasoning faculty. Those parts of it which have to do with vision and speech seem to be chiefly active, judging from the ever-varying motion pictures thrown upon the screen of the mind during sleep, and from the constant talking that accompanies them. The foolish brain may perhaps be compared to that of a monkey, though probably inferior. It forms concepts, but cannot put them together and draw from them the conclusions which are the basis of judgment.

Miscellaneous Shower

Showers were in vogue last Friday evening as all who wended their way to the Congregational chapel during the early hours of the evening can testify.

Amid a downpour of rain nearly fifty young people gathered at the chapel to give Miss Bernice Cook a surprise which took the form of a miscellaneous shower. Victrola music was furnished by Miss Marian Bardwell. As Miss Cook and Mr. Bridgman entered the room, the song "wedding bells" informed them of the meaning of the gathering. Belding Jackson gave an original and amusing talk on matrimony, and Charles Scott gave a reading.

The doors into the Priscilla room were thrown open and announcement made that a special delivery parcel post package had arrived for Miss Cook. Then all adjourned to the Priscilla room where numerous articles concealed in a big box were unwrapped and exhibited to an interested audience. Pyrex ware, a cook book, embroidered

Girls Win Easily

The preliminary game at the State street grounds last Saturday afternoon went to the boys, but the girls really won—that is, won the admiration and applause of the onlookers, which fact counts for considerable. It really was quite a mirth provoking affair, outdoing any movie show in existence. For this transpired on no "silent stage"; the air was full of "roots".

The girls were game from the start. The catcher buckled on the armor even though she confessed it might rub the powder off her nose. The battery was surely O. K. If the ball ever got into the pitcher's hands, there was no show of the batter's reaching first.

It started off like a league game. No one scored in the first, only one, a boy, in the second—but oh, the third. The boys ran around the bases by two's and three's in that inning; in spite of the yells to "give the girls a chance." At last after eleven runs had come in, one youngster got out, and with the cry, "three outs", from the bleachers and reiterated by the scorer, the boys reluctantly took the field and the girls came in with a wonder-why attitude.

Umpire William Riley did all in his power to favor the opposite sex and Guy Allen, 3rd, was lent to the campers after their own catcher had had enough, but it seemed impossible to even "throw" the game. Only half a game was played—but oh my!

Death of Michael F. Austin

Michael Francis Austin, 59, died at the House of Providence Hospital on Sunday after a brief illness. His death came as a shock to the community where he was highly respected by all who knew him. Mr. Austin was intensely interested in agriculture and had built up his large and well-equipped Valley farm. He was a faithful attendant of St. Bartholomew's church, Bondsville, also a member of the Holy Name society.

Mr. Austin was born in Belchertown September 15, 1862, the son of Michael Francis and Mary Ferriter Austin, and lived in town all his life with the exception of three years spent in Chicago. On February 18, 1889, he was married to Margaret M. Kennedy.

He leaves besides his widow, six sons, John S., a druggist in Boston, Dr. Francis, on his way home from Coblenz, Germany, William P., Paul T., Louis J. and Joseph F. in the home; also five daughters, Mary M., a teacher in the Holyoke high school, Lillian H., a teacher in the Marblehead high school, Alice M., a teacher in the public schools of Palmer, Helen A., a teacher in the Ludlow high school, and Catherine L., a nurse in the Mercy hospital, Springfield. He also leaves three brothers, John J. of Belchertown, James H. of Holyoke, and Patrick J. of Fall River; also three sisters, St. Mary Fidelis Superior, House of Providence, Holyoke, and Mrs. Thomas Grandfield and Mrs. Katherine Austin of Fall River.

The funeral took place from the home Tuesday morning at 8.30 with solemn high mass at St. Bartholomew's church, Bondsville. The officiating priests were celebrant Rev. Father James W. McGowan of Bondsville, deacon Rev. Father Cornelius Sullivan of Holy Family church, Springfield, sub deacon, Rev. Father John J. Griffin of the Holy Rosary church of Holyoke, Master of ceremonies, Rev. Father Murphy of Northampton. Other priests present within the sanctuary were Rev. Father Griffin of Ware and Rev. Father Patrick J. Griffin of Thorndike.

Arrives from France

The body of George Hannum, who was killed in battle at St. Mihiel, Sept. 13, 1918, arrived in town yesterday morning and is in charge of the American Legion, awaiting the military funeral in the Congregational church, Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, when by request of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hannum, parents of the deceased, the Chauncey D. Walker Post No. 239, will have charge of the ceremonies. All Legion and ex-service men and citizens of the town are requested by the Post to show their respect to this man, who gave his life for his country.

George W. Hannum was born in Belchertown and spent the first seventeen years of his life here, when he went with his parents to Indian Orchard. He enlisted June 4, 1917, and was a member of the 52nd Brigade, 26th Div., 104th regiment, Co. D. He was engaged in several battles and was shell shocked at the battle of Chateau Thierry. He was in the hospital from July 22, 1918 to Sept. 6, 1918. He died in action a week later, at the age of 26.

Wins Third in Series

Belchertown won the third game in the series of three games with Thorndike, last Wednesday afternoon. It was time to be hungry when the game was over, but as Thorndike crabs had been served up in about every inning, nearly everyone lost his appetite.

The visitors came up to win on the final show down and it was an exceedingly hard pill to swallow to take a defeat. They blamed the umpire for decisions on strikes and balls and would have shoved him off the field, had he not been an Irishman. They also blamed about everything in sight till the very thought of crabs grew distasteful.

The Belchertown battery, Rogers and Massee, outdid their opponents, which probably was the real cause of trouble, and this seemed the only way to remedy it. This was the battery that the locals were up against last Saturday, and Thorndike had sufficient reason to dread them.

Belchertown started off with a

It was only half a game, but the fun was dealt out in double quantities. Will Parker umpired and fared the fate of all those who have courage to take up that occupation. He was nearly mobbed during the game, and at its close, due to the inexpressible wrath of the "gentler" losers, was led to the lake to repent of his errors in the briny deep. His persecutors did not even wait to see whether he came to the surface or not.

But the other sports of the afternoon caused much interest and merriment. Children of all ages spooned up the potatoes and transported them to the waiting furrow with varying degrees of skill. The prize winners were rewarded with ice cream cones and the judges were most generous in their decisions. The three-legged race and preliminary contests with their well-matched couples and those who kicked the traces, followed the potato contests.

Then came the doughnut eating production. Imagine a line of varying ages, including some of the town's dignitaries, biting at the swinging doughnuts. Clergymen and Sunday School teachers vied with one another in going after the elusive edibles, and the mouth gestures that they used bore no resemblance to those used in their professional appearances.

The running jump attracted the young men, the swimming contests attracted both sexes, as did the rope pull with Theodore Hazen and William Parker, captains. Across the

Birthday Reception

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. Lou Bridgman was pleasantly surprised at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Carl F. Aspengren, by about forty-five of her friends who called on her between the hours of three and five o'clock to congratulate her on her 80th birthday, remembering her with flowers, candy, etc. The birthday cake was decorated with the inscription, 1841-1921.

Four generations were present on this auspicious occasion, including Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bridgman, Mrs. Carey Thayer and son Donald, all of Worcester. Other out-of-town guests were present.

Mrs. Bridgman was also remembered with a shower of post cards.

bang, securing three runs in the first inning. Ball was passed, Hartnett sacrificed but reached first on an error, Grayson hit to left for two bases, Ball was out at the plate, Hartnett and Grayson both scored on errors, Davis got to second, stole third, and turned in the third run by stealing home, Smith was out on a hit and Rogers fanned.

Thorndike got two out of their three runs in the second inning. Paquette got to second on errors, Kieth fanned, Chabot bunted third strike, Cavanaugh reached first on a wild throw shoving Paquette to second. Rogers's hit to left brought in Paquette and Cavanaugh. Foster struck out.

The visitors were never dangerous. In the 9th it looked as if they would start something after two men were out. Chabot made a hit to left, Cavanaugh reached first on an error carrying Chabot to third, and Rogers was passed. This filled the bases. Chabot scored when Massee let a ball go by, but Foster struck out and the visitors vanished with the score 9 to 3 against them.

Belchertown was able to hit safely, which was the main secret of their winning the game.

ties have been invited to attend.

Loses to Three Rivers

The Three Rivers aggregation that trotted onto the diamond at the State street grounds last Saturday afternoon was a fast aggregation of ball players, and the locals were unable to solve the problem, even though the team had been strengthened for the occasion.

Fairechild pitched a good game, having more strike-outs to his credit than his opponent, Rogers, but the latter pitched a tighter game, throwing fewer balls and allowing less hits.

All through the game the big chances were when the visitors were at bat.

As usual, the opponents started off by scoring the first runs, turning three into their column in the first inning. Les got his base on balls, Magrone sacrificed but got to first on an error, Massee and Paquette both made hits, scoring the first three men. L. Rogers got out on a hit and the next two men up struck out. For Belchertown, Ball fanned, Fairechild was out on a hit and Grayson's fly was caught in center field.

No one scored in the second. Fairechild still held the strike-out honors, getting two men against Rogers's one. In the third, Story reached second as a result of a base on balls and a sacrifice by Madelle, but got no further as Ball was retired at first.

Each team scored in the fourth, Davis crossing the pan for the locals. For the opponents, G. Rogers made a two-base hit, was advanced by Fredette and scored on a wild throw by Story.

The next runs came in the sixth, Three Rivers getting two and the locals one. In the seventh Belchertown added one to its score after two men were out. In the eighth the visitors scored, making the figures read 6 to 3. There was still a ray of hope that something would happen, for it had happened on previous occasions, but this time it happened the wrong way, for in the first of the ninth, Three Rivers scored five runs and the game was lost, even though Smith made the circuit in the last half. This was accomplished by two stolen bases. Hartnett fanned, Sutherland was retired at first, Holland struck out and the game was over.

Holland substituted for Story beginning with the fifth.

In Air Service

Henry M. Walker, a former Belchertown boy, has since his graduation from Washington state college, been employed as an observer in the U. S. Forest service on the aeroplane patrol of the National forest. The work consists of flying over the National forest, spotting and reporting all fires by radio. It is one of the wildest and most rugged pieces of mountainous country in the northwest. He enjoys the work very much and says the aeroplane is the coming mode of travel. His address is

Historical Association Notes

The Belchertown Historical Association wants very much as complete a collection as possible of the books, sermons, pamphlets, music, text books, etc., written by Belchertown people. Our present collection begins with Capt. Nathaniel Dwight's Journal of the Crown Point expedition in 1757 and ends with Charles Nichols's poem on Belchertown, but there is a great deal missing between. We have not even Dr. Holland's works or, I think, any of Towne's school books.

We plan to give these a place of their own in our new quarters and want it as impressive as possible.

Service at Lake Arcadia

A great get-together meeting is planned for next Sunday night at the grove at Lake Arcadia. Amherst will be represented by three societies, two Christian Endeavor and an Epworth League. The young people from Granby will also lend their presence.

This gathering of six societies in this section will be no small or uninteresting affair. On the other hand it will be the biggest, best and finest meeting of the kind ever held at the lake. Plans have been in progress for the past three weeks. A large singing band or choir will leave the chapel about four, Sunday afternoon and hike part of the distance to the lake, singing as they go and stopping to cheer up some of the unfortunate shut-ins on the way.

This will be an unusual assembly. There will be a large choir of about twenty-five soloists, and a quartet.

Funeral of Geo. W. Hannum

As the rain drops began to fall last Sunday afternoon, the body of George W. Hannum, who gave his life on the fields of France in the service of his country, was laid at rest in Mt. Hope cemetery. He who fell in the din of battle was buried with Heaven's benediction, while sympathetic friends, relatives and comrades witnessed the scene.

The funeral of this, the first of Belchertown's war heroes to be returned from overseas, brought freshly to mind the stirring times through which the world so recently passed and which it is so soon inclined to forget.

Shortly after two o'clock members of the YD division of Holyoke, and the Chauncey D. Walker post, who had shown military courtesy in guarding the body night and day since its arrival in town last Thursday morning, marched into the auditorium of the Congregational church where a large company of citizens had gathered to pay due honor to him who fell. Miss M. Louise Allen presided at the organ.

After prayer by acting chaplain, F. Dudley Walker, a solo by Carl F. Aspengren, and a eulogy by commander Raymond L. Blackmer of the Chauncey D. Walker Post, Rev. H. P. Rankin reviewed the life story of the departed and the circumstances that brought about the great struggle in which our nation finally engaged.

He spoke of the efforts of King George to delay the proclamation of war for 48 hours, our resentment at the invasion of Belgium, our disgust with the nation who said that her treaties were only "scraps of paper", and the storm of indignation at the sinking of the Lusitania. "It is a slander," he said, "on the chivalry, bravery and heroism of this nation to say that she went into the war from selfish motives." To make childhood, womanhood, boyhood, girlhood and old age safer in the years that are to come, he went on to say, were some of the reasons for our entering the conflict. We also went in to keep aloft the flag of the free.

Defeats Bondsville

Chop Wednesday night's ball game off at both ends and there would be nothing to it. But leave the ends on and the score would read 8 to 0 in favor of Belchertown. Cut off the last five-sixths of an inning as was necessary to make the game even seven innings, and the score was 4 to 0. Gathering darkness made even the visitors ask the ump to call the game. Two men were out, but the odds were going against them and another inning couldn't have been played anyway.

The game was late in starting, due principally to the non-arrival of the Bondsville-ites. Their lack of warming up showed in the first inning as Belchertown scored four runs before Costello, the visiting pitcher, clamped the lid on. Both Rogers and Costello pitched fine ball and the support was of a high quality. Fairchild's catching of several fly balls in right field was an outstanding feature of the game.

In most of the innings on an average only about four men were up, which shows that things moved fast. The first inning was an exception, when eight locals came up. Ball was passed, made second on Fairchild's hit, but was caught between the next two wounds. Grayson made first on a fielder's choice, advanced Fairchild, Davis was hit, filling the bases. Rogers's hit then brought in Fairchild and Grayson, and Davis came in on a passed ball by the catcher. Rogers scored on Smith's hit. But Masseé was retired on a fly ball and Paquette failed to make first.

Bondsville failed to make the circuit at any time during the game and only rarely was a man ever seen on third. Rogers struck out nine men and Costello, six. Belchertown came near adding a run to its score in the fourth. Holland was called out at the plate on a close decision. Ball had hit to left field and Smith shot it to Tooper in quick fashion. Grayson was out at third in the fifth by another quickly fielded ball.

It was a good game from start to finish, but lacking of course the closeness that causes thrills. The game was never in doubt, but as Belchertown was in the lead, the

Is the World Getting Better?

There are multitudes who are continually dwelling upon the unhappy condition of the world at the present time. They point to certain tumults in society. They proclaim with fervor that the world is getting worse and worse, that the forces of evil are too strong to be combated successfully, that the forces of righteousness are impotent to right wrongs, that the church stands helpless in the face of gigantic problems and that the last days are really upon us.

Our eyes are not closed to the evils of the day. America is surely disgraced in the eyes of the world for the number of her strikes and the record of her lynchings. Society is in a chaotic condition. The moral skies are sember. Our land is in misery, Europe is in greater misery. Poverty and hatred and persecution are in the world.

And yet there was never a time when the word "service" was so glorious. It is upon the lips of every one. You hear it not simply in the pulpit, but you hear it everywhere, on the platform, in the daily press, at home, in the school, in business, and in politics. Service has become a very beautiful word. We are told a man is not in good standing who is working merely for private profit, but that he is honored only when he lives and works for others. The motto given to the minister and school teacher, to the doctor and lawyer, to the merchant and employee, is "Serve." He who would lead the community or the state or the nation must serve. In every avenue of life today service is commended. The war has led us to see that any nation that would be great must serve. The world has but recently felt this. Until within a short time the policy of each nation was to grab as much as it could for itself. But that policy is not in good standing today. It is not in good standing anywhere.

tette will render selections. We have organized what you might call an orchestra. The Epworth Leaguers of Amherst have a cornetist who will take part in the musical program at Laurel Park during the camp meeting the last of this month. She will be with us, also a violinist from the same society. We have another violinist and a young lady who will play a guitar.

This is a real, energetic, peptimistic, lively affair we are planning for. Are you in on it? Come on, Belchertown. Let's show the other towns that we can go 100% strong on this get-together! Let's keep up our reputation and when there is something doing, be there with lots of vim and push!

If you have a car, be at the chapel at a quarter of six. If you have a car, come just the same. There are several trucks or busses engaged and a great many touring cars promised. We can accommodate everyone and want your presence. All transportation will be gratis. The older as well as younger people are invited. The service will be over in due time so that those who wish to attend the regular evening service at 8 o'clock may do so without any difficulty. If you belong to either of the societies, come; if you do not belong, come. Plenty of room, enthusiastic singing and a good, live crowd, we assure you.

Here is something fresh from Sycamore Park, Los Angeles. The 14th of May 800 Vermonters had a sugar-off there, also Massachusetts and Maine had picnics that same day.

I knew that park better than any other as it was near my home. It was not so big but that I could take it all in at one visit. Years ago it had been a Spanish resort. It had a fence round it and two houses. The city didn't like it much. The former owners were removed, and it was used for camp meetings, etc. Then the city didn't know what to do. Finally it bought it, leveled the ground, took away the fence, put in a well curb of cobble-stone, also an oven of stone, etc., planted flowers, rose geraniums, beside the street and fan palms. The geraniums were on the ground and full of bloom.

proud of, it's the old Spanish missions and poppy fields; that's where they go. San Gabriel was not very far from Pasadena and when we visited our nephew he would take us to ride. Several times we went to San Gabriel and saw the old church, noticed the stone steps on the end to the second story, all worn hollow with the feet of the priests, saw the pictures and anything else we ought to.

But once we went a different way and came in the back side, and I exclaimed, "Oh, what is that?" "Why, that is the prickly pear hedge that the priests raised to protect themselves from the Indians and wild beasts." It was as much as 50 feet long and maybe 10 feet high, all grown together. The leaves were as large as breakfast plates, certainly a strange sight to me. I had rather see it than half a dozen of the old missions. The Plaza church in Los Angeles is one, but I always liked to see anything new in nature.

A Big Success

No one who attended the service at Lake Arodisia last Sunday afternoon would dispute the fact that the meeting was a big success. Six societies from surrounding towns were represented. It is not known definitely how many were present. One person stated there were two hundred. This is probably no exaggeration.

There were sixteen young people who hiked part way, singing as they went, stopping at the homes of shut-ins and others to cheer them. A violinist and a young lady who plays the ukulele accompanied them and took part in the service at the lake. The singing band with other singers from visiting societies formed a lively choir. Watch for an announcement of the next meeting. Amherst is going to have charge of it and we will be the visitors. We are the Epworth Leaguers and Christian Endeavorers of Belchertown. We do things worth while. Come to our meetings. Come to our socials. Yes, be a member and be in a big ever moving organization of young people who cover every country in the world. H

Loses to Palmer

It was a battle royal — the game between Belchertown and Palmer last Tuesday night. From the minute Rogers pitched the first ball till Flaherty, the umpire, called the game on account of darkness, it was nip and tuck for supremacy. First one side was ahead and then the other, but the visitors managed to hold the highest number at the psychological moment, so the game was theirs.

The locals had to be on their toes every minute of the game as they were up against no junior organization. Rogers pitched a fine game but errors were made when they were costly.

Palmer started off with three runs but Belchertown redeemed two of them in its half. Both scorers were started with bases on balls. It was in the second that the locals hit the ball for fair. M. Paquette started off with a three bagger, and after two were out, Ball and Hartnett both hit for two bases. At the close of the inning Belchertown was one to the good and remained so till the

Great Carnival Next Thursday

The enactment of the Sweet Bill, one of the most practical pieces of post-war legislation, and the beginning of the "World's Biggest Mopping-Up Job," that of cleaning up every last veteran's claim against the federal government, are but typical examples of the products of the altruistic, vast influence of the American Legion. And Chauncey D. Walker Post, like the thousands of other like components of the great national organization has the same inspiration; as in the months when many of its personnel faced the sinister experiences of European battlefields, they still hold first the safety and happiness of this community. It has grieved the post that several attempts recently made to provide entertainment for the citizens have been necessarily abandoned.

Accordingly, at the special meeting of the post on last Monday evening, it was voted that the great carnival, postponed Independence day, should be given next week; and a committee, William E. Parker, Herbert I. Story and Stanley Blackmer, was chosen to arrange for the undertaking. This committee organized at once, secured the use of the town hall, and travelled for miles in search of the best possible equipment and the highest type of amusement.

Wood-Denny Wedding

Miss Mabel Helen Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wood, and Walter Ernest Denny of Meadow road, Northampton, were married Monday afternoon at four o'clock at the Methodist church in that city by Rev. A. R. Dilts, pastor of the Amherst Baptist church and former pastor of the Northampton Baptist church. The church was effectively decorated with hydrangeas and goldenrod. Many friends of the young people were present. The maid of honor was Miss Helen A. Denny, sister of the groom, and the best man was Milton J. Wood, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a gown of white taffeta, with veil, caught with

Cook-Bridgman Wedding

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Cook Wednesday afternoon when their daughter, Bernice Arvilla, was united in marriage to William Eustace Bridgman, youngest son of Mrs. Sarah Bridgman.

To the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" played by Miss Marion Bridgman, sister of the groom, the wedding party entered the living room and took their places beneath an arch of green and gold. Rev. H. P. Rankin performed the ceremony, using the full Episcopal double-ring service. Rev. J. H. Chandler of Northampton offered prayer.

The bride and groom were accompanied by Miss Eleanor Bardwell, maid of honor, and Belding Jackson, best man. The bride was given away by her father. Barbara Baggs was ring bearer. The ribbon girls were the Misses Ruth and Esther Jackson, Gladys Gay and Isabelle Bardwell. Edward G. Sargent and William Parker were ushers.

The bride was gowned in white georgette with veil caught with white sweet peas and she carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and sweet peas. The maid of honor wore yellow satin and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The bride's going away gown was brown silk with hat and coat to match.

The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace, to the best man a gold watch fob, and to the ushers gold cuff links. The bride gave a bar pin to the maid of honor, to the ribbon bearers boudoir caps, and to the ring bearer, a signet ring.

The home was very effectively decorated by Mrs. D. P. Spencer and Miss Eleanor Bardwell who used wild flowers, mosses and vines, supplemented with cosmos, dahlias, phlox and sweet peas. The room where the ceremony took place was decorated in yellow and white, the color scheme of the other rooms being pink and white.

Guests were present from Leominster, Springfield, South Vernon, Amherst, Haverhill, Chicopee and Northampton.

The gifts included much cut glass

Reunions

August is the month for family reunions and old home days. Colleges have their reunions in June, families theirs in August.

We love our alma mater largely for the friendships formed, friendships with the teachers, friendships with our fellow students.

We love the old town and the old church for the men and women in it. We have forgotten most of the ideas our teachers imparted to us, we have forgotten most of the sermons our ministers preached to us.

The chief reason which keeps families holding their reunions year after year in the midst of a very busy world with so many demands upon our time and strength is the hunger of man for love.

Reunions will never die because love abideth. So long as man is hungry for fellowship, so long will he continue to lay aside from time to time his usual routine in order to satisfy that eternal craving of his human spirit.

Defeats Elmwood A. C.

The Belchertown athletic association baseball team ran away with the Elmwood team last Saturday and when they were through with them, the visitors found themselves 16 miles from nowhere.

The closest parallel so far this season was the game between the Junior boys and the camp girls. In both cases it was a problem of giving "the other side a chance."

Rogers was indeed a puzzle to the visitors. Not only did they not hit him but they came nowhere near hitting the ball when they struck at it.

In the fatal fourth things started, however. Seven men came up to bat and four runs came in. The fifth was even worse than the preceding inning. In that, eleven men came up and seven scored.

Even then the music of incoming runs failed to cease entirely for Belchertown. At the end of the eighth, however, the score stood at the final figures, 16 to 0.

A feature of the game was that only 28 Elmwood men came up to bat in the nine innings, 27 being the minimum possible. In the third Stacks hit to center, was sacrificed by Snider, and reached third on Shea's hit.

The local twirlers struck out fourteen men and the visitors three.

months for the carnival.

And without stint; there will be every conceivable contrivance for delighting the spirit and amusing the mind. For example: hundreds of dollars' worth of prizes have been contracted for—one hundred pounds of chocolates, dozens of dozens of those blankets which our people covet at the fairs (By the way, this carnival will surpass the annual Belchertown cattle show, according to the ex-service men) and dolls galore!

The committee has already sold a large number of concessions both to local and outside interests. The best of music will be provided for the duration of the carnival, and, if possible, space for dancing will be reserved. All sorts of refreshments (as far as the constitution permits) will be on sale. The admission fee will be but nominal; the spirit of the legion is that of giving, not of taking.

This monster carnival will be staged in the Belchertown town hall next Thursday, September 1, afternoon and evening. Chauncey D. Walker post stands behind the affair—it will be a great success. And the post urgently requests the co-operation of every citizen, that the carnival may exceed anticipation.

Reunions

August is the month for family reunions and old home days. Colleges have their reunions in June, families theirs in August.

We love our alma mater largely for the friendships formed, friendships with the teachers, friendships with our fellow students.

We love the old town and the old church for the men and women in it. We have forgotten most of the ideas our teachers imparted to us, we have forgotten most of the sermons our ministers preached to us.

The chief reason which keeps families holding their reunions year after year in the midst of a very busy world with so many demands upon our time and strength is the hunger of man for love.

Reunions will never die because love abideth. So long as man is hungry for fellowship, so long will he continue to lay aside from time to time his usual routine in order to satisfy that eternal craving of his human spirit.

Defeats Elmwood A. C.

The Belchertown athletic association baseball team ran away with the Elmwood team last Saturday and when they were through with them, the visitors found themselves 16 miles from nowhere.

The closest parallel so far this season was the game between the Junior boys and the camp girls. In both cases it was a problem of giving "the other side a chance."

Rogers was indeed a puzzle to the visitors. Not only did they not hit him but they came nowhere near hitting the ball when they struck at it.

In the fatal fourth things started, however. Seven men came up to bat and four runs came in. The fifth was even worse than the preceding inning. In that, eleven men came up and seven scored.

Even then the music of incoming runs failed to cease entirely for Belchertown. At the end of the eighth, however, the score stood at the final figures, 16 to 0.

A feature of the game was that only 28 Elmwood men came up to bat in the nine innings, 27 being the minimum possible. In the third Stacks hit to center, was sacrificed by Snider, and reached third on Sheehan's hit.

The local twirlers struck out fourteen men and the visitors three.

ments for the carnival.

And without stint; there will be every conceivable contrivance for delighting the spirit and amusing the mind. For example: hundreds of dollars' worth of prizes have been contracted for—one hundred pounds of chocolates, dozens of dozens of those blankets which our people covet at the fairs (By the way, this carnival will surpass the annual Belchertown cattle show, according to the ex-service men) and dolls galore!

The committee has already sold a large number of concessions both to local and outside interests. The best of music will be provided for the duration of the carnival, and, if possible, space for dancing will be reserved. All sorts of refreshments (as far as the constitution permits) will be on sale. The admission fee will be but nominal; the spirit of the legion is that of giving, not of taking.

This monster carnival will be staged in the Belchertown town hall next Thursday, September 1, afternoon and evening. Chauncey D. Walker post stands behind the affair—it will be a great success. And the post urgently requests the co-operation of every citizen, that the carnival may exceed anticipation.

In the seventh LaFortune got to first on an error, went to second, was advanced to third on Gaudette's hit and scored on Ronrke's hit to left. This was the determining run of the game.

The infield had been put in fine condition for the game and new seats also installed for the benefit of the spectators.

Defeats Bondsville

Belchertown went to Bondsville last Thursday night and easily defeated the latter in a six inning game. Belchertown scored three runs in the first inning before Thompson settled down to real work. In this inning Ball and Rogers were given bases on balls, Grayson was thrown out at first, Davis walked and all scored on Paquette's double. With a three run lead Belchertown took things easy until the sixth inning. Bondsville in their half of the fifth scored three runs tying the score. This was accomplished by Hartnett hitting Sullivan, first man up, Donahue getting first on an error and both were scored on Thompson's single. Thompson went to second on the play to the plate and scored on Smith's double. In the sixth with the score tied Belchertown started in with a vengeance to regain the lead and with two men out succeeded in putting across five runs, Grayson getting in a home run with two men on. Darkness aiding Bondsville, they were able through errors to score three runs in their half of the sixth.

Corn and Dog Roast

The number of people at the corn and dog roast last Wednesday night at E. R. Gay's could not be definitely determined. Several estimated and agreed that there were probably one hundred fifty people there. A long trench had been dug and a fire started in it before most of those who attended had arrived. The fun began when everyone took a frankfort, placed it on the end of a pointed stick and roasted it in the fire. Rolls were furnished. The next course was toasted marshmallows. Although there was a large supply of the marshmallows, it did not take long to exhaust the supply. The last course was roast corn. Some buried their corn with the husks on in the coals and others lined up along the fiery trench if they could find room and roasted the corn on the end of their sticks. Some of the young men gave a few yells during the roast.

The young people and older ones also joined in the games among which were tucker, drop the handkerchief and three deep. There were so many there that they had to be divided into groups in order to play to advantage. Everyone had a Boxo of a time, as someone termed it. The young people thank Mr. and Mrs. Gay, Gladys Gay and all others who helped make this great affair possible and such a grand success in every detail.

The Young People's Societies are looking for more young men and women in their meetings, in their socials and in their work. Why not come to our Sunday night meeting and see what we do, if you do not already make it a practice to come? Things happen when the C. E.'s and E. L.'s start something. Why not be in on this and have a part in our activities. We invite anyone and everyone, more particularly young people, who have the red blood and push, to make things go!

Wins from Holyoke

Belchertown added a game to its list of victories on Wednesday evening by a decisive win over the Holyoke Independents. Two runs were all the visitors could muster, whereas the locals came home to the tune of nine runs.

It was a fast game throughout with Belchertown going their opponents one better at all stages. Keating of Ware stood on the mound for Holyoke, while Rogers and Massee were the battery for Belchertown. Rogers easily outclassed his opponent. Only three Holyoke men came to bat in each of the first three innings and of the nine men Rogers fanned six. In the fourth he fanned three out of five up. In the last of the 6th the visitors shook up their lineup and put Kennedy in the box. The game was won however, but to have a little fun the locals crossed the platter twice just to prove that they could stand the new medicine.

In the first, Ball got out on a fly ball to center, Rogers got to first on an error, Holland sacrificed, Rogers scored on a fumble, Davis made a two base hit, Paquette made first on a muffed fly which scored Davis, and Dowd failed to make first.

Four runs were turned in in the third inning by Belchertown. After two men were out, Davis was passed, was forced on a base on balls given to Paquette, Dowd got to first on a fumble which scored Davis and advanced Paquette. Hartnett also was passed to first which filled the bases. It was then that Massee's two-base hit came in handy as Paquette and Dowd both scored. Massee was later caught between second and third which ended the inning.

In the first of the 4th Rogers passed Shea on balls, Desmond fanned, Keating made a two-base hit scoring Shea. Davis' wild throw to first gave A. Shea two bases and scored Keating. Maloney and Stieh both fanned.

The last of the fourth was interesting. Ball was out on a caught fly, Rogers was given his base on balls, attempted to steal second, ran the gauntlet and got back to first, but then caught the visitors napping and stole second before another play. The Holyoke's tried hard to catch their man and attempted to clip off a rule or two and get him out. It didn't work on the umpire however, and Rogers was awarded third. He came in on Grayson's drive. A Word to the Students

A great army of eager boys and girls will be marching next Tuesday morning to the schools of our country. For the most part it will be a happy band. Thousands have been looking forward for the day to arrive. It will be a red letter day for a vast multitude to whom it will be the first day at school.

We wish to say this word to these school boys and school girls. Think of your teacher as your friend and helper. Too many children think of the policeman as a man to fear whereas they should think of him as protector and friend. Just as your father and mother have your best interests at heart and would do nothing to prevent you from becoming the very best possible, so your teacher in the school room is your best friend. Your teacher is anxious for you to succeed and do finely. He is willing to work overtime to help you. He is glad to bear patiently with your dullness of mind and slowness of intellect. Your teacher rejoices in everything that you do well. Your teacher is pained when you do not do your best.

Go to your teacher with any problem. Do not be afraid to ask questions. Do not give up till any matter is made plain. Your teacher is there to help you, but of course cannot help you the most unless you give him a chance.

If the teacher seems at times to find fault and to reprove rather than to approve and praise, bear in mind that possibly reproof may be what you most need. A good teacher will point out the dangers and the errors and cannot commend when poor or inferior work is done.

Think of your school teacher, boys and girls, as your friend. Most of you do now as is indicated by the little presents you bring teacher from time to time. Your school days will mean much to you if you always think of your teacher as your personal friend and helper.

The Belchertown fair will be held on Columbus day, Oct. 12. The Belchertown Farmers' and Mechanics' Club plans this year to get as many ideas as possible from the townspeople and so has called a meeting for next Monday evening

Eastman-Sargent Wedding

Miss Lura Marion Eastman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Eastman of Pittsfield, N. H., and Mr. Edward George Sargent, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Sargent of this town, were united in marriage at the home of the bride last Saturday. Mid floral decorations of white and green with touches of yellow, the couple was married by Rev. Mr. Gatchell of Pittsfield. The maid of honor was Miss Francena Toule of Pittsfield, and the best man, Mr. William Parker of this town.

The bride's gown was of white crepe-de-chine, trimmed with lace, and her travelling gown of brown broadcloth braided with black and trimmed with Hudson seal.

The guests were presented with wedding cake, and refreshments were served on the lawn at the close of the ceremony. The gifts included silver, cut glass, linen and pyrex ware.

Mrs. Sargent has been district nurse here for several months and by her regular work and special nursing classes has won a place for herself in the community. Mr. Sargent is assistant postmaster and also conducts an electrical business.

After their wedding trip, the couple will reside in town in their newly acquired property near No. Main St.

The High School Opens Under Difficulties

Public attention was attracted last year to the subject of a new school building. Apparently the subject was dropped as one of the non-essentials. To those who are trying to bring order out of chaos in the high school, however, it is a vital matter.

The second day of school found eighty pupils enrolled. There are 33 Freshmen, 26 Sophomores, 11 Juniors, and 10 Seniors. From these figures it is evident that the school is growing. Since the building is crowded this year, it takes a strong optimist to dare to look-ahead to next year with only ten to be graduated and another influx of Freshmen probable. If a barberry hedge outgrows its bounds, we clip it here and there to make it conform to the desired space. Must this method be tried on the high school?

At present we have three rooms at our disposal, seating 15, 22, and 48 respectively. There are seven classes which are too large for any but the main room. All but six are too large for the smallest room. In any case it is almost impossible to arrange a schedule which permits every student to take the subjects he needs without conflicts. When, added to that difficulty, there is the necessity for arranging a schedule in which a big class, a middle-sized class, and a small class always meet at the same time, the riddle has no answer. It reminds one of the story of the three bears. I always wondered what happened when the small bear grew up. Presumably Father Bear bought a new bed and a new chair and a new porridge-bowl to fit the growing bear.

Perhaps it is not quite clear why the schedule is more of a puzzle now than formerly. In the first place, more pupils are preparing for college or technical schools and more subjects must be offered to fill their requirements. It seems rather a shame to discourage them just because the schedule has no room for entrance requirements. Then, too, until last year it was possible to combine first- and second-year classes and alternate the courses, for example, teaching Civics one year and

The American Legion Carnival was presented "as advertised" on the Belchertown Common a week ago yesterday, afternoon and evening. Everyone who attended the big party enjoyed himself—there is any better criterion of success in such affairs? Financially, however, it was almost a failure, receipts approximating but five hundred dollars.

The Common had been recently clipped, and the grove was electrically illuminated thru pretty Japanese lanterns. Nine busy booths, brightly decorated with the national colors, flanked the broad midway. At the north end was the membership recruiting tent, which (and it is to be regretted) was less well patronized than the other stands. But at the other end was the big motor truck upon which Chauncey D. Walker Post provided liberal entertainment for its throng of guest-friends.

Things did not really "get going" till along about eight o'clock, when

Defeats Indians

The Belchertown Athletic Assn. base ball team scalped the Winchester Indians of Springfield on the State street grounds last Monday afternoon. A large Labor Day crowd was on hand to see the visitors go down to defeat. There seemed no other way as the locals out-classed them at most every point. It took Hartnett the first inning to plug up the holes in his pitching machine, but by the second he had it running in fine shape and for four innings only three or four Indians showed up in each turn round.

It was about the opposite with Belchertown. Nothing was doing in the first inning, but thereafter hits were turned in quite freely. The bases were filled in the second inning but Masse's fly was caught, which made the third out. The fourth proved the productive inning for the locals. Four runs came across the plate which made them two runs ahead, the Indians having scored twice in the first time up.

Paquette was the first man to find the home station. He got to first

Work is a great blessing and so is rest. Sleep is quite as much a gift as work. Sleep comes as a benediction at the end of a day's labor and as a preparation of our bodies and minds and souls for a new day.

Vacation is to the year what the eight hours of sleep are to the day. For a certain period of time every man should be relieved of bearing any part of the burdens of society. As in sleep a man is dead to the world about him, so in vacation. No one should complain even if he refuses to read the daily paper, or if he departs from the world to seclusion and cannot be found, or if he refuses to put his hand to solve the problems in society.

Now September is here. Eight days are already gone. Our sleep time is over. Now it is high time to awake. We ought to awake quickly. Some do not get awake till October, others there are who are still slumbering in November; and with others some startling event is necessary to awaken them from their lethargy.

Are we fully awake? Children when half awake say strange things. So do full grown men if they are drowsy. There are many who are not fast asleep, but they are only half awake. Their eyes are only partially opened.

Are we awake to the times? If we are awake, we are bound to be attacked. Are we awake to the evils of the day? Do we hear the cry of the oppressed? How readily do we respond to the calls of the world for help? September is the time to be fully awake.

English History the next. One hardly thinks, however, of combining classes which number 83 and 26. Every teacher is now giving six courses and there are demands for three additional courses which, of course, cannot be given.

In order to give adequate attention to the needs of 80 students another teacher is necessary. But another teacher would be utterly useless without a room to teach in, and there is no room.

We may well be proud of the spirit of orderliness and eagerness to help which the pupils have shown through these two hot, crowded days. It is on them that the handicap falls most heavily in the long run. Efficient teaching is impossible under present conditions. What is going to be done about it? Was the new school-house only a castle in the air?

Grange Notes

Union Grange No. 64, at its meeting on Tuesday evening, discussed the Past, Present and Future of the order. While the attendance was not as large as we had hoped for, a very pleasant evening was enjoyed and incidents of interest in the early years of the grange were given by the older members. As to the present we feel quite satisfied and are planning some interesting features for the near future.

The young people are planning a Halloween party for Oct. 31 and hope to make it an event of interest to all.

Applications for membership for the class in October must be handed to the secretary before the next meeting, Sept. 20.

The chairman of the committee on the Pomona dinner wishes to thank all who made it a success.

by being hit, was advanced by Smith and Dowd, who both found themselves safe on the circuit. Hartnett's two-base hit then scored Paquette and Smith, and Masee's hit brought in Dowd. Bailey then struck out Ball and Rogers and the gap was closed.

Smith scored in the sixth as a result of hits and errors and Paquette and Grayson scored in the seventh, clean hits by Grayson and Smith turning in the runs. In the eighth Belchertown tacked on four to their score. The visitors scored one run in the seventh and two in the eighth.

Features of the game were pitching of Hartnett, the fine catch by Rogers of Chapin's fly in the fifth and the "lost ball", found in time to catch Noonan at second in the fourth. Another feature, of course, was the crabbing of the visitors in an endeavor to get umpire Flaherty's scalp, but he insisted that he was master of ceremonies and that they must be good. The Indians shook up their lineup twice but little resulted therefrom. Bailey, their pitcher, saw the game through to the finish.

United Young Peoples' Society Notes

A large number of the young people and some older ones spent Labor Day at Laurel Park. There were 34 from Belchertown by actual count. They started Monday morning in due season to be there for the sports and entertainment program. Several of the young men and women from the home societies entered some of the races and stunts.

A picture was taken of the group of young people present from the western part Massachusetts and a few of the athletic Belchertown young men formed the top row of the picture, their position being on top of a very high gate. Entries for the tennis tournament were not made early enough so that the fellows from town could compete with others. There was not a moment in which one could be idle. Something doing all the time. After dinner people began to gather in the auditorium in order to secure good seats to hear the afternoon speaker. The best part of the program came then. It was a unique opportunity to be present at this meeting at which the well known Bishop Hughes spoke. It has been said he is one of the ablest speakers of the east.

After this wonderful Labor Day address the program was concluded, and all were at liberty to linger among the beautiful pine trees on the camp ground and play tennis, explore the surroundings or return to their homes. A number of people from Belchertown have been to the camp meetings all through and have cottages there. All had a very enjoyable and profitable day. Ask someone who went if you question it. When the young People's Societies suggest something to do or attend don't hesitate to get in on it because it will be to your advantage and benefit to do so. H

There was a good audience to hear the colored singers from Straight college, New Orleans, La., sing at the mid-week service in the Congregational church last Thursday evening. The singers were most generous in their offerings and the audience very appreciative. Mr. Luther, a teacher in the college, spoke of the work of the institution and its needs. The collection which followed and the amount received out doors at the carnival amounted to $51.12. The party has been touring the North all summer, trying to raise funds for a new dormitory and is singing in most all of the nearby churches.

In games played out of town Belchertown lost to Ware last week Thursday night and to West Warren Monday morning, but defeated Boudville last Saturday afternoon.

Alice Randall and Frances Sauer, who entered two exhibits at the Worcester fair both secured second prize on canned soups and vegetables. These two girls with Nellie Shea of Ware constituted a judging team from Hampshire County that took second prize.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church will hold a food sale in the vestibule on Wednesday at 3.30.

Library Notes

The musical given at the library on Saturday evening by Mrs. Bernice Cook Bridgman was greatly enjoyed by an appreciative audience. Mrs. Bridgman was accompanied by Miss Mary Allen.

The Misses Alice and Adela Ropes of Springfield, and a friend of theirs, Miss Arnold of Sarasota, Fla., will give an informal recital in the library tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock. The program will consist of songs, violin selections and piano solos. Miss Alice Ranson is a student at the American Institute of Applied Music in New York City. Miss Arnold is a graduate of two colleges of music in Chicago.

Eighteen Versus Four

John Barleycorn is trying to get back into his former kingdom. He is as eager to do so as is the former kaiser or any other deposed monarch of Europe. It will be well to watch out, for John will practise every strategy and use every means that promises to open a way for his return to business at the old stands under the protection of law. He will bluff, he will promise reform, he will try old ways, he will try new ways to win back into public favor and regain his lost legal standing.

Just now John is posing as a defender of our national constitution. Read what he and his friends are writing in the papers about the inviolability of the constitution (excepting, of course, the 18th Amendment for we do not expect him to love that) and you might easily think that he is "a Daniel (Webster) come to judgment." John is trying to get a safe seat on the 4th Amendment these days, that is; to make the home his citadel. It is a shrewd move if he can make it work.

Personal liberty used to be the potent word with which he conjured. The personal liberty to drink alcoholic beverages of all degrees of alcoholic content; the personal liberty to get drunk; the personal liberty to become a nuisance to one's family and a burden to the state; the personal liberty to indulge in the excesses of alcoholic habits. O, what a sacred right personal liberty was in John's unctuous speech! It arrogated all privileges to itself; it arrogated all obligations to others. It was the quintessence of individualism and selfishness.

But now this plea for personal liberty has removed to the famous state of Innocuous Deceit. It is being forgotten because slowly it has been driven into the consciousness of (continued on page 2)

The Bridge Again

The bridge between Belchertown and Ware seems to be in for more publicity. The other day a truck broke through the upper story of the Ware end, because of a weak plank. We understand that the county commissioners will make an appropriation towards a new bridge and a special town meeting will probably be called soon to thrash the matter out again.

Speaking of bridges, we are also told that the bridge over the Hampden railroad needs replanking. Bridges, new or old, seem to need plank.

Ford Manager Promoted

Gaston Plantiff of New York, son of Mrs. Mary Plantiff of this town, is to be congratulated on his recent promotion to the position of general supervisor of the five eastern Ford assembly plants. Mr. Plantiff will continue as general manager of the New York plant, a position which he has held for a number of years.

Shower

Miss Ruth Jackson was the recipient of a shower given in the Prindle room of the chapel on Monday evening. About thirty-five relatives and friends were present at the shower and the wedding (mock) which formed a part of the evening's program. The bride, Mrs. Emma Shaw, was given away by her father, Mrs. Newman, to Mrs. Florence Shaw, the groom. Mrs. Allen took the part of bridesmaid; Mrs. Sarah Fuller, best man; Mrs. Kelley, flower girl; Miss Hazel Barrett, ring bearer; while Mrs. A. D. Moore, Jr., was the officiating clergyman.

The ceremony took place under a wedding arch. The room was tastefully trimmed with cut flowers, the prevailing colors being pink and white.

Miss Jackson was presented with gifts, valuable and numerous, and refreshments were served to the "wedding" party.

The Dental Clinic

The Red Cross dental clinic, for children only, referred to in our columns some time ago, was started this week and will continue until all the children in town have received proper treatment. Dr. Sherwood of Northampton is doing the work and is here Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, with headquarters at engine house hall.

The examination of children thus far shows a sad lack of attention to the teeth, and extraction has been necessary in several cases because of this neglect. It develops that a large amount of work needs to be done, but the results will be commensurate with the time expended. The charges of the Red Cross are nominal, so that the opportunity for securing treatment should be appreciated.

Vernon Lodge Inspection

There was a large attendance at the inspection of Vernon Lodge on Wednesday evening, 135 sitting down to the supper served by the ladies of the Eastern Star. The inspection was by district deputy, Wor. E. E. Hobson and suite of Palmer, Wor. D. L. Bodfish, also of Thomas lodge, assisting as marshal. Guests were present from many surrounding towns.

Few Suggestions

At the meeting called by the Farmers' and Mechanics' club last Monday evening for the purpose of receiving suggestions for the benefit of the Fair, Oct. 12, none were offered, save that representatives of the athletic association requested exclusive rights for selling certain articles on the grounds on Fair day. Last year a local organization petitioned for exclusive rights to sell soft drinks, basing its claim on the plea that home talent should receive preference and not have to compete with professional, but so far, the management has not seen fit to depart from its precedent of granting no exclusive privileges, although a further conference has been arranged.

Wise Forgetfulness

Most of us wish we had better memories. Our memories are very defective and oftentimes we are thereby embarrassed. We forget so readily. And it seems sometimes that we remember what is rubbish and forget the gold. Memory has big holes and many glorious things drop out.

But there are many things we do well to forget. We would do well to forget our injuries. Quite frequently we hoard up in our minds all slights, we roll them over and over in our minds, we meditate upon them with the result that the injuries are unduly magnified. Remembering all these slights and injuries only despoils our own lives and takes away our ability to make others happy.

We ought to forget our past mistakes. We pay too much attention to the errors made in the dim past. We brood too much over the failures made years ago. Brooding over them will not change the matter one bit. The mistakes are there. They stand out clearly. We gain nothing by continually dwelling upon them. Physicians testify that constant brooding over failure produces poison in our system and tears down the nerve cells. The thing for us to do is to make the best of our mistakes and go forward with courage.

And we do well to forget our past benefices. It may be that we did do generous deeds twenty years ago, but we fail today in generosity because we seem unable to forget the largeness of our gifts long years past. When we give we ought not to let our left hand know what our right hand does.

And we should forget our past attainments. Too much stress upon the attainments of yesterday prevents us from reaching the higher heights we are capable of today. No matter what attainments we reach today, we should not be satisfied, but ever press on. R

the people that no man has an inalienable right to make a drunkard of himself and become a nuisance and a burden and a peril to his family and to the community. The people have rights that offset the right of any individual to exercise personal liberty to the harm of others and also to the harm of himself. So John Barleycorn is changing his tactics like the wily old strategist that he is. The welkin no longer rings with shouts for personal liberty.

The new line of defense is amendment to the constitution Number 4. Amendment Number 18 and the Volstead acts to enforce it are hostile to Number 4. Down with Number 18 to the demand. The inviolability of the home is the new war cry of John and his army of old toppers. Double lock the doors; nail down the windows; guard every approach to it; let no one in who does not show a permit from the venerable John himself! For "be it ever so humble" there is no home John would object to getting into, and "be it ever so humble" there is no home he will not object to others entering who might interfere in his conscienceless quest of gain.

But do not allow the wily old fellow and his associates to deceive you with this issue of the home and its freedom from search. Amendment Number 18 has no enmity to the home. It threatens no rights of the home. John and his legal advisers who are raising this cry of conflict between Number 18 and Number 4 are not defending the homes of our beloved land as Number 4 contemplated the inviolability of the home. Little care they for the homes of the land or who searches them with or without warrants. It is John Barleycorn and his outlawed business about which they are anxious. Let him in; keep the home inviolate, safe for his business; let the brooding and the distilling go merrily on in the homes - this is what John is after. Think of it, John Barleycorn the defender of the home! Has the old rogue become an angel of light? Has he repented of the multitudinous evils he has wrought upon myriads of homes throughout the past generations? Has he sat in sackcloth and ashes in penance for his violations of the homes? Has he brought forth fruits meet for repentance in view of his many, many sins against the happiness and purity and peace of the homes?

"Aw-Kum-On-Along"

Now, friends of the 18th Amendment, don't worry about the constitution. John Barleycorn and his associates and his legal advisers are not the Supreme Court to interpret it and its amendments to suit the exigencies of their illegal business. Just remember this: John Barleycorn is not seeking to defend the constitution of the United States or to protect the homes of the land from enemies of the homes. He is seeking to get his business back upon a legal standing. So do not get excited over this hue and cry about the perils to the home from the enforcement of the 18th Amendment. Are you willing to admit John Barleycorn and his business into the homes of the land under the protection of the 4th Amendment as he wants to interpret that amendment? Belcher Towne

Library Notes
On account of the inclemency of the weather, the recital planned for last Saturday evening at the library was postponed one week. However, people who came to the library were pleasantly entertained by an impromptu recital given by Mrs. Chas. Foss and Mrs. Alfred Squires.

Miss Arnold will be unable to accompany the Ranson sisters this coming Saturday evening as she has returned to her home in Florida.

The Reception

At the reception given by the Community club to Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Sargent in the Methodist vestry last Monday night, the community spirit and a fine home atmosphere blended in fitting harmony throughout the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Sargent, parents of the groom, and Mrs. Maude Robinson and Mrs. E. C. Howard, representing the Community club, assisted the couple in receiving relatives and friends who were glad to be present on this well-wishing occasion.

As the guests were being presented, Mrs. Goldmeister, Mrs. Wm. E. Shaw and Mrs. B. E. Shaw gave several musical numbers, Mrs. Goldmeister rendering violin and also vocal solos, Mrs. W. E. Shaw a number of piano selections, and Mrs. B. E. Shaw, vocal solos. Later they gave a more formal program.

In behalf of the Community club, Mrs. Robinson presented Mr. and Mrs. Sargent with a purse of money which, with individual gifts of checks, gold, a variety of articles of fancy work, etc., made a pleasing array of reception tokens, for which the recipients expressed their hearty thanks.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the club while two bowls of alluring punch were a continuous pleasure.

The room by the use of chairs, rugs, lamps and couches had been transformed into a large reception hall which was profusely decked with fall flowers and potted plants, while beaming eyes all was the "homey" feeling which found expression during the closing moments by the enlarged family circle singing around the piano some of the matchless, old-time melodies that savor of happy occasions.

Town Meeting Tomorrow

A special town meeting has been called for tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock, when the following articles will be up for consideration.

Art. 1. To choose a moderator to preside at said meeting.

Art. 2. To see if the town will vote to appropriate a sum of money sufficient for Belchertown's portion of the expense in the erection of a bridge across the Swift River to replace the so-called Chapin bridge, and take any action relative thereto.

Art. 3. To see if the town will vote to authorize the lease, purchase or erection of a building for the accommodation of its High School, with the understanding that the present building be utilized for the lower grade pupils, and take any necessary action thereon.

Art. 4. To hear the report of any committee or committees that have been appointed by the town and act thereon.

Art. 5. To see if the town will rescind the vote taken under Article 14 at the annual town meeting on February 3, 1919 when the town accepted the provisions of Section 336 of Chapter 11 of the Revised Laws of Massachusetts relative to the election of a Highway Surveyor.

What Kind of a Bridge?

There will, no doubt, be much ado over the bridge situation tomorrow. Belchertown must face again one of its "time being" arrangements and step up and settle. There are as many opinions on this problem as on the school. Some would fix up the old bridge, some would get a new iron one, some think it the height of folly to put up anything but a wooden structure, some want it 12 ft. wide and some 14 ft., and some think we are a little too rich in bridges over Swift River and that we had better go easy before laying out a lot of money, preferring to wait a bit and see whether the highway of progress is to go this way or some other.

O. E. S. Inspection

Although the night was stormy about one hundred were present at the Eastern Star Inspection Wednesday evening, large parties coming from places near and far. The inspecting officers were Deputy Grand Matron Carolyn Wallace of Webster, Deputy Grand Marshall Isabel M. Tirrel and other grand officers, also of Webster. Supper was served at 6.30 o'clock.

The School Situation

The school problem has been the absorbing subject of conversation this past week. The disclosure that beginning next week the entire grammar school is to be transported to Federal St. to give more room for the High school, for which an additional teacher has been provided, has made it evident that the problem is no myth.

The panaceas for all the ills are many, with Community hall in the foreground as a possible means of solution. Some advocate securing the building entire for a High school, leaving the present structure for the grades, while others would fit up the other lower room for the second primary school.

The Community League at its meeting Tuesday evening voted to allow the directors to dispose of the property if found expedient by them, the town to have the first opportunity to purchase, but there is an undercurrent of feeling that it is unwise to part with the hall for amusement purpose, even though no dividends have been declared as yet. Other parties want the hall, so that the problem is a many sided one.

The State department of education was consulted by the special investigation committee as to what the town ought to do, and their recommendations are printed entire in this issue. They recommend the construction of an initial unit of a large concrete building to eventually house all the grades. This would give the town an ideal school plant with modern facilities, but the tax payers are holding up their hands in holy horror at such a stupendous proposition. The expense would cover a long term of years, so that the amount each year would be hardly more than is spent for roads, but already some have threatened to move away if such be the outcome.

Another factor in the case is the question of the permanency of the situation. At the present time over 80 are attending the High school, but a study of the school statistics for the past few years shows the growth to be somewhat abnormal. Here is a schedule of enrolment for the past seven years:

Table with 2 columns: Year (1914-1920) and Enrolment (44-54)

One reason for the recent jump is the combination of the 8th and 9th grades, but no doubt the biggest reason is that all young people under 16, unless employed, must attend school, and everybody knows that there are large numbers unemployed.

If by the addition of attractive courses and improved facilities this influx can be made permanent, any effort in this direction would be worth while.

But back of all the present difficulties the fact remains that our school equipment is in a rather distorted and unsatisfactory state. Sanitation and efficiency are sadly lacking. Both we and our predecessors sadly erred by getting up in town meeting and arguing simply for "the time being."

Sooner or later the town must de-side what caliber of a town it is to be. It helped to decide a few years ago when it threw down the water question and it will help to decide it again in the next few years when it does or does not dispose of its school problem.

Recommendations OF STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

Mr. A. F. Bardwell, Chairman Building Committee, Belchertown, Mass.

My dear Mr. Bardwell:

I was very glad of the opportunity to make an inspection of the school buildings at Belchertown and to meet with your committee for the purpose of discussing plans for increasing schoolhouse accommodations.

To one who visits the Centre School at Belchertown, it is apparent that the town stands in need of a new school plant. Not only is the present building insufficient to accommodate the number of pupils, but it fails in other respects to meet modern school requirements. I secured measurements of the several rooms and find that three of the six rooms have insufficient air space to meet requirements, and every room is defective in respect to its lighting arrangements. In five rooms the pupils are subjected to the injurious cross-light, windows being located on three sides of the room, and four of the six rooms have scarcely more than one-half the light required.

Not only does the present structure fail to meet the modern requirements of school hygiene, but it does not allow the provision of that type of secondary education which every high school ought to furnish. The work in the Belchertown High school under present conditions is of necessity limited very largely to classical training. Preparation for college, however, is only one of several important purposes to be served. The high school should as far as possible meet the needs of that far larger group of pupils who do not enter college. I am strongly of the opinion that the program of studies of the Belchertown High School should include training in commercial work and in the manual and domestic arts. The present restricted curriculum is reflected in the lack of power to hold the students throughout the four years' course. At the end of the first year there is a very marked loss in membership. The upper three classes of the High School include only 50% of the entire membership, whereas, for the state as a whole, the upper three classes include 65%. Much of the loss in the Belchertown High School would be averted by the inclusion of the commercial and practical arts courses.

I shall recommend also that the courses in practical arts be made available to the seventh and eighth grade pupils. This would serve two purposes. It would provide training of a very useful nature to boys and girls who do not attend high school, and it would also create new interests in school work so that larger numbers of elementary school pupils would continue their course in the secondary school. Indeed the seventh and eighth school years are coming to be recognized as belonging more nearly to the high school period than to the elementary school period.

In order that the pupils in the seventh and eighth years may have the advantages of the high school shop and laboratory equipment, and in view of the obvious economies secured, financial and administrative, in constructing and maintaining one large unit rather than several small units, I heartily endorse the present plan of housing all grades from the first to the twelfth in one building. With approximately 200 pupils in these grades this building would need to contain from ten to twelve classrooms and an assembly room.

In making a recommendation with reference to a new school building, however, one must be guided by the financial ability of the town as well as by the educational needs. I have conferred with the Director of the Bureau of Statistics in regard to the maximum amount of money that Belchertown could safely borrow at this time. This sum was stated to be about $60,000. It seems probable that this amount could be borrowed at a rate of interest approximating 5 per cent.

It is apparent that $60,000 will not build and equip a ten-room building of the more permanent type of construction. I recommend therefore that the town adopt the plan of constructing as soon as possible the first unit of a building that would consist eventually of two or three units. I believe that the high school unit should be constructed first in order that the pupils in the upper six years of the course may receive the advantages of instruction in commercial work and in the manual and domestic arts.

In several conferences with an architect who is skilled and experienced in schoolhouse construction I have been given assurance that with an expenditure of $60,000 the town could build a high school building of concrete construction that would contain the following rooms and equipment:

- 1. A commercial room seating 20 pupils at bookkeeping desks and including a section separated by windows for a typewriting room, accommodating 10 pupils. By this arrangement one teacher could handle both the bookkeeping and typewriting instruction.
2. A science laboratory which would permit the giving of physics and chemistry in alternate years. The equipment in this room would provide for biology also. Sufficient space could be allowed for seating 16 pupils in tablet-arm chairs, as well as accommodating 16 pupils at chemistry and physics tables. This room would

- be available during a portion of the school day as a recitation room for other subjects.
3. Domestic science. This room would be equipped with cooking tables and implements for 16 pupils, also a lunch counter.
4. Manual Arts. This room would be equipped with 15 individual benches or with wall benches as seemed best.
5. Two or three ordinary classrooms occupying together a space 30 by 60 feet and separated by folding doors. By this plan these rooms could be thrown together and used as an assembly room for the whole school. It would be possible to seat about 200 pupils in such a room.
6. A principal's office with supply room and lavatory.
7. A room for women teachers with lavatory.
8. Two lavatories for pupils.

The commercial room and the science laboratory could be utilized for recitation purposes in other branches than those for which the rooms are especially designed. This building would be so planned that future extensions could be made and the size of the auditorium doubled. While it might be found desirable to make some changes in the interior arrangements of the high school unit, as outlined, it is clear that a building of the size indicated and constructed somewhat after the plan suggested would be adequate for a high school of 100 pupils. It seems probable that with the inclusion of the new branches of study recommended, the enrollment of the Belchertown school would increase considerably and perhaps approximate 100 pupils in the course of a few years. Although it might not be found possible to house the pupils in grades seven and eight in the new high school building projected, these pupils could at least have the advantage of the high school equipment in practical arts by taking two periods of work at the high school building once a week.

If the construction of the high school unit were begun next year, it seems possible that in ten years the town would find itself in a position to go forward with the second new unit for the elementary schools. In the meantime the elementary school pupils would occupy the present center school building.

- I therefore recommend the following plan for your consideration:
1. That the town secure permission from the Legislature to borrow $60,000 for the erection of a new school building.
2. Having secured such permission, that the town begin as soon as possible the construction of a new high school unit.
3. That the high school unit be so planned as to permit of future extension to provide for the elementary schools.
This department will be glad of the opportunity to be of further service to you in this connection.

Library Notes

Many people at over were delightfully entertained at the library last Saturday evening by the Misses Ranson, who came from Springfield to give a recital. No program is planned for this Saturday evening, but it is expected that more recitals will be given.

Park Association Protests

The executive committee of the Park association at a special meeting Wednesday evening went on record that no citizen of Belchertown should be obliged to pay rent to the Farmers' and Mechanics' club for the erection of a booth or a tent on the common on "Fais" day. It also refused to give consent to a protracted stay of the merry-go-round.
We understand that the Park association in conjunction with the selectmen have authority over the park.

Jackson-White Wedding

One of the most interesting autumn weddings to local people took place when Miss Ruth Emma Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jackson of Walnut Street became the bride of Mr. Carlton Eugene White of Springfield. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock last Saturday afternoon by Rev. C. H. Smith, pastor of the Congregational Church of Granby, Mass. The music consisted of "O Promise Me," rendered by Mr. Elliott B. Jackson, cousin of the bride, on the violin, followed by Lohengrin's wedding march by Miss Alice Ranson, close friend of the bride, and Mr. Elliott Jackson.
The double ring service was used and the bride was given away by her father beneath an arch of evergreen and white. The maid of honor was Miss Irene Jackson and the bridesmaid was Miss Esther Jackson, both sisters of the bride. The best man was Roland M. Shaw, a close friend of the groom. The ring bearer was Miss Helen Jackson of Bridgport, Conn., niece of the bride.
The bride was gowned in white macgregal satin with pearl trimmings. Her veil was of silk tulle.

Further it was agreed that there was no use putting up an iron bridge, when on one of our recently-built and much traveled state roads a cheap wooden affair was doing duty.
Those responsible for the present "monument" in bridge building fared hard, as it was suggested that all the schools in town be closed for a day, just to go over and see what man could do.
It was finally decided that the selectmen should confer with the selectmen of Ware, relative to the erection of a wooden bridge and when they could agree to make specifications and call for bids.

ADVOCATE NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

The report of the special committee on improved school facilities was read by the chairman, A. F. Bardwell. This report is printed in full in this issue. The committee recom-

The Town Meeting

There was a fair attendance at the special town meeting last Saturday afternoon, although not as large as there would have been had there been more of an idea that something radical would be done.

THE BRIDGE QUESTION

The arguments for and against a new bridge over the Swift River at West Ware were rehearsed and a little more light shed on the matter. Messrs. Hodgkins and Wilson of the board of county commissioners were present and clearly stated the position of the board. They said that the present structure was unsafe, but it was not their intention to coerce the town into any particular line of action. All that they required was that there be a safe bridge at this point. They had considered only their own bridge proposition and in the event of the erection of that kind of structure, would contribute $1000 toward the same.
The sentiment at the meeting was in favor of a wooden bridge, which it was estimated would cost less than $1000 and would meet all requirements, as the old affair had lasted a long term of years. One man who had visited the scene said that for a period of two hours not a vehicle hove in sight, which showed that the traffic was not heavy.

Attractions at Fair

Several amusement features which have been lacking at our fairs in previous years will be on hand Oct. 12. There will be a merry-go-round and also a Ferris wheel.
A special prize of $50 has been offered by William Matthews to be competed for by the Belchertown and Granby granges. The first prize is $30 and the second prize $20. This will be a new feature this year.
The club has just issued its premium lists and list of judges.

Post Office Notice

The last mail leaving Belchertown under the new schedule will close at 3.20 P. M. The 4.51 train from Boston having been discontinued, the last mail train arriving will be at 4.07 P. M.

Fitting Out New Room

The school committee has hired the rest of the lower floor of Community hall and is putting it in condition for the second primary school which will occupy it as soon as ready, thus giving more room for the High School and obviating the necessity of transporting the grammar school to Federal Street as is now the case.

It is planned to move the heater at Community Hall directly east to the side of the room and build a partition running east and west, so that the school will occupy the southerly portion of the present room. Desks will be moved in from the other school houses and it is expected that the room will soon be ready, although it is doubted whether it will be in condition for the opening of school next week.

The Community League directors in thus entering into a further contract with the town have postponed for the time being the matter of selling outright, as the increased revenue will float the proposition for a while so that the necessities of the case do not demand a sale at present. In following this line of action the directors are carrying out the wishes of the League expressed in its recent meeting.

of M. E. church

At the opening of the "Rainy Day Bags" last Tuesday, the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church realized $42.92

The program consisted of story telling; as each responded to her name she told a story and passed her bag to the treasurer, who emptied its contents into a receptacle on a table.

When the name of Mrs. Hattie Howard was called she responded with the following original poem.

This little bag for missions given, To guide the heathen souls to Heaven.

By a kind friend to me was willed, Its mission it has well fulfilled.

By the door of a sick girl's porch it hung And taught its lesson to every one

Who came with sympathy in their heart And sought some comfort to impart.

For the girl it shortened the weary hours As she daily watched for sunshine or showers

And noted with joy the pennies gather When the clouds developed unpleasant weather.

To us it has been a source of pleasure And we have filled it up with scripture measure;

As we drop in the pennies one by one We offer a prayer that good may come.

From each little cent collective or single And listen with joy, their merry jingle,

So we cheerfully pass them in that they, May join their brothers here today,

And all together, a happy band, Perform their mission in a foreign land.

B. H. S. Notes

The High School Column this year is to be issued, the following students acting as reporters:

Seniors: Ruth Gildemeister James Aldrich

Juniors: Alice Howard Milton George

Sophomores: Ruth Aldrich Roger Chapman

The officers of the Senior class have been elected:

President, Ruth Gildemeister Vice-Pres., Milton Wood Sec. and Treas., Robert Dunbar

The Junior Class:

President, Alice Howard Vice-Pres., Stacia Gula Secretary, Catherine Landers Treasurer, Stacia Gula

The Sophomore class:

President, Charles Scott Vice-Pres., Jean Warren Secretary, Isabelle McKillop Treasurer, Edward Gay

The High School can stretch itself and take a deep breath, now. Another room has been dedicated to our use. The freshmen are now holding Room 4 in peaceful possession under Mr. Brewer.

Mr. Brewer has taken over most of the science work, teaching Biology, Physics, Chemistry, and also Civics.

A Junior said that the Norman Conquest caused the loss of reflections in the English language. No wonder that we have developed into a thoughtless race.

Some friendly rats apparently decided to get an education, for they appeared frequently in the recitations held in Room 2. They showed an annoying habit of running up and down the room, especially under the girls' desks.

Their ambitions led them to a sad end, for the janitor set some horrible-looking traps, and three of the gentle pets have departed this life.

The names of the freshmen are very confusing. Someone thought that John Flaberty who is now a Sophomore had grown a great deal during the vacation.

Four of the Seniors were so interested in each other that they would not go to a class meeting. They seem to be losing their class spirit but are getting another kind of spirit.

Report of Special Committee on

IMPROVED SCHOOL FACILITIES

Your Committee created at the annual town meeting held in February, 1921, to examine into, and report upon, the matter of improved school facilities, finds that:

In order to meet the requirements of the school department in providing ample accommodations and opportunity for its educational work, a new and commodious school building is essential, and recommends that the construction, upon an approved site, be entered upon at the earliest possible moment, compatible with business and other controlling conditions.

Your Committee also finds that: If present accommodations are increased by the addition of one or more school-rooms, the work of the school department may be carried on with its usual degree of efficiency, for the coming two years at least, and that action involving the construction of a new building may be delayed for that length of time.

Your Committee also finds that: An appropriation of not less than five hundred dollars should be made to enable the school department to secure and equip one or more additional school rooms.

Respectfully submitted at the Special Town Meeting held in the Town Hall, Belchertown, Massachusetts, September 24, 1921.

Attractions at Three County Fair

The annual fair of the Three County Agricultural association will be held in Northampton on October 4, 5 and 6. Plans are developing which promise to make the fair the best in the history of the association, which goes back over a century. The first day will be given over to the children and special exhibits of the girls' and boys' clubs in Hampshire, Franklin and Hampden counties.

ties will be shown. All of the room in the youths' department building will be used and in addition a large tent will be erected to house the overflow exhibits. Floats will be entered in a parade which will show the work of the boys and girls, and prizes will be awarded. All of the field and track events will be staged for the young people and athletic events with suitable prizes will be run off. All of the youths' exhibits will be in charge of Roland Payne, agent of the Hampshire County Farm Bureau, and Miss Benn Erhard, head of the boys' and girls' club work. All children will be admitted free on the first day but all must have tickets. These are given to all children, fifteen years of age or under, and may be obtained thru the Superintendent of schools in any of the towns and cities in the three counties. Tickets will be sent to the superintendents upon request to the secretary, Sterling R. Whitbeck.

The horse and cattle exhibits with the awarding of prizes will be held on the last two days of the fair. There will be horse racing on these days and these events together with vaudeville performances, the automobile, horse, cattle, fruit and vegetable and household exhibits and the attractions of a clean midway will furnish enough interest to make a profitable and interesting fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Davis of Springfield are visiting in town.

H. F. Curtis has solved the problem of getting something for nothing. A ticket given him at the Duro booth at the Exposition last week turned out to be the lucky one and a handsome pneumatic pressure tank water system is his prized possession.

Rev. C. G. Burnham is ill at his home on Federal Street.

Wins First Prize

Union grange No. 64 won first prize of $100 for its exhibit at the Worcester West Agricultural Society fair held at Barre and secured the silver medal from the state board of agriculture. Taking first honors was the more noteworthy on account of the number of competing granges.

The bridesmaid was dressed in a gown of light blue taffeta and also carried an arm bouquet of ophelia roses. The little ring bearer was dressed in white and carried the rings in rose buds. The ushers were John W. Jackson, Jr., of Athol and Blake Jackson of Holyoke, both brothers of the bride.

The home was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves, wild flowers and cut flowers. After the ceremony a buffet lunch was served.

The bride's traveling suit was blue duvet de laine with mole skin trimmings and hat of navy blue and mulberry. The groom presented the bride with a string of pearls, the only ornament that the bride wore. The best man and ushers each received gold cuff links. The Town Common

In view of the fact that many citizens and others are not familiar with the origin and history of the town common, a few facts relating to the same may prove of interest. The common as we know it today is made up of three tracts of land, the central section, or church part, of three acres, and the narrower north and south ends, each of which contains less than an acre.

For some years prior to 1790 the need of a more commodious church building had become evident, but a difference of opinion had arisen as to the location of a new building or buildings. The townspeople became divided into groups or factions; those living in the north part of the town demanded that the new edifice be erected in that section, while those living in the south part insisted that the new building be located to suit their convenience.

In order to settle the controversy and reconcile, if possible, the divergent views of the factions, Col. Elijah Dwight, a prominent citizen and large landowner, united with forty-nine other residents of the central part of the town and constructed on land owned by Col. Dwight, a new church building similar in form to the present town house and which, enlarged and improved by the addition of a steeple, is the familiar and substantial structure of today. The original building faced or fronted the west and the highway, and was approached from the latter by a semi-circular drive. This new building was centrally located in a three acre plot of ground set apart from Col. Dwight's holdings, and was placed about two hundred feet back from the county road.

When the good work was completed, Col. Dwight and his associates joined in a deed of gift to the inhabitants of the town of Belchertown—the consideration being the nominal sum of twenty shillings—conveying to them both the land and the building thereon standing. In order that the present day legal status of the building and land, in its relation to the town, may be fully and correctly understood, the following extracts from the deed above referred to are given:

Elijah Dwight (and associates), proprietors of the new erected meeting house in Belchertown and of three acres of land whereon the same stands for the consideration of twenty shillings paid by the inhabitants of the town of Belchertown do give grant bargain sell convey . . . to the inhabitants of the town of Belchertown and their successors the three acres of land with the meeting house thereon so long as the same shall be used as a place of public worship for the Congregational church and society in Belchertown to have and to hold . . . the granted (continued on page 3)

Library Notes

A recital will be given in the library at 8 o'clock Saturday evening by Mrs. Charles Foss and Mrs. Alfred Squires. There will be music for all ages which will include marches, some of the older songs and classical selections.
The book and magazine circulation during September numbered 1210.

Columbian Band Engaged

The Farmers and Mechanics club have engaged the Columbian band of Thorndike for Fair day. This band comprises twenty-five pieces.

A special effort is being made to secure a good number of floats for the parade.

The judges for the special grange prize award are the masters of the Hadley, Amherst and Enfield granges.

Recalls Former Days

Rev. J. H. Chandler of Northampton, a former pastor of the Congregational Church, preached at the Federated Church on Sunday. Dr. Chandler recalled that memorable Sunday morning in his closing days here, when the news came that Germany was yielding and a special service of thanksgiving was led by him on the common, no indoor services being allowed as a result of the influenza. He recalled the ideals of those days with the world was looking forward with hope to a new era and commented on the fact that after three years, reconstruction had barely begun. He depicted the waste of Congress which he said was even more ruinous than the waste of war and called for strong adherence to christian principles in the local church and the world at large where men are all "brethren of a common table."

Win Prizes at Northampton

Belchertown cut some figure at the Northampton fair. The boys' and girls' club float, entered by the club leader, Mrs. D. O. Randall, took first prize in a long list of entries. The work of five different clubs were represented on this float, the home economics, bird, potato, canning and handicraft. Alice Randall, Frances Sauer, Rose Haesaert, Madeline Haesaert, Andrew Ketchen, Edna Howard, Gladys Hazen and Grace Gildemeister were on the float, besides the leader, Mrs. Randall, and Mr. Randall, who drove the car.

The prize was awarded on the basis of a great variety of work displayed and was a beautiful silver loving cup which can be kept in town for a year, and permanently if it is captured again next year. Mrs. Randall hopes to have the cup on exhibition in the center if it can be arranged.

The following club members won prizes: Andrew Ketchen, first on exhibit of potatoes; Harold Landers, first on Duroc-Jersey pigs; Rachel Randall, first and second on registered Berkshire pigs; Alice Randall, first and third on registered Holstein calves; Eunice Doerpholz, first on Jersey calves.

GRANGE WINS AGAIN

Union Grange won first prize on its exhibit which carried off the honors at Barre last week. All granges exhibiting received $30 and the winning one $10 additional. A silver medal from the state was also awarded in connection with the first prize.

One Year of the League

The Brooklyn DAILY EAGLE is publishing a book written by Dr. Charles H. Livermore of New York on "What the League of Nations has Accomplished in one Year."

Those who think that the League is dead would do well to ponder the fact that the Supreme War Council has referred to the League one of the biggest and most vexatious problems of the war, the upper Silesian question.

that the League is no longer questioned, but is accepted as much as the British government itself.

The French III class certainly takes the prize for rapid and accurate translation, especially when company is present.

A generous prize of a box of chocolates was offered to the members of French II who got A in the exam on Monday.

Expectation is better than realization. The American history class expected to go through the exam with all honors.

Since the change in the seating plan in the Junior class, there has been a decrease in communicating, and—an increase in notes.

The Town Common

premises to them and their successors so long as the same shall be used as a place of public worship for the Congregational church and society to their use and benefit."

The deed is signed by Elijah Dwight and his forty-nine associates and bears the date of April 1, 1791. The deed in extenso may be found recorded in the Hampshire county registry at Northampton, Book 7, page 412.

The terms of the above deed make it evident to even the most simple minded, that no one has any legal right to use or occupy any part of the three acres of land bound and described in the deed and wholly within the control of the Congregational church and society, without the latter's consent and permission.

Col. Dwight died in 1795 and two years later his widow married Dr. Estes Howe. In 1803 Dr. Howe and his wife, Dianna, decided to the town treasurer two tracts of land formerly belonging to Col. Dwight and adjoining the three acre tract previously conveyed by him to the town. Each of these tracts containing less than an acre is bounded on the west by the county road, one lying to the north and the other to the south of the three acre tract controlled by the Congregational church.

The following extracts from the Howe deed will serve to give a correct idea as to the legal status of these parts or sections of what we know as the town common:

Estes Howe, et ux, to Johnathan Dwight, Treas. . . . "We, Estes Howe and Diana Howe his wife . . . for the sum of two hundred dollars . . . paid by Jonathan Dwight, treasurer of the town of Belchertown for and in behalf of said town . . . do remise release and forever Quit Claim to said Johnathan Dwight his successor and successors in said office two certain tracts or parcels of land (fully described by metes and bounds) To Have and To Hold to the use of the town to be appropriated and used solely for a common in said town and for no other purpose and that no building or buildings are to be set up or erected on said common forever so that neither the said Estes or Diana nor any other person shall or will hereafter claim or demand any right or title to the premises so long as it shall be improved for a common as aforesaid but they and every one of them shall be excluded and forever barred."

Dated, March 17, 1803. Signed, Estes Howe Dianna Howe Recorded, Hampshire Registry, Book 18, Page 487.

It is very evident from the foregoing that the Howe parts of the common cannot be used for any commercial purpose whatever at any time, and must be free and open at all times to the public. No citizen at any time can be legally restrained from entering upon or passing over any part of these sections of the town common, provided he does not obstruct others in their enjoyment of the same right or privilege. No structure or building may be legally set up or erected on this land, and no enclosure to which an admission fee is demanded may be maintained. Any occupation of this common land for purposes of private profit or gain may be prevented by legal process or injunction; if such steps are not taken on behalf of the town the heirs of, Estes and Dianna Howe may legally undertake to recover the land or its value.

No adverse rights may be acquired in a town common through previous appropriation or occupation for any term of years, opinions to the contrary notwithstanding. Adverse or prescriptive rights in that which belongs to the public cannot be acquired by any part or portion of that public—it would be an absurdity to set up a claim to special rights and privileges in what one already owns in common with others; unrestrained and continuous use of a public highway for any term of years does not entitle the user to rights in that highway adverse to others—he cannot set apart any portion of it to his gain or profit, nor can he demand a fee from anyone desiring to travel over it.

Library Notes

The musical at the library last Saturday evening proved no exception to the ones preceding it as far as its being a success was concerned. About seventy were present to enjoy the occasion. None is planned for this week, but more will be given later.

Won $76.50

The boys' and girls' clubs in town, Mrs. D. C. Randall leader, are to be congratulated on winning $76.50 in prizes on exhibits and floats at the various fairs this year. Not only that, but the young people have in addition caught the big idea of becoming useful citizens.

Common Land

Mr. Editor:
If you'll give me a little space, I will answer Mr. "B." Those deeds are "scraps of paper" They are meaningless to me.
The ground unfenced and open is, If I can understand
Just what the law determines,
And calls it common land.
Vagrants can squat upon it
And every gypsy band.
They can't be held for trespass
For it is common land.
Next season I will have some cows.
Good pasture close at hand.
"I'll be a law unto myself."
Now can you understand?
Guy C. Allen

Catholic Supper and Entertainment

The Catholic Mission will hold a supper and entertainment in Grange hall next Wednesday evening. The supper will be from 6 to 8 o'clock. The entertainment which follows will be characterized by good music. Miss Sullivan and Mr. Hutton of Bondville as well as others, come from Holyoke.

The Annual Fair

The Belchertown Fair is again a thing of the past. Although postponed until Thursday on account of a downpour of rain in the morning, Wednesday was the banner day, as far as the crowd was concerned, for the weather cleared shortly before noon and those who had not already started for Belchertown were soon on the road. Never before have so many cars lined the streets of the village as on Wednesday. A double column around the park and lines of them up and down the side streets told the story of the presence of a large number of people and made evident the fact that the horse has given way as a means of conveyance.
Considering the size of the crowd, it was surprisingly well ordered, and for the most part, bent on having a good time in sensible fashion. The midway was the mecca of the majority and was lined with an unlimited number of fakirs who dealt in chances of every sort. Only a comparatively few things could be bought at private sale. An exceptionally fine merry-go-round was on hand and did a land office business as did the ferris wheel.
The exhibits in the hall were fully as attractive as ever, the entries of the Granby and Belchertown granges which were competing for a prize offered by William F. Matthews of Granby, adding considerable to the usual display. The exhibit of Union grange was the same as that shown at Barre where it received first prize of $100. It was awarded first prize again on Wednesday, although the exhibit of the neighboring grange was no insignificant affair. The exhibit of Union grange was enclosed by a frame of lattice work, arched at the entrance and comprised an elaborate supply of fine fruits and vegetables, and also canned goods of all kinds, while art was introduced by miniatures of the three Graces and a farmer and his lands, which formed a picturesque setting for the exhibit. Mrs. D. P. Spencer and Mrs. Henry Witt have been largely responsible for the make-up and success of this exhibit. The hall abounded with good things. The display of the junior with its showing of canned goods and various appliances for canning, etc. Here was also a number of ribbons won by the young people at other fairs.

The State School filled a long table to capacity and was quite outstanding in the quality of produce shown, all of which was raised this year by the boys of Belchertown's developing institution. The exhibit of C. H. Egleston, a local gardener, was a worthy one and occupied a stall all its own. E. J. Ward had quite an exhibit of a large variety of vegetables "produced on a one-acre farm."

E. C. Howard and C. R. Green, known all over New England for the quality of their fruit, had a table on which were displayed sample plates of their famous fruit.

Passing to the southerly section of the hall, one found bread, butter and cheese "like mother used to make" and quite a few cans of fruit.

A good portion of a table was given over to flowers, grown mostly by townspeople. Close by were some apples and potatoes sent by Fred G. Abbey of Anacortes, Wash. His plate of Stark's Delicious apples looked truly so, while the two mammoth elongated Beauty of Hebron potatoes would have fed a family of old-time dimensions. E. B. Sanford of Plainfield also exhibited ten good size specimens of potatoes.

Franklin school, as usual, had an exhibit of flowers, fancy and handi-craft work, while Frank Rys, a member of that school, exhibited a desk and various other articles made by him in most creditable fashion. Rachel Randall exhibited a piece of sewing, and Katherine Dressel a splendid bouquet of dahlias, thereby gaining the distinction of being the only center school exhibitors.

The hand painting on baskets and pottery by Miss Gertrude Story was worthy of mention, and fancy work was on hand in great variety. Hung over all were the quilts in many patterns that are made each season by the patient women of the country-side. Other articles of merit were displayed, but space would forbid our mentioning all.

The selectmen's room was utilized by the Red Cross, Mrs. Edward Sargent in charge. Here, children of lesser or greater years were weighed, told how far from normal they were, and if need be, given a kindly word of advice as to diet, etc.

The attractions of the hall and the parade are as a rule the outstanding features of the fair, and they were so this year. The parade came on Thursday, when the judging in nearly all the classes was done. As in some previous years, there were so few entries that there was a prize for all. There was no band present, president Shumway announcing that the one engaged for Wednesday, had notified him at a late hour that it could not come Thursday. So the parade circled the common twice, the only music being that made by the hand clapping of bystanders who happened to be so minded.

Eugene Flaherty led the parade as chief marshal, followed by his aides, Andrew Ketchen, Walter Dodge and Henry McKillop. Then came Bertram Shaw's donkey, with artificial horns and other accessories, labeled "Belchertown Cattle Show, Hereford," driven by the owner and Floyd Peeso, who in backwoods attire went through enough stunts to put a circus clown to shame.

Next in line was Nannie Howard on her pony, after which came a real team of oxen owned and driven by Fred Underwood.

The first of the three floats followed. This was entered by the Red Cross nursing classes and was a demonstration of "public" nursing by members of the local nursing classes and was made vivid by the use of a bed and an easy chair in which an attempt was made to make the invalid comfortable. In an enclosure on the front of the float was a homelike demonstration of caring of class. Those designated as Juniors were Dodge, McKillop, Gay and Bardwell. The Seniors were Ketchen, J. Wood, Sullivan and Fitzgerald. Bardwell and Ketchen were opponents, Gay and Wood, McKillop and Sullivan, and Dodge and Fitzgerald. The latter won by a wide margin for the Seniors which might have been closer but for a mistake. This concluded the afternoon events. They were pronounced a decided success in spite of the fact that the contestants had only a short time in which to train. In every case they broke their standing records at school.

The Annual Fair

for children by a class mother. This float was trimmed with evergreen and white and bore on the sides and back large red crosses. Marching behind the float, two by two, were sixteen children wearing paper helmets of the health crusaders. Banners bearing all sorts of health mottoes were carried by the children.

The second float was an original one, carrying sizeable miniatures of the wooden school house, labeled "What we have to contend with" and a larger brick structure which was "What we need." This float was entered and bore the lettering of B. H. S. '22 and also had on it the significant inscription:

"While the town was blowing bubbles,
We built castles in the air."

The next float was entered by the Blue Meadow junior economics club and showed nine girl club members seated midst the stalks of corn and other farm scenery, handling various appliances connected with their work, while in the rear was a lad who had hooked some potatoes in characteristic boy fashion.

Two decorated cars were in line, a touring car trimmed with autumn foliage and bunting entered by John Prainatis, and a roadster, trimmed with bunting, driven by Henry D. Hoag.

A delivery truck, loaded with groceries, and driven by Mrs. R. M. Shaw advertised Shaw products and service. Then came an entry by the Belchertown Garage, a new Dodge truck, in which were arranged some accessories carried by the proprietor, H. B. Ketchen.

The judges, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Green of Worcester, and A. R. Ketchen, John Gould, Mrs. A. D. Moore and Mrs. C. A. Foss of this town awarded the prizes as follows:

Floats
1st, Home Nursing Classes
2nd, B. H. S. '22
3rd, Blue Meadow Club

Decorated autos
1st, John Prainatis
2nd, Henry Hoag

Bertram Shaw received honorable mention for his presentation and others would have received prizes had they made the proper entries.

After the parade the crowd had plenty of time to see all that was to be seen. Only one entry being made for draft horses, W. A. Sauer won first money by drawing off the rocks. So the crowd went where it would. Those admiring good cattle inspected the 25 or more specimens, mostly Holstein, tied on the south end of the park, and were favorably impressed. The pens for horses, ponies and sheep were not overcrowded, only a pony or two being present. A few boxes of chickens, rabbits, etc. were on exhibition.

E. A. Fuller had his usual good showing of farm implements, and Ford cars, Fordson tractors and Dodge Brothers cars and trucks were demonstrated by their respective local dealers.

The baby show with its variety of babies, was of course appealing to the mothers, (we list the prizes elsewhere) and the sports run off later in the day by B. H. S. athletes was surely interesting. These activities are reported in the High school column.

But the midway was the great attraction though there the fakirs had to work hard to stir up any excitement. The fair was over and everyone knew it. The merry-go-round lured one occasionally. The ferris wheel did little better and early in the afternoon the structure began to come down, which proved the beginning of the end.

Catholic Supper and Entertainment

"I like to come to these occasions in Belchertown. There is something about the supper, either in the way it is prepared or the way it is served that appeals to me." So said Mr. Moriarty of Holyoke at the Catholic mission supper on Wednesday evening. And Mr. Griffin, also of Holyoke, voiced the same sentiments a few moments later, stating in addition that he always wanted to do what he could to help the church fund. This must have been the sentiment that drew others besides these two to meet at the common table on Wednesday evening and to partake of the good things that were served in an atmosphere charged with geniality. The hosts were ever intent upon serving whether the party was made up of one or of several.

The country side turned out as usual, good-sized delegations coming from neighboring towns. Bonds-ville was especially well represented. The entertainment which followed the supper was of a fine order and consisted of: piano solo, Miss Helen Clary of Holyoke; vocal solo, Miss Mary Catherine Sullivan; solo, Mr. Hutton of Bondsville; solo, Mr. Donahue of Bondsville; remarks, Messrs. Moriarty and Griffin of Holyoke; solo, Mr. Hutton; America, audience. Miss Clary rendered a number of piano selections before the entertainment, pending the arrival of the soloists. Those assisting in the program were well received and especially Mr. Hutton, whom many had not heard before. Mr. Donahue's readings and impromptu remarks delighted his audience as did also those of Mr. Griffin, of whom the Catholic mission constituency never seem to be able to get enough.

Father McGrath of Bondsville was present and was in charge of the program, while Mrs. Garvey was, as usual, chairman of the supper committee.

The Cattle Show

By our special correspondent
GUY C. ALLEN

The Cattle Show officials Promulgated this decree That on Wednesday, October 12, Their annual fete would be.

Five hundred head of cattle, Horses, high bred and fleet, With the Eastern States' exhibit, They were going to compete.

The morning came; 'twas raining, Not a bovine on the ground. A thousand tents and huxters, Ferris wheel and merry-go-round.

Soon came the proclamation: To all peoples be it known That on Thursday, tomorrow, The cattle will be shown.

More than ten thousand came this day Walked the midway fro and to, Rode in autos round the common, There was nothing else to do.

The night passed quick and silently. Up rose the glorious sun. The Cattle Show officials Thought their duties just begun.

Two dozen cows were on the ground And a few coops of hens, A place to put the colts and calves But not one in the pens.

The show in hall was good indeed Alike in kind and size, In the contest 'tween the granges Union Grange took the first prize.

At noon came on the big parade. Of bands they had no need. A yoke of oxen, five autos, And a denkey took the lead.

Poverty vs. World

The poverty of the world does not distress us as it should. We are not sufficiently pained by famine and want and destitution. And this is because the picture of poverty is not made vivid to our imagination. If we could see men eating from the barks of trees, if we could see women burying their children alive because they could endure no longer the cry of their little ones for bread, if we could see quarrels between families over little scraps of food, then we would be sufficiently distressed to decrease the famine of the world. It does not seem to be enough to read about such conditions; to be moved in adequate fashion we must see with our own eyes.

And yet the written word ought to make the contrast between wealth and poverty sufficiently real to be more painful to us. America produces great wealth. We have learned to make profit out of waste material, we have provided tools and machines so that many may gain skilled wages, we have cared for our workers in providing for them insurance and savings institutions. So much of this is unknown in many poverty stricken countries. Many are starving because of ignorance and inefficiency and superstition and exploitation. Over-population, bad sanitation, low wages, the crowding into cities, all tend to want.

In a world as it should be, vice and poverty should cease to fester. No man can claim that all has been done that should be, so long as there are such extremes of poverty in any section of the world. No man or no class of men can come to their own while their main concern every hour of the day is with their daily bread.

And we have not done our full duty simply by relieving those who are in distress, but only as we have provided conditions where poverty need no longer exist. R

B. H. S. Notes

What is so dark as a rainy day in B. H. S.? The pupils cannot see well enough to read or write, and the teachers can't see across the rooms. It is a cheerful time for loafers.

The school clock has started once more after many unsuccessful attempts. Time in Belchertown seems to be a variable thing anyway, and who shall decide the hour when clocks disagree?

Rain on the roof is music in the ears of those whose wells are dry. Report cards are with us, and the usual number of good resolutions is being made. May they have a long and successful career!

One might judge from the number of notes in the Junior class that those pupils were taking "Correspondence courses" in school.

The new recitation chairs in room 2 are greatly appreciated. There is a tendency in some classes now to come early and avoid the rush for front seats.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A RAT IN B. H. S.

I have left the B. H. S. for good. It was too nerve-racking a life there to suit me. Seeing ones' friends caught in a trap is horrible. There ought to be a law against leaving such things around; they are too dangerous. And my own beautiful tail! That got caught in a trap one night and now I am trying to persuade other rats to wear their tails in a Dutch cut, too. It really looks very smart, but I feel rather ashamed and conspicuous being the only bobbed rat around here.

There never was much to eat in that school, anyway. There were bread-crusts and orange-peels behind the dressing-room radiator but we got tired of those. Some of the books had a good flavor but most of them were very dry. I've chewed up the bindings of a good many of those English Composition books and the literature, too. I didn't think much of them. They were better than the French Grammars, though. They gave me indigestion.

I used to have an interesting time while school was going on. From some corner where no one could see me I used to watch the classes. Gracious goodness, how those boys would act! They would kick the people around them or slide rubbers down the aisles with their feet when the teachers couldn't see what was going on under the desks. The

How Films Aid in Education. More than 500 motion picture films, dealing with more than 115 subjects, are now being circulated by the United States Department of Agriculture. A recent one, photographed largely from a drop of water, represents the origin and spread of rhubarb blight, a disease that brings great loss to the truck farmer. Besides the organisms and their spread, the film includes field scenes, the symptoms of the blight, and methods of eradication. This is one of the few series of pictures photographed largely through the microscope, thus showing objects invisible to the naked eye.

How to Keep Young.

For the preservation of youthfulness a placid temper should be assiduously cultivated by every woman who values the youthful appearance of her face and skin. A worrying temper is most ageing. It makes a woman of thirty look more than forty. It adds years—in appearance—to her age. It is a powerful foe to the magic of youth and often makes daughter look older than her mother, because the daughter is a persistent worrier over small trifles, while the mother has become a philosopher.

How "Cold Shoulder" Originated. This expression, now common, arose out of the custom once prevalent in France of serving to a guest who had overstayed his or her welcome a cold shoulder of mutton instead of a hot roast, as a hint for them to go.

pupils and teachers all talked a lot of nonsense; I never could understand much of what was said. Some of the pupils didn't seem to, either. Some times I would run across the room to get a more comfortable corner and then some one was sure to start an awful rumpus. The girls would all pull their feet up off the floor as if I were going to chew their shoes. The teachers usually quieted them right away, but I never knew what all the excitement was about.

Well, as I said, I have left the place for good and all the others have, too, except those that were careless enough to get caught. What drove me away was a remark I overheard one day. They have a new course there which they call Biology, and one of the girls said they were going to use rats to cut up and study. The others laughed at her, but I took no chances. I left that night.

Form Rod and Gun Club

Last Thursday evening the Melacomet Rod and Gun club was formed. This is a local organization and is made up of sportsmen interested in keeping Belchertown stocked with fish and game. It is expected that as interest in this line is made manifest, our share of state allotments will be forth-coming. J. W. Jackson was elected President; Thomas Allen, Secretary; and Roy Shaw, Treasurer. Further officers will be elected later.

Girl Scout Supper

Last Saturday evening, the Girl Scouts met at the Scout room for their first supper-party of the year. It was given in honor of three girls whose birthdays had recently passed, Marie Baggs, Madeleine Orlando and Edith Shaw. Supper was served at five-thirty, after a patrol contest which was won by Patrol II. When the birthday cakes were out a few people found their fortunes hidden away inside. Miss Coon and Alice Howard found the rings but no wedding invitations were issued. Jean Warren and Marie Baggs found thimbles which indicated a long spinsterhood. Wealth fell to the lot of Marjorie Ayres and Ruth Aldrich; Helen Camp and Edith Shaw found buttons which told of a dressmaker's career.

After supper, the scouts played games around the fire-place, but soon left to attend the musical at the library.

During the evening the second patrol sang their new patrol song to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia."

Evelyn Shumway wrote the words with a few suggestions from others.

The girls of Patrol Two, See us come with helping hands, Finding good to do.

We're out for fun, we're out for play;
We're out for scout work, too,
For that is the way of the Girl Scouts.

Chorus:
Hurrah, hurrah, for the girls of Patrol Two.

Hurrah, hurrah, for the good we like to do.
We're out for fun; we're out for play;
We're out for Scout work, too,
For that is the way of the Girl Scouts.

Community Club Elects Officers

At the annual meeting of the Community club, Monday evening, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Gildemeister; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Nettie Allen; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Jennie Jepson; Treasurer, Mrs. Lillian Kelley; Financial Secretary, Miss Alice Coon; Secretary, Miss Josepha Perry; Chairman Good Cheer committee, Mrs. Grace Sargent; Chairman Executive committee, Mrs. Clarinda Shaw.

Library Notes

A large attendance greeted the musicians on Saturday evening. Miss Mary Catherine Sullivan rendered several vocal selections and Mrs. Charles Fos and Mrs. Doris Squires played two duets. All were greatly enjoyed.

Beginning with Monday the early winter schedule goes into effect. The library will be open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons, from 2-15 to 4-45, also Saturday evenings from 6-30 to 8-30.

Red Cross Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of Hampshire County Chapter, American Red Cross, was held in the People's Institute, Northampton, Wednesday, October 26, at 2.30 o'clock p. m.

The officers and committees submitted reports covering the year ending September 30, 1921.

Election of officers for the coming year and the transaction of other Chapter business also took place.

Chas. C. Jones, Esq., Assistant Manager of the New England Division, A. R. C., addressed the meeting.

Semi-Annual Meeting of Historical Association

The semi-annual meeting of the Historical Association held in the library Wednesday evening proved a real treat to students of "ye olden time." W. A. Stebbins of Chicopee was present and presided. After a short business session the following program arranged by Mrs. H. F. Curtis, was carried out.

D. D. Hazen, who with his family attended the Plymouth Tercentenary celebration on "President's Day," gave a pleasing account of the experience.

The remainder of the evening was taken up with a review of Alice Morse Earle's book, "The Sabbath in Puritan New England." The parts had been assigned and were given in the following order.

The Disarmament Conference

Let us expect great things of the disarmament conference which convenes at Washington on Nov. 11. Word is being circulated across our country that under the existing conditions of the world, none should be disappointed if the conference results only in an agreement to make a beginning in the decrease of armaments.

The men who gather at Washington are very sensitive to public opinion, and it is idle to look for them to take many steps in advance of public sentiment.

If thousands of people should express to the government, as we believe thousands feel, the same sentiments as the editor of the Continent, the conference would not dare adjourn without accomplishing great things. This is what the editor of the Continent says: "If the approaching conference . . . does not do what it is called to do, its failure will make the darkest day that civilization has yet seen, a day not merely of disappointment, but of grim hopelessness."

B. H. S. Notes

The new seats in Room II are having a bad effect on Sophomore boys. They are using them, in class, for couches. How about it, Davis? Guy Allen seems to have the traits of a financier.

Austin seems to disfavor the clinic. Ask him why. Resolved. That the school room is no rifle range.

J. Wood I. Flaherty "My! but they're good."

J. Warren Wood's "coiffure" was not fully appreciated by all.

AS WE SEE THEM NOW Freshmen - Loud and lusty. Sophomores - Boastful and still loud.

Juniors - Somewhat refined. Seniors - Soft and gentle like the passing of a summer breeze that is soon to go away.

We Wonder: Why Olive Dunbar was so angry the other noon.

Why Alice Flaherty and Irene Vezeina have so many secrets.

Why they neglected to put a singing book on Rockwood's desk.

Why Alice Howard sighs so much.

Why Dorothy Kimball whispers so much and Mr. Allen always sees her.

Why two members of the Senior class spend the noon hour in Room 2.

Why James Aldrich comes to school so early.

Why Gertrude blushed so Wednesday noon.

Judging by the way some pupils feel about their report cards, they would like to have an open hunting season declared on school teachers, - weapons not restricted.

A Freshman wrote this definition of cancellation: a short method of getting knowledge.

HOW

DREADED "SLEEPING SICKNESS" MAY BE AVOIDED. The British ministry of health has issued a bulletin on encephalitis lethargica (commonly but erroneously called "sleeping sickness") to which it appends the following advice as to precautions to be taken against it:

"The other occupants of a house in which a case of encephalitis has occurred or is being created may be assured that the disease is one of low infectivity, and that very little risk is run by association with the patient. At the same time it is desirable that such association should be limited to what is necessary for proper care and nursing, and the patient should be well isolated in a separate room."

"School children in the affected household may be kept from school, as a precautionary measure, for three weeks after the isolation of the patient. Those in contact with the case should be advised to use antiseptic nasal sprays or douches and to gargle the throat with solutions such as those advised for influenza."

"For example, any of the following may be used: (1) 1 per cent solution of peroxide of hydrogen; (2) a solution of permanganate of potash, 1 in 5,000 in .08 per cent solution of chloride of sodium (common salt); (3) liquor sodae chlorinatae, 0.5 per cent. These solutions can be used as ordinary gargles or snuffed up the nostrils or applied by an efficient spray."

"It is desirable that any persons in the infected household who suffer from sore throat or other symptoms suggesting an abortive attack should be treated from this point of view and isolated as far as possible until they have recovered. The sick room should be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected at the end of the illness." - Buffalo Express.

How Carbuncles Should Be Treated to Effect Cures That Can Be Considered Thorough

At a recent examination by the state board of Ohio, medical students were asked how they would treat a carbuncle. The official answer is quoted from Rose & Carless' Manual of Surgery, as follows:

"The most thorough and satisfactory is to lay the carbuncle freely open under an anesthetic and scrape with a sharp spoon or cut away all sloughs until healthy tissue is reached, and then to disinfect the cavity thoroughly with pure carbolic acid or peroxide of hydrogen (10 volumes). The hollow thus formed is packed with gauze soaked in an iodoform emulsion (10 per cent) and allowed to heal by granulation. Good food, iron, quinine and alcohol according to judgment must be administered, while appropriate medicine (e. g., codeine or opium) and limitations of diet are necessary in diabetic patients."

quaint wood-bindings dated in the early 1800's, and a New England Primer dated 1808. There were rare and valuable historical works; one dated 1753 was "Printed and Sold in Ann St. (Boston) facing the Town-Dock". A Directory of Boston, 1809, was interesting. One unique exhibit was a huge leather bound Bible over a century old which measured 18 in. long by 12 in. wide and 5 in. thick. Upon this was placed a "Bible History" (also bound in leather) measuring 2 in. long by 1 1/2 in. wide and 3/4 in. thick.

Perhaps the most valuable exhibit was a volume of bound pamphlets dated 1789, comprising the "Articles of Confederation and Perpetual Union between the States of New York, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island and Providence Plantation, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, N. Carolina, S. Carolina and Georgia," also "A Constitution or Frame of Government for the State of Massachusetts," and early "Resolves of Congress" etc. This was exhibited by Mrs. Spencer.

The townspeople may not realize that the Historical Association has and is still acquiring one of the most valuable historical collections to be found in this part of the state. When housed in the new Dwight Memorial Historical building, it will be a decided asset to the town, one of which it may well be proud.

To Give Entertainment

The Red Cross Nursing classes under the direction of Mrs. E. G. Sargent are preparing an entertainment to be given in Community hall next Wednesday night. The program will consist of moving pictures, several numbers by the school children, including songs and a short play, and vocal selections by Mrs. B. E. Shaw. A speaker from the Red Cross has also been promised.

The special object of this entertainment is to secure the balance of the funds necessary to purchase scales for the weighing of the school children. The larger part of the whole amount was received by the classes in the prize won by their float at the Belchertown Fair. In fact this prize money alone is sufficient to purchase scales of a certain kind, but the classes prefer to make this gift to the town one of permanent value.

To this end the entertainment of Wednesday night has been planned and it is felt certain that the townspeople will respond generously. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

The Halloween Party

The young folks of Union Grange held away at the Halloween party in Grange hall, Monday evening. As a result, it had all the punch, pop, rich sweet, cream-like flavor that a party of that kind should have. There was indeed real punch on sale, there was pop corn by the bag, there were sweets by the pound and cream by the cone but those qualities persisted throughout the occasion.

Those who expected to enter the abode of the ghosts by some subterranean passage were shocked indeed to enter through the regular well-lighted portals and had to punch themselves occasionally to see if it was really true. But, pop! off went the lights and in walked the spirit, clad in white, much to the delight of the youngsters of every age.

It was then that the pumpkins, hovering by the stacks of corn on the platform showed their faces, no two of which seemed to have been served alike. There was the same face of a hater, a happy face of a playmate and also one of a frightened, wide-eyed shaver.

The program, rich in talent, was rendered, partly by the light of the pumpkin and partly by the electric spark.

There was music by the boys' trio, consisting of Walter Dodge, James Aldrich, and Robert Dunbar, and a reading by James Aldrich. Mrs. Henry Witt captivated her hearers with two monologues, and Prin. Thos. Allen and Miss Flora Preston both sang solos. Mr. Allen also gave a reading.

A tableau, showing two colored youngsters in the dim light appropriating a watermelon, was tantalizing indeed till the white spectre came and paled their complexions. Howard Snow and Ellison Dodge figured in this episode. Of course no one knows who the ghost was, although from the voice, one failed to recognize a departed spirit.

After the entertainment, there were a few games, but interest soon waned and the dance began.

Miss Emma Dodge had charge of the program, Miss Preston was in charge of the punch table, Miss Edith Poeso of the pop corn, Miss Dorothy Kimball, the home-made candy, and Miss Madeleine Orlando and Miss Emma Dodge the ice cream.

The hall and the various tables were trimmed with orange and black in keeping with the occasion and the whole affair was a credible presentation by the young people.

Grange Notes

In spite of the inclement weather of Tuesday evening there was a fair attendance at Union Grange No. 64, and a fine program was enjoyed consisting of an original paper on "The Origin of Thanksgiving," an illustrated reading "Then and Now," a tableau, "The Day Before Thanksgiving," "Thanksgiving Day" and "The Day After" and several readings. Mrs. Rose Putnam had charge of the program.

There was a guessing contest on the number of seeds in a pumpkin, the result being rather a surprise to most people, the number being 454.

Will all patrons bear in mind that their quarterly dues are now payable and especially those who are far in arrears, pay up as the funds are needed to meet current expenses.

Ann M. Ward, Secy.

Red Cross Roll Call

Again the Red Cross Roll Call! This year the drive will be from Nov. 11 to 24. It will hardly be a drive however for most everyone will be glad to renew his allegiance, without any coercion, to this fine organization.

Mrs. Aspengren has the roll call in charge as far as Belchertown is concerned and will inaugurate a house to house canvass as formerly. Old friends are asked to renew and new names are also solicited.

The Red Cross car and its upkeep are still cared for by the organization, so Belchertown is not without its visible signs of what money contributed accomplishes, although the scope of the work is world wide. Remember the dates—Nov. 11 to 24.

With Our Subscribers

Mr. Editor:
Will there be room in your next number for the creed proposed by the Federal Council of the Churches? Some of your readers who might not otherwise see the Creed will be glad to do so. It may make the coming Sunday, Nov. 6, a more significant day and, perhaps, serve as a center around which their thoughts concerning the conference on Disarmament may crystallize. This conference is to meet Nov. 11, Armistice Day. If the purpose for which the conference is called meets with some measure of real success, that date will become more memorable as marking the beginning of a new era of goodwill and peace in the world.

It is a hopeful sign and one worthy of note that so many voices have requested that prayer be offered for the success of the conference. Our president, our governor, have asked us to pray for its success, our religious leaders, both Protestant and Catholic likewise, have commended this subject to the prayers of praying citizens. And why not? The nations have come to another parting of the ways. Will they take the path that leads to goodwill and peace or keep on the old path of suspicion, fear and enmity that ends in war.

The nations assemble by their representatives to consider the limitation of armaments and other

She married John H. Gray of Worcester in April, 1869, and they lived there until 1872, when they moved to Boston. Her husband died in 1908, since which time she has made her home with her daughter.

Besides three children, William Sanford, Percy Allen, and Gertrude Amanda (Gray) Googins, she is survived by one brother, George M. Fisher, formerly of Belchertown. Burial services were held on Wednesday, November 2nd, from the Congregational Chapel, and interment was in the family lot.

Red Cross Entertainment
The Red Cross entertainment in Community Hall Wednesday evening was both a pleasant and a profitable occasion. The weather outside was about the opposite but there were some who knew it would be worth while to come out.
The following program was rendered:
Songs Pupils of Miss Knight's room
Song Ellen Jepson
Play Pupils of Miss Shattuck's and Miss Towne's rooms Duet Alice Yezina and Louis Fuller
Address Dr. Miner of Springfield Toothbrush Drill Pupils of Miss Stebbins' room
Solo Mrs. Clarinda Shaw
Each song and exercise taught a lesson in hygiene in a manner quite impressive. The play especially with the seven fairies, Sleep, Fresh Air, Cleanliness, Comfy-Clothes, Proper Toys, Milk, and Laughter, portrayed quite forcibly the effects on a home when they are allowed to enter.

The address by Dr. Miner of Springfield, district health officer, was instructive and delivered in a manner interesting both to children and grown ups. Dr. Miner is one of seven district health officers in the state, with the Connecticut valley as his district.
He said that we are now living in an age of hygiene and whereas some of the older ones would say that they never heard anything about these things when they were young, and managed to live through, still the war showed a great deficiency in health, a deficiency that Massachusetts was quick to try to remedy. Older ones will find it hard to change their mode of living but work with the children will prove highly profitable in the future years.

Center School House Burns
The Center school house lies in ruins as a result of a fire discovered at about 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. Those early at the scene claim that the fire was at first confined to a small area near the air shaft at the front of the building. When this was broken into the draft shot the flames to the top of the structure, and it was soon out of control. The fire department responded but was powerless to do anything save to get out a majority of the teachers' desks, the piano in the grammar room and some of the text books. The smoke soon drove the workers out of the building which shortly became a mass of flames.
A stream of water was played on the engine room and coal shed on the north end of the building but the intense heat of the burning main structure made it of no avail. After the flames had subsided, however, the fire in the coal pile was put out, so that nearly thirty tons of coal were saved.
There was little wind so that other buildings were not seriously endangered, although quick action was necessary to keep the fire out of the dry grass in the rear of the dwellings on Maple St.

The conflagration attracted considerable attention. Most all the townspeople turned out and many from surrounding towns visited the scene.
A number of valuable books owned by the teachers were lost besides a great mass of scholars' text books, etc.
A great many theories have been put forth as to how the fire started but none have as yet been proven. It did not start in the chemical laboratory, neither can it be laid to any faulty heating conditions. The janitor left the building in a safe condition at 5 o'clock.
The school house has stood for over half a century, has been added to and added on to, so that it had become in the minds of many of the citizens a rather unsatisfactory arrangement to meet present conditions, nevertheless those who saw it burn were not unmindful of its associations and were sorry to see it go up in smoke.
The burning of the building again brings the school situation to a head and presses for an immediate solution.

Future School Plans
The school committee is doing its best to provide temporary school facilities pending the erection or purchase of permanent quarters. Federal St. school will be used for grades 7 and 8 and will begin just as soon as books are procured. The plan is to obtain the Methodist vestry for the High school, and the 5th and 6th grades are as yet unprovided for. The Board of Trade called a citizens' meeting last evening when an opportunity was presented the voters to express themselves.

The Red Cross Calls
As previously announced, the Red Cross membership drive starts today. In a letter received from headquarters at Northampton late yesterday, telling of the world-wide scope of the Red Cross work, was a personal appeal to the people of Belchertown. We pass this on entire to our readers.

"But someone may say that the requests for our dollars come very frequently of late. What has Red Cross done for Belchertown? Frankly my friends, the Hampshire County Chapter of the American Red Cross has done more for you than for any other town in the County. Through their courtesy, your nurse has the use of an automobile so that she may cover more ground in promoting good health among you. Your women have enjoyed the benefits from the course in Elementary Hygiene and Home Care of the Sick with only the expense of a text book, and Dr. Sherwood is now with you doing preventative dental work with the children. The expense to you for each operation is less than one-third the regular cost, without considering the expense of transportation. He has already treated 165 children, performing 405 operations, and we hope that you parents will give your consent so that each of the 550 children in your midst may have the opportunity of improved dental conditions. Can you afford not to give Red Cross your dollar for membership in 1922?"

Applies Christian Principles

Rev. H. P. Rankin, at the evening service of the Federated church last Sunday showed how Christian principles need to be applied at the coming peace conference. While not unmindful of America's standing in the world, he ventured the opinion that there are ways we need to mend if we intend to further world peace. "America has not always done right—not always," he said.

"And our so-called Americanism" he reminded his hearers, "is thought of abroad as connected with show and ostentation." Too patronizing we are indeed to foreigners, he continued. We complain that England brags, but we are reminded that England has some things to brag about. We speak of the Jap condescendingly, but when the English want something really artistic in construction, they turn to the Japanese.

Speaking of a possible war with Japan, Mr. Rankin said, "God pity us if we have war with Japan. With ships in the air, on the sea and under the sea, both nations would bid fair to be wiped out." And then too, we must bear in mind that fights never settle anything. A sorap on the street never shows which party is right.

Wars are the result of national selfishness, he said, and in the last analysis they can be traced to that. The last war was an excellent illustration. Germany desired to rule the world, and that same spirit of selfishness will be the cause of the next war, if we have one.

The speaker further said, "I pray God that America may not go into the conference just to see what she can get." Regarding the agitation about the cancellation of Europe's war debt, he said he was not so sure but what we should have done so, and went on to note the depreciation of foreign currency which permits of little trade with this country where we are at the present time so anxious to do business.

If Christ should be present at the peace conference in person, he ventured the assertion that he would insist that the nations obey one universal law, viz that each nation should do by every other nation as it would wish to be done by.

Mr. Rankin said in closing, "Let no one misunderstand me. I am loyal to my country and shall continue to pray, fight and work that she may do what she should." The sermon was not a political one in the sense of the speaker's siding with any party but was a searching call to America and her people to walk the way of righteousness.

Plan Joint Social Gathering

In the interest of greater sociability between those connected with the two branches of the Federated Church a committee of ladies representing both the Congregational and Methodist social organizations have arranged for an initial social gathering to be held next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the M. E. vestry. All over sixteen years of age are invited to come determined to have a social, jovial and jolly good time. Games for all will help to make up the program and light refreshments will be served.

The reason for the age limit as above stated is that the young people have been fairly well provided for, whereas the older ones have been in the background and inclined to go their separate ways. While the churches have been federated in name for some time it is hoped that gatherings such as outlined above will tend to make it more of a reality.

Vernon Lodge Officers

Vernon Lodge elected the following officers at its business meeting Wednesday evening:

A. L. Squires, W. M.; F. Dudley Walker, S. W.; Harry E. Sessions, J. W.; Myron Ward, treas.; H. A. Hopkins, sec'y.; E. A. Rudd Fairchild, chaplain; Fred D. Walker, marshal; Alvan R. Lewis, S. D.; Roy G. Shaw, J. D.; Emory E. Grayson, S. S.; Edward L. Schmidt, J. S.; O. Milton Baggs, I. S.; Wm. Orlando, Tyler.

M. G. Ward was chosen trustee for three years; A. R. Lewis, associate member, board of Masonic relief, and R. E. Dillon, proxy to Grand Lodge. The organization voted to change the by-laws regarding dues as proposed from two dollars to three dollars.

PROBATE COURT

On petition of Carrie F. Davis of Belchertown in the County of Hampshire, the wife of Ozro B. Davis of said Belchertown, representing that she has been deserted by, and is living apart from her said husband for justifiable cause, and praying that said Court will make a decree establishing the fact of such desertion, and that she is so living apart from her said husband,

It is ordered that the petitioner give notice to the said Ozro B. Davis to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Northampton in the County of Hampshire, on the sixth day of December A. D. 1921, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, by delivering to him a copy of this order fourteen days, at least before said Court, if he may be found within this Commonwealth, that he may then and there show cause, if any he has, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted; or if he shall not be so found, by either leaving such copy at his usual place of abode, or by mailing such copy to him, at his last known post-office address; and also, unless it shall be made to appear to the Court by affidavit, that he has had actual notice of the proceedings, by publishing the same once in each of three successive weeks in the Belchertown Sentinel, a newspaper published in Belchertown, the last publication to be one day at least before said court.

The cemetery commissioners request those who have left vases or pitchers on the various cemetery lots in town to remove same as they are liable to be broken, especially if water has been left in them. The commissioners are clearing up the grounds for the winter.

Mrs. Geo. Witt and Miss Marion Bartlett attended Founder's Day exercises and also their class reunions at Wesleyan Academy last Saturday. Mrs. Witt, who was a member of the class of '86 was one of thirteen out of a class of twenty, eighteen of whom are living, to attend their 35th anniversary. As some of the class reside in the far West, the attendance was quite remarkable. The occasion was a memorable one.

A thimble party will be held with Mrs. Geo. Davis next Wednesday afternoon to tie a quilt. Eighteen were present at the last thimble party where $22 was turned in by those who had earned $1 each. The "experiences" were highly entertaining.

The Girl Scout food sale has been indefinitely postponed.

Use the Hotel?

Mr. Editor:-

The building known as the Park View Hotel was erected for educational purposes. Will the town redeem it? Experience has proved that a hotel cannot be profitably run in a small town under the present prohibition laws, and in my mind this building will at no distant day be used for other purposes. The Belchertown tax levy is now more than double what it was a few years ago and the thought of a bonded debt of one hundred thousand dollars strikes terror to the hearts of the farmers, as well it may.

To Form Junior Society

Next Sunday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock there will meet a number of young people between the ages of ten and fourteen in the vestry of the Methodist church to start a live, energetic, "peptimistic" Junior Young People's Society. They will elect their own officers and run their own meetings with the help and supervision of a committee which has been appointed by the Senior Young People's Society for that purpose. We have unlimited hopes and faith in this project. It will be a stimulus to the present society and an active factor in the Federated church. This Junior Society will give their own socials and will plan interesting events which will be of great value to its members. Are you between 10 and 15? Are you a real girl or fellow? Are you a Pusher and won't have to be pushed? If so, let us see and greet you next Sunday afternoon. "Bring your chum."

Women Not Extravagant

To the Editor of the Belchertown Sentinel;

The press yesterday printed an account of the alleged proceedings of the Republican State Committee meeting at which the resignation of Francis R. Bangs as Treasurer was accepted. Mr. Bangs has been, and is, a decided asset to the party organization and his insistence upon his resignation is deplored by all members of the committee. The idea might properly be drawn from the press accounts that the Women's Division was spending too much money; indeed one account used the word "extravagance." The thought is so far from the true that the erroneous idea, if it exists, should be corrected. I was Chairman of the Committee in 1919-1920, and had some slight part, I believe, in assisting in organizing the Women's Division. As now completed it ranks not only first, compared with other states, but, as former Chairman Hays once said to me — "in a class all by itself."

The women of Massachusetts contributed approximately $30,000 to the Republican Party last year. It cost a little over $23,000 to build the Republican women's organization from the ground up. This included a State Committee of 40 and a complete organization in every city and town throughout the Commonwealth, with the exception of five small towns, which were so strongly Republican that a committee was deemed unnecessary. This splendid organization is largely the result of the work of Mrs. James D. Tillinghast, the present Executive Chairman of the Women's Division. The women have spent since January 1, 1921 a little over $7000. As a matter of fact, therefore, the Republican women of Massachusetts have financed themselves since their entrance into politics. They are now arranging for a bazaar from which they hope to realize enough to carry their work through the coming year 1922 and to 1923.

The thinking men of our party earnestly desire to deal generously with the women. Constant organization, meetings, lectures, literature and similar activities are very necessary. To curtail now is suicidal. The men have been organized and voting for 135 years, the women only 13 months. Their vote will equal and probably surpass the men's at the next election.

My experiences of 12 years as a member of the Republican State Committee show me that for earnestness of purpose, sacrifice, vision and careful expenditure of funds, the men must bend the knee and doff the hat to the women. Our desire is of course to deal with them justly, and by so doing clinch Republican success at the ballot box.

He commented on attention being paid to children's teeth, stating in connection that 90 per cent of children's teeth had been found defective. In closing he asked the pointed question "What is life without health?"

Schools Running Again

With a loss of the High school building which contained also all but four of the lower grades, only two school days elapsed before all classes were resumed. In later years this will be looked back upon as a rather remarkable record. The B. H. S. Freshmen are in the M. E. vestry and the rest of the school in the town hall, awaiting the completion of work in the vestry. The 5th and 6th grades are in the chapel awaiting the erection of desks in engine house hall. The 7th and 8th grades are being transported to Federal St., but the plan is to get these housed in the center shortly. The new desks arrived last week and some of the new text books are here.

B. H. S. Supper

The High School did not burn. It was simply the building. At the Grange hall Wednesday evening there were just as many scholars in evidence, just as much at the tables to eat, just as many patrons and just as much food left over as if nothing had happened. If anything, the atmosphere was a little more tense with interest.

The Seniors had planned and carried out the affair with precision, and the money received for tickets, and the sale of home made candy and pop corn balls, which were dispensed by the two lady assistant teachers and the sale of pies, cakes etc., by "Auctioneer" Thos. Allen will probably bring the proceeds up to about $50.

After the supper Miss Vezina gave a piano solo, Mrs. Henry Witt, two monologues, a French lad a French recitation and D. F. Shumway a talk on former school days which we report elsewhere.

A fine spirit of generosity characterized every phase of this school enterprise.

Grange Officers

At the annual meeting of Union Grange last Tuesday evening the following officers were elected:

Mrs. Amy Witt, Master; E. A. Randall, Overseer; Mrs. Mary Spencer, Lecturer; Wilfrid Noel, Steward; Paul Aldrich, Asst. Steward; Mrs. Leila Curtis, Chaplain; Mrs. Melvina Cutting, Treas.; Miss Ruby Knight, Sec'y; Edgar Shumway, Gate Keeper; Miss Flora Preston, Cores; Miss Gertrude Riley, Pomona; Miss Gertrude Story, Flora; Miss Emma Stadler, Lady Asst. Steward; M. G. Ward, executive committee for three years.

Federated Sociable

One looking through the windows of the chapel Monday night would have thought that those gathered for the first Federated sociable were having a good time. There was no great crowd, but the weather was not auspicious for one. It was a nice, social company, anyway. The sociability started with the bean bag throwing which though it hazarded life and the pursuit of private conferences, sort of cut the atmosphere for what followed.

Lining up a set of youngsters for passing a half-dozen bean bags down the line and back would of course not be so very startling but the bunch that was lined up Monday night was quite an auspicious aggregation and worthy of telling about. They needed to be "told" things as well as the younger generation, however, and of course they had to be admonished to play fair and to take defeat bravely. Peck's Persistents won several straight heats from French's Formidables and nothing could change it.

Then came the spelling match when the same line-ups, each person in which was tagged with a different letter, broke ranks to get in proper position to spell certain words as they were given out. This contest would have put new life and ambition into those just a bit backward in their spelling lessons.

Of course all indulged in punch and cookies. Many tried to do such an apparently insignificant thing as to throw a card into a basket, and a few celebrities engaged in a "rooster fight."

The great animal show followed, however. Here anyone could have the privilege of looking at any desired specimen. Our reporter did not dare enter these dangerous precincts but we have an idea that a good sized mirror turned the trick. One surprising result however was that, like a veritable fairyland, each person turned into the animal he wanted to see and came back into the room making noises indescribable.

No preachments were made about getting together and loving one another and being sociable, and all that. They just did, that's all. That was what it was held for and it was all so very fine that from what was said we surmise the "old folks" will get-together again.

Schools of Former Days

Dwight F. Shumway, at the entertainment following the High school supper Wednesday evening, told how the schools of Belchertown were managed in former days. It seems there were seventeen school districts and eighteen schools, two of which were in the center, a "big" one and a "little" one in the old brick hall that stood on the site of the present chapel. Mr. Shumway said that for two years in the "small" school he had for teacher, Miss Diantha Allen, aunt to Principal Thos. Allen. In this connection he commented on what the Allens had done for Belchertown's schools, citing the names of Samuel, Roswell and Guy Allen.

Each district was a town by itself and in the fall of each year a man was chosen a prudential committee in each district, hiring and paying the teacher and seeing that the room was heated. There was in addition a town committee of three. "We miss the little old red school house," said Mr. Shumway. The teachers "boarded round" and received no cash remuneration until the end of the term. There were two terms of twelve weeks each, one in summer and one in winter. There was no compulsion in connection with school attendance, but it was the rule to go. In later years the district prudential committees were done away with.

Mr. Shumway also spoke of a Mr. Norcross of the Dark Corner district, who opened a private school in the Post Office building.

After some time the Legislature passed a law that all towns containing over 500 families should provide a High school. This was about 55 years ago. So the town chose a committee who purchased the tavern, now the Park View, which in previous days was a classical school. This was owned by Wm. Burnett and Frank Cook. But for some reason the deal fell through. Then it was thought of buying the Towne place on Maple St., but Major Longley came forward to offer the present school site and his offer was accepted.

The schoolhouse was erected in 1867, Mr. Shumway drawing every stick of timber, and the brick were

Points Way to Peace

In keeping with events transpiring at Washington, Rev. M. P. Rankin has this past week given another series of sermons on the path nations must pursue to attain greatness and peace.

Last Sunday morning he said that our country could spend millions of dollars for battleships which would be obsolete in a few years, yet a town like Belchertown couldn't afford to erect a thoroughly modern schoolhouse.

He again stated that he wondered if it would not be to America's everlasting credit to cancel Europe's war debt and set the wheels of the world's industry in motion. He said that he wished that a company of trained experts might investigate the matter and see if, aside from all altruistic considerations, it would not be good business policy.

Mr. Rankin pled for an enlargement of America's vision and sympathies. In the evening he stated some of the things that would not make a nation great, citing among other things that well filled treasuries, large armies and navies and expanded territory were no signs of greatness that would endure. He named countries that had based their future on such expectations and their name today is but a byword in history.

All the sermons have been constructive in their attitude and based on the firm hope that righteousness will step by step find a lodgement in the world's life.

Mrs. Clarence Hubbard and Mrs. C. R. Green entertained a party of sixteen at the latter's home last Tuesday evening in honor of the birthday of George Clifford. He was presented with a humidor of tobacco. Cake, candy and coffee comprised the refreshments.

G. I. Mead of Winchester is stopping at New Mead farm for the remainder of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Newman entertained a party of friends on Saturday evening, and Sunday evening friends from Amherst called, these occasions being in honor of Mr. Newman's birthday.

Mrs. E. E. Brooks returned home Wednesday from a visit with friends and relatives in Vermont and northern Massachusetts.

Merton D. Olds of Ware was taken to Springfield hospital Wednesday for treatment. He has blood poison in his right limb below the knee. Mr. Olds is a brother of Mrs. H. F. Putnam, and formerly lived on Turkey Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Isaac and daughter Marion and Mr. Duubar of Fitchburg, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. Isaac's brother, James Isaac of this town.

B. H. S. Notes

The Senior class wishes to express hereby their sincere appreciation to all those who contributed food, or aided them in any way to make the benefit supper a complete success.

They say that dust and ashes is the end of all mankind. Well, the school-house is mostly ashes and the town hall is full of dust, but the high school spirit triumphs over all.

Wood made the remark that his watch was being repaired at the blacksmith shop, from which we draw one of two conclusions: either, Red has a gold 20-year guarantee watch; or, blacksmith work is rather dull just now.

The American History class of twenty-one was slightly puzzled when Miss Coon asked them where the Columbia River was. Ten didn't know; nine had a vague idea; one knew, and the other thought she did.

Guy Allen has resolved that ten on a settee is apt to be enough.

Our first lesson in the town hall was concentration.

Bardwell believes that the man who has the most time for leisure is always the busiest.

Henry McKillop thought his head was a model for fitting hats. Miss Coon thought otherwise.

Certain members of the Chemistry class have learned the lesson of the evils of disobedience. The night before the school-house burned, Mr. Brewer told them to take their forty experiments home and study for a review on the following day. Some didn't, and now they have something to take up their leisure hours. New discoveries;

Roadwood is a fast sprinter. Paul Austin buys 40-cent chocolates for class use.

The new books are arriving thick and fast. We begin to appreciate them, having done without them for a week.

The B. H. S. basket ball team met defeat in their opening game of the season at the hands of the Warren High School by a score of 18-7.

The game was an exhibition of rough and tumble from start to finish. The opposing team were dissatisfied because they had to play amateur instead of semi-professional ball, and they started in to show their dissatisfaction.

The home team were decidedly lighter but floor work was about even. McKillop, the new right guard, played a fine game.

Aldrich got the first ringer and Wood got a free try. This finished the scoring for the first half, leaving the score 7-3.

In the second half Dodge came through with another ringer and Wood and McKillop each captured a free try, making a score of 18-7, Warren's favor.

The team expects to have a game in the town hall, Wednesday, with some team.

born in Brimfield, Ill., Aug. 8, 1857, and was married to Fred H. Camp at Brimfield, in October, 1877. She is survived by her husband, two sisters and nephews and nieces.

drawn by his team from a brick yard in Amherst. Addison Burnett did the mason work and a Mr. Jackson the carpenter work. At first only one room was finished off; what was lately the grammar room was used for the High school. The upper room in its unfinished condition was used by Belchertown's brass band which Mr. Shumway commented on quite favorably.

Mr. Shumway said that the loss of the school house was a tremendous one but said to bear in mind that it doesn't matter what kind of a building we have. "Education is a business proposition to you all. Try to get an education to become useful citizens and remember that the greatest man America ever produced, Abraham Lincoln, went to school in a log cabin."

At the close of his talk Mr. Shumway exhibited pictures of the old brick hall, the old Union House, the old Tavern, the long since burned Highland hotel and other interesting pictures.

450 Cookies

The Hampshire County Extension service held its annual meeting in Northampton yesterday. The lunch was composed of cookies mixed or made by the clubs of the county. Alice and Rachel Randall and Frances Sauer, assisted by Miss Erhard, made 450 cookies for the affair, and Harold Landors furnished pork from his "home grown" pig. Sounds good!

Dies In Gilbertville

The body of Leroy Williams of Gilbertville was brought here for burial on Wednesday. Mr. Williams was 73 years of age and was born in Belchertown, the son of Jesse and Jane Powers Williams, but for fifty-three years has resided in Gilbertville.

Mr. Williams was the oldest in the employ of the Gilbertville Manufacturing Co. and the eldest Mason of Eden Lodge of Ware. A year ago the first of January Mr. and Mrs. Williams celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. Williams leaves besides his wife, one son, Morris Powers, and a daughter, Leila Clara, also two brothers, Merrill Williams of this town and Frank Williams of Monson.
Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Town Meeting Dec. 3

A special town meeting has been called for next Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, when the following articles will be considered:

Art. 1. To choose a moderator to preside at said meeting.

Art. 2. To hear the report of the committee appointed in accordance with Article 25 at the last annual meeting and to see if the town will vote to discharge such committee.

Art. 3. To see what action the town will take relative to the erection of a new school building.

Art. 4. To see if the town will vote to appropriate a sum of money for the purchase of books and supplies to replace those burned at the Center school fire.

Art. 5. To see what action the town will take relative to cleaning up the site of the Center School building.

Art. 6. To see if the town will appropriate a sum of money for the erection of a bridge across the Swift River to replace the so-called Chapin bridge.

The article relative to the Chapin bridge is in the warrant as the selectmen may have facts and figures about a proposed structure ready to present at that time.

The Radio-Phone

The advent of the telephone was a great boon to the farmer. By it he was enabled to talk with his neighbors and to people out of town as occasion required. But he still had to travel to the city to get the "latest" in the entertainment line and many a time it was a question as to whether it was worth while to make the effort.

Now it seems that one can sit in his own home and enjoy the luxury of listening to concerts and noted speeches given in cities too remote even for a "Henry" beater to get to without much effort. At least that has been the privilege of one family in town, the Booths, who enjoy to the full, the entertainment provided by the radio-phone furnished and installed by Harold Booth. Foch was personated story by the children, recitations by Jane Shumway and Alice Hazen, a reading, "Plymouth,"

Capital and Interest

Our interest is in proportion to our invested capital. A small investment means a small interest; a large investment indicates a large interest.

Sometimes we awake to realize that we have lost the interest we once had in good literature. It is because we have reduced our investment. Oftentimes we say, "I lost my interest in the organization and so withdrew my support." When we say this it is quite likely that we have gotten the cart before the horse. A close examination reveals the fact that our capital in the organization had diminished, and as a result, we lost our interest. Let no man deceive himself into thinking that his interest died out while his capital was still large. First, there was a decrease in capital; there followed a decrease in interest.

Take the realm of literature. A man finds his interest in Robert Browning decreasing. The cause is easily discovered. He has been simply neglecting the great poet and naturally enough, his interest has waned. If a man would recover his interest in Browning, let him pore over the poems once again. It may be difficult at first, but if he perseveres, he will awake to the realization that his old time interest has returned.

It is so in the realm of music. Charles Darwin ceased to invest in music and the result was inevitable, he lost the power of appreciation. But let anyone make a big investment of time and thought and money and sacrifice in music, and no one need fear concerning his interest.

If we find that our interest in the really great causes of the world is so thin it is likely because we have invested little or nothing. And our investment may not be entirely reckoned in money values. Our investment may as well be in time and in brain and in work.

The thing for us to do when we find our interest waning in any noble enterprise is to begin to make larger investments.

Alumni School Fund Proposed

Mr. Editor:

Following is an extract of a conversation recently held between two friends, on the ever interesting topic (much discussed now days) of the future of the schools in town.

Mrs. C. Is there an Alumni Association in the High School?

Mrs. H. No. Why?

Mrs. C. Because if there was, I thought a building fund might be started by their contributions. As an Alumna, I am often solicited to help in school needs, where I once attended.

Mrs. H. That's a splendid idea, I should think it is possible to do that right here.

Now, readers of the Sentinel, let me pass this suggestion along. Who can tell what may be done for the good of the future generation because of those associations with the dear old school, now gone. Is it possible to apply to the Alumni of Belchertown schools for aid in our work of erecting a suitable building, that will be something more than a temporary affair?

Then will our children rise up and call us "Blessed."

It is interesting to note in connection with the burning of the High school records in the recent fire, that in 1893 the records of the school up to that time were also consumed in the fire that burned the Highland property where one of the teachers was boarding.

The Social Guild will meet with Mrs. Leroy Blackmer next Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Five Belchertown young people are home from M. A. C. for their Thanksgiving vacation.

Reminiscences of the Civil War

Mrs. C. F. D. Hazen

Perhaps some of the younger people would like to know where the women at the time of the Civil War scraped lint. You don't remember much of the old Union House. It was a large three-story building with a long wing on the south in which was a long dining room. This wing Mr. Southwick moved to No. Main street and it made a nice little home.

I am ahead of my story, though. The first proprietors I remember were Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Gates, a nice looking couple that came to church in the afternoon. We had all day services.

Then I think Mr. Topliff, his wife and his daughter, Delia, from Greenwich moved in. Then there was Miranda Town, Mrs. Town's daughter. Mrs. Town was a second wife. Her first husband was Mr. Town, the hat peddler. He carried palm leaf to most of the houses in town, maybe, and it was a nice way for mothers and daughters to get spending money.

Then the White family came. It maybe that they moved there at the time of the war. On the third floor of the hotel was a dance hall, the whole top, I think.

That's where Belchertown women met to work for the soldiers. It was the first time I was ever in the hall, also the last. I can plainly see five or six young women on one side seraping lint and making bandages, and in another part many more, older women, were at work sewing. I remember it was thought that they would have to work Sunday and under the circumstances I think they did. It's all the time I remember the hall being used except as a dance hall.

I was twenty years old in 1860 and the boys were going to war from my home neighborhood. There were Perry Bruce, Frank and Nelson Wiley, George and Jerome Draper. On the Enfield road was a Mr. Blackmer and Albert Allen. Henry Hinely lived above us.

In the village was a family of four sons. It was Dea. Montague's family. The third son, James, became impressed that some of the boys should go to the war to help free the poor slave, so he went and lost his life, though he was no warrior, unless the sacrifice of all that was dear to him and the prospect of losing his life made a warrior of him. He was a worthy member of the Congregational church. His dust rests in southern soil. The family erected a nice monument in honor of James Montague.

I do not remember all, but there was Willie Snow. He went in company with Alvertus Morse and others. He was surrounded by rebels. The only way of escape was by swimming and he couldn't swim, so he was taken and cast into one of the southern prisons. He lived to come home and tell the story though he nearly starved.

Then there was Myron Walker, the little drummer boy, whom the soldiers carried on their backs, and, as one man wrote, "who at every turn was always at the top."

I remember Mr. Blake's giving us heart to heart talks on the cause of the war to free the slaves, that the poor slaves were bought and sold, that families were separated, mother torn from her husband and children, the children separated, that they have the same affections as the white man but were bought and sold like cattle, maltreated in every way. Some had hard masters who spared not the lash on their naked backs. Then Mrs. Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" told of the horrors of slavery, how they were taken to market and sold. We have much to be thankful for that slavery was done away with as a result of the great and dreadful war of the North and South.

Sargt. William L. Bishop passed his 79th birthday last Wednesday. He was well remembered with post cards, flowers and other things. Mr. Bishop is a Civil war veteran with a record hard to beat. He enlisted Feb. 11, 1861, to serve three years in the 31st Regiment, Mass. Vol. Infantry. He was discharged Feb. 16, 1864 to reenlist as 1st Sargt. in the same company and regiment. He received wounds in arm and head and took part in the following engagements: New Orleans, Cain River, Baton Rouge, Marksville, Red River, Sabin Cross Roads, Bayou techs, Yellow Bayou, Fort Hudson, Opelousés, Hudnots Plantation, Plaquemine, Grandecore, Pearl River, Bayou Banfocar, Fort Pike, and many others, making nearly thirty in all. He was discharged Sept. 9th, 1865, due to the close of the war. He is a charter member of E. J. Griggs Post.

The Community Meeting

The Community meeting in the Town hall, Tuesday evening was a sort of challenge meeting. Mr.
Paine, the county agent, put it up to the people of Belchertown in strong fashion that he wanted to help the community along definite lines.
Whereas meetings with general topics had been held, the extension service wanted to assist along definite lines and be able to put its finger on a given proposition and point to it as an actual achievement.

Just now the farmers of Granby are interested in the certified potato proposition and the extension service has helped to bring the matter to a head and make possible for the farmers to obtain the seed at practically cost. In like fashion, he would like to help out here. "Of course," he said, "if you have no problems and care for no assistance, there isn't much we can do for you."

Interest developed along a few lines, however, during the meeting from which something definite may result. The farmers present were interested in the certified seed potato proposition, the spraying of apples for scab, and the prevention of and safeguarding of poultry flocks from worm paralysis.

These three propositions will receive specific attention at a later date by means of demonstrations, etc.

Weathering the Storm

Belchertown took its share of the ice storm which swept over this section the early part of the week, getting full benefit of the beautiful effects and also of its ill effects.
"Every pine and fir and hemlock was ridged inch deep with" ice as was also everything in sight. The trouble came when the burden got too heavy and as a result many a fair tree to-day stands a victim to the shock. Branches of every size, strewn the streets, and the wires of the electric and telephone companies looked as though they had been bewitched. The trees on South Main St., Belchertown's Fifth Avenue, suffered severely.

From an economical standpoint the loss of electric service was felt most keenly. From Sunday night to Wednesday night the wires were as harmless as could be, so that when the juice finally came, spilling over the circuit, probably more people expressed their thankfulness than they are usually wont to do.

Harry Sessions, "trouble man" for the wire system, found plenty to do, some of which has not been done yet, as first attention always has to be given to the trunk lines. Cooleyville is still practically isolated from telephone service. Fifteen steel towers on the high tension system running through Enfield succumbed.

Here in town, the main wires were broken at the corner of Walnut and Main Sts. and numerous service wires to houses were snapped.
Where the telephone wires ran in cables there was little damage done.

The storm will shortly cease to be "news," but shade and fruit trees will for a long time bear testimony to something unusual.

A WORD OF COMMENDATION

The work done by the high tension and main line crews, who practically worked night and day, much of the time in the teeth of the storm, to bring order out of chaos, should be deserving of our appreciation as a community; and those who did local work, too, while most of us were inside turning the button to see whether "it" had come, are also deserving of our thanks.

The Basketball Outlook

As the B. A. A., which ran the baseball team in town last summer, is not going to have a basketball team, and in view of the fact that several people have urged me to put on a team, I am going to give it a try.

We always have had good fast games in this town and there is no reason why we cannot have them this year. I will put on just as fast games as ever were seen here provided the people in town attend the games and back the team. The number of people who attend the games will determine the class of teams we can play.

The following well known men have been signed up: "Buck" Davis,
"Herb" Story, "Beef" Spencer,
"Charlie" Austin, "Red" Ball,
"Dane" Grayson and yours truly.
Anybody that knows these players realizes that a real team can be picked from that crew. They will all be there, too.

Another point I wish to bring out is the fact that games will be started on time, that is, 8 o'clock. You won't have to sit around until 9 or 9:30 this year, I promise you.

Admission will be 35 cents for adults, and 25 cents for children.
Be there Saturday night.

"Em" Grayson

Another Get-Together Sociable

Next Monday night, Dec. 5, there will be another get-together sociable in the chapel. The committee in charge, composed of constituents of the Methodist and Congregational churches, met Wednesday evening and laid out a plan of action. While they of course couldn't go into details as to what is going to be doing, they promise special attractions with special emphasis on the word special.

Another thing. They are going to begin promptly at 7:30 and any-who get there later than that are going to miss something.
This will be the second "Old Folk's Sociable," (only those over 16 being eligible) and will be a worthy successor of the first gathering held a few weeks ago.

A Nation's Ideals

Few were at the evening service of the Federated church on Sunday,
but the discourse by Rev. H. P.
Rankin was worthy of the attendance of every citizen. His topic was "A Nation's Ideals" and those he enumerated were ones that need to be seriously considered at this time.

He emphasized the need of our nation's realizing the sovereignty of God and the Kingship of Christ, which were noble contributions of the Hebrew people, and truths that we must not lose sight of to-day.
Our Nation must also bear in mind,
he said, the fact that the human race is a unit and all men are brothers, regardless of nationality or sect.
We do not need to go back so very far in studying the history of the Anglo Saxon race to find that our forebears as well as those of others, lived in caves and did not comb their hair, so that it will not do to speak too disparagingly of other peoples.

Mr. Rankin's words were not inappropriate as his last point was that we must come more and more to realize our individual responsibility. A nation is made up of individuals, a president is the choice of those who make up the nation, and therefore a nation's ideals are the sum total of the ideals of those who compose our national unity.

Rev. Mr. Rankin founded his remarks on the text, "Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people," and running throughout his sermon was the emphatic call to his listeners to take a broad and Christlike vision of the world during these critical days, when each nation is inclined to look out for its own destiny and to think that it is of chief importance.

In the morning Rev. Mr. Terry struck a similar chord at the conclusion of his sermon when he said that the world needs more and more the

Here's to M. Ayers the jolliest kind hair all a-curl.

Here's to R. Brown, who always has a smile.

And here's to Isabelle with those of

B. H. S. A. A. vs. FAITH A. C.

The B. H. S. basketball team went down to defeat before the Faith A. C. of Springfield last Wednesday night. The final score was 41-23 but the game was much closer than this score indicates.

In the first half the home team kept the visitors well in hand. Aldrich scored four baskets, Wood one basket and a free try, Hazen followed his example and Dodge made one basket. The half ended with B. H. S. leading.

When the second half opened everything seemed to be in favor of B. H. S. Aldrich, Hazen and Wood again scored.

Hamilton and C. Stewart ran up the score for the Faith A. C.

The game was fast, exciting and exhibited very efficient floor work on the part of the home team.

Does More For Less

THAT the Ford One-ton truck does more for the farmer or the merchant is proved by the great number of them now in daily use,—that it does this at less cost is shown by the actual figures—a smaller first cost and a much lower expense for operation and upkeep.

The Ford One-ton Truck has proved a great money saver, as well as a labor saver. It has solved the problems of economic transportation between the farm and the city.

The Ford One-ton truck has all the merits of the Ford car, with added strength for greater capacity. The worm drive of aluminum bronze gives unusual and positive power at a very low cost.

Come in and let us show you how the Ford
One-ton Truck will help you and save you money in your work.

IMPORTANT

We are prepared to furnish the Ford Truck equipped either with Standard or Special Gearing. The Standard Gearing gives the truck a maximum of power. The Special Gearing increases the speed of the truck from five to seven miles an hour, converting it into a Fast Delivery Car.

Posts to Profitable Poultry Raising" was worth while. His first Post was A Healthy Flock. He said that abandoned poultry farms were usually not the result of economic conditions but of some epidemic which the owner was not successful in combating. In discussing fecundity, he said that of two hens, one laying 100 eggs and another 200, the latter was 11 times as valuable as the former as it takes 90 eggs to pay a hen's board bill.

When he came to Feeding, he distributed feed formulas gotten out by the college. He said that the cost of the various ingredients from time to time would make it necessary to change this formula somewhat, but said a close following of it was not absolutely essential to success.

Regarding Early Hatching, he said that the period from the middle of March to the first of May was the best time to start chickens. Even though some did moult early, they were more profitable than late hatched ones.

Not much was said about culling but in regard to Hens or Pullets, Prof. Monahan said that the margin on keeping poultry just at present would warrant keeping over more hens than would ordinarily be the case. The average reduction in eggs in a second season, he said, was 19 per cent.

In response to questions regarding supposed cases of paralysis, the speaker said that most cases were not really paralysis in the true sense of the word but worms which made fowls lose control of themselves. He said this was largely due to raising chickens year after year on the same land. He said that if this ab-

In regard to artificial lighting he said that the most satisfactory way was simply to turn on the lights from 8 to 9 p. m., when every hen would leave the roost to get an "extra lunch" that would keep her from moulting at the wrong time and give her added vitality during the short days.

The ladies' section was addressed by Mrs. French, the Home demonstration agent. It was decided to form a class of eight to meet some day in January for the purpose of making dress forms. Those interested along this line are asked to communicate with Mrs. Geo. Scott, who was chosen class leader.

H. F. Putnam received news on Wednesday of the sudden death of his aunt, Mrs. Lucy Bishop, at the home of her daughter in Hartford. When a child she lived on Turkey Hill and attended the school here.

The severe ice storm which lasted the greater part of a week, has kept the people of Turkey Hill so busy dodging falling ice and broken limbs and clearing roads that other news is very scarce this week.

Second Get-Together Sociable

It hardly does for one to use too extravagant language in writing up these get-together sociables for it seems as though the last was always the best. They really are becoming quite a feature in Belchertown life. The one Monday night was quite a rollicking affair. Grown-ups could snap the broom stick on the floor and sh for a fair damsel as well as the younger generation and the pictures drawn by "Killmer's Artists" were just as funny and as hard to guess as those we drew in infancy.

And the special stunts, hanging out the clothes, shoveling water with a spoon, eating dry crackers, sewing on buttons, and what not, were all simply "killing." The dress suit case race, where four strapping fellows were told to don whatever happened to be hidden therein and march across the room and back and take them off, let a Niagara of laughter loose when all sorts of ladies' attire commenced to show up. Prizes were awarded—real and consolation—on many of the events.

Supper partners were chosen from the registration list where all the names were spelled backwards, and all marched by to the tune of coffee, doughnuts and cheese. Then came the birthday cake presentation when J. V. Cook and H. F. Peck "got what was coming to them."

The fellowship was fine and the fun flowed freely from start to finish. The committee was on the job every minute and those in charge of the next gathering will have hard work to beat this one, but they'll probably do it.

The Town Meeting

The town meeting last Saturday, called primarily to consider the school proposition, was a comparatively tame affair. That debate on something indefinite as to a new school building would be fruitless was soon manifest and it was immediately voted "that a committee of five be selected, who shall investigate the matter of school sites and their cost, and present plans for suitable buildings and their cost, shall hold hearings and report at a future meeting, this committee to be chosen by ballot after opportunity has been given for any number of nominations from the floor."

Quite a number of names were then submitted and the ballot which followed resulted in the choice of this committee: W. F. Nichols, G. E. Scott, Everett Geer, Mrs. Geraldine Howard and A. R. Lewis.

The committee on improved school facilities, appointed before the High School burned, submitted a brief verbal report to the effect that the fire had taken the matter out of their hands. This committee was discharged.

It was voted to take the $2500 insurance money and use it for paying for the desks, books, supplies, etc., that had to be bought to replace those consumed in the fire.

The selectmen were instructed to clean up the ruins at the school grounds at once.

The Chapin bridge matter was the joker of the meeting. The bridge, according to some, is improving with age, and is now declared in a sound condition, capable of carrying any load. The opposition was shocked to know that Ware was willing to part with $2400 for something not necessary and that the county commissioners were willing to give $1000 to something not necessary and that the town had previously voted $300 to repair something unnecessary and had later gone so far as to be willing to bear half the expense of an entire wooden bridge which now appears unnecessary. The town was even unwilling to appoint a committee at this meeting to see if a bridge was necessary. As the selectmen had no figures as to an iron bridge, the only kind of a bridge Ware will listen to, the article was tabled and will no doubt grace a future warrant.

Boy Scouts ?

All the men in town over nineteen are invited to a meeting in Engine house hall this evening at 7.30 o'clock, when the Scout executive of the Hampshire County Council of the Boy Scouts of America will be present and talk over the matter of organizing a boy scout patrol here. It is hoped that there will be a large number present.

Hearing Next Tuesday

The committee appointed to investigate school sites will hold a public meeting in the Methodist vestry Tuesday evening, Dec. 13 at 7.30. It is earnestly hoped that a large number of interested citizens will be present that all available sites may be brought to the attention of the committee. After each site has been presented and its merits discussed it is proposed to take a vote in order that the committee may find out how many are in favor of selecting it as the location of the new building.

E. A. Geer, Secretary

Liberty bonds having nearly reached par value we understand that the Robinson Memorial hall may be erected in the near future. It is thought possible that the judge of probate might allow wings to be put on this building to accommodate the High school, thus giving convenient access to the assembly hall and also affording the school a favorable location.

The following extract from the Robinson will is bound to be of interest:

After the payment of the above bequests and my just debts and funeral expenses, I do will, bequeath and devise the rest, residue and remainder of my estate, both real and personal, of which I may die seized, possessed of or entitled to, to Reuben L. Roberts of 95 Milk St., Boston, Massachusetts, and W. B. American Education Week

proclaimed by President Harding under auspices of the National Education Association and the American Legion.

"What is Americanism? Ten years ago you never heard the word at all, and lately you have heard it every day. What does it mean?"

"Time was when the average citizen of these states could go his way entirely occupied by the task of sending his children to school, getting the coal bills paid and following the scores of the world's series. It is true that he was occasionally challenged as to whether he was a Catholic or a Methodist and at regular intervals he was mildly agitated by the query as to whether he was a Democrat or a Republican. But no one ever raised a question as to his nationality. It was not until the war churned the world and people began asking him to be German or French or Irish or English that he found it necessary to plant his feet firmly in the soil and answer: 'Not on your life! Don't you know what I am?
I'm an American.'

"It was then that the word Americanism slipped out of the dictionary into common speech. Since then it has been waved like a piece of bunting or hidden behind like a piece of camouflage. It has recruited regiments, launched fleets, floated bond issues, fought battles, rebuilt cities and rescued whole populations from starvation.

"What does it mean to you?
What does it mean to your next-door neighbor? What does it mean to your schools?"

As the American Legion stands for Americanism, the Chauncey D.
Walker Post 239 of this town, is sending Mr. Fred D. Walker, Jr., Mr. Stanley DeMoss, Mr. Aubrey Lapolicie and its Commander into the schools in the center of the town and to the Franklin school in South Belchertown, to try and show in a simple way to the children, what real Americanism is.

I also think it would be a good idea if the older people of this town would study on the subject of "Flag Etiquette," for if we are to set an example for the younger generation, let's start them right.

B. H. S. Notes

The B. H. S. basket ball team met another defeat last Friday evening when they played Ware High school at Ware town hall. Last year Ware had one of the best school teams in the state, and this year's team promises to be as good, so with the final score of 16-24, the town team feel that they were far from being swamped.

Nearly all this season games have been played on the opponent's floors and our team are beginning to get used to them.

In Friday's game 3 fifteen-minute periods were played. At the end of the first a score of 8-0 in favor of Ware was the result. In the second the score was 16-3 in Ware's favor and in the third the B. H. S. team came through with 13 points.
Aldrich got 2 baskets and 9 free tries; Wood a basket and free try; and Dodge, one basket. Feehan starred for the winners.

Manager Wood announces a return game with the Bay Path Institute team of Springfield to be played in the town hall on Tuesday evening, the 13th, at 8 o'clock sharp.

Although the opposing team is much heavier, the school team is confident of making a good showing.
It is hoped that a large crowd will be on hand to see this fast game.

Annual Church
Meeting

The Congregational church held its annual meeting in the chapel Wednesday evening. After a bountiful supper served by the Social Guild, came the business meeting.
Miss Marion Bartlett was chosen moderator, thus having the distinction of being the first lady to preside at such a gathering in this town.

The various reports showed a continuity of action along all lines while that of the trustees dislosed the fact that the church has been the recipient of a legacy from the estate of Mrs. Charlotte Walker of St. Paul, Minn., she having been at one time connected with the church here.

"In Memoriam," written by Mrs.
M. D. S. Longley, and read by Miss Marion Bartlett, recorded the death during the past year of three members, Mrs. Mary R. Blackmer, Mrs.
Eliza A. Blackmer and Miss Mary E. Richardson. Three former pastors sent greetings by letter, Rev.
P. W. Lyman of Fall River, Rev.
M. H. Fishburn of Frazer, Pa., and Rev. E. P. Kelley of Wellfleet, while Rev. C. H. Smith of Granby was present in person and made remarks.

The response from absent members was large; twenty-five either sent a personal word or pecuniary contribution or both.

The meeting was well attended and was marked by a spirit of fraternity and brotherhood.

Harvest Supper

The Young People's societies who had planned their Harvest supper for several dates and kindly gave way to other organizations, hardly profited financially by their kindness as last Friday night was exceptionally stormy and no great crowd attended their supper. The spirit shown was appreciated however and the event was a pleasing one.

After the liberal supper the following program was rendered.

Drubs Holyoke

The Belchertown Independent basketball team opened the season by giving the Holyoke "Paper City Five" a drubbing. They were not fast enough for the home team who outplayed them all the way and showed promise of a very fast club when they hit some stronger teams later.

The crowd was small, due no doubt to the uncertainty of the lights. It looked at first as though there would not be a game.

I will have to get larger crowds if I am to get real strong teams here.

First class teams which can give the home team real opposition demand a good sized guarantee.

I am going to run a game Saturday, the 10th, and also one on the 17th. The teams coming here will be announced on the posters.

The game Saturday will be a closer affair than last Saturday.

Ball was high scorer last week but the whole team played a fast passing, snappy game.

Formation of "Belcher Club"

Of interest to "ye folks at home" is the formation of a new organization, known as the "Belcher Club." This club embraces all comers from Belchertown now resident in Boston. Its objects are purely social; the accomplishment of these objects is by means of get-together banquets; its results, it is hoped, will render it worthy of continuance by future sojourners at the Hub.

The chief executive, by reason of seniority, wisdom and professional ability, is William Parker, commonly known as Will; second in command is Miss Eleanor Bardwell, who can capably aid the former in his duties. Francis Allen assumes the post of scribe, while to Miss Scott will fall the conservation of the common purse. Newell Booth as toastmaster will lead the jollifications when we gather round the festal board; and upon Don Sherman will devolve the task of ever keeping the absent ones in the minds of those at home. The next gathering is scheduled to occur the Friday following the return from the Christmas and New Year's vacation.

Death of Mrs. Myra Merriam

Mrs. Myra L. Merriam, 74, died Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. A. R. Lewis, as the result of a shock. Mrs. Merriam was born in Westminster, Mass., Mar. 20, 1847, the daughter of T. Dwight and Emeline Clark Wood. She was married in 1868, and spent about fifty years of her life in Leominster, where she was a member of the Congregational Church of Christ. She taught school for 24 years, four in Westminster and twenty in Leominster. Much of Mrs. Merriam's later years were spent in Belchertown, where she made many friends.

She leaves besides her sister, Laura M. Lewis of this town, two brothers, Albert R. Wood of Leominster and Abel Myron Wood of Dorchester. The funeral was held in Haws' Memorial chapel, Leominster, on Wednesday at 1 p. m., Dr. Wm. McLane being the officiating minister. The bearers were Alvan R. Lewis, Albert R. Wood, Abel Myron Wood, Alvan R. Lewis, Jr.,

Death of Mrs. Charles Davis

Mrs. Charles Davis, 80, died at her home on Maple St., Wednesday, after a long period of ill health, having been confined to her home for the past two years. Mrs. Davis was formerly Esther Wheelock and was born in North Amherst, but has spent most of her life in this town. During the days of her activity she was a faithful attendant of the Congregational church.

She leaves besides her husband, who for a long time has also been an invalid, a brother, James Wheelock of Ware. There are also other relatives including nephews and nieces. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Social Union Fair

A Methodist Social Union fair in the Congregational Chapel sounded a bit strange but the willingness of the townspeople to tread new ways these days made its success assured. Even our naughty little mistake of booking the event under "Wednesday" in our last issue failed to wreck the affair. Perhaps it gave the event more publicity.

Anyway, a great many people called at the chapel and parted with their cash during the hours specified. The offerings of aprons and fancy work proved most welcome to the purchasers who had Christmas problems to solve, while candy and "the wishing well" were as enticing as ever.

The well was full of surprises, and a fairy (Ellen Jepson) loaded the bucket that came up through the well curb in realistic fashion. Mrs. Jepson was the "holder" lady 'lding all-blossomed out with creations of every description.

From 5 to 7 o'clock the supper tables beckoned the hungry who could be served by any method, and those fortunate enough to sit down with F. G. Shaw and G. H. B. Green, shared their wedding cakes. The former was 80 years old on the 13th and the latter 76 on the 15th.

The whole event was carefully planned out so that every member of the organization that gave it had a post of responsibility and honor. The Fair committee consisted of Mrs. M. A. Morse, Mrs. F. M. Fuller, Mrs. Leon Ayers, Mrs. Harry Conkey, and Mrs. R. A. French. Mrs. Elmer Peeso, by virtue of her office, was ex-officio commander-in-chief.

The entertainment consisted of the following numbers:

First Hearing on School Building

The first of a series of public hearings on a new school building was held in the main school room in the M. E. church on Tuesday evening and was well attended. W. F. Nichols, chairman of the investigating committee, was moderator and first called for reports on various proposed sites for a building and asked for a discussion. Six propositions were presented: The Hopkins' lot on North Main St.; the Walker property, "Westview," on Main St.; the Peeso place on Maple St.; the Dillon property, below the Fuller house on the Palmer road; the Highland site and the spot where the old building stood.

There was comparatively little discussion on any but the Highland lot prospect and the old school site. The "Westview" proposition contemplated the renovation of the house for a High school and the moving of the barn to the old school grounds for the lower grades. The Peeso project would take in the old "Union house" and the Dillon venture would entail buying the Fuller homestead.

D. D. Hazen, one of the trustees of the Robinson Memorial hall fund, said that in his opinion it was within the scope of the will for the town to add to the $38,000 bequest and make a school building in conjunction therewith to accommodate the High school. This, however, he stated, was up to the judge of probate, who he thought, owing to the will, would be governed in large measure by the consensus of opinion of the townspeople.

There were those present who thought the spirit of the will would

Jeffrey John Aroher Amherst, Vis-souvenir volume commemorative of the centennial celebration at com-laid with red and hand lettered throughout to produce this gem of Mr. Reimann does a large amount

Figures in Rescue

Harold Hazen of this town, a Sophomore of Cushing Academy, figured in the rescue of a five-year old lad who had broken through the ice on Hunt's Pond in Winchendon on Sunday. He and Richard Davies of North Adams were walking by at the time of the accident and rushed to the rescue of the boy who had slid out to thin ice on his sled. After grasping hold of each other they crawled out on the treacherous ice with their human chain and got the child in tow just in time and brought him to shore safely.

It was a great disappointment to the basketball team to have their game of last Tuesday cancelled.
However, one of the fastest and best games of the season will be played in the town hall, Wednesday the 21st, without fail, against Ware High school.

The school team is putting in some fast snappy scrimmages, strengthening their shooting and pass work. So all those who were disappointed Tuesday, come at 8 o'clock Wednesday and support the team.

COMMUNITY CLUB GIFT

On Tuesday morning there was loud applause in the High school room when it was announced to the school that the Community club had voted to give fifty dollars to the piano fund. The pupils expressed their gratitude by a rising vote of thanks. This generous gift brings the fund to an amount which makes a piano seem a possibility in the near future, perhaps leaving some money for much needed music books or science apparatus.

Boy Scout News

Mr. Hillegas, Scout executive of the Hampshire Co. council, was in town last Friday and again Monday in the interest of forming local patrols in Belchertown. The scouts are a growing and efficient organization and it is hoped that the boys here may be able to avail themselves of its advantages.

bequest, with a school building owned by the town, was unfavorably commented upon, as it might lead to complications. This, however, was countered by the statement that after the erection of the building, the town had complete control of the same.

It was also contended that it would be better to have all the schools under one roof as far as heating plants were concerned. The opposite attitude expressed was that the new hall would have to be heated anyway, unless it was going to prove another white elephant, and that the buildings were not far apart. Some contended that this location was too near the center and dangerous traffic and that there was little room for a school yard. There were those who thought it highly desirable to keep the younger children away from the older and there was the counter position that "roughing it" didn't hurt one.

About midway of the discussion a rising vote was called for as to those favoring the combination building and 43 voted in favor. As the meeting progressed the project seemed to meet with more and more favor.

While the meeting was not called for that purpose, the presence of an architect brought forward the matter of the type of building needed. It was thought by the architect and by the Principal of the High School, Thos. Allen, that to have an assembly hall would be a great advantage.
The basement of the proposed structure was thought to be an appropriate place for laboratories or for a gymnasium.

Mr. Allen, in his remarks, stated that the growth of the school in the past two years and the prospect of more pupils coming from the homes of instructors who must locate here in the near future, because of the State School, would make it advisable to plan on space for 125 or perhaps 150 for the High school.

An interesting document submitted to the meeting was a copy of the deed which left the land on which the old school building stood to the town. This was brought forward by D. F. Shumway and was read aloud. It seems that to hold the land without obligation to the heirs it must be used for school purposes but not necessarily for a High school. When more definite figures are ascertained as to the cost of feasible structures it is planned to print in the Sentinel a ballot to be filled out and returned that the committee may know what the feeling of the town as a whole is and will thus be enabled to conduct intensive investigation along the lines of popular desire.

The sense of the meeting was that prompt and decisive action was necessary and when the chairman submitted that he hoped the new building would be ready for occupancy next fall, applause was instant.

THE WATER SITUATION

As discussion came up in regard to buildings of fire proof or semi-fire proof construction, the need of water protection came into the argument, and Mrs. R. G. Shaw voiced the opinion of many when she commented on the futility of putting up an expensive building with the possibility of another conflagration, without fire protection.

Some of the prominent citizens thought it an opportune time, while the memory of the fire was still in mind, to petition the Legislature to compel the state to furnish water to the town of Belchertown. Those conversant with state affairs and with the attitude of the State Dept.
of Health who know the situation here are quite confident that the project will be kindly listened to any action taken thereon.

So at a sort of aftermeeting the gathering appointed a committee of three, consisting of E. C. Witt, D.
D. Hazen and M. A. Morse to act in conjunction with the selectmen in seeing to it that our representative introduces a bill to the above effect.

Opinion was not unanimous on any given project brought up at the meeting but the unanimity of desire to arrive at the most satisfactory conclusions was very marked.

The Amherst-Belchertown Road

L. H. Blackmer, Esq.

Belchertown, Mass.

My Dear Mr. Blackmer;

I am enclosing copy of a letter of
Nov. 23rd last to me from H. D.
Phillips, Dist. Engineer of the Mass.
Highway Com., which explains itself and from which you will note that it is not the present intention of the Highway Commission to even start work on the Amherst-Belchertown highway during season of 1922 notwithstanding fact that the road has been surveyed and resurveyed and assurances given by those in position to speak that contract was to have been let in Sept. 1920 and a provision inserted in contract for road to be finished inside of two years.
As a tax payer and a resident of the town of Belchertown for a portion of each year I feel that I have a right to enter a protest as to the manner in which the town is being treated by the Highway Commission and it seems to me that it's about time the townspeople awoke from their sleep and took action looking towards accomplishing something that would produce results. With over 140 miles of public roads in the town, with taxes higher than any other town in the state with possibly one or two exceptions, what have we got to show for it? nothing much But a little over 3 miles of good state road, about the same number of miles of road in fairly good condition but badly in need of repair and a reputation of having, with possibly one or two exceptions, the worst roads of any other town in the state.

Congress has passed a bill which our President has signed by which $5,000,000 has been appropriated for use in building roads in this country and of this sum the state of Massachusetts is to get about $2,000,000, so with what the state has there is no excuse for lack of funds. With the Amherst-Belchertown road built you can then reach our northern state neighbors as well as all parts of Massachusetts except south and south-east over good state roads so that if a missing link is to be completed it is that part between Belchertown and Amherst. The building of this road would mean much to people of the town without regard to location and action should be taken at once to set in motion the getting of the work started.

I am of the opinion that the most effective method to pursue would be the holding of a public meeting at an early date and at that meeting the passing of a resolution demanding the completion or starting of work looking towards early completion of this very important piece of highway and at the same time a copy of such resolution be sent to your state Senator and Representative demanding of them their active assistance in this matter and in addition that our leading citizens take such other actions as they think best to produce results but don't let's sit down with folded hands trusting that the good Lord or some other cause in its own good time and way will have the road built, for I have noticed that the person who takes hold and helps himself first is generally the most successful.

You can if you desire publish this in your interesting paper.

Cordially,

L. S. Parsons

Mr. L. S. Parsons

43 East 58th St.,

New York City

Dear Sir:

In reply to yours of Nov.
20th, 1921, inquiring as to when the new highway is to be constructed between Amherst and Belchertown, would state that I understand that construction of this road is not on our 1922 schedule.

Very truly yours,

A Word of Thanks

The teacher and pupils of the Center Grammar school all unite in wishing to express their hearty thanks and appreciation to the school committee for the very prompt work in opening the new school room for them. Each pupil appreciates his new desk. For some reason they have a great antipathy for double desks! But that evidently is a thing of the past.

Opportunity is taken at this time also to thank all those who bought calendars and folders of the pupils.
With the proceeds the school has purchased a new clock and sash curtains for their room.

A complete program of the Grammar and Intermediate school entertainment to be held the 23rd, will appear in next week's issue of this paper. Tickets are now being sold for this entertainment.

THE COMING GAME

The local team plays the fast Milton Bradley team of Springfield this week Saturday, the 17th. Last week's game was an improvement over the week before, and the game Saturday will be the fastest yet. The manager of the Milton Bradley combination made this statement in a letter to the local manager: "My team can give your team, fast, clean and successful opposition." The members of the Belchertown five have their doubts about the successful part of the above statement and feel that they must be shown.

The management wishes to state that the gate receipts from the games are not paying expenses. No team can continue to exist that loses money, therefore unless a big crowd turns out for this game it will have to be the last one, for the time being, at least. "Em"

Extension Courses and Lectures

Announcements were received in town some time since of University extension courses and lectures which are made available by the State Department of Education. These include citizenship classes for women, Current events lecture courses and general lectures. Along all these lines the department has made arrangements so that for a nominal sum the country community can have the opportunity of having something first-class.

While the prices for lectures are not for publication, they are surprisingly low. A great variety of subjects is offered. Here are a few.

From Steerage to Citizenship
What is an American Boy Life and Labor in America
The Farmer and his Troubles Money and Banking Immigration

Two lectures, "Hospital Work Among Wounded Soldiers" and "History and Aims of Girl Scout Movement" can be had by simply paying traveling expenses.

If a citizenship class for women would appeal, the following paragraphs explain that. In fact if the people of Belchertown have a thirst for any of these worth while things, a fine opportunity awaits them.

CITIZENSHIP CLASSES FOR WOMEN

One course called American Citizenship, is primarily an explanation of the functions of the government in city, state and nation. A special feature of this course is detailed instruction in the procedure of voting.

The relation of government to the social and economic problems of the day is discussed. This course, consisting of ten lessons, is essentially a study course demanding work outside of the regular lesson period. A charge of one dollar for each student is made which covers the cost of the textbook which will be supplied.

The other course, called Fundamentals of Citizenship, deals especially with the benefits extended from

Death of William Knowlton

William Knowlton, flagman on the C. V. R. R. at Kelley's crossing, was found dead in the rear of his home about 8 o'clock yesterday morning by Paul Barrett who was passing by with his car. He had evidently been out to his coal bin, secured a hod of coal, locked the door again and succumbed on his return, as the hod of coal was by his side.

Chas. P. Ayers, who lives near by, noted a light about ten o'clock and investigation in the morning showed that the lamp had burned out. The body was badly frozen and probably had laid out most of the night.

Mr. Knowlton was born Aug. 29, 1851 and was a man of genial disposition, a constant reader and greatly interested in flowers, of which he had an abundance in the summer time about his dwelling. He leaves two nephews and two nieces.

The funeral will be held from the chapel Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery.

the community to the individual through organized government, and the consequent responsibility of the individual to the community. This course, consisting of six lectures, is primarily inspirational and suggestive in its aim. No study material is furnished and therefore no charge is made. It is possible to supplement this course with a series of citizenship plays which are described in the enclosed pamphlet. When this six-lecture course is thus supplemented, the enrollment charge is $1 for each student to cover the necessary extra expenses.

A class will be formed when a sufficient number of enrollments have been secured to assure an average attendance of at least twenty students. As this Division aims to instruct as many people as possible, it is advisable to start a class with more than the minimum number.

If you are interested in the organization of a class in either American Citizenship or Fundamentals of Citizenship, the Division of University Extension will be very glad to cooperate with you. Address communications to the attention of Helen W. Lynch, 213 State House, Boston, 9, Mass.

Funeral of Mrs. Charles Davis

The funeral of Mrs. Charles Davis was held from the home last Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. H. P. Rankin, officiating. The bearers were John Helliwell of Spencer and T. Whalen of North Amherst, sons in law; and George Davis of Warren and Raymond Tyler of Leverett, nephews. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Obstacles in Time of Peace

In the days of war, obstacles did not daunt us. It made no difference what the obstacle was, no one thought of letting it stand in the way of getting the task done. It seemed impossible to raise an army in a night and get them to the fighting line. But we surprised the world as well as ourselves by the swiftness with which this was accomplished. It seemed impossible to get our men across the Atlantic. The obstacles looked insuperable, and yet no one dreamed of succumbing. There were difficulties everywhere, perils on every hand and dangers wherever one looked. And he who ran in the face of them was frowned upon, he was considered unmanly, he was called a slacker. Men were determined to find a way around obstacles, or if that could not be done, to fight their way through them. No task was abandoned simply because there were difficulties to face. Men did not whine at dangers, they whimpered not even in the face of death. However huge the difficulties, they were to be bravely met and conquered even though men lost their lives in the undertaking.

The same attitude towards difficulties and obstacles and dangers should be taken in days of peace. The men gathered at the Disarmament Conference find vexatious problems, they find seemingly insuperable obstacles in the way of disarmament, they continually discover new forces blocking every road. But what of it? The difficulties may be as huge and as troublesome as were the difficulties that faced the generals in the war. But what of that? We are not going to be baffled by obstacles simply because we are living in days of peace. We must face them as bravely as did the soldiers in the Argonne forest. Let no one be dismayed because of the tremendous difficulties in the way of disarmament; let no one think of giving up because the question is so tangled up with other matters. Let us insist that our leaders must find a way out of every tangle and not throw down their task till the world is relieved of the age-long burden of armaments.

B. H. S. Notes

It has been noticed that certain members of Chemistry and Biology classes are unable to learn from the text, at least every spare period and every recess is spent in asking questions of the teachers.

Warning to a certain group of Seniors:—

"Early to bed and early to rise, Makes one healthy, wealthy and wise."

Mr. Allen announced that one room would be reserved for study during recess and the noon hour period. Two season seats might be reserved for — ?

Self-praise goes a long way, but it reached its destination Saturday night. Ask Mgr. Wood.

In Biology class the students are arranged alphabetically, but there seem to be exceptions.

"Little bits of funniness, Little words of sass; Put them all together And you have the freshman class."

"The freshman grins, The sophomore blows, The Junior growls, The Senior knows."

"You can always tell a Senior by his serious frown.

You can tell a Junior by his walk around the town.

You can tell a Sophomore by his socks and such.

You can always tell a freshman, but can never tell him much."

"If you think these jokes are raw, cook up some better ones."

Many Ford owners can afford to own and operate any car they may choose, but they prefer a Ford "because it is a Ford."

For "because it is a Ford" means dependability, ease of operation, efficiency—and it means sure, quick transportation.

And "because it is a Ford" means good taste, pride of ownership and genuine Common Sense.

The Ford Sedan, a closed car of distinction, beauty and convenience, is the ideal all year round car, for pleasure or business—for the farm, town or city. It gives you all that any car can give at a much lower cost for operation and maintenance.

Another Sociable

Another one of those get-together sociables is scheduled for Monday evening in the chapel at 7.30 o'clock sharp. In view of the reputation these affairs have achieved, the very announcement of the function should be sufficient to draw out the townspeople. The committee in charge, with full knowledge of what they are doing, promise the best yet.

Special Christmas Service

The United Young People's Societies of the Federated church proved themselves fully capable of planning and executing the special Christmas service last Sunday evening. There was a large chorus choir and Misses Eleanor Bardwell and Jean Warren sang a duet. Scripture relating to the boyhood of Jesus was read by Theodore Hazen, who commented on events relating thereto.

Newell Booth a student of theology in Boston University, gave an appropriate sermonette on gifts we should bring to the Savior, and Miss Alice Booth read a Chinese play entitled "No Room in the Inn." This was especially well rendered.

A unique feature of the evening's program was the presence of a phonograph on which were played by Donald Hazen, one of Dr. Clark's speeches at the New York convention, and also the hymn, "Blest be the Tie." Francis Allen presided at the meeting. Those attending the various institutions of learning figured prominently in the program.

A Christmas Surprise

Rev. H. P. Rankin will have reason to remember this year's Christmas. When he went home from the entertainment in Grange hall last Friday evening, he found a Christmas tree on the parsonage premises all decorated and a multitude of presents beneath. Best of all, he also found about seventy-five parishioners, responsible for the surprise, who greeted him with voliferous cheers.

Under the canopy of heaven, a sort of impromptu program was rendered. J. V. Cook, on behalf of the company, made a presentation speech and James Aldrich and Walter Dodge sang. Mr. Rankin mustered a few words in response and soon the crowd separated, but the provisions will last for many a day and the memory of the people's kindness will last longer.

O. E. S. Officers

Mr. Vernon Chapter, O. E. S., at a recent meeting elected the following officers: Mrs. Maud Aspengren, Worthy Matron; Carl F. Aspengren, Worthy Patron; Mrs. Geraldine Howard, Associate Matron; Mrs. Louise Sherman, secretary; Mrs. Ella Ward, treasurer; Mrs. Ninfa Collard, conductress; Mrs. Gertrude Randall, associate conductress.

Benefit Entertainment

There was a large attendance at the benefit entertainment given by the Center Grammar and Intermediate schools in Grange hall last Friday evening. The Christmas story in recitation, song, play and exercise was entertainingly told. While the schools have been in a more or less unsettled condition of late, due to the fire, still the program lacked nothing in quality. The Christmas songs were especially pleasing.

At the close of the program the scholars visited the post-office in the front part of the room and were handed the mail. Santa Claus had left in the person of fellow classmates or teachers. The latter, too, found something in their box.

The proceeds of the entertainment which were $21.25 will be used for replacing school room furnishings which were lost.

Death of Mrs. Rowena P. Slater

Mrs. Rowena P. Slater died at her home in the north part of the town last Friday at the age of 96. She was born in Belchertown May 24, 1825, and was the daughter of Jacob Thayer. She leaves a son, Myron Thayer. The funeral was held at the home Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. H. P. Rankin officiating. Burial was in South cemetery.

Enjoy Fox Hunt

The Metacomet Fox, Rod and Gun club held a fox hunt on Tuesday. About twenty went, and while no foxes were taken, four were seen and two shot at. Twenty-five sportsmen enjoyed the oyster supper in Grange hall at the close of the day. Another meet will be held next Monday.

The club is prospering, having now thirty-five members. Others interested are invited to join. The organization plans to cooperate with the state authorities in stocking the lakes with fish this coming summer, as hunting is only a part of the program.

Death of Guy Chapin Allen

The passing of Guy C. Allen on Wednesday removes from the town one of its most substantial landmarks. Belchertown will hardly be the same without this original personality in its midst. He was a man of keen intellect, vital in his thinking and persuasive in his speech. He always lived in a "house by the side of the road" and was ever a "friend to man." Youth and old age were alike edified by contact with this personality that never teemed to grow old, although the years crept upon him and failing sight and diminishing strength curtailed his labors.

He was possessed with a keen sense of humor which stood him in good stead during his forty years as auctioneer, and which was always manifest in his writings, many of which have appeared in our columns. No old home day or special celebration was quite complete without an original poem from Guy C. Allen.

His was a wide acquaintance as his work took him to practically all the New England states, and once having met him the memory of his personality abided. Mr. Allen has served the town in various capacities, being school committeeman, tax collector and assessor. He was a member of Vernon Lodge and has also been identified with the Eastern Star and Union grange.

He first saw the light of day in Prescott, Apr. 27, 1841, being the son of Roswell and Beulah Chapin Allen. Four years later the family moved to the farm on the Enfield road, which farm has long since been known by his name. On Oct. 20, 1863, Mr. Allen married Mary E. Welch who survives him. He leaves besides his widow, four children, Mrs. Frank Austin, Mrs. E. A. Randall, Mrs. Louise Sherman and Guy C. Allen, Jr., also nine grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The funeral will be held in the Congregational church, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. C. H. Smith of Granby, assisted by Rev. H. P. Rankin, will officiate. Vernon Lodge will have charge of the funeral service.

The Aftermath

BY JOSEPH HAYES CHANDLER (printed by permission)

Mightiest of workers is the Summer sun, Through days prolonged, by ardent passion led

But when October moons serenely smile

On earth's fair harvest tables, heaped with food, The sun from heated labors rests awhile

So when has come to us life's aftermath, 'Tis meet we too should cease our feverish ways;

Hot Summer toils to make things for man's use—

But Beauty's servant may the Autumn be; And dowered with wealth of coloring profuse,

Then, then, indeed, come earth's most wondrous days—

They could not be in budding, partial June; Nature the mystic miracle delays

Then earth, a temple vast not made with hands,

While restless life in reverent quietness stands, As Beauty woos man's soul to holiness.

When we with earthy cares are cumbered less, Than may we turn to commerce with the skies;

Why then lament the loss of lavish strength? Enough remains for Beauty's quiet quest;

Glad welcome then we give the years to be— This first, whose secrets hid we soon explore;

On common paths, be ours the gift to see Fair flowers which halt the feet that trod on them before.

DERIVED FROM EARLY CUSTOM

How Missouri Got Its Now Generally Used Nickname of the "Show-Me" State.

An early-day custom in Missouri regarding marriages is said to be responsible for the famous expression, "I'm from Missouri; you've got to show me."

A good many years ago the marriage laws in Missouri were so loose that any one could get married without answering many questions. In 1881 a law was passed making it a misdemeanor for a minister of a justice to marry persons not having a state license. It also set the age of marriageable women at eighteen. If the applicant for a license did not know the age of his bride-elect he had to show her to the license clerk and let him judge her age.

How You Can Be Transparent

A liquid that renders flesh invisible or transparent has been invented. If a hand or arm is immersed in this liquid its flesh will disappear almost entirely from view; the bones, however, will be visible, as under X-rays. The mixture makes the flesh of your hand transparent because it has the same index of light refraction as the flesh. The light rays passing through the liquid are not bent, or refracted, when they pass through the flesh, though they are bent by the bones, which have a different index of refraction.

Different parts of the body have different indices of refraction; any part can be made to disappear by submerging it in the proper liquid. But not all parts at once, so the magic cloak of invisibility is still to be discovered.

How World's Tonnage Increases

The world's total ship tonnage last February exceeded by 10,000,000 tons the amount afloat just before the war. It is estimated that not less than 8,000,000 tons gross register now lie idle.

Social Guild Supper

"You must have a great many fine cooks in town" was the remark of a comparatively new comer who sat down at the Social Guild supper on Wednesday evening. And who would take exception to it? Served principally to promote sociability? Yes, but good cooking always promotes it.

While no program was furnished, games were played which were as like entertaining to the participants and to those who cared to stop to see the frolic.

Hearing Next Tuesday

The committee on school sites and buildings will be at the Methodist vestry at 7.30 o'clock Tuesday evening, Jan. 10, to meet all persons who have suggestions to offer in reference to the kind of a building that the town should erect.

The committee feel that this is a matter that should interest everyone and hope that a large number will be present and feel free to express their views.

Watch Night Service

The Watch Night service varied a little this year from those of the last few years. The first part of the evening was given over to merry making, and the young folks, which comprised most of the company, made good use of the time.

Somewhat after ten the devotional service began, which was in charge of the pastor, Rev. H. P. Rankin. After singing, scripture reading and prayer, Miss Alice Booth gave a talk on Spiritual Ideals. She emphasized the importance of exercising justice in business, politics, school, social life and towards God. Belding Jackson followed with an original reading and some verses from the Congregationalist.

Newell Booth spoke on "Quit you like men." He mentioned three requisites: The knowledge and appreciation of nature, the world of men and the world of divinity. Theodore Hazen read a poem by Charles M. Sheldon on "Character."

As the midnight hour drew near the candle service took place. The two presidents of the young people's societies, Theodore Hazen and Harold Booth, lighted their candles from the large one representing the Light of the World. Then, while appropriate words were spoken by the pastor, they proceeded to light candles carried by twelve young ladies dressed in white, representing the twelve months, who in turn passed small candles to the audience and lighted them as they did so.

Mrs. Bertram Shaw sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" and the new year broke in silence in the room lighted only by the flickering candles. The service this year was marked by the presence of a large number of young people and was quite impressive.

The Sociable

Nothing but a get-together sociable would have drawn a crowd out on Monday evening. Jack Frost had painted the windows white, and while he didn't get a chance at the stove, the atmosphere did not savor of summer. Still those who went wouldn't have been at home for anything.

It has been a long time since some of the patrons played "wink" and their eyebrows stuck a bit, but the old habit came back in short order. The knack of spinning the platter came back even quicker and first the odds had it and then the evens.

But the real originality came later. A class of likely "youngsters" had the opportunity of guessing the committee of arrangements who showed only their eyes through a slit in a cardboard screen. About 66 per cent passed the exam.

Then each was requested to gather near the pictures on the wall that seemed to designate the month in which he was born. To each of these groups was handed a nursery rhyme which they were expected to act out, using such paraphanelia as they could gather together on the spur of the moment. The resulting plays brought down the house. Humpty Dumpty and his fall was realistically rendered, when Humpty went in a heap, old Mother Hubbard with her dog and her empty cupboard were there, Bo Peep, Jack Sprat and his wife, Jack Hotner and the three blind mice etc. etc. were portrayed in fun-provoking manner. In fact all the stunts were given honorable mention by the judges.

Of course there was the grand march and refreshments and a hat trimming contest competed for by Messrs. Killmer, T. Allen, H. Barrett and Cook, who developed much latent talent, there was the double drinking and "druling" episode and then the final surprise line up of "victims" who, blindfolded, solemnly promised to out-do the committee of arrangements at the next sociable. At last reports they were rubbing their eyes, choosing a chairman and getting ready to go to it, for they are a game lot. In fact the last words we heard before leaving were: "You just wait until next time!"

The Vital Question

The supreme question to ask about any individual is not "Does he have wealth?" or "Does he possess social standing?" or "Is he popular?" or "What is his ancestry?" but does he serve? When we begin to place values on a man, we ought not to speak of the amount of his bank account, or of the richness of the house he lives in, or of the degrees attached to his name, or of his popularity among his fellow townsmen, or of the family in which he was born, or of the tongue he speaks, or of the color of his skin, or of the salary he receives, but of the service he renders. The vital question is "What good is he doing?" A man may be smart and not be useful. He may be brilliant and yet not lift his finger to help solve the burdens of society. When we come to bestow honor upon a man, we wait till we find a man who really serves.

The vital question to ask about any organization is not "How large is it?" or "How wealthy is it?" or "Are men of social standing in it?" but "What work is it doing?" "What good is it to the community?"

When we speak of the church we should not speak of its wealth but of the good it is doing with its money. We should not speak of its numbers but of the service it is rendering. We should talk, not of the ability of the preacher, but of the effectiveness of his ministry. We should mention, not the prestige of the church among the churches of the community, but whether it is bringing comfort to the bereaved, inspiration to the despondent and cheer to the discouraged. Are strangers made welcome? Are sorrowing hearts helped to rejoice? Are transgressors made to tremble?

The Second Hearing

As elsewhere announced, the special committee on school sites and buildings will hold another hearing on next Tuesday evening.

Those who intend to exercise their vote on the school proposition should be on hand and not save their fire for the annual town meeting when enough other business will be on hand to deserve attention.

The townspeople should have a definite proposition facing it when the committee reports so that postponement will be unnecessary. The only way for this definite proposition to materialize will be for a large and representative body of the citizens to express its opinions now when plans are in the making.

This is the express purpose of these hearings. It will be no stroke of heroism to stay away now and spill cold water later. Throw it now or never.

ADDS TO VIGOR OF BODY

Why Walk on Windy Day Gives Bracing Effect Has Been Ascertained by Experiments.

Everyone knows the bracing effect of a walk on a windy day. Now the secret of this feeling of vigor has been explained in a report issued by the industrial fatigue research board, which has been making experiments in factories throughout England.

It is pointed out that a cool skin encourages exercise, stimulates deeper breathing, increases circulation and aids digestion. The physical properties of air benefit the body, and when one battles with a sharp autumn wind it is the "air bath" that gives the feeling of vigor with which all are familiar.

Factory owners and theater and moving picture proprietors are advised that for the most beneficial results their rooms should be cool, rather than hot; dry, rather than damp, with a diversity in temperature and a brisk air movement.

The committee also states that the color of clothing worn has a marked effect on body temperature, darker clothing being warmer, irrespective of material.

How Paris May Aid Students.

The creation of a "University City" is being projected in Paris. The municipal council has adopted the scheme and recommends that for this purpose nine hectares (22 1/2 acres) of land, which will be set free by the demolition of fortifications near the Parc de Montsouris, be transferred to the University of Paris.

The price to be paid for the land is 8 1/2 million francs (normally about $2,700,000). It is proposed to construct, in the center of tree-shaded playing fields, buildings, in which students of the Quartier Latin can be comfortably housed at reasonable charges. The buildings will contain a restaurant, library and recreation room, with a garden attached. It is expected that accommodations will be provided for more than two thousand students.

How Glycerin Was Invented.

The first announcement of his discovery of glycerin was made by Karl Wilhelm Scheele, a Swedish chemist, in 1777. The inventor described the substance as "the sweet principle of fats" and named it oelusus. Later investigations by Chevreul, Berthelot and many other chemists resulted in the perfecting of the glycerin which is now so largely used in manufactures, medicines and the arts.

Scheele made many other important discoveries, including tartaric acid, arsenic and barytes. He discovered separated hydrogen and the green gas still known as "Scheele's green."

HOW

MOORS FATTEN FEMALES FOR MARRIAGE MARKET.—In Egypt a quaint wedding custom is the visit paid by the bride and her friends to the bath. The progress to it partakes of the nature of a procession, headed by Arab musicians, with tambourines, flutes and other instruments. The bride is usually seated on a camel and covered with a sort of tepee from the top of which the greatest palm leaves obtainable are projected. Over the door of the bathhouse a handkerchief is hung to denote that only women may enter. After the bride and her friends have bathed, they abandon themselves to the enjoyment of the entertainment provided by the musicians, story tellers and singers.

Among the Moors, girls are fattened for the marriage market much as the poultry farmer treats his livestock. The staple food of the women is bread, and it is chiefly with this that they are fattened. Long-shaped pellets of it are constantly forced down their throats for a period of about three weeks before their marriage.

The bride has to be put through a strange ordeal. She is placed in an ill-ventilated wooden cage, usually white-washed, and is taken in it in procession through the streets to the bridegroom's dwelling. After a two weeks' honeymoon the discarded box is placed on the roof of the house in a prominent position, so that all may see it. This is an official intimation that the newly wedded pair are ready to receive friends.

Reminiscences of Gov. and Mrs. Robinson

Mrs. C. F. D. Hazen

We take pleasure in printing here with one of a series of reminiscences by our valued correspondent which is of more than usual interest in view of the erection of the Lawrence Memorial building.

In the 50's there was trouble in Missouri and Kansas and Ely Thayer in a public meeting called for volunteers. Dr. Charles Robinson offered himself. "Would your wife be willing to go?" asked Mr. Thayer. "I haven't a doubt of it." So Dr. Robinson and his wife, who was Sara T. D. Lawrence of Belchertown, started for Kansas. He led the way at the head of the New England Emigrant Society.

It was April 17, 1855, when Mrs. Robinson reached her new home in Kansas. "Never was a fairer picture hung between heaven and earth," writes Mrs. Robinson, after a journey of 2,000 miles. Remember traveling was not as easy as now, no sleepers, but she had lots of courage.

The house had no roof. Rattle snakes were found under the flooring of the house. Out on the prairie, where the common comforts of home "could not be gotten for love or money," that's where they were. It's a long story. If you want to read it for yourself, you will find it in Gov. Robinson's book in the Library, "Kansas: Its Interior and Exterior Life." Her house was burned and Dr. Robinson imprisoned, but she was always at his side, full of courage.

She came home. Well, the people went to the brick hall to hear her story. She rose in the center of the floor and asked all to rise, as she could talk easier. I once heard Mrs. Calvin Bridgman say that she liked Gov. Robinson for he always took up the weaker side.

How seldom do we see the names of these people that once were the best men. There were no children to keep the name alive here in either of these families. They all died and are now seemingly forgotten.

One of Mrs. Robinson's school mates once wrote her: "And often has come the thought of the gentle maiden who gave me my first French lessons and who has since passed through the thrilling scenes that made 'Bleeding Kansas' the prelude of the terrible war, and there comes an awe such as when one looks on the picture of Jeanne d' Arc before and after her inspiration." The Red Bridge Community Club held its annual Christmas tree and social for the members of the club and their children on New Year's eve. Alonzo Filer acted as Santa Claus. Names had been previously drawn so that each one was sure to receive a present, and an additional joke was hung here and there from the branches by those so inclined. A large attendance was present and candy and oranges freely passed among the children. Christmas recitations were given by the little ones and a trio from Ludlow Mills, consisting of Mr. and Miss Goodale and Miss Ruth Pratt, accompanied by Mrs. Goodale, rendered several selections.

Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Paine entertained at dinner Monday Mrs. Paine's brothers and sisters and their families to the number of twenty-five. There were people present from Ware, Southampton, Springfield, Granby, Amherst and Belchertown. Mrs. Doolittle of Amherst and H. R. Putnam were unable to attend owing to illness. The children enjoyed a Christmas tree in the afternoon.

Walter E. Paine of the U. S. N. radio service, now situated at Portland, Maine, is at the home of his parents for a ten days' leave of absence.

Benefit Minstrel Show

The Ludlow Center Minstrels will be the attraction at the Community Hall Wednesday evening, Jan. 18, 1922, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Junior class of Belchertown High School.

There are twenty members in the chorus; three members are former Belchertown boys, including Earl and Charles Sanford and interlocutor, Arthur W. Thayer. Special song hits and music that has been written and dedicated to Belchertown will be some of the chorus features. Jokes by the end men will be original and include hits on people in town. There will be a number of solos and duets.

This will be the first minstrel in Belchertown for several years and the Junior class of the High school are making big plans for the reception of the minstrels. Proceeds of the affair will be used toward helping to defray expenses of the furnishings lost in the school fire.

When the minstrels gave their show in Ludlow, which was a great success, the hall was filled to its capacity; standing room was at a prize.

A dance will follow the entertainment.

Married in New Orleans

Captain Cyril W. Van Cortlandt and Miss Ruth Baxter were married at New Orleans last Thursday, Jan. 5. Van Cortlandt has received an appointment to the Philippines and will leave for there with his bride, Feb. 7. Mrs. Van Cortlandt is the daughter of an ex-governor of Texas. Captain Van Cortlandt has for a number of years been in the army where he has been several times promoted. He received his education in the local schools and was in town for the holidays. Of late he has been stationed at Fort Bliss, El Paso, Texas.

Basket Ball League Formed

The Belchertown Intersectional Basket Ball League has organized with Carl F. Aspengren, pres.; Roy Shaw, vice-pres.; Wilfrid Noel, sec'y; Walter Dodge, treas. There are four teams in the league and they represent different sections of the town. All of those who play basket ball have joined the team in their section and it is expected that there will be many close battles before the season is over.

The four teams are, namely: North Ends, East Side, West Side and Turkey Hill. The lineup of some of these teams has not been completed but will be by tomorrow.

The league will open its season in the town hall tomorrow night at 7.30, when the East Sides clash with the West Sides and the North Ends line up against Turkey Hill.

A large crowd should turn out to see these two games, as all the teams are evenly matched.

W. L. Noel, Sec.

The Hearing

The second in a series of probably three hearings was held in the M. E. vestry on Tuesday evening.

Chairman Nichols stated in opening, that it was hoped that a plan acceptable to the voters might be submitted to the town at the annual meeting, and that in order to do this it was essential that the minds of the citizens be expressed in order that the committee might know more fully the people's desires.

It seems that the committee has interviewed Judge Bassett of Northampton and has found that in order to get permission to incorporate the Lawrence Memorial hall with the High school, it will be necessary to present a petition to the court and to the attorney general. Those conversant with the situation were led to believe that if the town votes quite unanimously that the projects be combined, there will be no difficulty in securing permission.

Chairman Nichols stated that before any building was erected, the plans would have to be approved by the department of public safety, who were chiefly concerned with entrances, exits, lights, etc., and not so much with the type of building.

The committee tried to draw out from the audience just what it wanted, but as they had not put much time or thought into the matter, those gathered desired that any information that the committee had secured be laid before them for their consideration.

For the lower grades the committee expressed themselves quite in favor of a type of building recently put up in Agawam. This is a one-story, four-room brick building which has a small assembly hall that can easily be made into two extra rooms. If desired, in case extra space is needed, 2 rooms can be added, one on each side, and still preserve the symmetrical shape of the building. There is no large cellar in this building; just an excavation for the boiler. The floor is about three feet from the ground, enabling the heating pipes to run underneath so that the floors are always warm. This structure is 120 ft. by 60 ft.

The committee has had interviews with a number of architects, all of whom seem to agree that the one-story building is the most economical. The foundation does not need to be as heavy, and smaller floor timbers can be used. A building of this kind can be put up for $25,000.

Mr. Hazen, who is one of the trustees of the Lawrence Memorial building, hoped that the town would not try to be too economical on its school-house construction. He hoped that a wooden building would not be considered, as a brick one could be put up for only a small per cent more and there would as a result be a considerable saving on insurance.

Mr. Hazen said that while some were not in favor of having the Memorial hall and the High school united as it would seem to be a partnership affair, such was not the case, as when the building was completed, it would be turned over to the town without strings and become as much its own property as any building it possesses. Further he said that Mrs. Robinson "had the idea of doing the best she could for the people of the town. If she were here now she would want the money used for what was most necessary."

Mr. Green expressed himself as quite opposed to a combination building and hoped that the committee would submit plans at the coming town meeting for a school building housing all the grades, on the old site. Mr. Green is in favor of a brick building and as a result of a vote, it was found to be practically the unanimous opinion of all present that wherever the proposed buildings stand, their construction should be of brick.

Someone asked as to whether the new Franklin school house, built of cement blocks, was a success. Supt. Lewis voiced the opinion that it was not; that on a damp day the outline of the blocks could be indicated on the inside, that it was put up as cheap as possible, that although new, there had to be constant repairs, that the cellar was left unfinished and that there was a boulder in front of the furnace.

Applause for Leaders

Many hesitate to take a great step forward because they feel that they will stand alone. They do not wish to be pelted with stones or shot at by enemies, as they think is the case with those who go ahead of a crowd. If history proves anything it is that every man who dares to go ahead and venture alone is certain to meet censure, criticism, rebuff, attack, condemnation and sometimes death.

But this is only half the story. The people admire one who has the courage to launch forth with a new idea or start forward on a new project. Oftentimes the people are anxiously waiting for someone to appear who will lead them in ways which they wish to go. How the world applauded Mr. Hughes when he boldly advocated a ten year naval holiday! The people do not necessarily reserve their applause for men who are cautious and conservative and hesitant. They are eager to have one take a bold stand. The world loves a man who is not timid or afraid. It looks up to one who is willing to take risks, advocate causes which seem audacious, launch enterprises that seem radical. The people are oftentimes more radical than we think, and are eager to hail one who shouts "Let us go forward." They applaud him who has grit enough to depart from the accepted and commonplace, who dares to discard the old phrases and the old formulas and lead humanity into new ways.

We have recently entered upon a new year. If it is to be a new year we must go forward. Let us be done with timidity and cowardice and fear and launch bravely and boldly forth. We shall not simply get the curses of a few men but we shall also hear the plaudits of many who will follow where we lead.

Being Well Handled

The new school proposition is being well handled. The special committee was a bit disappointed that there were so few suggestions from the floor last Tuesday evening, nevertheless it was good to have the hearing to give the people an opportunity to express their wishes even though the response was limited.

There is nothing like giving everyone an opportunity to exercise his rights. It makes the going considerably easier and enables results to be accomplished that otherwise would not be the case. It creates a feeling of confidence. The committee, of course, was fully capable of going ahead, but its members wanted it understood that they are the people's servants and are to carry out their desires.

It is half the battle to get a town to decide just what it wants and if the committee can continue its businesslike approach to the matter in hand, it will render a great public service.

Town Items

The Democratic caucus will be held in the town hall, Tuesday evening, Jan. 24.

Those who have travelled to sunny climes for the winter missed a fairly young blizzard that started Wednesday forenoon and continued into the evening. A strong wind drifted the flakes, otherwise the amount of snow would not have been as noticeable.

Members of Mrs. Dora Bardwell's Sunday school class met at her home Saturday afternoon and organized under the name of "The Gleaners." Officers were elected as follows: Pres., Marjorie Ayers; vice pres., Dorothy Peeso; secretary, Gertrude Ayers; treas., Emma Dodge. Games were played and refreshments served.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Cook are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, Mary Lillian, born last Saturday.

HOW

VARIOUS INSECTS CARRY ON BIG "INDUSTRIES." Every living creature is at work performing chemical reactions and carrying on extensive chemical industries, Albert Parsons Sachs writes in the New York Mail. Every living creature is constantly taking its food and converting it into its own body substance, replacing wear and providing growth. Many of our materials for the arts and sciences are the products of living creatures. The labors of insects, their harm to mankind or their usefulness to us in one way or another are pretty well known, but the materials which they produce valuable for commercial use are hardly ever considered.

The bee is our best-known worker. It produces not only honey, which is the sugar levulose in a particularly palatable form, but also beeswax.

The lac insect produces in the foliage of the trees on which it feeds a material which reaches us as shellac, so widely used in varnishes, phonograph records and electrical insulation.

The cochineal insect is used for the manufacture of the dye cochineal, and its compound with aluminum is known as carmine. The sting of certain insects produces "galls" on various trees which are the source of part of the tannin of commerce.

Spiders' webs have found use as cross-hairs for optical instruments and for a dressing to stop the flow of blood from wounds.

The largest insect industry is the manufacture of silk. The total amount of silk and silk products imported into our country in the year 1919-1920 exceeded 50,000,000 pounds and was valued at more than $500,000,000. That we are appreciative of the product of the silkworm's activity is evidenced by the fact that we used more than half of the world's production of silk in 1919-1920.

It was also stated by Mr. Nichols that moisture gathered on the blackboards, that most cement blocks are porous and that frost is liable to work destruction.

When an effort was made to try to secure an estimate as to what money it would be necessary to add to the Lawrence money to complete the building, the sums were somewhat indefinite. The general opinion seemed to be that from $20,000 to $25,000 would be a sensible amount. Mr. Hazen stated that the idea of the trustees was to erect an assembly hall which would be able to accommodate as many of the townspeople as might come out to a public gathering. They also expected to provide offices for the town officers and a fire-proof room for keeping the town records, for all of which there is not at present room in the town safe.

As to the location and general construction of the buildings Mr. Hazen ventured the opinion that Mr. H. West of Chicago, a graduate of the High school, would be glad to make suggestions for the good of the town. Mr. West is a city planner of nation wide reputation. Mr. Hazen also spoke of L. Leland Dudley, the subject of whose thesis at Harvard was an elaborate description of a new school building for Belchertown.

Mr. Nichols expressed the opinion that the town wants a building durable, nice to look at and one that can be enlarged. He also said that the town was not in as bad shape financially as it might be, as the forthcoming reports would show.

One of the most reputable architects the committee has conferred with, one recommended by the state dept. of education, states that the town can save $5000 by uniting with the Lawrence Memorial. They will get the auditorium extra and save the above amount besides.

In answer to the statement made that larger school accommodations would be needed on account of the coming of the Belchertown State School, John Hawes stated that with 1500 boys at Wrentham, the difference made was only about 20.

Someone mentioned the possibility of a parochial school being established here, but it was thought that while there might be one at the south end of the town, probably none would be established in the center at present.

From now on the committee will concern itself with getting pencil designs of buildings and definite prices thereon. Elaborate plans can be procured only at great expense, but rough designs that give a good idea of what can be had, can be easily obtained. It is planned to submit at least three sketches, one for a high school and Memorial hall—on the Highland property, one for the lower grades on the old site, and one for all the schools on the old site. It is planned to submit these at another hearing previous to town meeting so that there will be time to debate the matter at length.

In closing, Chairman Nichols asked if the citizens wanted to turn the meeting into a water hearing as they did the last time, but aside from remarks of D. D. Hazen who said that Rep. Sawyer wanted definite bounds established for a fire district, the audience was not so inclined and decided to adjourn, many of them, to privately discuss the pros and cons of the school situation.

The Minstrel Show

The applause which began a half hour before the orchestra appeared, continued in ever increasing measure till the last strains of Southern melodies died away after ninety minutes' continuous performance of the minstrels last Wednesday evening. After two opening numbers by the orchestra the nineteen negroes filed in, headed by their leader and manager, Mr. A. W. Thayer of Ludlow. They announced in their first song that this was to be the best minstrel show the old town had seen, and proceeded forthwith to make good their promise. How could they have more appropriately begun to fulfil their word than by singing Almon Damon's classic "Good Old Belchertown"? Even before this song was rendered, local hits began to be made which increased in interest and intensity between every musical number. If we should recount here all the witticisms rendered by those brainy minstrels there would not be room in THE SENTINEL for the train service or the Classified Ads. The audience which packed Community Hall did not need an interpreter to explain the hits, and anyone would have thought that the minstrelers had grown right up in Belchertown and knew all the ins and outs and ups and downs of every individual. The musical numbers were as follows:

Good Old Belchertown
Kentucky Babe, quintet
By the Light of the Moon
Honey, if You only Knew, Solo Pullman Porter Blues, Solo
Lullaby, Duet
Sunny Tennessee
Song Without Music, Words, etc.
Kentucky Home, Duet
Carolina Sunshine, Solo
Jest Kiss Yourself Goodby
Harmonica Trio
I Ain't Nobody's Darling
Old Black Joe
Southern Melodies

The end men, Charles Sanford, Clarence Fuller, Robert Munasing, Myron Chapman, were a whole show by themselves. The negro who sang "I Ain't Nobody's Darling," was limited in the number of his stanzas only by the number of unmarried females in the town he knew, and he seemed to know a good many.

After the show many repaired to the Park View for a dance.

Community Club Notes

The Club Christmas tree, which was postponed on account of illness, was held Wednesday at Mrs. W. S. Piper's.

Mrs. Aubrey Lapolice was appointed chairman of the Executive committee.

The club has planned to serve lunch at noon at the town hall on town meeting day.

The next meeting will take place with Mrs. Robert Chamberlain next Monday night. A large attendance is desired as important business is to come up at the meeting.

Fourth Quarterly Conference

The Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Methodist church was held in the Methodist vestry Wednesday night, Dr. C. O. Ford presiding. Various officers were elected for next year and committees appointed. A. R. Ketchen was elected a member of the Federated committee instead of E. C. Witt who resigned to accept the superintendency of the Sunday school.

O. E. S. Notes

The O. E. S. installation will be held tonight, the 20th, to which the Masons and their families, and the Eastern Stars and their families are invited. Supper will be served at 6.30 and installation will take place at 8.00.

The installing officers are Past Matron, Maud M. Bridgman of Stella Chapter, Worcester, assisted by Past Matron Maude Burbank of Stella Chapter, Worcester, Past Patron Myron Ward and Past Matron, Ella Ward of Mt. Vernon Chapter.

Evangelistic Meetings

The Rev. C. F. Dorman will preach Sunday morning and evening at the Methodist church. He will assist the Federated church in a series of evangelistic meetings.

Mr. Dorman is an evangelist with wide and varied experience, a man with a message, a good preacher, a gifted gospel singer.

Meetings will be held every night at 7 o'clock, except Monday and Saturday.

North Ends and Turkey Hill, Winners

The North End basket ball quintet tightened its grip on the first place position in the Belchertown Inter-sectional League Tuesday night when it downed the West Side five by a score of 30 to 14. The second game of the league was a thriller when the Turkey Hill team beat the East Side quintet after the hardest battle staged on the town hall floor this season, the score being 16 to 12.

Acting manager Fairchild's quintet had an easy time in downing acting manager Parent's basket shooters. Charlie Austin's work was the feature, as he dropped in nine double-deckers and is now the league's leading scorer.

At half time the winners led by a score of 12 to 6, and in the second half they kept piling up points until the final score found them to be leading by a margin of 16 points. Harold Hazen of Cushing Academy played a good game at right forward for the North Ends. Paul Barrett and Guy Allen played well for the losers.

Benjamin Franklin

Reproductions by 4th grade children

Alice Hazen

Benjamin Franklin was a very famous man. When he was about eleven years old, he helped his father. His father was a poor man. Benjamin had fourteen older brothers and sisters and two younger than he, so it must have been hard to take care of so many. His father's business was making candles and soap. Benjamin did not like this business, but his father told him he should do it.

The boys in the neighborhood used to have him for their leader in everything. They wouldn't let anything go by without asking him.

There was a mill pond by their house. One day they were fishing by the pond. The land was marshy there near the pond and the boys' feet sank in the mud.

Benjamin said, "Let us build a wharf." "Good," said the boys, but what shall we make it with?"

Benjamin pointed to some stones that were near the bank. Soon the stones were drawn to the edge of the pond. The stones had been thrown there to make a house. Soon the wharf was built.

The next morning the workmen came to build the house. The men were surprised to find the stones were gone. But the tracks in the mud soon told the whole story, and when the fathers found out, they were punished.

Benjamin tried to tell his father that a wharf was very important for the boys, but his father wouldn't listen to him. But Benjamin Franklin never forgot his lesson.

Patty Pizzillo

Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston, Jan. 17, 1706. His father was a soap boiler and a candle maker. His brother, James, had set up a printing house and got Benjamin to work with him. His brother was cruel to him, so he made up his mind to run away.

He got a ship that was going to New York. He travelled three days. When he got there he tried to find a job but he found they did not want any more men. So he put his chest on a boat to go to Philadelphia. He went by land. He found a row boat going to Philadelphia, so he got in with three other men. Each took a turn rowing.

In the morning he got to Philadelphia. His pockets were all stuffed out. He found a boy with a basket full of bread and asked him where he got the bread. The little boy told him where he got the bread. He bought three loaves of bread. He ate one and gave the other two to an old woman who came in the same boat.

The Chapin Bridge

Swift River, the raging torrent, on its winding way to the sea Unless calculations and plans miscarry, soon damned will be. On this dangerous stream is the Chapin Bridge, the cause of great contention.

A limited number (non-tax payers) want one of iron; others a suspension.

Some "wise men" from the East rebuilt this bridge at great expense Just a year or two ago. All who have seen it know. They could not fix a barn yard fence.

It's a notorious example - of its kind a sample - of the artistic works of man.

Photos have been taken - if I am not mistaken - to appear in the Scientific American.

When this picture does appear, the town of Ware will, I fear, lose their bridge man.

The U. S. government will take any man who can make such a bridge as he can.

More than a century ago - old time records show - Across this stream, was made of wood, a bridge which since has stood A traffic of now and then a stranger crossing, with no fear of danger; Until with us old fashion folk, a bridge of iron seems a joke.

The income on the difference in cost, would be - as you see - forever lost; So seldom is it used today. The most economical way

West Sides Trim East Sides

The West Sides downed the East Side quintet in the town hall Saturday night in a Belcher Inter-Sectional League game by a score of 27 to 22. The game was a close, hard fought affair. Eddie Snyder of the East Sides scored the first points of the game by tossing in a floor basket. But the West Sides, who claim they have one of the best teams in the league, were determined to win and soon took the lead for the rest of the game.

The East Sides staged a comeback in the last half but could not overcome the West Sides' lead. Red Wood of the East Sides, erstwhile B. H. S. player, was the high scorer with seven floor goals and one free try for a total of 15 points. Paul Barrett and Link-Cook featured for the winners.

North Ends Defeats Turkey Hill

The North Ends defeated the Turkey Hill five in the town hall Saturday night in a Belcher Inter-Sectional League game by a score of 19 to 14. The game was fast and interesting from start to finish. The Turkey Hill team took the lead at the start on Jim Lemon's two free tries, but then the North Ends took the lead with baskets by Fairchild and Austin and held it for the remainder of the game. The playing of Jim Lemon and Wilfred Noel for the losers and Charlie Austin and Jack Fairchild for the winners featured.

Score at half time: North Ends 12, West Sides 6. Referee, Lynch. Time, 20-minute periods.

The second game was the feature of the night, as it was forty minutes of hard-played basket ball with a little roughness "mixed" in with it.

Wilfrid Noel, acting manager of the Turkey Hill five, had only four players to start the game and imported Bob Dodge of the North Ends and star player of the B. H. S. team, to take the place of Andy Sears who failed to show up.

The East Sides got off to a good start when Herb Blackmer and Red Wood each dropped in a floor goal. Jim Lemon then dropped in a freetry for Turkey Hill. Shortly after this, Red Wood, star player of the East Sides, was forced to leave the game, owing to an injured nose, and his place was filled by Acting-Manager Lynch. Harold Pierce entered the game at left guard. Play was started again and at half-time the East Sides were leading 8 to 5. But the Turkey Hill five staged a comeback in the second half and evened up the score on Henry McKillop's floor goal and Lemon's free try. Then it was nip and tuck for the rest of the game.

When time was out, the score was added up and it was a tie at 12 all. Both teams agreed to play a five minute overtime period and featured by close blocking. Turkey Hill held the East Sides scoreless and won the game by scoring four points on McKillop's floor basket and Lemon's two free tries.

Bob Dodge played one of his best games this season with the winners and much credit is due him for winning the game, for he dribbled through the losers' defense many a time. In fact, the whole team played one of the best games since the league season opened. Ray Blackmer and Connie Lynch starred for the losers. Summary

The Town Reports

The voters will have to go back a good many years in their town report files to find a report as voluminous as the one about to be handed to the voters. This year's book will contain approximately 120 pages, which is half as large again as the book of last year. The reason for this is largely due to the voters themselves, who voiced their opinion in town meeting that the reports should be more specific as to where and to whom every dollar went. So whether anyone received $5 or $500 the amount is there and the name of the recipient as well. 34 pages are given over to an itemized account of expenditures.

The burial ground commissioners are also quite specific in their report. They give a list of those who have given money to the town for the perpetual care of lots, the date of so doing, the lot on which the interest is expended, the cemetery where it is located and the amount of money given the town. They also give the amount of money spent last year on the various lots.

The appropriation committee in their report recommend appropriations amounting to $50,155.45. This is an increase of about $3,500 over the amount asked for last year.

The selectmen report receipts for the year amounting to $96,229.71 and expenditures of $81,604.05.

To comment with any degree of finality upon the vast array of figures contained in the book would be the work of a specialist. Sometimes, however, the commentaries on a book are harder to understand than the book itself, so we leave it to the voters to see with their own eyes.

The school department section of the book is of interest. Nearly all those who render reports comment on the conditions arising from the fire and think that a fine spirit has been manifested and that the school work has been carried on as successfully as possible.

The warrant is to be found in the closing pages. We quote the articles that are in any way new. Here also a reading of the text tells in plain English "what's up."

Articles 6 to 10 inclusive have to do with bonding the town for school-house construction and were drawn up by town counsel.

American Legion Notes

The American Legion annual Easter ball will be held in Park View hall on the 17th of April.

The Legion has offered a prize of five dollars for the best composition, entitled "What Does it Mean to be an American?" written by a High school student. How long this contest is to be will be stated next week.

The American Legion and the United Young People's Societies will give a three-act comedy play in Community hall, Feb. 14 & 15.
Publicity Officer

Hearing Next Wednesday

A hearing on the school proposition will be held in the High school room next Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock with the special investigation committee in charge.

The latter part of the meeting will be given over to the discussion of the town reports and will be held under the auspices of the Board of Trade.

Intersectional League News

The Belchertown Intersectional Basket Ball League will not stage any games for the next two weeks, as the town hall floor is unavailable. The league got off to a good start and is now led by the North End quintet which has a tight grip on first place with two victories to its credit. The Turkey Hill team, by defeating the East Sides in a close battle last week, is now tied with the West Sides for second place. The East Sides, who have not won a game, are now occupying the cellar position.

All the teams are well supplied with players with the exception of the Turkey Hill quintet. Only four players are available in that district to form a basket ball team and the management would rather withdraw its team from the league than to use players who belong to the other teams. Whether the Turkey Hill team will remain in the league or not will be decided at the next meeting of the league.

Charlie Austin of the North End quintet, who set the record for the highest score made by any player in a single game by scoring 18 points against the West Sides last week, is now the league's leading scorer with 24 points. Red Wood, star forward of the East Sides, is second in the list with 17 points. Jim Lemon of the Turkey Hill five is the leading foul shooter in the league with eight in his credit, while Charlie Austin is leading in the scoring of floor goals with twelve to his credit. The Evangelistic Services

The special evangelistic services being conducted by Rev. C. F. Dorman, are being well attended in spite of the fact that the weather has been exceptionally cold. The sermons are helpful and the singing especially fine. The interest seems to be increasing.

The services will be held every night next week except Wednesday and Saturday. Beginning with tonight, the week-night services will commence at 7.30.

Turkey Hill Items

Wilfrid Nool spent the week-end with relatives in Holyoke.

Life on Turkey Hill has been very quiet the past week, most of the farmers having laid in their supply of ice for the summer and are now in the woods harvesting their wood for the year.

Every one has greatly enjoyed the January thaw which came to us on a north-west wind Sunday afternoon.

Our bird student reports having seen around her door, pine and evening grosbeak, three sparrows, bairy and downy woodpeckers, chickadees and only one solitary crow, while our neighboring town of Granby has an abundance.

A new industry has started in the neighborhood, that of hulling corn for market.

One resident froze a finger, and another has imported a baby.

The sleighing is greatly appreciated by those having wood to haul.

Winter

I like the winter with the snow
When the sleighs begin to go,
When the trees are all so bare
And heavy clothes we have to wear.

When the snow is piled so deep
Around the houses in a heap,
Now it's time for a jolly slide
And we are ready for the ride.

Us kids on our sleds do go Down the hill, all in a row;
Around the corner with a leap
We all go flying in a heap.

We all like sliding, it's first rate,
But to draw our sleds back we hate.
When a two-horse sled comes up the hill

We all pile on with a right good will.

Now home we go, for it is night,
To get the wood in (by a light).
Ma says I cannot go again.

If I'm not home to feed the hens.

I like the winter with the snow,
When the sleighs begin to go.

But I'll get the wood in when the sun is bright,
For it's more fun to slide at night.

Belchertown, Jan. 31, 1922.
To the Editor of Belchertown Sentinel,

Dear Sir:
I would like a little space in your valuable paper to explain the facts in regard to the split in the Republican town committee for a candidate for a school committee.

The Republican town committee consisted of nine members. Only seven were present when we met to make up the slate for the caucus and they wanted a woman on the board. The names of three women and one man were placed on the ticket without knowing whether they would allow their names to be used or not.

The secretary of the committee sent the ticket to be printed. A few days later one member of the committee talked with those four to see if they would allow their names to be used. Not one of them would. That left us without a candidate for school committee.

This committeeman saw two members of the committee and suggested the name of Mrs. Randolph as a woman member of the board. A little later he met the superintendent of schools who was a member of this committee and he approved the choice of Mrs. Randolph. Another committeeman was seen and he endorsed the name of Mrs. Randolph, which made five members of the committee in favor of Mrs. Randolph.

Accordingly Mrs. Randolph's name was placed on the ticket and the names of the four that we knew would not serve were left off. Mrs. Randolph was elected as the Republican caucus by a unanimous vote.

Now, I think it would be a good idea for a few men that call themselves Republicans to say what they mean. If it is a man they want for a candidate, vote for a man, and not say they want a woman and go around the street with nomination papers trying to put down a capable woman and put in a man.

Mrs. Randolph is a graduate of Northfield Seminary; she was a teacher in our public schools, and our last census taker.

Third Hearing

There was a large attendance at the hearing in the High school room on Wednesday evening. Three plans were submitted by the special investigating committee, one of the combination High school and Memorial building to be erected on the Highland site, one of a building for the lower grades to be erected on the old site, and one of a building to house all the schools to be erected on the old site.

Mr. Nichols stated in opening that in spite of stories to the contrary there is every chance in the world, if the town so votes next Monday, that the trustees of the Lawrence Memorial and all authorities will consent to a combination hall and High school building.

G. E. Scott explained the plan of the joint building which will face the corner. This would be of brick with art-stone trimmings, a by-product of the granite quarries. The roof would be of slate. The auditorium would seat 325 and the gallery 75. By moving back the stage a total capacity of 500 could be attained. The interior would be of three coats of plaster over metal lath with wood trimmings and hardwood, maple floors. On the first floor there would also be a kitchen, toilets, science room and a room for the commercial department. The second floor would contain several class rooms which would accommodate 200 scholars.

The entrance to the main auditorium would be directly on the corner, while on either side at the rear of the hall, would be separate entrances to the High school department.

The cost complete, including furnishings, laboratory, standard clock, electric wiring, fixtures, folding chairs for the hall and three typewriters would be $64,500. With about $40,000 contributed by the Lawrence Memorial trustees, the net cost to the town would be $24,500. This building would also provide offices for town officials and a fire-proof room for town documents.

Mrs. Geraldine Howard explained the plan of the building for the lower grades in case the above was accepted. This would also be of brick with art-stone trimmings and slate roof. This would be of the bungalow low type, provide four class rooms and an auditorium for 300 in the rear, which later could be made into additional class rooms if desired. It was also suggested that this room could be used by scholars outside of school hours, i. e. both in the morning and at recess. All the excavation for this building would be for a boiler room at the right.

The cost of this building would be $25,600, the price including all furnishings as in the case of the other building.

Mr. Geer explained the plan of the building which would accommodate all the schools on the old site. This would also be of the one-story type of similar construction, with the lower grades in rooms at the left and the High school the remainder of the outside rooms with an auditorium in the center seating 500. Mr. Geer explained that up to 20 rooms a one-story building is 50% cheaper than any other type. Every room in this building would have an exit. The corridor for the High school would be nine feet wide, one foot of which would be for lockers. The excavation for the boiler room would be at the rear. The cost of this building to house all the schools would be $65,200 as against $50,100 the town would expend for the other two buildings, making a saving of $15,100 in favor of the former proposition.

After the plans had all been submitted and passed to the audience a vote was taken which resulted 69 to 0 in favor of the first two plans.

Mr. Nichols said that both Lawrence Memorial trustees had seen the plans for the buildings and favored the type of building submitted.

He also said that Mr. Roberts stated that he saw no reason why

Can Warfare be Regulated?

The Disarmament Conference has done a wonderful thing in not simply talking about reducing armaments, but in agreeing to a ten year naval holiday. This ought to cause the heart of every lover of peace to rejoice.

But we question very much if we do not deceive ourselves by thinking we are going to reduce the horrors of war by agreeing to certain rules about warfare. Whatever may be our views concerning a prize fight, certain rules agreed on by both hands must be obeyed, and there are those present to see that the rules are obeyed. But war is different from a prize fight. When nations go to war they obey the rules only till they are hard pressed. A nation will resort to any method to win. It has been so in every war. It was true in the World War. It will always be true. You cannot make war amenable to law. War is not human, and it cannot be made human. War is the kind of a life that a jungle is, and the cobra and the tiger and the panther do not listen to reason. War is worse than life in the jungle, for it is an organized jungle.

We had good international laws before the Great War broke, but they were scrapped in an instant of time. Every warring nation was guilty of breaking those laws. The nation hardest pressed and most ruthless set the pace, and the other nations followed.

It is useless to make rules concerning the use of poison gas or submarines or air planes. For any nation, however idealistic, will throw her idealism to the winds, will use any weapon she can lay her hands on rather than be crushed. Men in war act not like men, but like devils and wild beasts. War cannot be humanized. The survival of the fittest, the law of the jungle, is in force when war is on. The thing to do is to get rid of the jungle; to do away with war. R

DICK'S STRATEGY

Dick Harlem was a Senior at Croker High school. It was generally known among the students that Dick was a captive of Anne Marrow's charms; in fact he had a perfect right to be.

Dick had a system of communication fixed up with Anne and this was the method. If Anne saw a paper arrow neatly folded and lying on Dick's desk, but pointed toward her she might expect it to be suddenly deposited in her lap at any convenient time.

Dick had become quite skilful in launching these weapons of communication. So when, on this certain day he folded an arrow and pointed it in the usual direction, Anne saw saw and understood.

Miss Kenyon, the principal, had turned to the board to demonstrate a geometry problem and Dick took his opportunity. But "the best laid plans of mice and men" oft go astray.

Just as he threw the arrow, Frank Whitman's hand shot up above his head. Frank had suddenly solved the geometry problem and was anxious to call Miss Kenyon's attention to it. So the pointed, hard-nosed arrow struck his hand with a sickening thud and flopped helplessly to the floor.

Naturally Frank expressed his feelings by a sudden "Ouch". Miss Kenyon turned around just in time to catch the "Ouch" with her ears and a glimpse of the arrow with her eyes.

"Frank, please bring that arrow up here to my desk," she said. With the most injured air, Frank obeyed.

"Who threw this missile?" was her next query.

"I did," came in a clear, steady voice from the rear of the room.

Mechanically everyone turned toward Dick Harlem, whose flushing face and unsteady manner made evident his guilt.

"This afternoon before we dismiss, you may read this to the whole school," and she turned to her demonstration again. Dick cast a hopeless, forlorn glance at Anne, and Anne cast a forlorn, hopeless glance at Dick.

Suddenly Dick made up his mind to rescue the fugitive arrow, for he did not especially care to impart the contents to the whole student body. So he folded a duplicate arrow and waited.

o'clock. At one forty-five his chance had not yet come. Then the Superintendent came in, and as Miss Kenyon turned to converse on school subjects, Dick left his seat, the arrow carefully concealed in one hand. He reached the desk and fumbled with one hand for a Latin grammar while with the other he exchanged the blank arrow for the one with the message.

"What would you like Dick?" asked Miss Kenyon. Dick nearly collapsed as he answered weakly, "A Latin grammar."

"Right here," said Miss Kenyon and she deftly picked it out from the group of books.

"Thank you," said Dick and he returned to his seat trembling, excited and very hot but well satisfied with his bit of strategy. Anne had watched him and the look she gave him when he had accomplished his task made him feel quite proud.

After school the students were deeply disappointed when Miss Kenyon unfolded a blank arrow and they heard no choice bits from from Dick's private affairs. Then with a warning about wasting paper in such a manner, school was dismissed.

Miss Lottie M. Goodell, a native of Belchertown, died in Norwich, Ct., last week and was brought to Dwight Tuesday for burial where she had spent the most of her life. She was the daughter of Asahel and Cynthia Goodell. She leaves one brother, W. M. Goodell of Dwight. The play to have been given by the American Legion and Young People's societies has been indefinitely postponed.

Why Knock on Wood.
Because there was at one time a general belief that trees and humanity were allied in close bonds of union, and that certain trees had healing qualities. It was customary for a person afflicted with disease to take a woolen string of three colors, and with his right hand tie his left loosely to the limb of a tree, then slip it out and hasten homeward without casting a glance back, the belief being that the disease was transferred to the tree by touching it. Thus from a tree it has become common practice to touch any article of wood to ward off misfortune.

Why Peanuts Are Good Food.
More than 2,000,000 acres in this country were planted with peanuts last year. The demand for them is increasing by leaps and bounds. They are one of the most nutritious foods known to man, one pound of them (shelled) containing nearly half a pound of fat and a quarter of a pound of protein, both high-grade and readily digestible. For running the body machine they are three times as efficient as an equal weight of beef and five times as efficient as an equal weight of eggs.

Why Stars Twinkle.
Because their light passes through variously heated and moving currents of air which act as a refractor. Much twinkling foretells bad weather because it denotes that these aerial currents are more disturbed than usual.

Third Hearing

work on the building should not begin in the spring.

All the plans were drawn by a Mr. Harding, who the committee says on investigation has always estimated above the actual cost of construction.

Mr. Nichols said that a hearing was held in Boston on Wednesday in regard to allowing the town to bond itself and that there was every assurance that the special bill would pass this week. It was his opinion that by taking $10,000 or $15,000 from the surplus revenue, the town could get along with a bond issue of $40,000, which would be payable at the rate of $2,000 per year. The wisdom of taking from the surplus revenue was discussed pro and con. It seems that the town has now $20,000 surplus as against $12,000 of last year.

The committee answered with exactness every question and received a vote of thanks from those present for the business like way in which it had gone at the school house proposition.

The Board of Trade section of the meeting developed little real interest. A few informal votes were taken but only a handful expressed themselves. The matter of buying a tractor was talked of at some length and considerable was said as to what it cost the town last year for use of motor trucks to haul gravel.

Interest in the articles soon faded however and the meeting adjourned. Many stayed to take another look at the plans.

Death of E. W. Parker

Edgar William Parker, son of Seth Wells and Cynthia Hill Parker, died of cancer of the oesophagus, on Tuesday in Boston, where he went for an operation. Mr. Parker had suffered from the malady for some time and had undergone treatment for the same.

Mr. Parker was born July 31, 1853 in Suffield, Ct., and has had residence in several cities, among them, Chicago, Ill., and Hartford, Ct. In the former city in September, 1891, he was married to I. Belle Miller. About thirty years of their married life was spent in Hartford.

Mr. Parker was a farmer by occupation, and for several years has run a retail milk route. He was a man of industry, spending much time in reclaiming the several properties which he owned. After the fire which burned his dwelling near Jabish, he bought the house on East Walnut St., belonging to H. H. Barrett, and the land adjoining.

Mr. Parker was a trustee of the Methodist Episcopal church. He leaves besides his widow, a son, William Parker of Boston, a nephew and two nieces. The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. W. O. Terry of Warren, officiating. The bearers were Leroy M. Blackmer, Arthur Ketchen, H. R. Gould and E. C. Witt. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Scott; chairman prayer meeting committee, Miss Alice Howard; missionary committee, Miss Cora Sparks; flower, Miss Ruth Aldrich; music, Miss Ruth Gilde-meister; welcoming and visiting, Milton Wood; Sunday school, Miss Dorothy Pease; social, Miss Maggie Hale; whatever, James Aldrich.

Basket Ball League News

The Belchertown Intersectional League will hold an important business meeting in the town hall, Monday evening at 8 o'clock. The acting managers of the four teams in the league are requested to notify their players to attend the meeting.

The league will resume its schedule of games next week after a three weeks' lay-off.

The Turkey Hill team will clash with the West Sides and the undefeated North Ends take on the East Side quintet. The Turkey Hill-West Side game is expected to be a hummer as both teams are now tied for second place in the league.

The two games will be played in the town hall, Thursday night, the first game being scheduled to start at 7.45 p. m.

Grange Notes

Tuesday night was "Old Home" night at Union Grange. All former members were invited and about a hundred members and guests were there and enjoyed a very pleasant evening. There was music and an entertaining little farce in which Mrs. Witt, Mrs. Moore and Mr. Blackmer were at their best.

Partners for a grand march were chosen by matching hearts, after which both old and young enjoyed dancing the old-fashioned square dances, only stopping long enough to enjoy the refreshments.

About midnight people reluctantly started homeward, tired but happy.

Community Club Notes

The next meeting of the Community club will be with Mrs. Guy C. Allen next Monday night. Each member is requested to respond to the roll call with a quotation from Tennyson. There will be musical numbers during the evening.

Arrangements are going forward for the concert and dance to be held Feb. 22nd. The musical entertainment will be from 8 to 9, and dancing from 9 to 12. There will be old fashioned square dances as well as the more modern ones.

Free Clinic

A free throat and chest clinic will be held at the Town hall Thursday, Feb. 16, under the auspices of the Hampshire Co. Public Health Association. Dr. O'Brian and Dr. Chadwick will be present to make examinations of all underweight children, and of anyone caring to take advantage of this opportunity. The clinic begins at noon.

Town Meeting

The smoke of battle has died away from another town meeting. It was not so much of a battle as in some previous years; in fact it was remarkably free from some of those features that somehow have always seemed to be necessary in a real town meeting.

The amount of business done was a surprise to all, as it was the opinion of a good many of the sages that two days would be required to dispose of all the articles in the warrant. By half past eleven the town had decided in regard to its school-house construction and by two-thirty the last of the articles had been considered.

A record was made no doubt, (to the chagrin of some) in the amount of money that the town voted to raise or that it became responsible for. The matter of bonding the town for the new buildings had to go over until a future meeting, owing to technicalities.

After the reports of the town officers had been gone over, the polls opened and a few officers chosen by nomination, W. F. Nichols, chairman of the investigation committee, read his report. He said that six sites had been considered, which, at the first hearing narrowed down to two, viz., the Highland site and the site of the burned building. He said that the committee then turned to the matter of plans, bearing in mind two important requisites, buildings that would be substantial and could be added on to with slight cost with no unsightly results, and at a cost that the citizens of Belchertown would be willing to pay.

Mr. Nichols said that whereas the will of Mrs. Robinson provided that the trustees should choose the architects, the committee had to

The Value of Curiosity

In every generation there are a few men who never outgrow curiosity. They are continually interested in the how and the why of things.
An old and well-known anecdote tells us that while Sir Isaac Newton sat under an apple tree, an apple dropped and struck him on the head.
By wondering why that apple dropped, Newton was led to discover the law of gravitation. It is related that James Watt, on noticing the force with which steam escaped from a tea-kettle, followed the promptings of his curiosity and invented the steam engine. Franklin's curiosity about lightning gave us much of our foundation for electrical discoveries.

Not all curiosity produces such great results, but little curiosity that is sincere and sensible is ever wasted. Many a man with almost no schooling has educated himself by finding out the why's and how's of common things. The Division of University Extension every year is making it possible for thousands of people in this State to find out about the things that arouse their interest. Indeed the only man who can be truly ignorant is the man who rejects chances to learn.

That is really what Edison meant by his recent list of questions for college men, which aroused so much discussion in educational circles.
The hundred or more questions which he included in the test were not of great importance in themselves, but Edison knew that the man with enough curiosity to learn those few things would have enough curiosity to make a thorough study of any job he was given.

Don't wait for big questions on which to exercise your curiosity. Be curious about little things; they will do as well as any others to start you on the habit of curiosity. Give that habit a fair trial and you will find that everyday life is full of things that you never thought about before.
Cultivate the habit and you will find yourself better company for others.

At the close of each day's work ask yourself this question: "What have I learned to-day?"

ured plans which, as far as the type of building was concerned, met with the approval of both Mr. Roberts and Mr. Hazen. Mr. Scott was then called upon to explain the plans of the proposed Lawrence Memorial hall and High school. He was followed by Everett Geer who explained the plans of the building for the lower grades to be erected on the old site.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the committee's report, without any debate, it was voted to accept and adopt the report. Other articles relative to schoolhouse construction were favorably acted upon.

The committee elected to have charge of the construction of the two buildings are W. F. Nichols, G. E.
Scott, Everett Geer, A. R. Lewis,
Mrs. E. C. Howard and the chairman of the selectmen.

It was voted to give the dog fund to the library and to transfer the sum of $1,000 from the overlappings Reserve to the Reserve fund.

The list of regular appropriations was gone over and was adopted with comparatively little variation. $300 was raised for the town clerk's account to bring all bills up to date.

$50 for expenses. $225 was raised for the town hall to provide for new stoves. The appropriation for the police department was raised from $100 to $250. The salary of the treasurer was increased from $150 to $225, with $75 for expenses.

The use of the fire department for the use of the fire department caused some discussion. It developed that there is no fire chief and that the town's apparatus needs more care than it is now getting in order that those living in the center retain the reduced insurance rates to which they are now entitled. It was thought by some that a few paid firemen should be hired instead of depending on so many amateurs.
It was finally voted to raise and appropriate $150 for the salary of the chief and $200 for supplies, etc.

Quite a boost was made in the appropriation for moth suppression, the sum being raised from $25 to $400. G. H. B. Green explained that the moths were to be found right on Main street and as the fruit industry in town is second only to the dairy, the pest needed attention.

$450 was raised for the unclassified department instead of $350, and $350 for cemeteries instead of $100.
$5,000 was appropriated from the surplus revenue to be used towards the erection of the new schoolhouses.

Nearly everyone got what he wished in the shape of appropriations until shortly after the ten minute recess at noon. Then the brakes began to go on and it seemed to be a popular thing to vote "No" on most any proposition.

An effort was made to buy a truck instead of a tractor for the town, but the moderator ruled that the two things hardly belonged to the same species, so the article was turned down entirely.

The town thought it could get along another year without oiling the streets. At this point the suggestion was made that clamping down the law on speeding autos would obviate the necessity of oiling anyway.

The street light articles all died.
The two called for on the Ware road passed away instantly; the one by Orlando's stone building was discussed at some length, but fared the same fate; the one near the house of Geo. Davis also succumbed in spite of the fact that an abuttor would start the proposition off with $25;
while the ones called for on Federal street where families would be willing to wire their houses, died after a hard battle.

The town would not vote to uncover the sidewalks where grass and dirt were fighting their way in, the prevailing sentiment seeming to be that the abuttors could take a big burden off the town by attending to this task themselves.

The voters pledged $100 to what was formerly the Farm Bureau, and named a director. It was voted also to pay the bill for desks and heating equipment of the school rooms recently fitted out by the school committee. The American Legion was allowed $150 for Memorial day and it was voted to accept the state law relative to the election by ballot of a board of cemetery commissioners.

The town refused to rescind the vote of Sept. 29, 1873, whereby it gave to the Park association certain rights on the common. Two attempts were made to resurrect this article, but to no avail.

It was voted to allow H. F. Peek to set off more lots as an addition to Mt. Hope cemetery, and $25 was allowed a town forest committee to be appointed by the selectmen. The article relative to the purchase of town wood for use in the schools was indefinitely postponed, as it was thought that the committee and selectmen could attend to the matter satisfactorily.

Under "any other business" it was voted to suggest that instead of posting two town warrants on Park street, one be posted on either side of the common.

Thus aside from the counting of the ballots, ended the day's work which, as before stated, was a sort of one session affair.

Girl Scout Meeting

Patrol II of the Girl Scout Troop gave a supper to Patrol I in the chapel last Saturday, because Patrol
I was a few points ahead at the close of the recent Scout contest. The tables were prettily arranged, and Valentine decorations hung from the lights, giving a holiday aspect to the room. Patrol II showed themselves to be very bountiful and skilful hostesses.
Miss Ida M. Smith of Springfield, Field Captain of this district, was present. At the meeting before supper she spoke to the girls about the aims of Scouting and told them about the Western Massachusetts camp, Bonnie Brae, where many scouts spend very happy vacations.
She awarded second-class badges to the following scouts:

Dorothy Kimball
Dorothy Peeso
Ruth Aldrich
Jean Warren
Marjorie Peeso
Marjorie Ayers

There are several other scouts in the troop who have nearly completed the work for this badge.

Special Meetings

Rev. C. F. Dorman, who has conducted special evangelistic services for the last three weeks, concluded his mission last Sunday evening. It had been hoped and advertised that the services would continue another week but it developed that the church in Ludlow is expecting him there next Sunday, and as he desired a few days of rest between engagements, it was thought best to conclude the meetings here.

Mr. Dorman was vigorous in his preaching and expressed in no uncertain tone his convictions as he saw them. The most appealing part of his ministry was, no doubt, his singing, of which he and his audiences never seemed to tire.

Mr. Dorman estimates that about twenty have been definitely reached by his appeals and that a goodly number have been strengthened in the Way as a result of his night-by-night discourses.

Basket Ball League News

Secretary Wilfrid Noel of the Belchertown Intersectional League announces that the two games scheduled to be played last night and postponed because the town hall was unavailable, will be played Monday night.

The first game, which is scheduled to start at 7.45 will find the West Sides eluding with the Turkey Hill quintet. This is expected to be a fast and close game as both teams are now tied for second place in the league. The undefeated North Ends will play the East Sides in the closing game of the night. "Connie" Lynch, manager of the East Sides, announces that he will have his strongest team on the floor in an effort to defeat the league leaders.

On Thursday night the league will stage two more games. The West Sides and East Sides will clash in the opening game and the North Ends will play the Turkey
Hill team in the other game.

Good-sized crowds are expected at these games as there is an intense rivalry amongst the teams.

All the teams with the exception of the West Sides, have elected their managers for the remainder of the season. They are namely: John Fairchild, North Ends; Wilfrid Noel, Turkey Hill; Cornelius Lynch, East Sides. The West Sides will probably elect their manager before the game with Turkey Hill next Monday night.

The Minstrel Show

The minstrel show given by the Earl F. Howe Post 123, of Ware, in the town hall, Tuesday evening, proved a drawing card. The show was given under the auspices of the Chauncey D. Walker Post 239, of this town.

The entertainment was given an original setting by the banquet scene. The participants sat at a long table laden with real banquet delicacies. The end men were the waiters.

The program was rendered with spirit, and the up-to-date songs
"took." In fact a liberal amount of singing was a distinct feature of the show.

The local hits showed that the waiters had been well informed as to current news in Belchertown.

Part two consisted of special attractions of singing, dancing, monologues and musical novelties. The show was liberal in length as well as diversity.

The legion went to a good deal of expense to get the entertainers here, and the gate receipts about matched the outlay. The organization will, however, net something on the extensive advertising programs which they issued.

The Post is very grateful to all who assisted them, especially to the Social Guild for the loan of the dishes and to the High school for the use of the piano.

Grange Notes

The Colonial program, which was to have been given at the grange meeting next Tuesday evening, has been postponed till a later date on account of illness.

United Young People's Society Notes

The newly elected officers of the young people's society are planning for a big year in the activities they intend to conduct during 1922.

Among the new plans is the idea of giving a social to which no one can go unless he has been present at the previous Y. P. S. Sunday evening service. Everyone is invited, especially young people. It is not necessary to be a member of the society but unless you are present at the meeting next Sunday night, you may be sure that the possibilities of getting into the chapel next Friday evening will be small.

The social committee is introducing several new games and guarantees an evening full of interesting and exciting events. If you miss this social, you will miss the best social ever put on by the Y. P. S., and they have had some pretty good ones, too. Let us see you Sunday night at our lively, interesting, and helpful service which the young people themselves have charge of and direct.

Sunday morning next a contest starts among the young people of the church and community. A fine banquet given by the Y. P. S. is promised.

Better Than the Average

The average man is too frequently our goal. If we do as well as the average individual we are satisfied.

The reason why the world gets on so slowly is because there are so few who have a desire to excel. The majority are satisfied to say what the crowd does...

A mere glance at history will reveal the fact that it has been the men of great ambition to excel who have led the world into new vistas of thought and action.

May we speak a personal word to the high school students? What are you doing more than the average boy and girl?

B. H. S. Notes

Where did Katy get the name of "Pussy"?

The mysteries of feminine wearing apparel are not always clear to Aldrich. These long scarfs seem to puzzle him.

NO WONDER THEY ARE HARD TO FIND

Teacher: "Where does the pronoun object of a French verb stand usually?"

Chorus from the class: "Before the verb."

Teacher: "Where is it placed in an affirmative command?"

Moment of silence, then a single voice: "Behind the verb."

Mr. Allen: "How do you find the diagonal of a rectangle?"

Bardwell: (after several attempts on the part of the class) "The square root of the product of —"

Mr. Allen: "You're getting warm; if we have a thaw you will probably get it."

If we stay in Miss Perry's room the next period, we may get a B in our English History exam.

A girl in the Sophomore class called another in the same class a nut. We think that if the squirrels had been around, the former wouldn't be here (missing link).

We wonder why Mr. Brewer does not want the Zoology exam on Thursday.

It's nice to know all the marks of the Zoology class; isn't it, J. Wood?

We may study our heads off but with some teachers you don't get much credit.

Packardville Items

There was a supper and entertainment in Packardville church, Friday evening. The entertainment consisted of a play, "Sewing for the heathen."

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Webb and family went to Boston this week to attend the wedding of their son, Earl Webb. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Webb will make their home here where Mr. Webb is in the poultry business.

The Misses Olive and Genevieve Hough of Orange spent Sunday with their parents.

Earl Martin has been awarded second place in the county calf club work.

It may be true that there is nothing new under the sun, but Smith College doesn't believe so.

Eskimo Pie makes a special appeal to the heart of the college girl in combining two favorite eatables—ice cream and candy—in a form convenient for consumption.

Incidentally, it would appear to be the simplest thing in the world to coat a small brick of ice cream with chocolate, wrap it in tin foil and sell it.

Eskimo Pie, or the Klondike Bar, as some dealers call it, was invented by Chris Nelson of Omaha, Nebraska.

gest horse paint something else had to be found.

Mr. Nelson eventually discovered the secret for which he was searching, an oil preparation which unites the chocolate and cream.

At any rate, Eskimo Pie has swept the country since Thanksgiving. Omaha plants alone are making at least two thousand daily.

"S. W. Roode, now living in Belchertown, and formerly a business man of New York City, was born in Dover, Vt., Feb. 15, 1847, and enlisted when sixteen years of age in the army and has an honorable discharge from the same. He went out from Brattleboro in 1862 in the 9th Vermont. He was with the 10,000 who were taken prisoners at Harpers Ferry and was sent on parole to the west. Veteran Roode had a great many war experiences but came out of every battle unscathed. Among the engagements ised to the winning team immediately after Easter. Enlist with one of the teams and stick with it to the close. Make every effort to have your team the winner and show the other teams your red sporting blood.

The young people's society is planning to enlist many more of the young people on its rolls between now and Easter. Results of the evangelistic services are already being seen and felt. Last Sunday night two young men, Watson Barlow and Charles Scott, became active members of the C. E., and Alvin Michel joined the society as an associate member.
These induction services are very impressive. If you have not attended one, make it a point to attend our services from now until Easter and you will see several. The Lookout committee is looking for prospective members, and if perchance you who read these lines wish to join either society or are interested in any way, see the president, Harold Booth, or tell some of your friends who are members who in turn will notify the proper individuals.

Grange Notes

The meeting of the grange was quite well-attended in spite of the epidemic prevailing. A description of Belchertown in colonial times was much enjoyed. One interesting point was that 271 men, more than one-fourth of Belchertown's entire population, were actively engaged in the Revolutionary war, and 65 more employed in some way.

The committee had arranged a very fine colonial entertainment which had to be postponed on account of sickness. This will be given at some future date as a public entertainment. At the next meeting applications for membership will be received.

Methodist Church Supper and Roll Call

"Terrible" travelling, way below zero weather, an incursion of the flu,—"the stars in their courses fought against" the first roll call of the M. E. church but did not prevail. About sixty friends and members of the Methodist church sat down to a "beautiful" supper. Cold meat, mashed potatoes, hot gravy, fruit salad with whipped cream, rolls, cake and pies of all varieties, coffee, thus read the menu.

A short program followed the supper. Music was furnished by Miss Gladys Gay, Mrs. B. E. Shaw and Mrs. Wm. E. Shaw. Rev. J. M. Gage of Winchester, a former pastor, gave a very entertaining and instructive talk on the Centenary Movement. At the roll call, members responded with remarks, verses of scripture, etc.

The committee issuing invitations was Rev. H. P. Rankin, E. C. Witt, and A. R. Ketchen. The supper was in charge of the Ladies' Social Union.

In Grip of Epidemic

The epidemic of grip and influenza sweeping over the country, has arrived in town. There are comparatively few families where there is no sickness. Public functions have fared hard and many of them have been postponed.

Physicians are kept busy plying the roads in an attempt to do something for all who call them. The patients who took the "stitch in time" saved many days' illness by so doing. Many of the cases are of comparatively short duration.

Dies in Claremont, N. H.

Geo. E. Alderman, proprietor of the Park View hotel, and connected therewith for about eight years, but who recently sold the property and went to live with his son, Harry Alderman, an inn keeper of Claremont, N. H., died at four o'clock, Tuesday morning.

Mr. Alderman came here from South Vernon, where he was engaged in the hotel business. He leaves besides his widow, two sons, Harry Alderman and Fred Alderman. The funeral was held in the Unitarian church in Amherst, yesterday afternoon at one o'clock. Interment will be in Wildwood cemetery.

North Ends and West Sides Win

The West Sides and North Ends were the winners in the two basketball games that were played in the town hall, Monday night. Both games, which were scheduled to be played as league games, were played under a protest because the managers of the North Ends, West Sides and East Sides did not use their regular players in the games.

The West Sides only had three players to start the game, namely: Eddie Parent, Herb Story and Bill Atkins. Manager Parent then decided to use Red Wood and Connie Lynch of the East Sides. With this fast combination to start the game, the West Sides thought they would have a "snap" in trimming the Turkey Hill five, but soon found out that they had to play their best to win by a score of 42 to 34.

The Turkey Hill team outclassed the West Sides in the first half and led at half time by a score of 20 to 13. But the West Sides, with the aid of Story's shooting, managed to take the lead in the last half and win the game by a margin of eight points. Story's shooting was a feature for the winners, while Shumway and Noel played best for the losers.

The Battle Only Begun

The Disarmament Conference has ended. While perhaps idealists are somewhat disappointed because more was not accomplished, yet it must not be forgotten that marvelous things have been wrought.

But having accomplished this much, we must not think that we can quietly fold our hands and say there is nothing to do.

We found this to be true with reference to the negro problem. The harder task remained to be done after the negro was declared free.

The Disarmament Conference has only made a splendid beginning. Not a soul can slacken his pace, nor diminish his enthusiasm, nor decrease his vigor for a warless world.

Library Notes

For a number of weeks recently the Sunday Union has been publishing lists of twelve books by English novelists best suited to the average reader.

ceiving the most votes have been placed on the reading table at the library for inspection by any one interested.

The number of books and magazines distributed during January is 1,337.

Sales Over a Million

Retail sales of Ford cars, trucks and Fordson tractors have again exceeded the million mark for the year 1921, according to a statement given out today by the Ford Motor Company.

The Ford factory and assembly plant production figures reached a total of 1,050,740 cars, trucks and tractors for the year, with retail sales by dealers approximating 1,093,000, which in the United States alone surpassed the 1920 retail sales record by 104,213 Ford cars and trucks!

The Ford Company says the outlook for 1922 is decidedly optimistic. In fact, concrete evidences already exist in that car and truck retail sales for December 1921, exceeded December 1920 sales by almost 25%.

Recent reductions in Ford car and truck prices brought them to a new level. The touring car now sells for $348, the runabout for $319, the coupe for $580, the sedan for $645, the chassis for $285, and the truck for $430, all f. o. b. Detroit.

This is the fourth price cut in the past sixteen months. During that time the price of the touring car alone has been cut from $575 to $348, a reduction of 40%.

The Ford Company believes that this reduction, while not a large one, is especially important at this time as it should go a long way toward stabilizing market conditions.

Ford is giving employment at present to approximately 40,000 men in his main plant at Detroit, the importance of which is emphasized when consideration is given to the fact that nearly 20% of the city's population is directly dependent upon the Ford Motor Company.

Reminiscences of Gov.

and Mrs. Robinson

Mrs. C. F. D. Hazen

I recently found an old letter of Sara T. D. Robinson's, thanking me for sending Quabbin, a history or story of Enfield.

Lawrence, Kansas, 1894.

My dear cousin Clara, Having written not to hasten about sending the book, I was surprised yesterday when it came.

I am glad you told me all you did about Mr. U., and sorry Houghton and Mifflin did not send on my letter to him.

At the closing he is speaking of the last visit to the old home and of going everywhere over the old hills, listening to the birds and going to the grave yard.

Frank was a little older than Mark. Once in a while he would come to see us. Several times he brought his violin upon which he was learning to play.

She mentions about Gov. Robinson's death. She tells how busy she is and glad. "We have cleaned the bins of the old wheat to make room for the corn."

The books that went out from the Robinson home were three large ones. First, "Kansas, its Interior and its Exterior," by Sara T. D. Robinson. This was the story of her first years in Kansas.

Score at half-time, Turkey Hill 20, West Sides 13, Referee, Fairchild. Time, 20 minute halves.

The North Ends, with the aid of Noel and Shumway of the Turkey Hill team, gave the East Side quintet, which had the same lineup as the West Sides, a good beating by a score of 36 to 13. The North Ends took the lead at the start and, outclassing the East Sides in every way, were leading at half-time, 20 to 7.

The feature of the game was the passing and teamwork of the North Ends. Fairchild, Noel and Shumway were the heavy scorers for the North Ends, while Lynch and Wood were the stars for the East Sides.

United Young People's Society Notes

SOCIAL POSTPONED

In view of the fact that there is so much sickness in the community the Y. P. S. social planned for this evening has been postponed one week. This gives those who were unable to be present last Sunday evening at the Young People's service another opportunity next Sunday night. These services are conducted by the young people and special preparation is being made for next Sunday night. You will certainly miss something if you do not attend. The social to which all can go who have been to either of the two previous Y. P. S. services will be all the better for the postponement because of the extra time the social committee will have to work on it. Therefore make it a point to be with us Sunday night and get in on this fine social affair. Whether you are a society member or not it makes no difference.

As the society has voted to have a business meeting the first Friday evening in every month, a short snappy business meeting will be conducted some time during the evening,

Big Meeting Tonight

Peter Hanfin, director of the Hampshire trustees for county aid, informs us that there will be an important meeting in the town hall tonight, and wants "every man and woman in Belchertown to be present." Tomorrow a big membership drive is planned when four men will canvass the town in the interest of this movement, intended to be of service to the people.

One-Year Course Available

The following notice and accompanying letter sent by Mrs. Nelson Holland of New York should be of interest to our readers.

The Trustees of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children, Stuyvesant Square, New York City, are offering a one-year course in practical nursing to a limited number of women. Maintenance, salary and uniforms furnished by the school. For further information apply to the Superintendent of the school.

Mr. Lewis Blackmer, Belchertown Sentinel,
Belchertown, Mass.

My dear Mr. Blackmer:

I am enclosing a notice for insertion in your next issue of the Sentinel.

The New York Infirmary is a hospital for women and children only, and while it has private rooms for patients of men doctors and the consultant doctors are men, the house doctors and the general staff are all women.

It was founded in 1853 and has an excellent reputation. The present superintendent, Miss Stone, is a New England woman of much experience and has started successful training schools about Boston.

We are looking for some young women or girls that have had a good school education to take our one year course of nursing. It will include only women and children service. Residence will be in the nurses' home adjoining the hospital, and after graduation the nurse will be in position to have her time filled with practical nursing in the city, if she cares to remain in New York.

I think it is a splendid opportunity for the right kind of a young person.

I have been on the Board of Trustees for sixteen years and am much interested in the Infirmary. Miss Stone will be glad to furnish information on the courses, lectures, duties, etc.

Sincerely yours,
Elizabeth H. Holland.

China

Stanley High's address on China at the Federated church last Sunday morning was decidedly worth while. Mr. High told the story of his travels in most interesting fashion, revealed the ways of the Chinese in a very human manner, and made the very strong application that the infusion of Christian ideals into that country today will mean much for her future.

Mr. High told not simply a story, but he brought a challenge to his hearers to throw themselves into the conflict of bringing in the Kingdom in all the world. He also pointed out that the Christian way of dealing with China by the other nations will be the only way that will prove satisfactory to all concerned.

His portrayal of the part Christian missions had played and were playing in bringing that great empire to a high standard of Christian democracy was decidedly revealing.

Mr. High took his hearers with him on the Pacific, had them listen to expressions of sympathy from those on shipboard who saw little of pleasure in his mission, gave them a glimpse of Japan which revealed to them the wonderful advance that country has made in the past few years, and then after a three days' trip over the China sea, landed them in Shanghai.

Mr. High said he had been told by the missionaries that after a sojourn there one couldn't help but love the Chinese, but on his arrival in Shanghai, he believed one never could like the sounds or the smells that greeted him and thought that missionaries who entertained such ideas must be abnormal.

His description of the "backward" nation was interesting. The Chinese read from the back to the front of the book, from the bottom to the top of a page; the ladies wear trousers and the men, gowns; the highest compliment one can pay a woman is to ask her age; and the harder the bed, the more luxurious it is.

Mr. High said, however, that China was way ahead in some things. In the invention of the mariner's compass, she was first in the field; she also invented movable types and two thousand years before Christ she had a democratic system of government. "You expect to teach the Chinese!" exclaimed one individual. "Don't you know that they have developed the world's most widely used article of food, which is rice, the most generally used drink, which is tea, and the finest article of clothing, which is silk? And you expect to teach them something?"

In view of these things and of his own observations, Mr. High said that he came to see that the Chinese were well equipped with the fundamental characteristics that make for civilization.

The speaker said that it was in western China that he came to appreciate the Chinese as individuals. He spoke of his experiences with them on a long journey over "the great road". At its widest point this road is only 8 feet wide, necessitating travel by coolies. It devolved upon him to handle the cash for the expenses of the party, and while it was known that in his black bag lay some $300 or $400 in silver, still during the ten days on the way, the funds were never tampered with by any of the seventy-five coolies and not a single thing was lost. "They were absolutely trustworthy," he said.

Installs Officers

Those who attended the Y. P. S. installation of officers last Sunday night witnessed one of the most impressive services of its kind that has been conducted by young people in this town for years. The meeting began at seven. After a short song service the officers and committee chairmen were installed by Theodore Hazen (a retiring officer). In this service the importance of the positions of the officers and chairmen was brought out. There was a challenge for better work in the society and a high standard set for the activities of the society during the coming year.

Following the installation Rev. H. P. Rankin urged the young people to greater consecration and devotion to the society and church.

Speeches or short talks were made by those officers and chairmen present who were installed. Among those who spoke were Harold Booth, Watson Bardwell, Charles Scott, (continued on page 3)

The Tides

All of us have more or less to do with tides; that is, tides of public opinion. Some of us help create them and nearly all of us desire at one time or another to ride upon them.

We are wondering what the next great tide will bring in. There are those who are stirring the waters to bring in a great tidal wave against the 18th amendment, and there are those who are doing all they can to bring in a great tidal wave of law enforcement.

Out in the distance storms are brewing today, storms that bode ill or good for humanity. Are we agitating the waters that will bring in to shore anything as worth while as the disarmament conference, or will our words and actions serve to bring in only rubbish?

It is true in the world at large, in this country and in this town. Waves of sentiment are in the making even here. How glad we were to ride upon the wave of public opinion that brought the State school here, but how few went to start the waves in motion.

The next waves that break over our town and the world will be worth riding on if, while they are in the making, we fashion them aright.

Contributions

We are always glad to receive contributions to the Sentinel, but of course cannot promise to print all that is submitted. The editor, in a measure, is responsible for what he publishes, so he has to exercise to some extent his judgment in the matter. It may be poor, but it's what he has to go by. So, if at first you don't seem to please him, try again. He's human and will try to be fair.

Alice Howard, Miss Hales and James Aldrich. It can be truthfully stated that these speeches were from the hearts of the speakers and showed that these individuals considered it an honor to hold office in such a society. Also the fact that nearly everyone expressed his determination to do his best during the next six months in his particular department, assures us that the activities of the society will be better than ever before and that success in whatever is attempted by the society as a whole is almost positive.

After these very interesting speeches a candle service, during which all lights were turned out, was conducted. On a table a cross of candles was arranged. Around these candles was a ring of smaller candles representing the society. The newly installed officers and chairman formed a semicircle about this table. Then the other members of the society gathered around this circle and lustily the audience made a third half circle.

Then with these lighted candles shining in the faces of those about the table Theodore Hazen made a short talk on the meaning of the cross, on the importance of the newly filled offices, on the responsibilities resting upon the officers and chairmen and lastly upon that which every individual has to face sometime, "sacrifice."

He mentioned the fact that working in a society does more for the individual than the society and that in helping others we help ourselves.

Roger Babson, one of the leading business men in this country, stated in New York City last summer at a C. E. convention, the following, "All that I am and all that I have I owe to a little C. E. (young people's) society down in Gloucester."

The meeting closed with a song and benediction.

Quite an interest in the church attendance contest is being shown and certainly it is a question which team will win the chicken supper and banquet. Boost your team, if you belong to one. Any young person is eligible and wanted.

Don't forget the Big Social tonight. A grand surprise awaits you all. "B" there ready for the fun.

Selectmen's Doings

The board of selectmen met in regular session, Feb. 24, at 8 p. m. with all members present. One permit was granted to carry a revolver. The town treasurer's bond was presented for $5,000 and was accepted. It was the opinion of the board that it should be increased to $10,000, and plans were made whereby this might be done without extra cost this year.

The board then took action to instruct the sheriff to have all dogs muzzled; all quarantined for thirty days.

Bills were approved to the amount of $1,713.40.

Soldiers of the Revolutionary War

It has been suggested that the Sentinel print the list of the 271 soldiers, referred to in last week's issue, who went from Belchertown to the Revolutionary war. These names are found in a pamphlet compiled in 1889 by Rev. P. W. Lyman who secured his information from the volumes of the muster rolls in the State House.

We publish this week the names of those in the first company from Belchertown. This company was in the regiment commanded by Col. Ruggles Woodbridge of South Hadley, "part of which served with the gallant Prescott within the redoubt at Bunker Hill." Records show that this company "marched on the day after the battles of Concord and Lexington."

"Muster Roll of the company that marched on the 20th of April 1775, under the command of Capt. John Cowles, of Col. Woodbridge's regiment."

of the message of Jesus Christ on the life of today, and told how students from China had come to America to be educated and had gone back to their home land to engage in all kinds of humanitarian work to benefit their countrymen. Mr. High went on to enumerate the large proportion of graduates of mission schools who are members of foreign-embassies, even citing the delegation recently attending the arms conference in Washington. He mentioned the names of noted men who would have been in seclusion today were it not for Christian missions which set their hearts on fire with a holy zeal.

The speaker said that along with more railroads and material development there must come a deepening of spiritual influence. China must not depend on the material, else with her growing power she may become the greatest menace. So far Christianity has only touched the surface.
It has only made a beginning. To prove it he spoke of the man with seven baby girls which he was selling for from 40c to 50c each to make a living.

In contrast with this picture, he told of the college for women in Nanking where he spoke and where he found girls anxious to go out and solve the world's problems.

In fact all over China are growing up Christian centers, where those who have caught the new spirit are radiating its influence and power.

In closing Mr. High gave a few glimpses of life and conditions in Korea and stated that the Orient will hold no menace if we continue our support of Christian missions.

Death of Addison M. Rockwood

Addison Morse Rockwood, who moved to Belchertown about a year ago from Franklin, Ct., died Tuesday at Springfield hospital, where he went for an operation.
Mr. Rockwood was born in Holiston, Mass., June 28, 1864, the son of Addison and Jerusha Morse Rockwood. In Sept., 1901, he was married to Annie L. Briggs. The family lived in Pennsylvania 10 years and in Connecticut 16 years. Mr.

Rockwood has been engaged in the lumber and real estate business, also farming.
He leaves besides his widow, three children in the home, also a brother, Frank Rockwood. Prayers were held at the home at 1.30 yesterday.
Burial was in Pautipaug, Ct., cemetery.

Married in Portland

The marriage of Miss Beatrice Holecomb Sutherland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. M. Sutherland of Springfield to Russell Stuart Porteous of Portland, Me., on Feb.
24 at Portland is of interest to Bel-chertown people, Mr. Porteous being a native of Belchertown and a summer resident here for some years.

Mrs. Sutherland is a graduate of the public schools of Holyoke, the Bradford-Kennedy school at South Hadley and also received secretarial training at Griffin's Business school of Springfield.

Mr. Porteous is connected with the Porteous, Mitchell & Braun Co. of Portland and is a member of the city council of that city. He is also an overseas veteran and a 32nd degree Mason and Shriner. Mr. and Mrs. Porteous will make their home at Portland.

Farm Bureau Meet- ing

Belchertown farmers are not strong in showing themselves at meeting. Time and again invitations have been mailed them, notice has been given in the papers and every effort made to get them out, but a baker's dozen is usually about all that appears. Perhaps they have the "hoss sense" that makes them shy a bit or smell an appeal for funds that is not to their liking. If the latter was their intuition last Friday night, it surely was correct, for the main purpose of the meeting was to secure Farm Bureau members at $5 per. In all justice it may be said, however, that seldom is there any appeal for funds made at these meetings and this last one was

Death of Mrs. Mary H. Alden

Mary Hutchinson Alden, daughter of Seth and Mary Ruggles Thomtage St. after a long illness. Mrs.

Alden was born in Belchertown Nov.
29, 1842 and was married to Augustus D. Alden in August, 1862.
Many years of her life were spent in Boston. Her husband died May 11, 1916.

Mrs. Alden was a member of a Congregational church and was interested in every good work. She leaves to mourn her loss, four brothers, Fred Thomas of Taunton, Mass., Frank Thomas of Athol, Mass., also George Thomas and Henry Thomas; two daughters, Mrs. H. B. Travis of Milwaukee and Mrs. Cora Alden DeMoss of Kansas City, Mo.; and two grandsons, Alden DeMoss in the west and Stanley DeMoss of Belchertown. Mrs. Alden's two daughters and youngest grandson were with her at the time of her death.

The funeral was held from the home, Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock, Rev. H. P. Rankin, officiating. The bearers were Guy Allen,
E. E. Sargent, M. A. Morse and H.
F. Peck.

There was a committal service at the tomb in Greenwich cemetery, where the body will be interred be-

Town to Get Map

It was ascertained by those attending the probate court in Northampton on Tuesday that the County Commissioners have been preparing mammoth maps of Hampshire county, showing all roads, etc., therein.
They are elaborately gotten up and show which are county, which are town and which are private roads, about which there has always been some dissention.

These new maps, which measure several feet each way, have been prepared at an expense of about $100 a town but are to be sent to each community without a special appropriation.

Poverty Party

There will be a Grown-up's social,
Tuesday, March 14th, at 7.30 p. m. at the chapel. This includes all persons from 16 to 116, and will be held rain or shine.

An interested and enthusiastic committee has planned for a fine evening's entertainment. There will be a unique program with ice breaking and laugh provoking features.
"The Soaring Cherubs" quartet and "The Ladies' Male" quartet will be heard. The Flattering Frolic number will interest all and all will participate.

All persons are requested to come in a make-up representing extreme poverty, showing the taste and versatility of a prince but the purse of a pauper. Leave your seal skins, ermine coats, pearl and diamond necklaces at home. Make your trousseaus of burlap and bed ticking. Search the garrets and wood sheds for discarded cast-offs.

Bring a smile and an appetite, for fun and food await you. Come, anyway.

The Need of Water

Anything less than the need of water for Belchertown, especially for fire protection, would warrant our saying much in its behalf at a time when the burden of new school houses is about to fall upon us.

But the fallacy of having good buildings and still providing no real insurance for them, has been pointed out. Never again do we wish to gather at such a conflagration as overtook us last fall. Just as surely as a crowd gathers to see the buildings go up in smoke, just as surely must a crowd gather at the town hall at some later date to vote to tax themselves to pay the bill.

Those familiar with the situation view the present as an opportune time to get permission from the state to purchase water sufficient for our needs. If such is the case, we should see to it that the thing does not slip through our fingers.

It will not be necessary to pipe water all over town to start with. Even a pipe running through Main St. would make a good beginning. It would not be so very expensive, and it would protect our public buildings and start us in the right direction.

Ratify the Treaties

We wish to take the same attitude with reference to the Washington conference as we took with reference to the Versailles conference. After the Versailles conference had done its work, we advocated that the treaty be ratified without reservations that would mar it and without delay. We now advocate that the treaties of the Washington conference be ratified without reservations and without delay.

There are added reasons why such action should now be taken. The chief one is that we failed to ratify the League of Nations with or without reservations. And if we fail now to ratify these treaties, the world will have reason to believe that America is unwilling to sacrifice for the common good of all. America is on trial before the world. All eyes are upon her to see if she really can co-operate with other nations. We quite agree with Dr. Scudder when he declares, "If the Senate should fail to approve them (the treaties), nay, if that august assembly should attempt to damn these agreements by modifying them, the effect upon the Far East will be incalculably disastrous." Other nations are waiting to see what America will do before they act. If America fails now she is disgraced in the eyes of the world.

The treaties should be ratified speedily because the people of the United States are, we believe, practically a unit. While we still believe that the people as a whole desired the Senate to ratify the League Covenant in some form or other, yet even though we may be mistaken and the people were divided, such is not the case at the present time. If the Senate should fail to ratify now, they are not carrying out the wishes of the people.

In order that the Senate may know the voice of the people, let Washington be flooded with appeals. Let us not be silent at such a time as this. It is now time for us to let our senators know that we believe the treaties should be speedily and heartily ratified.

United Young People's Society Notes

To dispute the statement that the Y. P. S. social last Friday night was a success would be an evidence of one's inexperience and poor judgment. The fact that the young people themselves got up the whole affair, conducted it and as a result pleased everyone who attended shows to no small degree that Belchertown is blessed with talented youths and maidens.

To tell in detail what happened at this social would be impossible but nevertheless some of the special features we feel you should hear of.

A half dozen games, original and new for the most part, were conducted during the first part of the evening. Refreshments were then served after which a business meeting was conducted.

Several important matters were brought up and plans for a big year in Y. P. S. have been and are being made. The meeting adjourned promptly and the fun continued. More new games were introduced under the leadership of different members of the social committee.

After the joy making and stunts had been performed, all gathered about the piano and sang after which the young people dismissed themselves by repeating their regular society benediction.

Everybody left with a smile and felt that they had enjoyed an evening not to be forgotten soon. Our next social is coming the twenty-fourth of this month. Plan to be with us and avail yourself of the splendid, clean, wholesome fun that is offered.

The Go-to-church contest becomes more interesting every Sunday. The competition between the teams is remarkable and the number of young people out is astonishing. Join a team and thus take a chance on being one of the fortunate ones who will be entertained at the after-Easter banquet.

Our Sunday evening services are well attended and the members make them interesting. Your presence is solicited. Let us see you Sunday night.

D. D. Hazen, one of the trustees of the Lawrence Memorial fund, H. H. Ward, chairman of the selectmen, and W. F. Nichols, G. E. Scott and A. R. Lewis of the special school building committee, attended probate court on Tuesday at Northampton, when the matter of uniting Lawrence Memorial hall and the High school building was brought before the judge. No opposition was made to the proposal and it is expected that the judge will sign the proper documents to make the plan possible. It has been found necessary to have another town meeting for the town to accept formally the decrees when they have been put in final form.

The hearing which was to have been held by the County Commissioners on Tuesday, relative to the Chapin bridge matter, was postponed on account of technicalities.

The hearing in regard to the matter of allowing the town to buy water of the state was scheduled for Wednesday at 10.30 a. m. in Boston, but owing to the illness of interested parties here has been put over until next week.

The Social Guild will meet with Mrs. Thomas Allen next Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

The local sportsman's club will hold regular meetings in their rooms the first Monday in the month at 8 p. m. A special meeting will be held next Monday night.

The hearings regarding the taking down of the large tree in front of J. J. Garvey's store have developed no interest. By calling the meetings, tree warden Kelley has no doubt fulfilled the requirements of the law and can now do as he sees

In a sense the tree was Belchertown's daily newspaper.

certainly an exception.

It may be that the local tillers of the soil feel that they know more than any visitors speeding around the country in cars, but if they thought that this Farm Bureau company was a little lower in the scale of farming than themselves, possibly they had another guess coming, for if anything was characteristic of the speakers it was that they were real "dirt" farmers in the strictest sense of the word. Not alone have they been in the business, but they are in the business. They are simply taking this time off in the slack season to further the interests of the Farm Bureau, in which they believe thoroughly.

Nothing daunted, the visitors put their message across, Friday night, and not only that, but they put it across the next day when they went out into the highways and by-ways and pled the cause of the farmer to the farmer and were fairly successful in securing the fee asked for.

The men were frank in their appeal. They said that those who gave their money might not see it again, at least not right away, and that the good it would do would work out in a general way, which might not be very spectacular.

Josiah W. Parsons of Northampton, who is president of the Farm Bureau in this county, opened the discussion, and in a friendly way told of how the bureau came into being, how it differed from the old organization and of its nation-wide scope. The American Federation of Farm Bureaus is the national organization. Mr. Parsons reported the favorable results of canvasses in nearby towns, and while he gave totals, said they were incomplete.

Geo. Taylor of Shelburne Falls, treasurer of the Franklin county organization, was the second speaker. He said that the farmer must use different methods than those of a decade ago. "Cooperation is the big word today," he said. The laboring man, the business man and the other classes have found how important this word is. The country has been divided into commodity groups, each of which has seen to the furtherance of its own interests.

Mr. Taylor said that heretofore the farmers have had little weight with the legislature because they have not stood together. Last year, with only four counties organized into farm bureaus, there was a marked difference. The speaker said that the standardized bushel box and the standard milk can were results attributed to the efforts of the Farm Bureau organization. Mr. Taylor said that the farmers had come to their own more in Washington and had received a reduction of from 13 to 16 per cent. in freight rates on farm products from the west. He also told of the campaign that had been carried on against "filled" milk, also the effort to thwart the sales tax to pay the bonus. In closing he said, "We are working along those larger lines that affect our business indirectly."

Mr. Frost of Easthampton was the second speaker. He, too, emphasized the fact that a farmer going alone before the legislature was powerless, whereas if one could say that he spoke for 8,000 farmers, he would be listened to. He said that the Farm Bureau movement was an enterprise of, by and for the farmer. He also mentioned daylight saving as something in which the farmer was vitally interested and said that the organization was for the express purpose of getting back at the man who was trying to put one over on the farming interests. Mr. Frost does not own a farm but runs a neighboring "poor" farm.

Mr. Dickinson of North Amherst is quite well known in this vicinity as a practical farmer. He was a member of the party and spoke a few words in behalf of the movement. He went at the matter from a different angle. He cited the case of many farmers of foreign birth who are not voters but who are interested in this get together movement. "They are progressive fellows," he said. With a growing number of people in the cities who are finding that the farmers are a bunch of people to be respected, plus the farmers themselves, Mr. Dickinson thought that better days were in store. With 6,000 in Massachusetts and a million in the country the Farm Bureau members are bound to be heard. Mr. Dickinson likened the movement to a growing snowball. It was assuming proportions but it must be properly guided else it would hit a stone wall and go to pieces. He said that it must be conducted in an "unselfish way", and thought that at present such was the case.

It seems that Peter Hanfin is the local director of the enterprise as he is of the Hampshire Trustees for County Aid to Agriculture, to which the town contributed $100 at its last annual meeting. The latter enterprise has more to do with extension and demonstrative work with headquarters at the college. The Farm Bureau is interested in this end of the work as well, and Mr. Parsons said that probably one dollar of the five would go for this object, but the main work of the bureau is to solidify the farmers' interests, protect him in the marketing of his products and in securing the legislation that will entitle him to a fair share of what is coming his way.

As before stated the canvass took place the next day, but if the organization is a going concern, it will

Remembers Former Pastor

Belchertown friends of Rev. P. W. Lyman are always glad to learn of the many manifestations of esteem tendered him from time to time by the citizens of Fall River. We look back upon his pastorate of sixteen years here and think it a long one and have an idea that because of it the ties that bind him here must be stronger than those that bind him elsewhere, but from a standpoint of time Fall River has a first claim upon him. For over 30 years he has been chief editorial writer for the Fall River Evening News, which contained in last week Wednesday's issue quite an account of the way Rev. Mr. Lyman was remembered by his friends on his 80th birthday.

While he received 80 pieces of silver from the former congregation of the Fowler church, and an abundance of smaller gifts from fellow laborers, a remembrance which he will prize quite highly is a letter from Gov. Cox, whose birthday also falls on Feb. 28. His letter of greeting contained this paragraph:

"It must be a tremendous satisfaction for you to look back over such a long number of years and be permitted to realize that you have filled them with useful service to your fellow-men, and that you have given to the world some splendid children who are worthily doing their part."

Rev. Mr. Lyman's career is rather exceptional in that he has held only two pastorates, one of 16 years and one of 25. Not a large number of our citizens recall his work here, but his interest in the town where his family life began, has brought him back time and again, so that we still desire to count him as our own and to share with him the honors he receives.

Fires in Open Air

I wish to call attention to the following law regarding the setting of fires in the open air. This will be strictly enforced:

John Fairchild,
Town Forest Warden

"G. A. 1916, 51, sect. 1. It shall be unlawful within any city or town for any person to set, maintain or increase a fire in the open air between the first day of March and the first day of December except by written permission of the fire prevention commissioner for the metropolitan district within the said district, or of the forest warden or chief of the fire department in other cities and towns, or, in cities that have such an official, the fire commissioner; provided, that debris from fields, gardens and orchards, and leaves and rubbish from yards may be burned on ploughed fields by the owners thereof, their agents or lessees; and provided, further, that persons above the age of eighteen years may set or maintain a fire for a reasonable purpose upon sandy land, or upon salt marshes or sandy or rocky beaches bordering upon tide water, if the fire is enclosed within rocks, metal or other non-inflammable material. In every case such a fire shall be at least two hundred feet distant from any sprout or forest land, and at least fifty feet distant from any building, and shall be properly attended until it is extinguished. The forest wardens in towns and officials performing the duties of forest wardens in cities shall cause public notice to be given of the provisions of this section and shall enforce the same. Whoever violates any provision of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment, for not more than one month, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

Plans Progressing

The desire to begin work as soon as possible on the new school buildings has not spent itself. Malcolm B. Harding of Westfield has been chosen architect for both buildings and will shortly have specifications ready so that bids may be called for. Mr. Roberts, one of the trustees of the Memorial building has the necessary document ready for the signature of the probate judge who is expected to sign without delay. A special town meeting will then be called to take care of the unfinished business necessary to be done before actual work begins.

Ancient Landmark Passes

The tree in front of J. J. Garvey's store was sawed down on Monday, and upon being cut open, showed evidence of serious decay. While the extreme base was comparatively sound, a short distance up, the heart had completely rotted away. The tree was cut and is being sawed under the personal supervision of tree warden Kelley. It is hard to determine the exact age of the tree, the rings being so closely run together. Anyway, few trees are awarded the honor of so much attention as the tree of their decease as was given this sentinel of Main St. Hardly a one coming to the center during the last few days but what has passed to pay respect to this departing friend.

The Get-Together Social

It behooves the clothiers, milliners and dealers in dress goods in this vicinity to keep on the good side of the people of Belchertown, for if our citizens ever decided to boycott them on wearing apparel, it has been proven conclusively that they have old duds sufficient to get along very comfortably for some time.

Of course the occasion that proved it was the Get-Together Poverty party of Wednesday evening in the chapel. There was a perfect riot of color in evidence, and the ingenuity of its display was past description. Almost all who attended were "sports". They hesitated a bit as they came in the door, but on getting a glimpse of someone looking equally as frightful, their courage grew and they made the fatal plunge.

It is to be doubted whether those who have moved to other places of abode in our broad land would claim relationship with this motley appearing throng, had they been able to glimpse them in their activities Wednesday night.

True to the invitation some used the "burlap", and one person made so remarkable an outfit of it that it is doubtful if half the company knew but what it was an every day affair. The lady that took first prize, however, was logged out with a cotton grain sack, neatly notched at the bottom, while the words "44 Dairy Ration" appeared in the rear.

The winner amongst the men was dressed in an assortment of everything. He had evidently found the rag bag and had an eye for color. Patches here and there, patches everywhere were a part of his success.

Some were dressed in the fashion of "ye-olde time" and perhaps some were dressed in the fashion of the times that are yet to be. From side to side and from head to foot each person was a revelation. One dreamily cast his eyes on a couple of white shoes resting on the floor (continued on page 4)

Superintendent Appointed

Dr. Geo. M. Kline, commissioner of mental diseases, has announced the appointment of D. George E. McPherson as superintendent of the Belchertown State school.

Dr. McPherson has served in several medical positions of prominence and during the war was given a leave of absence from the Medfield State hospital to serve in the Medical corps in the army, where he was commissioned a major.

Dr. McPherson begins his duties at once.

Hearing in Boston

H. H. Ward, chairman of the selectmen, D. D. Hazen, president of the Board of Trade, W. E. Shaw, town accountant, and W. F. Nichols, chairman of the special building committee, attended the hearing in Boston Wednesday relative to the establishment of a fire district in Belchertown and the permission to purchase water from the state. Senator Griswold of Greenfield and Rep. Sawyer of Ware spoke, briefly in favor of the petition.

W. E. Shaw described the proposed fire district, the number of people therein, the approximate consumption and other figures of interest. D. D. Hazen and H. H. Ward spoke relative to the need of water for fire and domestic purposes, while W. F. Nichols emphasized the fact that pure water was an essential for the schools, and called attention to the present unhealthy conditions.

Dr. Kline, commissioner of mental diseases, did not seriously object to water being used for fire and school purposes, but said there was not sufficient to supply families as well. He was quite opposed on general principles to the idea of dealing with a town in a matter of this kind, as it had not worked out satisfactorily elsewhere.

The delegates tried to counteract the impression in Boston that water was wanted simply for fire purposes and hope that they have clearly set Belchertown's case before them.

Ponderings

We think that the committee on naming the streets made one mistake. Cottage St. should have been named Water St., as anyone traveling that thoroughfare after a sudden rainfall will testify. It is our fault. We should have made the suggestion before. But why not remedy the condition instead of changing the name? We hate, however, to get into the habit of "jawin'" about the roads.

Daylight Saving is evidently the bill of fare to be served up another season, but a commission may be constituted to see whether other things, equally precious, are not being lost.

The Bonus

We ought to be agreed as one man that every possible need of our ex-service men should be met by our government to the limit of her strength. These men gave their lives for us and if they returned maimed or crippled or disabled or handicapped or made invalid for life, they should receive the most generous treatment of which the government is capable. In a similar fashion should we treat the deceased soldiers' widows and parents who are left without any means of support. We ought to spare no pains to make as comfortable as we can all those who suffered as the result of the Great War.

But the bonus does not accomplish this purpose. By the bonus, many would receive money compensation who are not in need of it. And it would do them more harm than good. Some would get more wealth than they needed, and others would unwisely spend this "easy money". On the other hand, others who suffered heavily would find the bonus entirely inadequate to care for their desperate needs. The gain to them would be a mere drop in the bucket. If the bonus was given, the cash compensation could not be just to all.

We do not believe that the soldier boy, any more than the housewives who exercised thrift, desire to be recompensed in sordid money for their patriotic services.

But every soldier boy does demand and rightfully, that the government do its utmost to provide employment for those who temporarily lost their positions, or to make provision for some new employment for those who by the war were made unfit for the old vocations and to serve in every possible way all those who by the war were in any way incapacitated.

This intense advertising of radio outfits at $15 up must cause even the daily papers to shiver. Cutting out the middleman has always caused a little coolness. It will hit us when the merchant's radio out their prices instead of using us as a medium. One storekeeper will call out, "Flour $—— per bag." Immediately his competitor will say, "Mine is 5c less." Why, every day will be auction day, and we will not have to stand around and catch cold either. But Hoover says we can't have too much talking going on all at once, so why worry.

The coal strike is upon us. The fires of dispute have been smoldering for some time and are now burning more brightly. And all the time the public is getting scorched. When it gets thoroughly "hot" over it, however, there'll be something doing.

Our sympathy goes out to our friends in the neighboring town of Enfield. They hardly knew whether to go to raising ducks or to stay hatching chickens.

This playing up of crime as first page stuff is getting a bit wearing. We all have abnormal appetites, but it's devilish to satisfy them and it's no way to stop the crime wave.

Already we are beginning to hear of painting contracts. Last season we had quite an epidemic of brushing up. Perhaps we're in for another "spell." Thank goodness, some things are catching besides the "flu".

Our subscribers are all the time sending us bouquets. We quote from two just received:

"You are continuing in well doing. I can say amen to your editorials, and you have had some big news of late. The loss of the old school building seems to have made possible a new cooperative building almost ideal. It seems almost too good to be true."

"I have not received last Friday's Sentinel and I positively refuse to let a week go by without reading that paper. Would you kindly send me a copy of that issue, March 3?"

Of course sometimes somebody thinks otherwise, but then sweet wouldn't be sweet if there wasn't the bitter.

Hi-Y Conference

A fine afternoon and evening of fun and good fellowship awaits those young men of this High school as well as scores of others who are planning to attend the Hi-Y conference in Springfield. It is desired that a select group from every High school within a radius of twenty-five miles of Springfield be present at this fine conference.

A program has been made for the fellows who are to come, which will keep them busy from 2.30 until 9 o'clock on next Friday, the twenty-fourth of this month. Swimming in the "Y" pool, inspection of the famous Springfield Y. M. C. A. building, speakers from Boston and New York, as well as a bang-up banquet are all included in this program.

If you are a member of the High school, if you feel that such an affair as this would interest you, see Watson Bardwell, Walter Dodge, or any of the young men who are going to the conference and arrange with them for transportation.

The Y. P. S. has voted five dollars towards the expenses of all those fellows who go from town. This, doubtless, will take care of the registration and possibly cover the cost of the banquet.

Again I urge you to make every effort on your part to attend this western Massachusetts Hi-Y conference. Mr. Gibson, whom many of the fellows in town have heard, is to be one of the speakers and the trip to Springfield to hear him alone would be quite worth while.

"Let's go" to the Hi-Y conference in Springfield Friday, the twenty-fourth.

came to an Indian village about noon. They called Regina the White Lily.

The Indians gave them to an old squaw as her own children. The squaw's name was Dark and Rainy Cloud. The girls were treated meanly through the ten years they were with the squaw. White Lily was forgetting her language and as time went by even forgot about being taken from her real home.

But the savages were attacked by Captain Hartman and his army and the Indians were made to cross the Ohio river. Capt. Hartman made them bring all their captives back. White Lily's mother had given up hope of ever seeing Regina again but she was persuaded to go and see if her daughter was there.

She hunted through the line but could not find her daughter and with tears rolling down her cheeks told Capt. Hartman: "Why not try singing some old hymn you sang to your daughter?" The mother said she would try. "But won't the soldiers laugh at me?"

The people grew quiet as she sang, with eyes closed. All of a sudden a girl, tall and a lot like an Indian, sprang into her arms and cried, "Mother!" "My child, Regina!"

WHY

Certain Styles of Automobiles Are Called "Sedans"

In France there is a town called Sedan, where a wonderful currying chair, is said to have originated.

The chair, serving as a vehicle for one person, who sits within the inclosure of royal draperies, was carried by chair bearers and was considered quite the thing for the stylish ladies of the time.

They were first introduced in western Europe in 1581, but did not become common as carriers for the social elite of England and France until the eighteenth century. They were elaborately decorated, often with paintings and panels by artists of note, and lined with elegant silks and padded with perfumed cloth.

The chairs, because of the supposed origin in Sedan and because they were often lined with famous Sedan cloth, soon acquired the name of Sedan chairs.

Sedan chairs soon became thick on London streets and Paris boulevards, and remained the fashion until their position was usurped by the victorias and the prancing horses of the courts.

Then came the automobile and some advertising writer had the happy idea of calling a model of similar construction a sedan.

And sedan it still is!—Exchange.

'SIXTH SENSE' FOR HUMANITY

How Invention of San Francisco Man Can Be Utilized for the Benefit of All.

Through the invention of Samuel O. Hoffman, a San Francisco inventor, a "sixth-sense" seems to have been created. At a distance of 600 feet, in total darkness, Hoffman asserts that with the aid of a delicate instrument for the detection of heat waves he can tell whether one, two or several persons are present. His invention, which was started during the war for detecting enemy forces in front of the American trenches, is a combination of thermopiles, a reflector and a galvanometer. The instrument, which acts much as a sound detector, is sensitive to heat waves and can be developed to the point where a complete alouette of an object can be given, showing the outlines from which heat waves emanate. It can also be used for the detection of airplanes thousands of feet in the air.

Government officials are said to be considering use of the instrument for guarding valuable goods, such as large coal piles, warehouses and motor car fleets not in use. Instead of a large number of guards, who can be avoided, it is expected to set up one or two of Hoffman's instruments, which will immediately show the presence of people in the vicinity.

Why Glow-Worms Glow.

When Mrs. Glow-worm, who is really a beetle and not a worm, shines brightly in the grass during the warm summer nights, she is not burning for our benefit. She is waiting patiently until Mr. Glow-worm comes flying that way. Her lamp is the only means she has of telling him that she is there. Unlike her husband, she has no wings, and only six very weak legs. She cannot, therefore, go to look for him, and nature has denied her a voice with which to produce the sounds of which other beetles are capable. She has to rely entirely on her lamp and to keep it bright, too, because Mr. Glow-worm is not keen-sighted, and might easily blunder past in the dark. Also she may readily miss him, for he gives out only a faint glow that flickers near his tail.

floor, only to be aroused by the sight of one starting off in one direction and another in another, each taking for company a brown or a black one. It was the same with stockings and shoe strings. They were all in strange company.

Shredded shirt waists, gay bandannas, red table cloth shawls, paper flowers and fixings galore vied with one another in demanding one's attention.

The "poor" display was, of course, half the show. The other half included patoff pinning and guessing contests, charades, etc. There was music, sublime and ludicrous. The "Soaring Cherubs" quartet, consisting of Howard Spence, Bertram Shaw, Leon Ayres and Everett Howard, with Harold Ketchen as pianist, J. V. Cook as valet and Rev. H. P. Rankin as director, rendered music such as might be expected. "John Brown's Body", "What a Goose I am" and "Good Night, Ladies" were the productions rendered by these song birds whom the pastor said he had picked up in a police court in Sunny Italy.

About as hilarious was the effect of the men marching blindfolded into the main room wearing the ladies' hats appropriated from the dressing room. If these ladies could remember what hat they had worn, they found their partners for supper which consisted of hot rolls and frankforts, sandwiches, apples and coffee.

Then there was the presentation of a cake to Miss Edith Towne and Mrs. Bertram Shaw, members of the entertainment committee who are this month celebrating their birthday anniversaries.

To close with there was the grand

Junior Camps

The article below, a reprint from the Extension Service News, is passed on to our readers with the hope that the summer camp described will appeal to some of our young people as a place to spend a pleasant and profitable vacation. Miss Bena G. Erhard, county club agent, in a letter to Mrs. D. C. Randall, local leader, regarding the project states that "in some towns in the eastern part of the state, different organizations are sending boys and girls from the town to camp. In other cases the boys and girls are going on their own account."

The article follows:

JUNIOR CAMPS AGAIN

"Suppose a whole college plant—campus, laboratory equipment, dining hall, instructors, everything—even the well-equipped college infirmary with its trained nurses—could be turned over to a youngster who is trying to make a summer vacation worth while.

Death of

Austin L. Kimball

The death of Austin Leslie Kimball in West Pelham last Sunday night came as a shock to Belchertown people. Having been born, brought up, and having spent most of his life here, he was closely bound to our community life with ties that could not be separated. His death came after an illness of only two weeks, from a form of grip with which his family also were simultaneously afflicted. He had begun to recover but suffered a relapse.

Mr. Kimball was the son of Edwin T. and Ellen Shaw Kimball, and was one of a family of ten children. He was born Mar. 30, 1879. Nearly all of his life was spent in the Packardville section of the town where he owned a farm and conducted a large wood and lumber business. Four years ago he sold his farm and moved to West Pelham, where he continued to conduct the wood and lumber part of his activities.

Mr. Kimball will be greatly missed in the Packardville church of which he was a member and officer, and in the community where he could always be counted on to lead the way in any effort worth while. He was treasurer of the Old Home Day Association of Pelham, and chairman of the board of assessors.

He leaves his widow, Grace Collis Kimball, and a daughter, Evelyn, both seriously ill, also a son, Leslie; three sisters, Mrs. Benjamin Page of West Pelham, Mrs. Leila Damon of Enfield, Miss Edith Kimball of Clinton; two brothers, Wm. A. Kimball of Belchertown and Carlton L. Kimball of Greenwich.

The funeral was held from the home Tuesday afternoon, Rev. John Willard officiating, assisted by Rev. Mr. Rideout. The bearers were the two brothers, Wm. A. Kimball and Carlton Kimball, a brother-in-law, Benjamin Page of West Pelham, and three nephews, Robert Page of West Pelham, Harold Kimball and Wm. Kimball, Jr., of this town. The body was placed in the vault in Pelham Valley, awaiting interment in some cemetery later.

Dies in Florida

Belchertown friends of Dr. Stephen W. Perry, a former practitioner here, are sorry to learn of his sudden death last Friday in Bradentown, Florida, where he went for his health a few months ago. Dr. and Mrs. Perry resided in Springfield before their departure for the South, having lived there for about a year.

Dr. Perry was born in Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 6, 1874, and served as a medical officer in the Spanish-American war. He then came to Belchertown where he resided for a period of twelve years, having offices at his home on South Main St., in what is now the A. F. Bardwell residence. Dr. Perry was a member of Vernon Lodge of Masons, and was its Worthy Master in 1908. He had taken his 32nd degree in the Masonic fraternity.

In 1917 Dr. Perry was commissioned as major and was stationed at various points in Michigan during the World war, being located at one time at Camp Custer. He leaves a widow, Sarah T. Perry.

The body of the deceased has gone to Washington for cremation.

New Bus in Commission

A thoroughly renovated bus was put into use on the Belchertown-Holyoke bus line Wednesday morning. The old body has been rebuilt and painted, and put on a new 14 ton Dodge Bros. truck.

Along with this increased attractiveness, H. B. Ketchen, the proprietor, hopes to render more prompt and efficient service and be deserving of a larger patronage. The bus will run on the same schedule as previously.

United Young People's Society Notes

There is to be a rally of the Central group of Epworth Leagues at the M. E. church, So. Hadley Falls, Saturday evening, the 25th. Supper 40 cents, at 6 o'clock. After that a good program with good speakers. Of special interest to all Y. P. S. members. Everyone welcome.

The Thinning Ranks

The ranks are thinning fast. Hardly a paper but what reports the retiring to private life of some postmaster who came into office when his party was in power. The departing man no longer fights. He takes his exit as a matter of course. He realizes that only a dearth of opposition candidates can give him any hope of maintaining his position.

The possibility of choosing one from the highest three candidates has carried with it the extreme probability that only a miracle can cause the appointing of a Democrat, even though he may be most efficient. The grocer, the butcher, the baker, the station agent, the trainman and motorman can pursue their callings through thick and thin, but the one who handles the mail must be in thorough accord with administration policies, even though the mail bags are opened in the same way as heretofore and the same rules apply in the dispatching of mail. At least, so it seems.

The only answer given to these statements is that the other party did likewise and so the rule must be continued. But some day, for the sake of the highest efficiency, and, may be, from no other reason than common sense, the postmastership will be elevated to the position where it belongs, and its occupant will derive the satisfying feeling that he obtained his job because he was best fitted for it and not because of a pull with the powers that be. Furthermore he can have the satisfaction of knowing that his place is secure until his abilities are out-classed.

Making it Pay

The notice in another column of the remodeling of the Belchertown-Holyoke bus and a silent appeal for more patronage to make the enterprise successful reminds us of the conditions prevailing in another community. Trolleys run from this country town to a center about five miles distant. When the line was first put in it was possible to maintain frequent service but with the increased financial burdens, due to expensive labor and materials, cars now run only two hours.

In contrast with the service the community has had, the present service seems awful and is so termed by a majority of the people, but the two hour service is not bad for a country community. In fact any town is fortunate to have that. But the case is this; the people judge the situation by what they have had, not realizing that they are fortunate to have what they do.

And furthermore, an investigation of the facts reveals that the trolley company is running somewhat at a loss because the owners have a genuine interest in the community the road was built to serve. Meanwhile they are jibed for the service their generosity provides.

Cases like these could no doubt be multiplied throughout the land. It is refreshing to find that some corporations have souls.

Ponderings

We don't get over our childishness do we? At first we go to mother with our wants, but when we get older we go to Boston or Washington, and we are just as insistent as we used to be. We want it, and we want it right away, and "Better wait awhile" evokes as much wrath as when mother said so.

The Bible says a certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho and fell among thieves. Just substitute the cities New York and Philadelphia, or some places not as remote, and it reads just as easily, doesn't it, and sounds just as true.

The Chapin bridge will heave a sigh of relief that the one over Jacob comes in for a little publicity as well as itself. It's a small chance one has of being held up coming to Belchertown.

After a lapse of weeks, months or years we pick up certain papers and find the same rank partisan editorials as of yore. All politicians of their particular stamp are heroes while those of any other name are grafters, dishonest and contemptuous. 'Tis funny how we get the idea that all the saints are in our particular family.

liked out over the hills about Amherst and swam in the creek that runs through the college farm said they had the best time ever.

They could not well help having that sort of time with Coach Harold M. Gore of the college varsity teams in charge of the boys' camp, and Miss Bena Erhard, county club agent for Hampshire County, and Miss Jane Pollard of the college, running the girls' camp.

"It was not a school as schools go. It was a real camp with tents, supervisors, reveille, taps, hikes, stunts,—the things that turn out husky, red-blooded youngsters. There were morning talks with the college teachers on animal husbandry, dairying, fruit growing, vegetable raising, flowers, farm machinery. Afternoon baseball games with local boys' clubs, evening tennis matches, and overnight hikes to Mount Toby with grub stakes and blankets.

"Last year plans were started late; the camp was not advertised. It was tried as an experiment. It worked wonderfully well. Last year's campers want it again. Director Willard of the Extension Service has declared the Extension Service would operate the camp again if the necessary equipment can be secured from other state departments, as it was last year. The college anticipates no difficulty in securing this needed cooperation. With sufficient enrolment to make the camp worth while, it will undoubtedly start July first and run through the month.

"Last year there were four camps of one week each. But the camp work was changed from week to week, so that those campers who stayed through, as most of them did, found no duplication of activities. The same plan will be followed this year. Enrolment is open each week during the camp.

"The boys' camp this year will be limited to forty boys between twelve and sixteen, and every boy must be recommended by his teacher, club leader or other responsible person. As last year, camp expenses will be $10 a week for board and instruction, a large part of this charge going to pay for the camp supervision under Coach Gore and his assistants.

"The separate girls' camp will be operated in the same way, and on the same terms, under some competent woman graduate of the college, if a sufficient number of girls enroll. Applications to the camps may be made at any time, and should be addressed to Junior Camps, Extension Service, M. A. C., Amherst."

The papers record the death in Dickison hospital, Northampton, on Wednesday of Mrs. Lillian B. Thornton, 61, who "was born in Belchertown in 1861." The funeral will be at the home in Pelham this afternoon at two o'clock.

Thomas Allen is in Boston attending a convention of high school principals.

Mrs. E. W. Beach spent the week-end in Holyoke with her daughter, Mrs. Morris.

Everett C. Howard, local moth superintendent, according to a recent interview, has located 130 infestations of the gypsy moths in Belchertown. As yet he has found no brown tail moths. The federal authorities, it seems, will not be able to do any work here this year as they are bending their energies in the attempt to eradicate the pests between the Connecticut River and the New York line. Mr. Howard has been complimented by the state authorities on the work he is doing locally. One interesting feature of his work so far is the finding of egg clusters detached from trees to which they originally clung. Mr. Howard is inclined to attribute this to one of the pranks of the ice storm. At the close of the season the superintendent promises a more definite report.

A. L. Pratt Recommended

Washington dispatches tell of the recommendation of the Post Office department to President Harding that A. L. Pratt be appointed postmaster of Belchertown.

Mr. Pratt is one of the town's most respected citizens, has held town offices of responsibility and was at one time a representative to the Massachusetts General Court. Mr. Pratt was also for a number of years secretary of the Republican town committee. In business, he has been associated with his brother, H. S. Pratt.

Mr. Pratt has not waged a spectacular campaign, his backing in high places being sufficient to secure for him the coveted prize.

E. E. Sargent, the retiring postmaster, leaves a record of very courteous and efficient service.

Mrs. Louise Paine

Louise Stockwell Paine, widow of the late Henry Paine, died at the home of her son, Herbert Paine, on the Enfield Road Tuesday.

She was born in South Amherst, July 31, 1848, the daughter of Lavinia Preston and Austin Stockwell. In March 1870 she was married to Henry Paine of Ludlow. Early in their married life they moved to East Hill, where for nearly fifty years they made their home.

She leaves three sons, Merton of Avon, Conn., George of Springfield, and Herbert of Enfield. There are also eleven grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

She was a member of the Eastern Star and of the Packardville church, and as long as health permitted, she was a regular attendant and an active worker.

The funeral will be held Saturday at the home. Rev. Wm. Osborne, of Bondsville, a former pastor, will conduct the service. Burial is at Mt. Hope cemetery.

Death of Miss Sarah Lincoln

Miss Sarah Lincoln died at her home on North Main St., Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock at the age of 80 years. She has been in ill health ever since the shock she suffered a few years ago. She had, however, maintained an interest in affairs, and has had meetings of the Ladies' Missionary society of the M. E. church of which she was a member, at her home. In the days of her activity she conducted an extensive dressmaking business.

She was the daughter of Enos Lincoln and was born and spent her life in Belchertown. She leaves a brother, Geo. Lincoln in the home and two nephews, Frank Lincoln and Lewis Lincoln, residing in town.

The funeral will be held Saturday at two o'clock.

Well Represented

Good fellowship, the spirit to do or die and a hearty appreciation of the hospitality offered them by the Springfield Hi-Y was manifested by the 200 delegates of the Conn. Valley who met Friday last at the Springfield Y. M. C. A.

The first speaker of the afternoon was Arthur W. Cotton, International boys' work secretary. After his address Mr. Cotton led a discussion on high school problems.

Over 200 delegates and invited guests sat down to the banquet. The following are some of those who sat at the speakers' tables and made addresses: Mr. Cotton, Rev. Dr. E. M. Lake, Sen. Geo. D. Chamberlain, Benj. A. Franklin, president of the Y. M. C. A., Blake C. Hoover, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Edward Eagen, Yale '21, Harvard '22, Oxford '23, Roy Coombs, state boys' work secretary, and Harry Gibson.

Secretary Hoover acted as toastmaster and played his part admirably well, introducing the above speakers with fitting words and often interspersing the addresses with jokes suitable to the occasion. Senator Chamberlain spoke highly of the Hi-Y and brought a live, forceful message to the conference. Eddie Eagen spoke on the "Fellowship of Right Living" and made a strong appeal for clean sports, clean thinking, and the need of helping the other fellow.

Each delegation sang its songs and gave its yells. Delegations were present from all points in the Connecticut valley, and Belchertown was well represented by fourteen of her loyal sons.

Following the banquet Mr. Gibson made a brief talk urging the fellows to fight for everything that is right. "I must, plus I can, plus I will, equals power." He expressed the opinion that the Hi-Y is one of the greatest forces for good in existence. The conference is to become an annual affair and we only hope that in the future as we began Belchertown may be on hand 100 per cent. strong. Some of the fellows in the High school are anxious to start a Hi-Y and if you are asked to support it, dear readers, you will know what it stands for and what it really is.

School Building Contract

The following contract will be presented the town meeting tomorrow, when it is expected that the voters will authorize the selectmen to sign the same in order that the combined High school and Lawrence Memorial hall may become a reality.

This agreement between Reuben L. Roberts of Brookline, Massachusetts, and Daniel D. Hazen of Belchertown, Massachusetts, as trustees under the will of Sara T. D. Robinson, late of Lawrence in the county of Douglas, Kansas, of the first part, and the town of Belchertown, Massachusetts, of the second part, witnesseth:

That whereas in and by the will of the said testatrix the proceeds of her residuary estate were bequeathed in trust to the said trustees to be by them expended in the erection of a building to be known as the Lawrence Memorial Hall, upon land owned by the said testatrix in the said town of Belchertown, and when completed to be conveyed, together with the said land, to the town of Belchertown for uses suitable to its needs;

And whereas no provision was made by the said testatrix for the maintenance and care of the said memorial building after its erection and conveyance as aforesaid, but the burden and expense of its custody, heating and repair were left to be borne by the said town;

And whereas in order that the said town may be relieved as much as shall be reasonably possible from such burden and expense, it has proposed that a new building which it contemplates erecting to accommodate its high school, be conjoined with the said memorial building upon the same land in such manner as to enable both buildings to be warmed by the same heating plant and cared for by the same custodians;

And whereas the said trustees have petitioned the Probate Court in and for the County of Hampshire and Commonwealth of Massachusetts for permission to accede to the said proposal of the said town, and the said Court after hearing the parties in interest at a session held at Northampton in said County, on March 7, 1922, and after taking the matters under advisement, ordered, adjudged and decreed that the said trustees and the said town be authorized and empowered to make and execute together a contract in writing to be accepted and ratified on the part of said town at a town-meeting duly called for the purpose, and after the execution and ratification of such contract by the said parties thereto to perform the covenants thereof which were prescribed in terms by the said decree of the said Court.

Now therefore, in consideration of the premises and in pursuance of the authorization provided for and set forth by the said decree of the said Court, the said parties hereto hereby stipulate and agree together, as follows:

1. That said town shall be permitted to erect a building suitable for its use as a public high school upon the land described in the will of the said testatrix and devised by her to the said trustees for the erection of a building to be known as The Lawrence Memorial Hall; but that the location of such high school building upon said land shall be determined by mutual agreement between said trustees and said town.

2. That the said town shall be obligated to erect in conjunction with said high school building another substantially distinct building, in accordance with plans agreed upon by said trustees; which shall contain within it a spacious assembly hall with ample and convenient entrances and approaches, and which shall always be known and designated as The Lawrence Memorial Hall; that this distinct building, although conjoined to the said high school building, shall stand with at least three of its outside walls sufficiently clear and free from the said high school building to provide abundant light and air to the assembly hall on two of its opposite sides.

3. That the said distinct building thus to be known and designated The Lawrence Memorial Hall, shall be a substantial and comely architectural structure, and that its own dimensions and location relatively to said high school building, as well as its structural connections with said high school building and its own interior arrangement and construction shall be determined by mutual agreement between said trustees and said town.

4. That the said town shall begin the erection of the said high school building and of the said building to be known and designated as The Lawrence Memorial Hall, as soon after the execution of this contract by it and the said trustees, as it reasonably can, and shall thereafter cause the construction of both said buildings to be diligently prosecuted until they shall have been completed.

5. That as the construction of the said building to be known and designated The Lawrence Memorial Hall proceeds, the said trustees out of the trust funds held by them shall advance and pay to the said town, periodical instalments in such amounts and at such intervals of time as shall be determined by mutual agreement between the said trustees and the said town, proportionate to the cost of successive portions of the said memorial building actually constructed; and that upon the full completion of both the said high school building and the said conjoined memorial building, the said trustees shall grant, sell and convey by proper deed to the said town the land described as aforesaid in the will of the said testatrix and shall also transfer and pay to the said town the remainder of the trust fund then in their custody after deducting therefrom such legitimate charges as shall have been allowed by the Probate Court upon presentation of their final account.

6. That on and after the completion of the said building to be known and designated The Lawrence Memorial Hall and the conveyance to the said town of the land aforesaid upon which the said building in conjunction with said high school building shall have been erected, the said town shall assume the whole responsibility for maintenance and care of said building, The Lawrence Memorial Hall, in accordance with the intentions expressed and implied in the will of the said testatrix; and after the conveyance of the said land and the transference of the residue of said trust fund by the said trustees to the said town, the said town shall also assume the entire responsibility for the mode in which the said trustees shall have carried out the provisions of the will of the said testatrix in respect to their said trust so far as the subject matter of this contract is concerned, and shall fully indemnify the said trustees and save them harmless for all consequences thereof.

In testimony whereof the said trustees and the selectmen of the said town of Belchertown, for this purpose duly authorized to act on its behalf, have respectively set their hands hereto this day of March in the year nineteen hundred and twenty-two.

Dies in Holyoke

Levi Franklin Wilder, whose burial took place at Mt. Hope cemetery on Monday at 3.30 was the youngest son of Joseph and Eunice Olds Wilder and was born May 8, 1847 at Taunton. Dec. 15, 1868 he married Mrs. Nancy Bishop Capen who survives him. Two children were born to them, Mrs. Alice May Moody, who died four years ago in Westfield and Albert S. of Holyoke with whom Mr. and Mrs. Wilder made their home at the time of his death. There are also two grandchildren, Val and Thelma Wilder, one sister, Mrs. Sarah Webber of Worcester and several nephews and nieces in this vicinity.

After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Wilder lived in this town for several years, and about forty years ago moved to Holyoke where they have since resided. For the greater part of his active life in Holyoke, he was employed by the Wm. Whiting Coal Co. as head teamster, but retired about ten years ago because of ill health. Although he has been quite feeble during the winter, he died suddenly Sat., Mar. 25, of diabetes.

The funeral services were held at the home of his son, Dwight, and were conducted by Rev. Robert E. Wicks of the Second Congregational church. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, including those from the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of which he was a member, and from Mrs. Whiting, besides many friends and relatives.

Town Meeting

While the amount of money raised at the town meeting last Saturday was a record breaker on account of the school house construction, still there was no great crowd out and no arguments presented against the raising of the needed money.

It was voted to authorize the borrowing of $30,000 for the high school building, and $25,000 for a grammar school building, the same to be provided for by bonds and notes to be paid in not more than 20 years.

The town voted to authorize the selectmen to sign the contract between the trustees of the Lawrence Memorial building and the town.

The article to raise $350 to pay for the fire alarm whistle, still on Community hall, was defeated.

The town voted to allow the tree warden $50 towards the expenses of this department, $150 for the purpose of shingling the engine house, $70 to the scaler of weights and measures, $20 towards legislative expenses, and $300 for a bronze tablet on which will be inscribed the names now on the honor board.

The amount appropriated to the legislative account was because of the expense of the water committee to the hearing in Boston.

A. E. Lewis was moderator of the meeting.

The Birds and the Moths

What a lonesome summer it would be if there were no robins and bluebirds in the orchards, no bobolinks in the meadows, no orioles in the elms, no sparrows in the fields and pastures, no thrushes in the woods, no flash of brilliant color as we go along the highways, and no familiar bird music at morning and evening.

But are the birds useful, only because they please the eye, by their plumage and the ear by their music?
The birds give much pleasure to an increasing number of people, old and young, who observe their interesting ways.

The birds appeal to our love of the beautiful and to our love of music and they should be protected, because they add so much pleasure to our life. But they should be protected because of the very practical service they render without charge to all who have orchards or forests or gardens and fields.

The insect enemies to our fruits and crops are legion. The annual losses from their destructive ways total into the millions of dollars.
This statement is not the exaggeration of a bird lover. Ask for its verification from the Agricultural departments of state or nation and get an inkling of the vast value of birds to the producers of our foods.

The federal authorities announce that they will not be able to help Belchertown this year fight the gypsy moth and 130 colonies of them have been found. There is one class of helpers who will not fail to render assistance, the birds. Many birds have been observed in past years, feeding upon these moths and their young and their eggs. A partial list includes robins, cuckoos, woodpeckers, towhees, blue jays,
king birds and other fly catchers, and various warblers, grosbeaks and tanagers. The birds may not be able to cope with the moth situation but they will help, and every bird destroyed by bird enemies makes the fight against insect pests the harder, therefore protect the birds from their enemies as much as possible.

If the gypsy moth gets fairly domesticated in Belchertown, we shall need all the help we can get from state and from birds to keep such pests in check. With a new insect enemy among us, we should appreciate more fully than some do, the free and valuable services of the birds.

Cutting Roadside Trees

Tree Warden Kelley calls the attention of the townspeople to the law as it regards the cutting of roadside trees. He says that there have been gross violations of this law and hereby gives notice that he expects to see that its provisions are lived up to.

"Extracts from Chapter 87, Gen.
Laws of Mass.

Sec. 1. All trees within a public way or on the boundaries thereof shall be public shade trees.

Sec. 3. Except as provided by section five, public shade trees shall not than the tree warden or his deputy, even if he be the owner of the fee in the land on which such tree is situated, except upon a permit in writing from said tree warden; * * *

half inches in diameter one foot
