Apple Farm For Sale

The Chandler farm, 2 miles north of the village on the proposed Federal highway. This small farm consists of 15 acres of orchards, mowing and pasture land; 400 apple trees in bearing, of early and late varieties. The old colonial house was built before 1770 and is one of the largest and best in town. Some of its rooms are done in wood paneling and still have the old-fashioned doors with their long hinges and latches. Fireplaces are numerous. Other buildings are an ell, wood-shed and barn.

Beautiful view of Holyoke mountain and wooded hills to the north. Within one-fourth mile of Lake Metacomet where fine swimming, boating and fishing can be enjoyed.

This would make a fine fruit and poultry farm or an ideal summer home.

Easter Services

Easter was appropriately observed at the Federated church on Sunday. There was special music in the morning and a fitting sermon by the pastor. Three young people were received into membership of the Congregational church, Miss Alice Putnam, Miss Minnie Squires and Miss Dorothy Blackmer. Communion was administered at the close of the service.

In the evening the choir rendered the cantata, "The First Easter," to a large audience in the Congregational church. Much time had been spent in preparation for this presentation which was most favorably received. The pastor spoke on the unfolding vision that Easter brings as the years pass.

The churches were fittingly decorated for Easter, a number of potted plants having been purchased by the Young Peoples' society which had the matter in charge. At the close of the evening service the flowers were sent to the sick and shut-ins.

Moriarty-Sweeney Wedding

The marriage of Miss Kathryn E. Moriarty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Moriarty, and Clarence L. Sweeney of Worcester, took place at St. Bartholomew's church, Bondsville, on Monday morning, Father McGrath officiating. The bridesmaid was Miss Ella J. Moriarty, sister of the bride, while Daniel J. Norton of Boston, cousin of the groom, was best man.

The bride was gownned in beige flat crepe with hat to match and carried Aaron Ward roses. The bridesmaid wore pearl grey crepe with hat to match and carried Ophelia roses.

The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls. The bride's gift to the bridesmaid was a topaz finger ring. The groom gave the best man a pair of gold cuff links.

A wedding breakfast was served at the bride's home, only members of the two families being present. There were many lovely gifts including silver, cut glass and money.

Mrs. Sweeney was a teacher in the Belchertown schools for several years. After a two weeks' wedding trip to Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney will make their home in Worcester.

Girl Scout Entertainment

The Girl Scouts of Pine Cone Troop No. 2 will give an entertainment next week Friday night at the grade school building, to which the public is cordially invited. Eight of the girls have spent considerable time rehearsing the play which forms part of the evening's program. The younger girls will demonstrate some of their Scout work before the play is presented. A number of songs are also scheduled. Candy will be on sale.

The proceeds of the evening will go toward the purchase of material for Scout uniforms. Some of the girls have already begun cutting and making their own suits.

It is hoped that the public will be interested not only in the Scout demonstrations and entertainment, but also in helping out the finances of Pine Cone Troop No. 2.

Social Guild Notes

The Social Guild realized $177 on its chicken pie supper last week. Owing to considerable expense in getting up the supper, a large proportion of the proceeds was realized from the fair, where all the articles were donated. $111 was cashed in from the booths over which Mrs. Taylor had charge. The cost of remodeling the chapel was a little over $600, besides incidental expenses.

The next objective the Guild has is the purchase of suitable chairs for the dining hall. The ones now used are those taken from the audience room and are not as suitable as they might be for use at the tables. Furthermore, it is desired to keep those now on hand for exclusive use in the main room.

Get-together Social

It's been a long time since the last get-together social, but another is due for next Monday evening, and to all accounts, it will be well worth waiting for. The committee has had considerable of a time filling vacancies, making plans, and carrying them out, but they're most out now.

The "deestrick school" is to be the big attraction. A. R. Lewis has been engaged as master and will try to keep his position for at least two sessions. His chief remuneration will come from "boarding out" the pupils.

No further inducement should be necessary to call out the get-together constituency.

The Real Significance of the Girl Scout Movement

First and most important, she gets level-headedness, the habit of looking before she jumps, of thinking things through to the bitter end, and this is the one great thing which this generation stubbornly refuses to do. She learns loyalty to existing forms, to reform by reconstruction from within rather than by destruction from without; in place of the world habit of international suspicion and hatred which binds the present generation, she learns world sisterhood.

A Girl Scout is not going to fly off on a wild tangent at the call of a charming but utterly impossible theory; she is not going to condemn one government merely because it is admittedly inefficient, unless she can see the possibility of something better; and she is not going to hate fellow scouts in other countries of the world with whom she has been in a friendly correspondence for several years. She is not going to be a Bolshevik or an anarchist or a wild-eyed radical; she is going to be a steady factor in the world which is to be, and a steady factor is the only thing which will save it from the results of the inefficiency of this generation.

This sounds like a strong statement. Some of the facts of the Girl Scout movement, however, support their side of it, whether or not the inefficiency of this generation is admitted. Few people realize the extent to which the Girl Scout movement is an international organization. It carries a different name, in England and some other countries, the Girl Guides, but it is the same organization, tion, founded on the same principles, and operating under an international leadership.

This organization operates in every country in the British Empire and in 33 other countries of the earth, in which are included Argentina, Austria, Belgium, Holland, Hungary, Italy, Japan, Liberia, Luxembourg, Norway, Armenia, Persia, Germany, Palestine, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Roumania, Russia, Serbia, Siam, Switzerland and Uruguay. Think of the different races, civilizations, angles of thought and vision, which are in this way brought into friendly contact with each other. Pictures of the Girl Scouts in their uniforms are exchanged from one part of the world to another, and an English girl discovers that a German girl, when in her uniform, doesn't look very different from herself.

It is going to be difficult for a politician to convince that girl that all Russians are wild beasts, when she has sent food and letters and has received letters from a girl in Russia. A Chinese girl in uniform looks surprisingly civilized, so would the girls of many other countries, and those who try to stir up international hatred and strife are going to find it difficult to make scouts or guides understand just how other nations are to be considered as necessarily inferior, or a menace. "The colonel's lady and Julia O'Grady are sisters under the skin" and both the colonel's lady and Julia are beginning to realize the fact, which is full of portent to this man-made system of things.

Sneezes

"What a queer subject to write about!" some one says. Have you ever thought, gentle reader, that a sneeze is a queer thing, anyway? From the time you first become aware of its chilly approach and try to look innocent and bluff it off, until its noisy exit when you feel ashamed and, if in the presence of others, say: excuse me, it is queer.

I suppose fishes do not sneeze. They are not built for it. But we, poor mortals, sneeze, not because we regard it as a prerogative of our higher order of life or because we want to sneeze or because we enjoy sneezing, but because we cannot help it. You feel it coming and—whew—you have sneezed once and generally there are more to follow.

What is a sneeze? My dictionary says it is "A spasm of the breathing organs." If you do not recognize one by the hearing of the ears, the dictionary's definition may help you.

What causes the spasm? A cold. A statistically inclined physician has estimated that there are a hundred million colds in the United States in a year. That means at the least a hundred million sneezes. But who ever heard of a one-sneeze-cold! The hundred million colds mean with a low average of only ten sneezes to a cold, a billion spasms of the breathing organs and that is quite an aggregation of spasm.

How in the nation do we get so many colds! Well, do not forget this: colds are caused by germs and one gets a cold from some person who has the germs. The victim of a cold is well supplied with the germs of his malady. They dwell in his nose and mouth and he may sneeze them upon us and cough them at us and, even, talk them to us, he may have such a mouthful of them. Some of his germs will get upon his hand and from his hand to the hand of a friend, and from the friend's hand to his friend's mouth where the germs go to work to produce another cold, increase the volume of human discomfort and become another center of contagion.

"New occasions make new duties" and the occasion of a new cold brings the obligation of a self-imposed quarantine. Why should one run in every neighbor's house with his hands, why scatter the germs in public ambles, why not be a bit thoughtful and cautious to keep from giving cold to others?

A sensible and easy preventive measure will help to limit the number of sneezes in the land and decrease the harvest of discomfort and they represent. Try a little self-imposed quarantine the next time you are sneezing around with a cold.

DRIVE FOR BOOKS

A drive for books for the men on merchant ships will be held throughout Massachusetts during the week of April 8. Books are wanted from every town in order that the whole state may be represented.

The American merchant marine ships carry the trade of the world, visit foreign ports and make long voyages. The men on the ships long for books. They exchange them in all ports of the world and sometimes on the high seas, wirelessly the call for them and engaging to meet at a certain spot on the trackless ocean to row with a case of books from one ship to another.

A crew's library consists of approximately 80 books, fifty of standard or modern fiction, twenty of history, biography and travel, and ten technical books, comprising subjects in which up and coming seamen are interested.

Massachusetts is asked to send her quota of books, 100,000 at least are needed for the port of Boston. Anyone in town wishing to send books to merchant ships will please leave them at the home of Mrs. A. L. Squires.

Park Association Annual Meeting

 Executive committee, E. C. Howard, L. H. Blackmer, E. C. Witt, H. F. Peck, Raymond Blackmer.
 It was voted to designate April 19 as clean-up day, weather permitting. A large force of men came out last year and it is hoped that a similar response will be forthcoming this season.

At the annual town meeting the town voted the Park Association $100 to be used in cutting out the walks, trimming trees etc. on the park. This work will probably be done at a later date and will be in charge of the executive committee.

Death of Mrs. Harriet Squires

 largely due to old age. She would have been 80 if she had lived until September.

Mrs. Squires was the daughter of Aaron and Emeline Blake Munsell. All of her life was spent here with the exception of twelve years lived in Dalton. In 1852 she married William Squires, who was connected with the Whiting Paper Co. He died in 1906.

Mrs. Squires leaves a daughter, Mrs. Fred Hillman of Dalton and a grandson, Clifford Hillman, also of Dalton, besides two sisters, Mrs. Emory Squires of this town, and Mrs. Maria Pratt of Keene, N. H.

Funeral services were held at Dalton on Tuesday at 1.30 p. m. The body was brought here for burial Wednesday afternoon. Prayer was offered at the grave by Rev. D. L. Hilliard. Burial was in the South cemetery.

The Get-together Social

If there is such a thing as working off one's surplus energy and settling down to a normal state, then those who participated in the presentation of the district school must be in that state of mind for they certainly rid their systems of considerable.

The school was the banner attraction Monday evening. The audience gathered in the new dining hall, and while the names of animals were pinned on the backs of the guests by the committee with the idea of drawing out the name in the course of conversation, everyone was on the lookout for those other animals that finally cantered into the school room when the stern master, A. R. Lewis, rang the bell.

For surely most of them were in a wild state and nothing but brute force could straighten them out and even that yielded no lasting results. In fact, Mrs. Henry Witt, one of the august school committee, ventured the opinion that as much thought given to the insides of the children's heads as to the outside, would have been more beneficial.

There were the twins who couldn't be separated, there was Faithful Snooks, who couldn't let her voice fall, there was Dorcas Doolittle who stuttered most realistically, there was Abraham Small with his dog chain, (taken from a deep water well) and his pocket full of junk, there was little Emery Fresh with his little story book, there was "teacher's pet" and a lot of others almost as outstanding in their characteristics.

The morning session almost broke up the school, the dinner hour was a perfect bedlam, while the exercises of the last afternoon were a medley of the sublime and ridiculous. Each of the participants was a show in himself and most all fought for the stage.

Contrary to all expectations, A. R. Lewis survived the ordeal, although the strain on his muscles was tremendous. The crack of his patent stick echoed and re-echoed most of the time, making one think that the episode was more like the Smashing of a New Jersey Mosquito than

Chimney Fire Causes Apprehension

Some excitement was caused at the center last Saturday night due to a chimney fire at Frank Lemon's. An alarm was rung in but no damage was done. A northwest wind was blowing that evening and if a fire had gotten started there would have been no controlling it. The entire center of the town would have been in serious danger.

This alarm has brought to the minds of a good many people that a water supply is an absolute necessity in order to preserve the village, and they are looking forward to the forthcoming report of the water commissioners, which will probably be presented at a not distant date, with the hope that some plan will be presented that can be satisfactorily worked out.

Girl Scout Entertainment Postponed

The Girl Scout entertainment scheduled for tonight has had to be postponed on account of the illness of one of the actors. It is hoped to carry out the program next week Friday. It is planned to give a performance in the afternoon at three o'clock and again in the evening at 7:30.

An admission fee will be charged, 15 cents for children and 25 cents for adults. The Scouts want to give as many as possible a good time and have therefore placed the price of admission at a very reasonable figure. As previously advertised, the proceeds of this entertainment go toward furnishing Scout uniforms for Pine Cone Troop No. 2.

A Call to Arms

A modern patriot may not necessarily shoulder a gun. Perhaps putting a rake at work would tax his courage about as much, especially on a volunteer squad.

An opportunity is offered next Thursday to display this courage of the latter variety when the Park Association expects to get out and rake the common.

It looks as if the park would be in good condition for this annual operation and it is hoped that the workers will feel equally as fit. Last year a record breaking crowd was out, but it's the fashion to smash records these days, so who cares what becomes of last year's precious heritage.

The common is large and the more there are out, the shorter will be the task.

Park View Changes Hands

Homer Couture has sold his hotel property to P. V. Snow, who takes possession today. Mr. Couture is moving into the Dr. Stone house, recently vacated by J. W. Jackson, Jr.

Preserving the Community

There are more ways than one of preserving the community. The need of preserving it from possible loss by fire is quite apparent, but it is equally important that the community be kept from a decay that is worse than a consuming fire.

Rev. D. L. Hilliard struck this note in his morning discourse last Sunday and it is well worth heeding. This is not spreading denominational doctrine. It is held by all communities that church attendance is not simply respectable, but it is a sign of life in a community. It is a sign that men and women are seeking new light as to duty and privilege and are bending every ear to hear the call that comes in these modern days to people who care to build well in time and in eternity.

Rev. Mr. Hilliard said that we have the "decadent community" with us, and that the reason for it is that almost without exception people have let the church services die out, with the result that the seeds of certain decay have immediately set in.

He said that in this as in other communities there are people that

The Real Significance of the Girl Scout Movement

The most striking analysis of modern social conditions and what is wrong with them which has been made in a long time, with a possible solution of the problem, was made in a recent address delivered by Frank Palmer Sibley, known to Y-D Division ex-service men throughout New England as the Boston Globe's war correspondent who accompanied Maj
Gen. Edwards' Y-D Division from the time it left home until it returned there. He is also known as a lecturer and writer.

In a hard-hitting denunciation of modern social conditions which spares nobody's feelings, Mr. Sibley declares that the fundamental condition which is causing our wierd social vagaries is the fact that our children are not being educated in self-respect and what is even more serious, they are not being educated to respect or admire their parents. The only hope for society, Mr. Sibley declares, is to regain the confidence of the up-coming generation and to fill it with the ideals which make for social permanency, and to do this, Mr.
Sibley believes, the Boy Scout and the Girl Scout movements are providentially sent as the way out of the difficulty.

"It is not a coincidence," Mr. Sibley declares, "that the Girl and Boy Scouts came into being when they did. I do not think that it was a coincidence that Roosevelt happened along when we needed the Panama Canal, nor Lincoln and Washington when we needed them badly, nor Mr.
Wilson when the world needed an ideal. The time had come and is not past when the need of such an organization as the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts, and the fact that it could exist and grow so wonderfully, is nothing more or less than an accusation against parents.

COAL ?

Conditions in the coal business have been seriously disturbed for several years, and it is our opinion that there will be no change for the better during the coming year.

Usually at this season of the year, a dealer could stock up his bins with all the coal he could pay for. At the present time, it is difficult to buy any great quantity of coal at the base price so called. The Independent companies will take orders at an advance of around two dollars over the base price.

While we hesitate to offer advice to the public, it is our opinion that the wise consumer will fill his bins at the earliest opportunity.

AGNES AYERS BATTLES FIERCELY
Scene With Slave Girls in Dramatic Paramount Picture
"THE SHEIK"

WHEN screen stars are required in the performance of their roles to battle for the preservation of their lives, honor or personal rights, it is often done listlessly, but seldom so in Paramount pictures. The invariable rule of the Paramount directors is to be realistic, so that when a fight is scheduled by the story, it is a real battle and no make-shift affair.

Thus it happened that when Agnes Ayers, Paramount star and featured player with Rudolph Valentino in George Melford's magnificent production of "The Sheik," which will be the feature at TOWN HALL, APR. 25, was directed to fight four Arabian slave girls, "for all she was worth," she obeyed orders literally, the result being a scene of intense realism seldom seen in any motion picture.

"It was lots of sport," said Miss Ayers the next morning. "But, oh, today I feel as if I'd been through a cyclone. Those girls were all stockily built and all four clung to me at once and I had to throw them off. I assure you I haven't any idea just what I did—I was told to fight and that's all there was to it."

This is only one of many realistic scenes in this superb production.
There are many thrilling moments in the action, a desert sandstorm, battling Bedouins and magnificent Sahara scenes. The picture is based on E. M.
Hull's novel of the same name which created a literary sensation, both in this country and in England.

ing fine". In fact some shipments have been sunk "without a trace".

The trouble does not seem to be confined to any one source. Every-weak chickens in consequence. A good deal of the trouble undoubtedly is in the season which has not been at

Probably later hatches, usually several standpoints, will prove to be the winners this year.

Of course there are those who are hadn't dare go to church for fear their consciences would be quickened and they would lose control over them.

He also pointed out how the church keeps homes together, citing the statement of an Akron, Ohio, judge that out of a thousand cases of divorce in his court, hardly a couple were church attendants.

Mr. Hilliard said that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred our young women are safe on the streets at night in any community where there is a strong church going constituency.

He spoke again of the recent action of the Dakota legislature in calling upon the people of that state to support religious services and religious work in order that the state might prosper economically.

Second Party a Success

The Sophomore Patriots' Day party, Wednesday evening, in Grange hall, was a great success. This is the second in a series of parties given by various classes under the direction of one of the teachers, designed to draw the school together in a social way under proper chaperonage.

The program Wednesday evening was in charge of Belding Jackson and was novel and entertaining. Familiar dances were featured in the program in an unusual way. Following is a list of numbers:

Patriots' Day parade
Flag Fox Trot
Cap and Gun One-Step Marching to Concord Solo
Prin. Allen
Reading Belding Jackson Duet Cassie Sullivan, Rachel Randall Liberty Waltz
Blue Line Tour to Concord
Picnic at Old North Bridge
After the "picnic" of cake and punch, dancing was enjoyed by the school.

The hall was appropriately decorated with red, white and blue streamers.

The first party was given by the Juniors in February and the next one will probably be given by the Freshmen next month.

As stated before, these parties are something new for the town and are intended for the students only. Parents, however, are invited.

The success of the idea thus far is attested by the large attendance Wednesday evening. It is estimated that seventy-five were present.

Injured When Staging Gives Way

The first serious accident in connection with the erection of the new school buildings occurred Wednesday afternoon at about 5 o'clock, when a staging gave way over the entrance to the Memorial hall and High school building. Three masons were on the staging and all were precipitated to the ground. Tom Ash received a bad cut on his head and was rendered unconscious. He was attended by Dr. Collard. The other two escaped injury.

Park Gets Cleaning

The park took its annual cleaning yesterday at the hands of the Park Association. It was a lean year as far as workers were concerned, but a good job was done and everyone will share in the pride of a neater looking park.

Perhaps there will be more workers on hand next year as the common proved a veritable gold mine yesterday. A little before noon one man chanced on a half dollar, and from then on, the rakes flew lively, with the result that pennies, nickels, quarters and dimes came to light in rapid succession. One man found five or six nickels all in one spot, and of course, "checks" were everywhere.

An interesting part of the "finds" was that most of the proceeds were discovered by "boys" somewhat older in years than those usually appearing on the common the day after the Fair. The real youngsters raked with bulging eyes, but even when a cent was thrown out in the path of one for a stimulator, his lenses didn't seem to focus right.

But for all this kind of attraction, there was a hearty response to the dinner call, and the youngster who couldn't smell the 'scent, made it up on pies and doughnuts, for the Grange had provided a most bountiful dinner in the Grange hall. Two tables were set, and while only one was filled, the workers ate from both.

But neither the pocket filling nor the stomach filling was the supreme satisfaction of the day. To lend a hand in real community fashion in these days when the tendency is to charge something for everything that one does, was really satisfying.

The day previous the town road department cleaned the road and ditches around the common, which lessened the work that had to be done yesterday. One new job, however, was on the program this year—that of stump pulling or rather stake pulling, but a truck and a special man to hitch on with a chain, made short work of the most persistent, even though the operation was a bit amusing. It was a happy day, anyway, and those who worked were the happiest of all.

Beautify School Grounds

About 40 boys of the Center Grammar and Intermediate rooms under the direction of Miss Shattuck, put in several hours of good hard work on the grounds around the buildings Wednesday. Wheelbarrows were busy carrying away rubbish and bringing on fresh gravel for grading. Rakes, hoes, hammers, shovels, any tool that could be borrowed, was put to use, fast and hard.

The general appearance of the grounds has changed from a rough, unkempt condition to a smooth, evenly graded slope leading to the entrance, which gives the building a more finished aspect and an air of respectability.

Death of Addison D. Moore, Sr.

TURKEY HILL NEWS

Relatives and friends gathered at the chapel Tuesday at 3 p. m. to pay their last respects to Addison Dwight Moore, Sr., who died in Palmer at the home of his eldest daughter, Mrs. Edith Sheldon, on his 84th birthday.

Mr. Moore was born in Marshall, New York, April 14, 1839, and came to Chicopee while a young man, where he conducted a tailor business in company with Dea. Joseph Buckingham whose daughter, Miss Katherine Buckingham, became his bride in October, 1865. Later they returned to York state where their children were born.

They celebrated their golden wedding surrounded by their children and friends, in 1915 at Forest Lake.

In 1889 Mr. and Mrs. Moore came to Turkey Hill where they made their home for many years and conducted their famous moss decoration business as long as their health permitted. Mrs. Moore died in July, 1922. Mr. Moore, who has had a remarkable constitution for one of his

Quality, not Quantity

One of the most difficult things for us to learn is that quality is more important than quantity. How often we judge a thing by its size rather than by its perfection, by its numbers rather than by its quality! One of the first questions we ask concerning a college or a community or a nation is: "How large is it?" We judge a church by the number of people who attend, a paper by the number of its pages or the size of its circulation. We ask: How much salary does he get? How big is the school? How many converts did he make? How high is the building? How long did he live?

We are told that Niagara Falls is oftentimes disappointing because something bigger is expected. The Falls are beautiful not particularly for their size—for there are falls that drop a greater distance,—but for their beautiful design and grandeur.

The best painting is not always the one that occupies the largest space on the wall, nor the best book the one that has the most pages. No gift has ever been made which has equalled that of the widow's mite. The quality of the gift gave it value. The best man who ever lived died at thirty-three. And he did not have a long career of service. It was less than three years at the outside, and he never went over a hundred miles from home.

You cannot measure beauty by the yardstick or excellence by the milestone or perfection by the pound. Great prizes are often found tied up in small packages.

The best educated man may have only a five-foot shelf of books, the finest school in the community may have only a few pupils, the best painter may not have large stacks of paintings.

Firestone

will not increase prices
until May 1st

Firestone Prices on Fabric and Cord Passenger Car Tires and Tubes, also Solid and Pneumatic Truck Tires Will Advance May 1st

The postponement of this price revision is possible only because of our realization of the price danger in the British Crude Rubber Restriction Act which became effective November 1, 1922. We were fortunate in our rubber purchases before the Restriction Act increased the price of crude rubber 150%.

We have always endeavored to champion the cause of better made tires delivered at lowest cost to the tire user by economic manufacturing and distribution. And we are glad of the opportunity to give the car-owner the additional saving at this time.

Firestone Cords embody certain special processes which result in their producing mileage records, heretofore unheard-of in the industry. Among the more important of these superior methods are blending, tempering, air-bag cure and double gum-dipping.

Firestone Dealers are co-operating with us in our movement to supply your needs at present prices as long as their stock lasts and we have advised our dealers that we will supply them with additional tires this month only so far as our output will permit.

See the nearest Firestone Dealer. Purchase a set of these Gum-Dipped Cords. Prove for yourself their remarkable mileage advantages and easy riding qualities.

age, was much weakened by an attack of grip during the winter and died from the effect.

His four children survive him, Mrs. Edith Sheldon of Palmer, Mrs. Horace Bardwell of Whately, Mrs. Clinton Walker of East Longmeadow, and A. D. Moore, Jr., of this town. There are also 12 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

Mr. Moore was a great reader and thinker, being an authority on Astronomy and ancient history.

Rev. C. H. Smith of Granby, assisted by Rev. D. L. Hilliard, officiated at the funeral services and spoke words of comfort and cheer to those who mourn the loss of the love and counsel he has bestowed for many years. Mrs. Bertram Shaw sang, "When the mists have rolled away," and "My Jesus, as Thou wilt."

The bearers were grandsons, Harry Sheldon of Hopedale, Clifton Sheldon of Springfield, Nathan Sheldon of Palmer and Walter Bardwell of Northampton. They carried armfuls of flowers as they marched from the chapel to his last resting place. The floral tributes from relatives, friends and the old neighbors were bountiful and beautiful, expressing sympathy to his children and respect for him who has gone before.

from misfortune, injury and death, by lightning. Nature respects neither rich nor poor—all are subject to her laws. The law of gravity is absolute, but science has produced its conqueror in the aeroplane; likewise has science provided man with Kretzer LIGHTNING RODS TO PROTECT HIMSELF AND HIS FAMILY. The roof on the home keeps out the blistering rays of the sun and the freezing sleet of winter; the walls keep out both as well as the howling winds which strive to drive us out of comfort, and likewise, the lightning rod protects the structure and living inmates from destruction by Nature's fiercest and most relentless Element—LIGHTNING. DECIDE NOW to have your buildings, your household belongings, your stock, and what is most valuable, YOUR FAMILY and your own life, protected against "The Thief who comes unheralded," except at times by thunder. Dies in Florida

Robert J. Ranson, 65, died suddenly in his winter home in Sarasota, Florida, last Thursday night. He was expecting to return to Springfield on Friday for the summer. Mr. Ranson had been in ill health for some time, an attack of influenza greatly weakening him.

Mr. Ranson was well known in town where he had a residence in Mill Valley. From that location he conducted an oil business for about 20 years. He was born in Montreal, the son of John and Catherine Ranson, and studied at St. Theresa college. He moved to the states in 1882 and came to this town in 1889.

He was a member of the Knights of Columbus and of Holy Name church. Besides his widow he leaves two daughters, Adele Ranson and Alice Ranson of Springfield, and two sisters, one in California and one in Montreal. The funeral was held Wednesday morning. Burial was in St. Thomas cemetery, Thorndike.

Girl Scout Entertainments

"Scouting is the life for us," was voiced not only audibly by the Girl Scouts at their entertainments last Friday, but the fact was written most unmistakably on the faces of all those who participated in the demonstration of Scout work and in the presentation of the "growsome" play which followed.

The entertainments were given to realize a sum sufficient to buy uniforms, and those who witnessed the efforts of the young people are sure they deserve to wear the regalia of this world-wide organization.

From the moment that the Scout captain called in the patrol that gave the opening ceremony, to the time when the new family were disclosed as ordinary mortals and not colored desperadoes, there was an atmosphere of respect and responsibility tempered with true Scout buoyancy and gladness.

The flag exercises, with demonstrations as to how the national emblem should be displayed, were rendered with respect, the table setting and the promptness with which the young people came to the platform for the musical numbers which were interspersed with the rest of the program, showed responsibility, while the buoyancy and gladness bubbled out, sometimes explosively, as "How the story grew," seemed to grow so sadly funny and the costumes of the actors seemed to grow more killing.

The Scouts were assisted in the singing by Louis Fuller, George McPherson and Patsy Pizzillo, which perhaps brings forward the question as to whether the boys will ever have a similar organization.

The money realized from the entertainments and from the sale of candy will help out considerably in the purchase of uniforms, but aside from any money considerations, the debut of the young people was quite worth while.

Dance Big Success

One of the largest crowds ever using Park View hall, aside from the Fair day visitors, was on hand for the Patriots' Day ball given by the American Legion last Thursday.

Professional talent was considerable of an attraction. This included Dan Harrington, "The Irish Song Bird," and his playmates from the "Follies," Mr. Aiken, the popular minstrel man, also Zigden Forge, the well-known "Frisco dancer." The Legion has scheduled another dance for Friday, May 2, when they expect to have something even better. $57 was cleared last Thursday.

To Run Late Bus

Beginning next Thursday, May 3, H. B. Ketchen will run a late trip to Holyoke, leaving Belchertown at 7 o'clock and returning after the show. This late trip will be run on Thursdays and Saturdays only.

Receive Honors

Two young men in Boston University have come in for honors lately. Newell Booth has been appointed first senior man proctor and has also been elected associate editor of The Beacon, the college paper, while Robert Moody, son of a former pastor of the Methodist church, was elected Sleepy Hollow Fellow by the trustees April 13. He expects to receive his Master of Arts degree this spring and will probably study abroad next year.

Historical Association Meeting

The annual meeting of the Historical Association will be held at the Stone House tomorrow evening at 7.30 o'clock. The program following the business meeting and election of officers will be in charge of Mrs. H. F. Curtis and Mrs. D. P. Spencer, the topic being, "Early Transportation in America," dealing with Bridle Paths, and Indian Trails. This is the first in a series of similar subjects, later topics having to do with stage coach and tavern days, etc.

Dwight-Prescott Wedding

PACKARDVILLE NEWS

A wedding of interest to Belchertown people took place April 19 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Prescott of West Pelham when Leila Dwight, daughter of George Dwight of this town, and Frank H. Prescott were united in marriage by Rev. Hervey Park of the Unity church in Amherst. The double ring service was used.

After a wedding breakfast served by Mrs. Prescott and Mrs. Grace Kimball, the bridal party left for Boston where they were to be the guests of the groom's aunt, Miss Fannie Prescott.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott will make their home in Springfield where Mr. Prescott is employed in Forbes and Wallace.

"I have been a newspaper man for a great many years, more than I like to think about. I began my work thirty-one years ago where every good journalist should begin, on the

—at least I hope I have wound up—where every good newspaper man hopes to wind up—on the Boston Globe. It is a much greater distance from the Transcript to the Globe than you think; I got there by way of Denver, Colorado.

"In thirty years I have seen every thinkable human experience from death to birth, including marriage.
I have had the luck to get into the World War. I have seen several of the great industrial strikes, any number of murders and murder trials, and more or less social life. In everything that I say will you please remember that I am not a reformer,
I have no remedies to suggest that I may point out to you; I am simply an observer and a reporter.

"The fact is that children in the average American home today are really not educated in self respect.
The parents have in large measure lost the confidence and admiration of their children. That is so serious a thing that you might say that our national life and the existence of America as we know it is threatened by that fact. You cannot talk about this subject very much, but every parent can examine his or her own conscience and can ask if that child thinks his or her own father is the most honest, upright man in the world, the man of whom he can be most proud. If that is not true, if the father has lost the boy's admiration or the mother her girl's admiration, that parent is a failure, not only in his duty to that child, which is a

"The child in the home who sees the slightest slackening of moral fibre in his parents has lost some of his confidence in his parents. People joke nowadays about prohibition.
Perhaps fifty per cent. of the people will get liquor if they can, if they choose, now though it is against the law. Their children may know they have it in their house. They make a joke about the futility of this law which nobody obeys.

"When a man does that, he not only announces himself as willing to break the law and constitution of the United States, but he lets his child know it and that is extremely serious. The first lesson a child learns is that he is beaten not because he ought to be, but he is beaten by some one stronger than he is. That is the first slackening of the admiration which most children have for their parents.

"The next is probably when he discovers that his parents are a little old fashioned, that he has learned things much more up to date. It is necessary, of course, that the child shall look down upon his poor old doddering father and mother. There is, however, a time when the child may, and in a great many

Plant Trees

This is forest protection week, and tomorrow is Arbor day. President Harding and Gov. Cox have both issued proclamations in the interests of reforestation. Like many other things, there have been trees enough in this country to provide for the reasonable needs of our people for many years—practically without limit—but we have not been at all saving of our national wealth and the end is apparently in sight.

So the call goes out to plant trees to make good the waste and provide for future years.

There are some who see in trees something besides mere lumber—there are those who see personality.
In a recent number of the Literary Digest this is brought out. We quote as follows:

"Most Americans do not take a personal interest in America, loudly as this may be denied. Not, for instance, as the French or the Swiss take an interest in France and Switzerland. I have met children in Switzerland climbing about and carrying with them seeds of pine and fir trees which they would plant during their tramps.

"In a small village in France, where I spent many months, there was question of cutting down three trees in order to make room for a wider turning in the main road. The entire commune was interested, met, discussed, looked at the trees singly and together, decided where, if they must come down, new ones could be placed, and felt exactly as though the trees were private possessions of the utmost value—which, of course, they are. In Paris the same attitude prevails, and it is impossible to cut down a tree there without consulting almost everyone in the city.

"Of course, many of us are so placed that it is quite impossible to plant even one tree. But the rest!
Let the rest get the habit. Here and there we have been planting memorial trees, and that is a fine beginning.
Let us go on and plant for the joy of it, for the love of a tree, for the value to the country we live in of trees, a country where we have laid forests waste and ruined vast areas by the most brutal destruction, and to which we owe this gracious act of reparation."

Will Not Increase Prices on Solid and Pneumatic Truck Tires
Until May 1st

Never has Firestone been so well situated to give operators the greatest measure of Cushion, Traction and Mileage at the lowest cost.

Today, economical manufacturing and distribution are showing the fullest results. Our favorable purchases of rubber, in advance of the 150% increase brought about by the British Crude Rubber Restriction Act, aid further in maintaining the old price levels.

Whatever the Truck Service—the Firestone Dealer Has the Right Tire

Firestone developments of the past two years have made pace for the industry and set new records in sure, economical performance. Five tires—the Heavy Duty Cushion, the Truck Type Cord, the Mexi-Cushion, the Giant Solid and the High Type—cover the needs of motor haulage in all its forms. Each has a distinct work which it does best.
Each possesses a definite and special value for the operator.

H. B. KETCHEN, Belchertown

The Firestone Dealer will supply you with Passenger Car and Truck Type Cords. If you need solid or cushion tires he will refer you to the nearest Service Station, which is equipped with hydraulic press for quick change-overs. Make one of these Stations an active part of your trucking operations. You'll reap results in surer and more economical haulage.

Death of

Mrs. Ralph E. Longueil

PACKARDVILLE NEWS

Mrs. Florence E. Longueil, 37, wife of Ralph E. Longueil, died Saturday evening. She was born in Chicopee, where she spent most of her life. She leaves besides her husband, two daughters, Ruth and Mildred, ages 12 and 13, and an infant son, Allan Leslie, age two weeks.

The funeral service was held in Packardville church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. John Wightman conducting the service. Burial was in Woodlawn cemetery, Enfield.

Mrs. Longueil was a member and active worker in the Packardville church and secretary of the missionary society. Her loss will be deeply felt by the whole community.

Memorial Day Speakers

Dean Lewis of M. A. C. has been engaged by the American Legion as speaker for Memorial Day. Belting F. Jackson has also been invited to speak. Dean Lewis gave an excellent address here on a previous Memorial Day. He has just returned from a trip abroad and will undoubtedly give a message of vital interest.

The Legion has sent out invitations to the various organizations in town asking their hearty co-operation, and hopes for a good response from them as well as from individuals.

Selectmen's Doings

The selectmen of Ware and Belchertown met with the County Commissioners on the first, in regard to the Chapin bridge. It was decided that the commissioners get out plans and specifications and build the bridge at once. This is following out the idea of the somewhat informal meeting of some time ago, since which time there seems to have been little progress in the matter.

While the computed cost of the structure at that time was estimated at $3,400, it is thought that about $4,500 will now be required. As originally agreed upon, 75 per cent. of the cost is to be equally borne by the county and the town of Ware, while Belchertown will pay the remaining 25 per cent.

The selectmen have received word from the district engineers' office that the contract for oil for the state road has been let to the Texas Oil Co. Further announcement will be made next week relative to oil for the streets.

The selectmen will take up the matter of licenses at the next meeting.

American Legion Auxiliary Council Meeting

District Council No. 2 of the American Legion Auxiliaries met at the chapel Wednesday and had a very profitable session. About 30 were present, members coming from Greenfield, Northampton, Easthampton, Charlemont, Turners Falls, Orange and Amherst.

The program included a roll-call, flag salute, the singing of America, minutes of the last meeting, held in Orange, submission of new by-laws, and a very fine address by Mrs. Dean of Northampton.

Mrs. Dean gave many suggestions as to how the various auxiliaries could become more efficient, and outlined plans for the observance of Mother's day and Memorial day.

In fact the whole meeting was designed to make for an increase in membership, to emphasize welfare work and to make more apparent the work naturally falling to Legion auxiliaries.

At noon the Junior class of B. H. S. served a public dinner, some of the townspeople availing themselves of the opportunity of aiding the class.

Historical Association

Meeting

Copius April showers did not prevent a goodly number from attending the annual business meeting of the Historical Association at the Stone House Saturday evening.

President Willard A. Stebbins of Chicopee presided. The following officers were elected:

President	Willard A. Stebbins
1st Vice Pres.	A. F. Bardwell
2nd Vice Pres.	H. F. Curtis
Recording Clerk	Marion Bartlett
Cor. Clerk	Mrs. H. F. Curtis
Treasurer	Lewis H. Blackmer
Auditor	D. P. Spencer
Custodian	Mrs. H. F. Curtis
Trustees:	Mrs. Maria D. S. Longley, Marion E. Bartlett, Myron Barton, Harry A. Hopkins, Herbert Curtis, Willard Stebbins, Daniel D. Hazen, George H. B. Green, Everett How- ard, Mrs. Alice M. Kendall, M. A. Morse, John W. Jackson, Lewis H. Blackmer, Fred D. Walker, Lucy D. Thomson.

The association extended votes of thanks to Mr. Israel Cowles of Detroit, Mich., and to Mr. J. H. Cavin of Gloucester for gifts of money recently received.

The question of charging an admittance fee to the association's new home was discussed and resulted in the following vote: "An admittance fee of 15 cents shall be charged residents of Belchertown and 25 cents to non-residents; children under 14 who wish to visit the collection must be accompanied by an adult; teachers may make arrangements whereby they may bring classes for the purpose of study, such classes to be admitted free of charge."

An entertainment arranged by Mrs. D. P. Spencer on the theme, Early Modes of Travel, followed the business meeting. Readings were given by Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Nettie Allen. A poem, Calf Path, was read by Miss Mary E. King.

Beginning with May 9th, the Stone House will be open Wednesday afternoons from 2 to 4 o'clock.

"Only Beer and Light Wines"

"Of course we do not want the saloon; we want only beer and light wines," is the hue and cry of those who are striving to arouse public sentiment in favor of legalizing the sale of beer and light wines.

It is but another old trick of the organized liquor traffic. If the sale of beer and light wines is legalized, there must be places where they can be sold, and those places would be saloons; there must be places where they can be manufactured, and those places would be breweries.

"Only beer and light wines"! But light wines may contain any proportion of alcohol up to 13 per cent. and army medical experts found by experiment that liquor containing only 1.4 per cent. of alcohol was sufficient to intoxicate the average healthy soldier if taken in sufficient quantities.

One wonders if those who cry, "Only beer and light wines," are seen in their true light as rebels. The demand that the government legalize beer and light wines is against a federal law of the land which prohibits "the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within the United States."

Reminiscences: Editor Belchertown Sentinel: In renewing my subscription to the Sentinel, my mind reverts to the scenes of my childhood, which are dear to my heart. It is now seldom that a familiar name appears in the paper, but as my four score years are just closing, I realize it is a long time since I was a resident of my native town. My childhood and youth were very happy, and in my adopted state I am often proud to say I was reared in an ideal New England town. We have in this city a society of two hundred members who are natives or former residents of some one of the New England states. We have an annual banquet on Pilgrims' day, and glorify our precious heritage. There are members from Amherst, Pelham, Deerfield and other near-by towns. The reminiscences of your correspondents have interested me greatly. My mind is perfectly clear regarding the big "feed" given to "Quilly" Owen, related by Mr. Geo. H. B. Green, for I paid for the last mince pie he ate, and he still seemed to be hungry, for he soon started for home, saying, "haint been to supper yet." His nick name was Quilwheel, but Quilly for short. He was furiously angry when called by that name and many a boy escaped serious injury only from the fact that Quilly was short legged, and the boys could out run him. There were several eccentric characters in Belchertown about that time, among them Mr. Jucket and son Bub, but Elisha Warner easily stands at the head of the list. "Lish" was a good citizen, industrious, always sawing wood, and minding his own business. I have often wondered if there is another boy living who was in the bunch he chased out of Mr. Hinkly's peach orchard one dark night, saying, "I know ye—Hinds'es two boys is one on ye," which was true enough, too. It seems strange that any one would want to steal peaches in those days when every door yard was full of peach trees, loaded to the ground. Elisha took time by the forelock when, after a long sickness of his wife, he rushed into John Spears's shop, and asked him to toll the bell for her. John said, "Is your wife dead, Elisha?" "Wa-all, no, not quite, but she will be by the time you get the bell tolled," said Elisha. He seldom spoke without the prefix, "Gol darn it all." Strange that such silly things are remembered while matters of importance are forgotten. John Spears was a peculiar, but very useful man in the activities of the town. He was tithing man in the church seventy years ago, and was a terror to mischievous boys who gathered in the galleries out of sight of the minister, and started in for a merry time, but their fun was of short duration for John would stand the big fiddle against the wall, and taking a couple of them by the ears would soon restore a reverent attitude among them. I began to sing alto in the choir with my sister, Mary-Ann, in 1852, and from that time John and I were fast friends. I was concerned in a little trick played upon him at one time, although not the instigator of it. The custom was to have the bell rung at nine o'clock at night and John was the only one who ever rung it so far, as I remember. On the third day of July, 1853, some of the older boys asked John to ring it at midnight to usher in the Fourth, but he firmly refused to have the bell rung, so another plan was resorted to. John seldom carried a lantern, for he could put his hand on the bell rope in the darkest night. So one boy was selected to slip in the door barefooted while John was busy and hide in the stairway until John was gone, then unfasten the rope, go up to the belfry and pull up the rope, throw it out through the shutters on the east side, where it slid down the roof to the ground in reach of the boys who were waiting for it. At twelve o'clock the bell did ring out good and proper, and soon came John, this time with lantern in hand and blood in his eye (and who could blame him?) He unlocked the door expecting to find the culprit at once. He was furious, but the bell kept on ringing. He climbed to the belfry, but by that time the bell had rung out its message, and when John came down no boys could be found. He was janitor as well as bell ringer and in the winter he kept those two stoves red hot, with the two rows of pipe running the whole length of the room, doing heroic duty trying to keep the minister from freezing; seems to me I remember how funny they looked when I was being baptized on that fine morning in May, 1843. If I ever see them again as I hope to do, I will take off my hat before them, to show my respect for the humane service they have rendered to the multitudes of people who have gathered within those walls. I still have the little foot stove I used to carry to keep my mother's feet warm. —to be continued—

"There is hope in the next generation if you keep its confidence. There is a hope for this country in the boys and girls of today, and the question is, Do you believe in the boy and girl of today, in the American boy? I do and it is one of the primary articles of my creed. During all these years of newspaper work, I have known the American boy in every phase of his life—at his work, in jail, and I have got him a job when he came out. When we got him where we needed him, the American boy was the best boy in all the civilized world. The French and the Germans (I did not talk with the English) will tell you that our boys were the best boys there were.

"I believe in the American boy. At times I am asked to speak at the County Reformatory. They are a good audience to speak to, because there is none of this leaving the room—they have to stay, cannot go away. I speak to hundreds of boys and I never saw a bad boy in a county reformatory. I can see a boy who has adenoids, one who is an idiot, one who needs a cranial operation, one suffering from malnutrition. If it is not their fault, whose fault is it? Boys between sixteen and twenty in prison is about the saddest waste and about the most expensive thing that we have in this country. There is nothing that can restore it.

"One other fact about this confidence thing. You can get confidence only by giving it. You have to go more than half way and if you are thinking of the boy and the precious need of keeping his confidence; you have got to say to him, 'I believe in you.' If you don't, you will never get that boy's confidence. We must devise some method of saying to the boy, 'I believe in you. We think you are right minded, decent, upstanding, truth-telling American like your brothers who went into the war.' On the contrary you are saying in effect, 'Son, we are on to you, we have surrounded you by laws to prevent you from breaking the laws,'—that is what we are saying now. Suppose you catch the boy at the age of sixteen, that is the time when all conversions are made, catch a boy when he is ready to receive an idea or to listen to an ideal, when you can clinch it there and make it stay for the rest of his life.

"Suppose you say to him, 'Son, we believe in you, we want you a citizen of the United States.' You must give him some reason to believe you have done something. Some service for the United States you must do if you want to be a citizen of the United States. Get into the army, forestry, transport, go out and build a half-mile road, something you must do before you are twenty-one. If you don't want to be a citizen enough to do your service, that is all we want to know about you.

"Just when it was needed most terribly came into being this great organization, the Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts which is the only organization that I know of of any such character that has in its code the adjuration to do one disinterested thing every day, one good deed. There is not any such thing in this country, and that is patriotic service. As to what the Girl Scout learns and gets for herself, that is fine, but with the great mass of girls banded together and every one of them bound to that one ideal of service, of gaining self respect through performance, through conquest of self, through mastery of forces, that is the only organization that promises us safety in our citizenship; and I most certainly want to thank the Girl Scouts with all my heart and for anything I can do for them. I believe they are guarding our citizenship for the next ten or twenty years better than any other organization that I know anything about."

Our Ready-to-Wear Department

Has been admired by all who have seen it.

As a result of serving the people right, you can profit by my experience. I have been in business in Holyoke for the past 25 years and have been making clothes for the best people of Holyoke and vicinity.

At the request of my customers, in order to serve them better, I found that it was necessary for me to take in, in addition to my custom department, a fine line of ready-to-wear clothes, which are better than the average ready-made clothes, and consist of Top Coats, Business Suits, Sport models and automobile clothes.

These clothes are made by the best makers—the materials and workmanship are of the best.

Young men's and conservative models are of the latest styles. Style, quality and reasonable prices have always been my main feature.

I will fit personally, all suits sold in my ready-to-wear department as well as in the custom department. Then you are assured of getting the best fit as no clothes will leave my store before I inspect them.

B. H. S. Alumni Meeting

Some weeks ago a meeting of B. H. S. alumni was called for to discuss plans relative to furnishing a room in the new High school building, now nearing completion, but owing to very severe weather, postponement was necessary. It is now planned to have the meeting next Friday night in the High school room, when it is hoped that considerable interest will be manifested.

Death of George A. Moody

George Ansel Moody died Saturday at the home of Mrs. Edwin Smith of Granby, where he and his wife have made their home for the last seven years. For some time Mr. Moody has been in poor health, and since last October he has been confined to his bed.

Mr. Moody was born in South Hadley Falls in 1853, the son of Ansel and Harriet Ainsworth Moody. The family moved to town when Mr. Moody was 14 years of age. In 1878 he married Clara Hayes of this town.

Mr. Moody was for a long term of years associated with the late George Coleman in the masonry business. He was a member of the Congregational church.

Besides his widow, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. R. S. Mason of Granby and Miss Hattie Moody of this town.

The funeral was held from the home in Granby, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. C. H. Smith, officiating. The bearers were the nephews, Robert Mason and Harold Mason of Chicopee Falls, Walter Mason of Granby, Bert Ellison of South Hadley and John Calkins of Holyoke, also a brother-in-law, R. S. Mason of Granby. Burial was in West cemetery.

Federated Church Meeting

The annual meeting of the Federated church was held in the chapel last Friday evening and was one of the best since the federation. This was, perhaps, largely due to the fact that more was made of the meeting this year. The roll call, special music and the social hour were all new features and made the meeting more of a real home gathering.

The devotional service was in charge of Rev. D. L. Hilliard. Then came the reports of the clerk, treasurer and auditor, which were followed by a solo by C. F. Aspengren.

New officers were then elected for the ensuing year. Previous to the roll call, Mrs. B. E. Shaw sang, "When the roll is called up yonder."

While the response to the roll call was not large, considering the membership, still the meeting was decidedly worth while and the get-together spirit was apparent. In fact those who have federation closest to heart realize it is a goal rather than a finished reality.

The officers elected are as follows:
Secretary Miss Grace Towne
Treasurer Mrs. R. A. French
Asst. treas. Miss Edith Towne
Auditor R. E. Bond

Welcoming committee:
Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Witt, W. E. Killmer.

Tree Removed

The chief excitement of the past week was caused by the removal of the large elm tree in front of the residence of S. W. Roode, which was known for a long time as the Rufus Shumway place. For some years the tree has been considered a source of danger. Its removal was fraught with some difficulty, however, owing to the proximity of houses and electric and telephone wires.

Tree Warden Kelley had the work in charge and was assisted by linemen from the wire companies. Work began Monday, when the large upper branches were cut off. The main trunk was felled Tuesday afternoon, and in spite of care that had been taken, it swerved on the stump in falling and sideswiped the Peeso tenement occupied by the Frank Lemon family. The cornice was ripped off and the jut over the door to what was once a school room was damaged. Window lights were also broken.

However, the damage might have been worse, and especially so if the tree had fallen some night of its own free will.

The age of the tree is not known. D. F. Shumway states that he has lived in the town 77 years, and as he remembers it, the tree has always been about as large as the day it was cut.

Death of Mrs. C. F. D. Hazen

The passing of Mrs. Clara F. Dwight Hazen Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock after only a week's illness, removed a strong personality from our community life. Dying at the age of 83, she still maintained a vital interest in the affairs of the world and possessed faculties of mind quite remarkable for a woman of her age.

Mrs. Hazen was one who ever desired to pass along any observations of life that seemed worth while when another might have secluded them in her own memory. It was this spirit that prompted her to contribute articles to the papers. She was ever happy to tell of her life in California.

Reminiscences

By Arthur F. Ferry, Custodian of the State Military Museum, Lansing, Mich.

Who could forget the masterful preaching by such men as Rev. Wolcott and Julius and Clark Seeley, who often supplied when the pulpit was vacant. Those were wonderful days for the Belchertown church, for attendance upon public worship was universal, and more or less of stigma rested on all families who did not attend. The seating capacity of the church has been greatly reduced twice since the coming of the Rev. Wolcott. The congregations of those days filled every seat while two hundred horses with vehicles of every description (except Fords) stood in the long rows of sheds east of the church. At the close of the annual singing school, there were frequently 100 singers in the choir, with many orchestral instruments, and a four legged melodeon played by a young Mr. Allen, a student with Dr. Allen, who was contemporary with Dr. Horatio Thomson. He was succeeded by Edward H. Phelps.

The first choir director I distinctly remember was Dea. Harrison Root. Then came Mr. S. W. Longley. Hymn books with music were not known at that time. When the minister began reading the hymn, the leader must be alert to see what metre it was, then from the tune book select a tune to match, and announce it to the choir in loud voice. If the hymn had few stanzas, there was a lively scramble to see who would be ready first, then the racks must be raised, and after the singing they must be lowered; and if the choir was large, many of the roguish ones would let them drop, and the noise was like a battalion of soldiers firing at will, with a couple of bowling alleys thrown in.

The choir at that time was in the gallery at the south end of the church, and the congregation always arose and turned with their backs to the minister while the choir was singing. It was during my term as director that the church was remodelled, galleries taken out, and choir moved to its present location. My employment as church music director has been continuous from that time until two years ago when at the age of seventy-eight, I thought best to resign. Reminiscences mand to sing at funerals, and funny things did sometimes happen. It was the custom to have the bell tolled as soon as the procession came in sight on the way to the cemetery. One day as we rounded the corner by the old Union hotel, we noticed the bell was silent, so one of us jumped out of the carriage and ran ahead to see what was the matter. One of the deacons was substituting for John, and was pulling the rope in perfect rhythm, but no bell sounded. On opening the door into the church, the loud click clack of the big ventilator in the ceiling told the story. The good deacon, who was quite deaf, was pulling the wrong rope.

Many sacred memories cluster around that church, brick hall and school house. In that church I led the bride of my youth to the marriage altar. And the ministrations of all those men who have occupied that pulpit in more recent years is a precious memory, resulting as they did in some genuine old fashioned revivals, and one in particular, when a great many young men were brought into the church and great usefulness. That was when the Congregational church had no pastor. The meetings were held in the brick hall, and Rev. Booth, a dear, sweet-spirited man, pastor of the Methodist church, united with us and helped greatly to bring blessing and addition to both churches. The beautiful work of Mr. Charles Washburn, for many years superintendent of the Sunday school, is another precious memory, and the stars in his crown of rejoicing must be wonderful; I hope I may see them when time shall be no more.

As I think of the old brick school house, it seems as if a whole century was rising before me. No pupil in that school house seventy years ago could forget those big, yellow golden sweet apples that grew in "Squire" Shaw's orchard. Oh! Boy, but they were good; and also hard to get, for that thick mulberry hedge was a terror to crawl through, and it was a grand place for the old "Squire" to hide, and pounce upon pilferers. I will remember trying to push one of the girls through that hedge when the strong arm of the law grabbed me and ordered me to send my father to him, at once, which I promised, and intended to do but have been so busy I haven't got to it yet. —The End—

200,000 VESTA Batteries Selected as Replacement of Original Equipment

Two hundred thousand car owners stepped on their starter buttons this morning. Two hundred thousand Vesta Batteries jumped to the work that some other make of battery used to do. What has happened to the batteries that were in these cars when their owners purchased them? The owners of these 200,000 cars can tell you.

When their original batteries wore out, the natural thing to do would have been to replace them with the same make. The presence of a Vesta Battery in their cars is significant. It simply means that when the opportunity was given to these motorists to exercise their own preferences they chose a Vesta Battery.

Vesta Batteries are selected to replace original equipment in very much the same way a "cord" tire is bought to replace a "fabric" tire. The Vesta costs less per month of service.

Your car manufacturer does not equip his car with a Vesta Battery because the production of Vesta Batteries does not permit us to supply him and at the same time take care of the rapidly growing needs of our 3500 service stations.

Vesta Batteries cost less per month of service because they have built service features that make them last longer. These are patented features—exclusive to Vesta—no other battery has them.

The most important of these is the Vesta Indestructible Isolator which locks the plates apart, and prevents short circuits. Of nearly equal importance is the Vesta Poro-Hard Plate with its extra long life and greater current capacity.

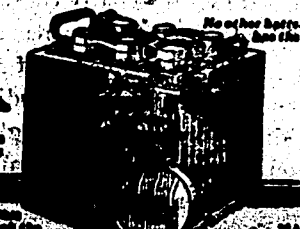

See these features at any Vesta Service Station. Have them explained to you. You will understand then why we can guarantee any Vesta Battery for a full two years' service. The Vesta guarantee is based upon actual service you may expect to receive. Vesta prices are figured in the same way, and because a Vesta will practically always give its full two years' service without an adjustment on a new battery, Vesta prices are not any higher than you would pay for an ordinary battery.

The Vesta Service Code, prominently displayed in every Vesta Service Station, is your further guarantee that no matter what make of battery you are using you will never be asked to purchase a new battery until the service station has helped you get every bit of possible service from your old one.

The Freshman Party

The freshman party, held in the Park View hall last Friday evening, was quite a spectacular affair. Not only was the hall gaily decked in pink and white, with the class numerals on the stage and baskets of flowers at the windows, but some 55 or 60 of the scholars came dressed in costume.

Miss Evelyn Shumway took first prize, appearing as a gypsy, and if there had been a second it would have been equally divided between Franklin Johnston and Andrew Ketchen dressed, most bewitchingly, as girls.

It was quite a colorful occasion as was quite evident in the grand march, led by Miss Upham and Prin. Allen.

There was also the crowning of the May queen, Miss Irene Howard. Eugene Flaherty took the part of page.

As has been the case at previous parties, quite a little in the literary line was sandwiched into the program. Belding Jackson read and Miss Helen Camp also gave a selection, while Miss Richardson, who was the faculty member supervising the entertainment, rendered solos.

Of course there were games, and refreshments were served consisting of ice cream and cake.

$3200 instead of $2000

The selectmen have received word from the State Highway commissioners that $3200 has been allotted the Ludlow road, instead of $2000, as was awarded last year. This added amount is to offset the $1200 subscribed by the abbutors.

Owing to the rush of regular business on Fridays, the selectmen request the public to have all bills against the town in the hands of the town accountant by Thursday night.

Death of Mrs. Charles Ayres

Mrs. Hattie Bishop Ayres, 61, wife of Charles Ayres, died of pneumonia at her home on the Amherst road Monday evening at 8 o'clock. She had been caring for other members of her family, who were ill, when she herself succumbed to disease and died after a brief illness.

Mrs. Ayres was born in this town and was the daughter of Francis and Olive Ramsdell Bishop. She graduated from the High school in the class of 1878 and taught school until her marriage to Charles Ayres of this town, April 30, 1881.

Most of their married life was spent in Springfield and Holyoke. They returned, however, to this town three years ago and have made their home on what is known as the Simon Kelley farm. They were expecting to move this spring to the house they were newly fitting up on No. Main St.

Mrs. Ayres was a member of the Eastern Star of Springfield, the Rebekah Lodge of Holyoke, and the Congregational church of this town. Aside from the affiliations of these organizations she had a capacity for friendship in the community at large that will be greatly missed.

She leaves three sons, Leon B. Ayres, Melvin Ayres and Lafayette Ayres, and a brother, Wm. Bishop, all of this town, also a sister, Mrs. L. F. Wilder of Holyoke. Four grandchildren also survive her.

Prayer was offered at the house at one o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, while the funeral service took place at three p. m. in Foster's Undertaking parlors in Holyoke. Burial was in Forestdale cemetery in that city.

Catholic Supper and Bazaar

The Catholics will hold a supper and bazaar in the basement of their church next Tuesday evening. Supper will be served from 6.30 to 8, while the bazaar will be in progress from 8 to 11. The supper will be 50 cents.

Funeral of Mrs. C. F. D. Hazen

The funeral of Mrs. C. F. D. Hazen was held at the home last Friday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. C. H. Smith of Granby officiated, assisted by Rev. H. P. Rankin of Boston and Rev. D. L. Hilliard of the Federated church.

Mrs. B. E. Shaw sang, "The Home Land" and "The Sweet Bye and Bye," and Theodore and Harold Hazen sang, "Tell Mother I'll Be There."

The floral tributes from the various organizations in town and the employees of the Hazen mercantile establishments told of the esteem in which Mrs. Hazen was held.

The bearers were the grandsons, Theodore, Harold and Donald Hazen, and a cousin, Hazen Ross of Springfield. Interment was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Sewing Club Exhibit

You might call at any one of a dozen or more homes in town almost any day now and find a demure little maid sitting very quietly at her sewing. Perhaps her next door neighbor or her best friend is calling on her and she, too, is sewing most industriously. Has the world turned back fifty years? Are "stints" in vogue again?

Perhaps you have forgotten the exhibit of the sewing clubs which is scheduled for next Tuesday night. Every garment must have its last, neat little stitches before then, the allotted stockings must all be darned, the hours of housework must all be completed and the records all written. No time for sitting around idle these days if you belong to a sewing club and hope to win your pin next Tuesday night.

The three local clubs, two in the center and the "Merry Workers" of Blue Meadow, will unite in giving an exhibit of their sewing and bread-making, also in presenting a short program, to be followed by a talk by Mr. Farley, illustrated by stereopticon slides.

America in the World's Eyes

When Mr. Wilson returned to America, there was one brief sentence he brought us which thrilled every soul of us. And that brief sentence was this: "No one suspicious America." It was true of American soldiers. In any situation requiring delicacy of action an American soldier was sent. No one suspicious America's part in the conflict. While some thought she was slow in entering, all knew that when she did enter she entered with all her resources and that with no thought of gaining an inch of territory or securing anything for herself. Even the Turks trusted America would do the right thing and were willing America should be mandate for Armenia.

But today it is another sentence which men returning from Europe bring. It is no longer, "No one suspicious America," but, "What is the matter with America?" The people of Europe cannot understand us. They have not lost confidence in us; they simply cannot understand us. They are yet friendly but are perplexed. They for the most part refrain from criticism of our government, but our government's attitude is inexplicable to them. We are an enigma. Our governmental policy seems selfish. We do not seem to show the proper sympathy with the European nations in their distresses. Some are exasperated with us, but the majority are only pained, saying, "What is the matter with America?" They think we have left them in the lurch. Now this is not what one returning man reports, but it is the word which comes from almost all who have been in close contact with the heart of other nations.

It will not do for America to stand aloof longer if she would keep the good will of all peoples. Some have thought that if America did not enter the League, the League would die without us or at least play an insignificant part in the world. But the League is very much alive. It is no small affair. 52 nations are already in, and we stand outside with Turkey and Germany. Those who discount the League's activities would do well to pay their fare to Geneva and see with their own eyes what has already been done. The moment America enters the League, that moment the nations will stop asking, "What is the matter with America?" and faith in us will return.

A subscriber sent to us the following poem, which to all appearances was at one time torn from a New England Homestead, issued April 5, 1879.

Where the Holyoke mountains stand,
Looking eastward o'er the land,

On her hilltops, as a throne,
High and fair sits Belchertown.

Three blue lakes before her lie,
Shields, with lillied tracery,

And her hills, with crown of firs,
Stand like ancient servitors.

Purple cloud and sunny gleam
Paint the landscape like a dream.

Through her shaded village street,
Summer walks with dainty feet.

Flashing sunsets, rare and bright,
Usher in the winter's night,

All his pomp of royalty;
Flaming in the western sky;

While the stars of midnight hold,
Folded to their hearts of gold,

For her in the sky of blue,
Peace and benediction too.

Once those self-same stars looked down,

Where we see the peaceful town,

And beheld the forest rude,
Dark with leafy solitude.

Wealth and beauty laugh at laws. This is probably the biggest attraction that the entire season will bring forth.—Admission 35c

Saw the circling belt of flame,
Where the dusky hunters came,
And the wild deer's startled flight
Through the shadows of the night.

In those days for miles around,
Scarce was home of white man found.

But the traveler through the wild
Off his weariness beguiled

At a spring, which far around Flowed as silver from the ground.

O'er it waving forest trees,
Song of bird and voice of breeze.

There in viny mosses sweet,
Sank the pilgrim's weary feet,

As with thankful heart he quaffed
From the wayside fount a draught.

So, in time, the spring became
For a sign and for a name.

Near it rose a village fair,
With its heavenward pointing spire,

And the stranger journeying,
Knew the village as Cold Spring.

Years passed on, until one day,
Traveling in state that way,

Came the proud old governor;
Then the town was all astir.

Courtly hospitality
Blended with its welcome free.

He the very land had owned
Once, for many miles around.

So the dwellers, prouder grown,
Changed the name to Belchertown.

Still the wayside spring is shown
By the people of the town,

And the ancient name is dear
Unto many living here.

May its past be prophecy
Of its future destiny,

And life's weary traveler
Find the rest he longs for here;

Here the cooling cup be given
On the pilgrimage to Heaven.

Gum-Dipped Cords Gaining New Fame for Service

194% Sales Increase in Last Six Months Shows Trend Toward Firestone

The public has emphatically spoken. The popular preference in all territories is unmistakably the Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord.

A standard of service has been set by these famous tires without parallel in the past. It has brought a sales increase of 194% for the past six months over the same period of a year ago—the greatest gain in all Firestone history.

The Firestone Gum-Dipped Cord is the mighty achievement which has enabled Firestone to break the tremendous record of past Firestone success.

The tire buying public has been aroused to the results in economical mileage of the Firestone process of double gum-dipping. The buying swing toward Firestone shows how it has advanced the public's standard of tire value.

Ask owners about Firestone performance on their cars. Note the big taxicab fleets Firestone-equipped. Watch the new cars you see—just from the factories; Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are seen everywhere in fast increasing numbers.

Get the maximum extra mileage that only the Firestone name assures you. Only by insisting on this name can you be sure of getting the genuine gum-dipped construction.

Neighbors' Night

Tuesday evening was "Neighbors' Night" at the Grange, and surrounding granges proved to be very neighborly, there being 60 from Ludlow, about 40 from Ware, several from Amherst, Enfield and Ware Valley, East Medway also being represented.

A very entertaining program was given by Ludlow and Ware, the numbers on the program alternating. Music, both the real and artificial, costume dancing, readings, and the sale of a Ludlow young man kept the audience in good humor until a late hour.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and ice cream were served by the home grange to about 150, and every one went home feeling that a real, old fashioned grange meeting, with variations, had passed into history.

Lose and Win

Exhibit at Packardville

Most of the roads around "Great Hill" and Pelham and at the Pack-

ardville church, or did last Tuesday night, unless some lost the way. Parking space for cars was not limited, fortunately, and inside there seemed to be no limit to the amount of good things to eat, a roast beef dinner with a variety of vegetables, delicious rolls and butter, cookies, pies and coffee. The butter, by the way, was made right in this hilltop town by club girls, as were also the rolls, 29 dozen of them, and "H. H. H." cookies, nobody knows how many.

When the needs of inner man had been supplied to the limit, (there is a limit to some things) the guests were free to follow their own desires for a time. Some were busy greeting old friends and meeting new ones. The younger element met their friends, old and new, in playing Three Deep and other games outdoors.

And of course there was the exhibit of handicraft, sewing and bread making from the Home Economics' clubs of Packardville and West Pelham, in which every one was interested. The skill, the painstaking care the fine leadership back of it, all showed in the really wonderful work these boys and girls had accomplished. It would appear that the prophecy concerning this exhibit, "It will be one of the best in Hampshire county," was likely to be the truth.

As soon as the judges had finished their work, a play, preceded by piano solos, was presented to an eager audience. "Aunt Samantha" (Miss Alice Collis) and "Uncle Josiah" (Mr. William Chaffee), one with a sprained ankle and the other with an aching toe on which a flat iron has fallen, sit gloomily talking over the shortcomings of modern young people who care only about going to the movies and never learn to do anything worth while, when in breezes Miss Erhard. Learning the cause of their despondency, she volunteers to prove they are wrong in their judgment of the youth of today, and with their permission she brings in a number of boys and girls whom she explains, she is taking to an exhibit at Pelham. They have their handiwork with them and proceed to demonstrate to Uncle Josiah and Aunt Samantha their ability to do some worth while kinds of work and do it in excellent fashion, too. Uncle Josiah is doubtful at first, but by degrees he is completely won over.

At the close of the play, Miss Erhard announced the prize winners and presented the pins, two of them being gold ones for third year work, one to Earl Martin of Packardville and the other to Miss Collis, the club leader, (author also of the play of the evening.) After a musical number, piano, first and second violins the audience broke up, everybody saying, "Wasn't it good?"

An Alumni Fund

Do the alumni of the B. H. S. hang together? In spite of connections with other schools, other cities and other towns, is there a bond that binds them to one another with a common interest? Is there a spirit that has survived the years? There are those who believe that this is the case and think that the approaching completion of the new High school building is a good time to venture forth on their faith.

It was suggested last summer at the reunion of classes '88 and '89 that alumni and former students of the B. H. S. would be glad to turn to and give the old school a lift at a time when it is sort of getting on its feet again.

But the same idea was expressed some years ago, if our memory serves us correctly, by former Principal Demond at Belchertown's first Old Home day observance. He suggested nothing on a large scale, but he did advocate having the alumni help adorn the High school room with pictures and the like.

Perhaps these ideas will come to their fruition now, for at the meeting of alumni last Friday evening, Principal Allen emphasized the same thing. He said that while the town will undoubtedly furnish school room essentials, there will be many things, that by reason of large expenditures, will not be provided.

He spoke of the library that was in process of formation when the old building burned, of the need of current literature, while others mentioned high grade pictures and room furnishings which are valuable silent instructors in the life of a student.

Principal Allen has for a long time felt the need of things like these, and also more expensive equipment, which the backing of a loyal

Dean Lewis to Speak

Belchertown is indeed fortunate in having for the speaker of the day on Memorial Day a man of the caliber of Dean Lewis of the Massachusetts Agricultural College. A day set aside to honor the "real men" of America, who have laid down their lives in the various crises of our history, should be honored by real men of the present to commemorate those of the past.

Dean Lewis is a man who has always appealed to the young citizens of this state. He was a baseball hero back in the days when the national game was in its infancy. After pitching a brand of ball that Williams college still speaks of with pride, he joined the Boston League team, and was the leading pitcher of the National League in 1897, with a record of 25 victories out of 33 games. He was the star of two World's series. During the winters of his career as a professional ball-player, he studied in Harvard and left baseball in the height of his glory to take up work that netted him far less money, teaching in a minor position in Columbia University.

After working with the English department at his alma mater, Williams, he came to M. A. C., where he became Dean of the college, and professor of languages and literature. He has been acting president on two occasions, and has done a very great deal to bring the college up to the present high ranking it enjoys.

Dean Lewis has been back from Europe only a little over a month, and will have a message which every man, woman, and child in Belchertown will be glad to hear.

Sewing Clubs' Exhibit

People thread their way through crowded city stores replete with the latest there is in misses' and women's apparel and grow ecstatic over the new creations, but it is to be doubted whether such showings draw forth quite the same appreciative brand of enthusiasm as is the case when one looks over the garments that young hands have shaped in the house next door.

This was the case Tuesday evening at the chapel when the exhibits of the sewing clubs of the center and Blue Meadow drew forth the merited praise of a large company of people who ought to know.

Several tables were laden with clothing of every description, over which the young folks had toiled to the very last minute, for the work had to be done, and it was, and in no slighting fashion either.

Miss Erhard and Mr. Farley of the Extension service went through the various articles and commented on their merit, although they left the scoring to one less acquainted with the contestants.

To be sure the exhibit was show enough in itself, but of course there had to be an entertainment, and what could be more appropriate, considering the fact that the garments didn't all materialize in a minute, than "How the Story Grew," presented by the girls of the center. Between the acts the Blue Meadow girls helped the "growing" by their club cheers.

Belchertown Keeps in Win Column

The B. H. S. baseballers made it two in a row over New Salem Academy on the park Saturday afternoon, winning easily by a 15-6 score, after taking the Hill-Boys' measure on their native mountain Thursday, 12-9. The game was featured by the fine twirling of young Tom Landers, who went through his first game in fine style and was given good support both in the field and at the bat. Tommy fanned eleven, and was always cool in the pinches.

Allen started in the box for Belchertown, but was greeted by a fusillade of hits which netted the visitors a three run lead. The local ace, Dewey, being absent, Landers was given a chance to show his wares and responded by striking out three men in the next inning. This gave the Belchers confidence, and a few hits, coupled with numerous errors, enabled them to put across ten runs in four innings and easily put the game on ice.

A new combination was tried out in this game, and the outfield made its first putouts and hits of the season.

Catholic Supper

Park street was fairly well parked with cars Tuesday evening by reason of the Catholic supper and the sewing exhibit in the chapel. One supplemented the other, making an evening of sociability and profit.

Supper was served in the east room of the basement, leaving the main room for the bazaar which followed. Here articles of considerable variety were dispensed. Canned fruit and fancy work of all sorts had been contributed for the occasion.

As usual, Mrs. Garvey had the supper in charge, and Father McGrath of Bondsville was the chief host of the evening.

Violin and piano solos, with singing by Claire Vezina, entertained the guests who lingered after the repast.

The next big thing on the Catholic calendar is the dedication of the new house of worship, June 24.

and one of the center clubs sang.

After the play came the address by Mr. Farley, the friend of the young people. He banks on them every time, and when anyone tries to tell him that the young people of other days went the present generation one better, he gets into action at once and the facts fly thick and fast.

A company of thirteen Franklin prize winners, attired in dresses that they had made for their exhibit a week ago, called at the Cold Spring school while Mr. Farley was there during the day, and he couldn't resist the temptation to bring them on to the center for the evening. He proudly exhibited them singly and in groups, all of which made a fitting introduction to what he had to say.

He called attention to the fact that the 25 girls at Franklin had saved exactly $125.97 on the garments they had made, according to store

He went on to enthuse the young people with the thought that in everyone's door yard there is an "Acre of Diamonds." It may be in bread making, as a boy on the sands of Cape Cod found out, or it may be flowers, on which one girl in Holyoke made $123, it may be in poultry or in many another form of activity young people are getting into, but it's there, he was certain, and he believed in helping the young people in every way possible to find themselves.

To emphasize what others are doing he showed a number of stereopticon slides that portrayed boys and girls at their club tasks, not only in growing crops and raising pigs and the like, but engaged at the same time in the development of a strong and useful personality, the true aim of it all.

He also reminded his audience, what few perhaps realize, that clubs don't run themselves, and that if it were not for the leaders, who are not particularly evident at exhibits, many club children would be motherless.

Town Items

All the teachers in town have been reappointed to their respective schools.

W. L. Bishop of the G. A. R., and Wm. Sullivan and Edward Parent of the American Legion made a visitation to the Franklin schools Wednesday and spoke to the pupils. A very interesting patriotic program was presented by the schools.

Friday afternoon W. L. Bishop, Dr. Watkins and Wm. Sullivan will visit the B. H. S., where special exercises have been arranged. The public is cordially invited to be present.

Next Tuesday Messrs. Fellows, Sullivan and Story will speak at the grade school building at 1.30 p. m., when special exercises will be held.

The American Legion will hold another dance June 7. The last one attracted the largest crowd thus far.

The coming Sunday is Memorial Sunday and the patriotic organizations have been invited to attend the special services of the Federated church.

The Senior class will serve a supper in Grange hall next Thursday evening at 6 o'clock.

Belchertown's first Junior Prom will be held in Park View hall tonight. Fleury's orchestra of Palmer will furnish music. Those desiring tickets should make application to Charles Scott, chairman of the committee of arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Bemis and two children, Della and Chester, Mrs. Leta Barnes and Chester Dickinson, all of Athol, were guests Wednesday of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cook of Maple St.

Misses Bertha and Hattie Cook were guests last Friday of their brother, Howard Cook of Amherst.

D. C. Randall and family and Eunice Doerpholz with other members of the Hampshire-Franklin Co. Calf club went on a trip Saturday to see the Holsteins of Mt. Hermon. Potter's Guernseys at Greenfield, Tuesday's Ayershires at Shelburne, and Penney's Jerseys at Northfield.

son. It has been this department that has worried the coaches considerably, but the hitting of Oseep, the Cold Spring freshman, with good fielding, bodes well for future improvement in that quarter.

The infield continued its good work, Sullivan turning in an unassisted double play, and Bardwell bagging a screaming liner, doubling to Chapman, both plays coming with one out, and the bases occupied. Allen did some excellent work in short, with Landers in the box, instead of his usual position.

Earl Doubleday of the visitors did some fine playing, and was painfully injured in the third when he came in contact with Sullivan's swinging bat, in an attempt to cut Allen off at the plate. The game was slow after the first two innings, the victors taking it easy, and the losers piling error on error. Tomimy eased up in the final frame, and New Salem bunched hits with stolen bases for a brace of tallies.

Sullivan has just been elected captain by the members of the team.

GAME YESTERDAY

With Petersham the proud possessor of a 7-6 lead, the Belchertown High school lads unlimbered their bats in the seventh inning of yesterday's tilt, and patted the ball to all corners of the lot for their third consecutive win this season. Ten runs in that frame with three more in the 8th for good measure gave the locals a 19-8 victory.

Tom Landers was again the hero. As in the New Salem game last week, he relieved a badly hammered twirler, and kept the game well in hand with his deceptive shoots, fanning 14 men in seven innings. Dewey started in the box for Belchertown, but was unable to check the upstarters, allowing six hits, one of them a homer from the bat of Nelson, who socked the pill to the Town hall for the best smash seen here this season.

Belchertown bunched hits in the first two innings for six runs, but were unable to do much with Towne's drop for the next four innings, most of their attempts being pops to the infield. But in the seventh things looked different from the start. Hits and errors had just given the visitors three runs and the lead. Landers singled, and Chapman made second when the catcher dropped the third strike. Oseep struck out, but steal ing filled the second and third sacks. Bardwell brought in both runners with a screaming double to short left, and the batting spree was on. Dewey, Hazen, Flaherty, and Sullivan singled before Michel was out at first, and Landers, Chapman, Oseep, and Bardwell connected in order. Dewey's fanning stopped the slaughter. The game was slow, but the locals showed improvement at bat that was very encouraging, the team average for the day being close to .400. Allen was unable to play, having turned his ankle badly in practise the night before, but Flaherty did good work at short, when Landers was called to the box. There was also a big improvement in base running. Amherst and Hardwick will probably be played next week, Amherst here Monday, and Hardwick away on Friday.

Dies in Illinois

News has been received of the death last Thursday of Mrs. Emma Dickinson Bugbee, age 80, widow of Calvin Bugbee, in Aurora, Ill., where she went last fall to make her home with her son, George Bugbee.

During her stay there she suffered a paralytic stroke, from which she never fully recovered. Only recently, her sister, Miss Lottie Dickinson, went to Aurora to assist in her care.

While much of her life was spent in the West, Mrs. Bugbee's residence here was of considerable duration, in consequence of which she made many friends.

She leaves two sons, Frank Bugbee of Montclair, N. J., and George Bugbee of Aurora, Ill., in whose home she died, a grandson, William Bugbee of Philadelphia, a brother, Henry Bugbee of Iowa, a sister, Miss Lottie Dickinson of Aurora, besides several nieces and nephews.

Memorial Day Observance

If one from another planet, unfamiliar with our customs, had flown over our village last Wednesday, what would have been his impressions as he saw the Memorial day procession wend its way through our streets, enter the cemetery and decorate the soldiers' graves, go to the soldiers' monument where a new generation pledged itself to an unfinished task, march to the Honor board where the dead were again honored, and enter the church where were e-nunciated the principles that had made the nation great and would continue to keep her in the position she now occupies? Would he not have thought that there was hope for the community especially in view of the fact that so many young people were in line, honoring the day and all it stood for? More than a score of Girl Scouts and more than a hundred other school children were in the procession and their presence was an inspiration. Of course there was the grand old G. A. R., represented by a remnant that would not miss the day for anything, that set one thinking as to how Memorial day came to be observed, and there was the American Legion, young in years, yet having the scars of battle in its midst, all of which reminded one that the nation moves on in war and in peace only by sacrifice.

There were also the town fathers, teachers in the schools and invited guests, who lent dignity to the occasion. Old Glory, the Legion colors and the Holyoke City band headed the procession with Past Commander Raymond Blackmer as marshal. The line formed at Legion headquarters, marched down South Main St. and around the common, stopping at the chapel where they were joined by the Relief Corps who saw that flowers were distributed for the decoration of graves.

The services in the cemetery consisted of a song, "Just Before the Battle, Mother," by the B. H. S., prayer by Rev. D. L. Hilliard; song, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," by the B. H. S., after which flowers were placed on the graves of the de-19 to 18 and only 7 innings of play. Think of it! It came on Memorial day, but it is to be doubted whether, in spite of the win, the local team got together by the American Legion will care to have it linger very long in memory.

Whether the real reason for calling the game was that the visitors wanted to get home or that the adding machines of the scorers had run to the limit, is a question. It was nothing to get 6 runs in an inning. Ludlow started off with that number in the first and Belchertown repeated it in the 3rd and 7th. Ludlow was ahead at the close of every inning except the third and the last one played. The visitors were evidently waiting for the locals to catch up before taking their departure.

The game was quite replete with 3-base hits. Story, Allen and Cook all made the third station without a stop in the 1st inning, while Story repeated the performance in the 2nd.

On both sides there was considerable fumbling of the ball and most of the players will probably have to have their mitts sewed up.

But it was quite heroic to get a team together and have a game anyway. Parent held the battle line at 2nd till Fairchild appeared, while Blackmer did the same stunt in the catcher's box, waiting for McKane.

And Umpire Allen was heroic, too, to stand up to what was in nowise a no-hit game. Twice the ball made rather of a base hit but the ump stood his ground and refused to be sacrificed.

The innings:

Amherst Wins

Amherst High school checked the winning streak of the Belchertown lads on the common Monday afternoon, capturing a hectic struggle of hits and errors by an 18-12 score. Memorial Sermon

The patriotic societies of the town were guests on Sunday morning of the Federated church, special music and an appropriate sermon being features of the service.

Rev. D. L. Hilliard spoke on "Patriotism the Element of National Stability and Progress." He said that the nation depends on the patriotism of her people. The flag does not represent so many miles of territory or so many people, but the ideals for which the country stands, such as equality, liberty, freedom, justice and peace. He said that our patriotism is broadening and deepening as time moves on, but that at every turning point there have been enemies challenging the right of these great principles of our government to have their free course. There were those opposed to justice and truth in '61 and '76, and oppression challenged progress at the time of the war with Spain, while the World war brought forth a new challenge in the broadening conception of human relationships.

He also said that there are further challenges now and more will follow and that they must be met, preferably in peace, otherwise in armed conflict as a last resort. He thus drew the conclusion that peace demands as great a heroism as does war. He stated that at the present time law needs to be sustained by the patriotism of the people. We are also facing false ideas of government, and the right of men in the pursuit of happiness is being challenged.

In closing he said that he believed God had called this country to carry out His purposes just as truly as he called the Chosen people of old and that God is guiding the principles of our national life and bringing them to perfection.

pure unearned variety. Landers deserved a far better fate, but was given wretched support, and weakened in the fifth and sixth, and was taken from the box after the visitors had accumulated eighteen runs.

George Williams, the Belchertown boy who coaches at Amherst, tried his second string battery in the seventh inning, but the local hitters were unwilling to let the visitors go away unscathed, and knocked him out of the box in the eighth, scoring nine runs, and having their rally cut short only by a remarkable stab by Mackimmie of Allen's red-hot liner, which would have brought in another brace of tallies.

George Dewey, who has been having trouble getting started this year, relieved Landers in the sixth, and held Amherst to no hits, allowing but one man to get first. Dewey was given excellent support. No one on the Belchertown team went hitless, and there were but three who struck out. The poor work was all in the field. Better luck is to be hoped for in the return game at Amherst Monday afternoon. This afternoon the team will play in Hardwick, and next Tuesday Williamsburg will be on the common at three o'clock, with a return game in the Northampton suburb a week from today.

The Vanishing Veterans

Every year they're marching slower,
Every year they're stooping lower,
Every year the lilting music stirs the hearts of older men;
Every year the flags above them seem to bend and bless and love them,
As if grieving for the future, when they'll never march again.

Every year that day draws nearer,
Every year the truth is clearer,
That the men who saved the nation from the severing Southern sword,
Soon must pass away forever
From the scenes of their endeavor,
Soon must answer to the roll-call of the angel of the Lord.

Every year with dwindling number,
Loyal still to those who slumber,
Forth they march to where already many have found peace at last,
And they place the fairest blossoms O'er the mould'ring bosoms,
Of the valiant friends and comrades of the battles of the past.

Every year grow dimmer, duller,
Tattered flag and faded color,
Every year the hands that bear them find a harder task to do,
And the eyes that only brightened When the blaze of battle lightened,
Like the tattered flags they follow are grown dim and faded, too.

Every year we see them passing,
Every year we watch them passing,
Scarcely pausing in our hurry—after pleasure, after gain.

But the battle flags above them seem to bend and bless and love them, parted heroes.

And through all the lilting music sounds an undertone of pain.

At the monument, Miss Ruth Aldrich recited, the band played a selection, while the address to the "Unknown Dead" was given by Belding F. Jackson. A wreath also was placed at the monument in their memory.

ADDRESS AT MONUMENT

Mr. Jackson said in part: Once again we turn from decorating the graves of the known to do homage to those unknown dead who sleep in unmarked places all over the world. Nothing of the material connects us to them—their appeal must be purely spiritual. For this reason perhaps they typify better than even the others, the glorious cause for which they died.

Why did they die? Not because they wished death in battle, for they were young and the young love life and hope to pass away peacefully in their old age in the arms of their family. Why did they die? They died for the principle of human liberty.

In closing Mr. Jackson said: "Much has annually been said of the debt which we who are now living and enjoying the blessings for which they fought, owe to our honored dead. It is an obligation which can never be met with hymns and wreaths, flags and flowers. Our unknown dead can never be paid unless we as American people see to it that the principle for which they died is recognized all over the earth.

"And the debt is yet far from paid. All over the Old World tyranny still runs rampant. France and Germany are still at each others' throats. In Russia alone more people have been killed or starved to death since the war than died in all the countries during the war. The war between Greece and Turkey has been the means of sending countless helpless women and children to their graves. The world is even today far from safe for democracy.

"I hope that some day someone can place a wreath at this monument and say, 'O, ye unknown dead, our debt to you is paid in full', but until that time shall come, this wreath is only the symbol of the annual renewal of our obligation to sacrificed youth, and a promise that they shall not have died in vain."

At the Honor Roll board readings were given by Charles Scott and Howard Davis, prayer was offered by Rev. D. L. Hilliard, and a wreath to the fallen heroes of the late war was placed by Raymond Blackmer.

The line then marched to the Congregational church, where services were rendered in the following order: National Anthem, B. H. S.; recitation, The Veteran's Tribute, Miss Cassie Sullivan; reading of W. R. C. orders, Mrs. Harriet Dickinson; song, God Ever Glorious, B. H. S.; Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Prin. Allen. Belding F. Jackson then introduced the speaker of the day.

DEAN LEWIS'S ADDRESS

Dean Lewis of M. A. C. prefaced his address with the story of his boyhood days spent in his native country Wales. He depicted his father's harness shop, where as a lad of eight years he received his early impressions of his nation's ideals. He told of the pictures of England's great men that hung in their home, of the emigration to America, the land designated by his father as "the country of Abraham Lincoln," of the setting up of the old pictures in the new home, but of their final replacement by those of Washington and Lincoln.

Most appealing was his story, most unassumingly told, of this transplanting to this new country, which he termed the land of hope and opportunity, for he said that even in England, one is liable to find himself in a strata of life, from which there is little chance of escaping. Dean Lewis pointed out the things that have made America great and the need of continued emphasis upon them.

He termed this country a land of Law and Order, and said we must obey the law whether we believe in it or not. Unless we come to that attitude, democracy is not safe in this country or any other.

Another factor he pointed out was Free Education, which we must fight to maintain. We find it hard to meet our school budgets, but to lessen our vigilance along educational lines would be suicide. We must expand and not contract, he said, for in this country, just before the war, there were 5½ million people in America who could not read or write, and only one out of four called to the colors could read the camp notices.

Most emphatic was Dean Lewis in the matter of maintaining Tolerance, a great American virtue. Every day intolerance, religious or otherwise, lifts its head in our newspapers but democracy, he said again, is not safe if intolerance exists. To say that one has not the right to worship God as he sees fit, is fundamentally un-American, and he decried the fact that election in our large cities, like Chicago, are turning on the religious affiliations of the candidates. We ought to consecrate ourselves anew, he said, to perpetuate what came with the Pilgrims, liberty to worship God. This does not separate us but ought to help bind us together in our common life.

The Land of the Square Deal was another standard America must live up to, Dean Lewis said. We have been disappointed by promises, the political atmosphere is one of distrust, and we don't expect our candidates to quite live up to their promises, but the day is coming, he said, when our leaders must consecrate themselves to honest word and honest deed. And here he pointed to Abraham Lincoln, as a shining example we must pattern after in this respect.

The speaker mentioned some of the promises we made to the boys as they entered the conflict—that the world would be made safe, that we would make this the last war, that it was a war to end war, that in the words of Pres. Harding, "This must not happen again."

He said that some held these promises as only excuses to win the war, but Mr. Lewis said that if they were enough to send the boys across, they were enough to win the peace.

We may disagree as to method, but not as to object, and he called for an honest study of how war can be abolished. Most earnestly did he say that the world cannot be made safe unless we come to some understanding with one another. We must talk over the causes of trouble before they mature into action.

Speaking of sovereignty he said that nations have stood upon that for thousands of years, making their own gait, and the consequence has been a constant stream of war. The other method, the balance of power—one set of nations against another set, meets with only one result, they clash sooner or later.

So he pled for the trying of a new and better way in world understanding, call that organization what one would.

As Dean Lewis began his address, he closed it, picturing a scene in old England. He had visited the last abode of the dignitaries of that great empire, kings, queens and statesmen, but when coming away he was confronted with the new statue of Abraham Lincoln. Here was truly the humble in the midst of the mighty. For Lincoln, he said, represented the spirit of America, tender, kindly, sympathetic and democratic.

So he said that the spirit of the best in America, participating in the affairs of the world, is what will make it safe for democracy.

Dean Lewis said that as soldiers of peace, there is required of us just as much courage, heroism and devotion as was called for by the boys as they went over the top, and that we can die as did they in the struggle, not yet ended, of keeping America and the world safe for democracy. To keep faith with those who died, we must in the words of Lincoln, complete the unfinished task.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson's TRAILING AFRICAN WILD ANIMALS

The kind of brush is an impressive feature in this film, a day's work.

"Best Wild Life Film"

Carl E. Akeley, big game hunter, and authority, attached to the staff of the American museum of Natural History, declares that Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson's photoplay, "Trailing African Wild Animals" is "by far the finest thing in wild-life pictures that has come out of Africa, or any other place for that matter."

It is this remarkable photoplay that is released by Metro at TOWN HALL, JUNE 6.

Queer Facts About Queer Beasts in "Trailing African Wild Animals."

The vicious rhinoceros is a vegetarian, and does not devour the animals which it kills. It is seldom found in groups of more than two, usually traveling alone.

One of the peculiarities of the white-tailed or colubus monkey is that in the morning or at other hours a croaking sound originating from one group is passed on to another, the sound being carried frequently very long distances.

An animal that is said never to drink is the gerenuk, which obtains its moisture from grass and other substances. The gerenuk resembles a giraffe in that both have necks that are far out of proportion to the rest of their bodies, and have a common, awkward gait.

The elephant has an unusually well developed sense of sight. It is estimated that the animal cannot see beyond a distance of fifty yards in an unobstructed land.

Annual Meeting

The 36th annual meeting of the trustees of Clapp Memorial library was held Wednesday evening in the home of the president, Mrs. Maria Longley. Letters had been received from the two absent trustees, Rev. P. W. Lyman of Fall River and William B. Hill of New York.

The following are the names of the officers:

President Mrs. M. D. S. Longley
Vice-pres. M. S. Barton
Secretary Wilbur F. Nichols
Treasurer Arthur F. Bardwell

Mrs. Doris Squires was re-elected librarian and Miss Marion Bartlett, assistant librarian. Miss Bartlett was chosen to serve with the president as book committee.

114 books have been added to the library during the year; a large percentage of these were presented by the Division of Public Libraries, Educational department, State House, Boston. Several books and magazines were given by patrons of the library. 11,355 books were circulated during the year, and there were 31 new registrations.

It was found necessary to make extensive repairs on the stone work and roof of the building. The expense for the work to date has been $142.00. The trustees voted to continue repairs, thereby putting the building in first class condition.

The library has served the public and schools, not only by its distribution of books and magazines, but also with several Saturday evening musical programs. Eleven children received certificates from the state for completing a prescribed reading course.

A number of out of town people have consulted the library in regard to genealogies.

Entertainment Coming

A double attraction entertainment will be held in Grange hall, Monday evening, June 18 at 8 o'clock, for the benefit of the B. H. S. Athletic association. "Twelve Old Maids" will be presented by Union Grange, while "J. Caesar" will be given by boys of the B. H. S. After two hours of "side splitting entertainment," dancing will follow.

While baseball finances are faring very well, the association is looking forward to basket ball, which is somewhat harder to maintain.

Senior Class Supper

The supper given by the Senior class of B. H. S., although not as largely attended as some, was first class in every respect. There was no entertainment, but those who cared to remain for dancing, had the privilege of so doing. Mrs. William Shaw, who has so generously helped out the school in the matter of music for many of its social occasions, played for the dancing.

The money realized from the evening's venture will go towards paying the expenses of the Senior class party to be given soon.

The Shower

A shower was given at Lake Metacomb on Monday evening to Miss Doris Phillips of Hadley in honor of her approaching marriage to Orrin Davis of this town. There was a large number present, including people from Holyoke and Mittenague. There were many gifts of aluminum, glassware, etc. A mock wedding, dancing and refreshments were some of the entertaining features of the evening.

Lightning Strikes

The first thunder storm this season, that really tried to do business occurred Monday night. Several hits were scored. A tree in the grade school yard was struck, the lightning played with the water pipes at Aspengren's store, while considerable mischief was done at the home of R. E. Chamberlain. There a bolt struck an elm tree and shied to the house where casings were damaged, a screen door shattered and a cupboard door opened. The actual damage done was not great.

HARDWICK GAME

Belchertown High took sweet revenge for the defeat that Hardwick gave them on the common the first game of the season, by coming out victorious in a thrilling 10-8 struggle on the Gilbertville diamond last Friday afternoon. The tilt was undecided until the last man was out in the ninth, when Hazen nipped L. White at the plate, cutting off an attempted steal. Two men had been retired in that inning before Landers weakened a bit and walked White and hit Breen. White stole third, when Hazen's heave went over Chapman's head. The encouraged runner thought to make the rest of the journey equally successfully, but Chapman's throw to Hazen was perfect, and he was out by inches, leaving the Belchers with their two run lead.

The game was nip and tuck for five innings, with both Landers and Gilley pitching well and receiving excellent support. With the score tied in the sixth, Dewey, Hazen and Sullivan filled the bases on errors by Dowd, Gilley, and Thresher, who fumbled easy hits. Breen fumbled Michel's grounder, and a run was in. Bardwell and Allen hit safely and three runs were scored. The side was then retired in order, but the game was apparently on ice. Hits and errors added two more in the seventh, and Belchertown had a six run lead.

But Hardwick is a fighting bunch, and three successive hits filled the bases in the seventh with no out. Allen dropped a fly and one run scored. Dewey caught a fly, but Landers walked the next and forced a run. Then Chapman nabbed a difficult foul play, and the next was forced at the plate. With two out in the eighth, three hits brought two runs, but Hazen, who was a tower of strength at the plate, put Liberty out for the third. The team played together the best this season, and showed great improvement over the loose Amherst contest. Landers was in form and pitched his first full game, and his third win of the year.

Burnett, had been sent to the show-ers after four runs in the fifth, that they were able to wrest a 7-5 win from the local team.

The game was a complete reversal from the loosely fielded contest here the week before, when Amherst won 18-12. Each team made but two errors, though Michel's muff in center let in one of the deciding runs. Amherst had been able to steal bases almost at will in the first contest, but were cut short at this practise Monday, four men being nipped at third alone, where Chapman tagged 'em out remorselessly. Dewey pitched a fine game, giving no bases on balls, hitting none and striking out five. His work, coupled with sure throwing to the bases by catcher Hazen and the infield, featured the game. Lander's error at short, followed by two base smashes by Dowd and Flebut, and a single by Strong, gave the College Towners a three-run lead in the third. In the fifth, Flaherty made first when Burnett hot-potatoed a grounder, but Sullivan fled to Flebut. Michel walked and Bardwell's single filled the bases. Allen's one-bagger scored one run, then Chapman struck out. Landers doubled and Dewey singled, and the locals had a one-run lead, when MacKimmie stopped Hazen's roller and the rally. In the sixth, two hits and ragged outfielding cost two runs.

In the seventh, Kelley singled, stole second, and scored on Strong's double. Strong was out on an attempt to pilfer third. In the next frame Amherst got four hits, but only one run, as Mackimmie was retired at the plate on Bardwell's throw and Hazen caught Miller at third. Such support was most encouraging. Allen tallied in the ninth when Dowd juggled the ball, and Lander's single scored him. Several loyal fans accompanied the team, and cheered well.

and did not have to exert himself at all. He walked but one man, and the fact that he walked several in his close games, shows that he was putting them all over and giving chances to hit.

Watling and Gordon did good work for the losers, the latter proving much better at short than behind the bat, where he missed many. This game brought the totals of runs made by Belchertown to 114 to 72 for their opponents, and 5 wins in 8 starts. A return game will be played in Williamsburg this afternoon. Dewey will probably pitch.

WILLIAMSBURG GAME

It would seem to followers of the sporting sheets that high school scoring records must have fallen in the Belchertown-Williamsburg game here Tuesday afternoon, when the latter was swamped 36-6, and the locals tallied an even score of times in one inning, the second. Twenty-three men faced pitcher Schuler in that frame, and all but the three that were retired scored. In four innings of baseball this spring, the Belchertown team has scored 46 runs, 10 against Petersham in the seventh inning, 9 against Amherst in the eighth, 20 against Williamsburg in the second, and seven against the same outfit in the seventh. This average will be hard to beat in high school annals, unless some of the games keep out of the papers. Tuesday the team batted 28 hits in 54 times at bat, for an average of well over .500 for the whole team. All of which seems to prove that the hill-top boys can swing a wicked bat when they get started and have their eyes on the ball.

Turkey Hill Items

Miss Eleanor Elliott and Miss Harriett Higgins, teachers of art, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gay.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Archambault have purchased a new Ford touring car, and A. J. Sears has a new Overland for his mail route, and there are several other cars that have been purchased on Turkey Hill this spring, so that nearly every family has a car; some have several to make up for those who have none.

Grange Notes

A very entertaining program was given at Leverett last week, when "Twelve Old Maids" of Union grange gave their experiences in song, recitation and otherwise. About 40 members attended. Those unable to go missed a rare good time. Granby and Enfield Neighbors' nights are coming soon.

Union grange held a regular meeting Tuesday night. There was a small attendance, due to the extreme heat. Mrs. Marshall, a bird enthusiast, visited the meeting.

Town Items

Thomas Landers of South Belchertown is building a six-car, fire-proof garage for storage and rent.

Salvation Army Solicits

Herbert F. Neville of Boston and an assistant are soliciting funds in town for the Salvation Army. They began work yesterday and report a very friendly response on the part of the townspeople. The campaign continues through today and possibly tomorrow.

Once each year the Army solicits funds from its friends, who have a high regard for the work it does.

H. F. Peck has been named local treasurer and all money given will be forwarded by him to quarters designated.

Children's Day Concert

It was real Children's Day weather on Sunday, allowing nearly all of the participants in the concert of the Federated church Sunday School to be present. The parts were well taken and the music was of a high order.

At the close of the exercises, about thirty children of the primary department were given diplomas in token of the completion of their work in that department. Twenty-two bibles were also given by the church to those of the graduates who had been faithful in attendance since the announcement of the gifts was made a few months ago.

Kept "Open House"

The Historical Association kept "open house" at the Stone House Thursday in order to afford the visiting granges an opportunity to inspect the building and its contents.

More than seventy availed themselves of this opportunity. All were enthusiastic in their expressions of appreciation of both the house and the many interesting and beautiful exhibits therein.

Possibly some of our own people do not realize how much they are missing if they fail to visit the Stone House.

The regular hours are from 3 to 5 Wednesday afternoons. Admission for our own citizens is 15 cents.

State Bird Day

"The most successful bird day," was the consensus of opinion regarding this fourteenth annual event, held here last week Thursday. That 37 people went on the bird walk at 8 o'clock in the morning in these days of advanced time, that some of the schools closed to allow the scholars to attend the bird contest and moving pictures in the town hall, that the girl scouts were out in a body for the morning's proceedings, and that 240 people sat down to the dinner provided by Union grange, would indicate that there must be some truth to the statement.

The 37 people found 36 varieties of birds on their walk, Messrs Ketchen and Sullivan of B. H. S. scored 44½ points out of a possible 45 in the contest to name birds from pictures, while all the 240 proclaimed the dinner a success.

The meeting, being held cooperatively by the State, Pomona and local granges, many people of note were present, including Mrs. E. O. Marshall, chairman of the State grange bird committee, Joseph Dummer of Rowley, who presided, E. H. Gilbert, Master of State grange, Bertram Mowly, state lecturer, Wilfred Forward of Granby, Master of Pomona grange, who presided over the meeting of that body at 11 and Edward H. Forbush, state ornithologist, who gave the address of the afternoon.

Music was a feature of the day's program, Mrs. Bert Corliss and the B. H. S. assisting in this respect.

Mr. Forbush's illustrated talk was on Useful Birds, and if anyone had any idea that humanity owed little or nothing to the birds, he must have changed his opinions as Mr. Forbush, in story and picture, showed how the vast army of happy workers labors unceasingly in disposing of pests that some farmers think they are fighting alone.

Mr. Forbush compared some of these destroyers' appetites with that of the human being, with the result that the latter faded into nothing in comparison. But when one realizes that thousands and millions of insects go to make a good meal, one

Belchertown Marine Guard

Among the group of U. S. marines chosen to act as a special guard during the Shriners' convention recently concluded, was Corporal Charles Arthur Bowler, son of Michael Bowler of this town, who was assigned to traffic duty. Only picked marines were chosen for this duty, each man being assigned to some special task for which he was best fitted.

The U. S. marines guarded the treasury and library buildings, acted as special guards at the various functions, and helped to direct traffic on the congested streets. They were highly complimented for their successful handling of a duty not usually assigned to soldiers of the sea.

Corporal Bowler was born in Belchertown and made his home here before he joined the U. S. marines at New York City about two years ago. He had served at several marine corps posts on the east coast before he was assigned to duty in Washington.

Dies in Springfield

Eugene E. White died in Springfield hospital June 9 at the age of 67 years. His sudden death was a shock to his friends. He was the last of the family of Jefferson and Abigail (Eastman) White and was born in Belchertown in the part known as Turkey Hill.

He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Ella Ward of this town. His second wife was Mrs. Mary Neudahl of Springfield. Mr. White spent his early life on the old home place. Later he spent some time in the west, returning to Springfield to make his home.

He leaves a large number of nieces and nephews. Funeral services were held in the chapel Monday, with burial in Tylerville cemetery.

does not feel badly about it.

Mr. Forbush had the faculty of disclosing worth-while-ness in all the birds. Even the crow, that we are all anxious to get a shot at, was proven to have some redeeming qualities. The speaker said that in one locality a bounty was put on these birds with the result that they were practically exterminated. But while the people had gotten rid of the crows, they found that they had something worse on their hands, and so were glad to have their former enemies back.

All the contacts of the day emphasized the fact that it is a friendly world in which we live and that the more we comprehend it, the more interesting it becomes.

The annual field day will be held at Aldrich Lake some time in August, when it is expected that the master of the Massachusetts state grange will be present.

Wins Again

Belchertown High boosted their percentage to .666 at Williamsburg Wednesday afternoon, winning 6-5 in the best struggle of the year. The up-country team was strengthened by a pitcher with a long name and a good arm, and it took the best efforts of Dewey and his mates to gain a victory.

Most of the scoring was in the first inning. Flaherty flied to left field and made first on the muffed ball.
Then Stempkewski hit Bardwell and walked Landers. Three wild pitches gave two runs while three men were striking out. But Williamsburg came right back. Errors by Allen and Bardwell, followed by three bingles and a balk, netted 5 runs.

Williamsburg was held scoreless, Dewey twirling well and getting sterling support. Stempkewski also tightened, and after giving a run in the second on two passes and a hit, looked fair to land a win, as the local boys could not seem to connect.

In the sixth, Dewey made a twobagger, stole third, and scored on Hazen's single. In the seventh, Landers singled, stole second, and advanced to third on Allen's bunt.
Chapman fanned, but Dewey's sacrifice grounder tallied the deciding point.

Each pitcher allowed but six hits.
Stempkewski featured for Williamsburg, fanning 14 and making 7 assists. Chapman and Hazen turned in beautiful catches for the local team.

A VICTORY FOR AMERICAN MOTORISTS

The Crude Rubber Monopoly weakened when it came into contact with aroused public sentiment. The press of the country today reflects the determination of the American motorists that tire prices shall stay at a reasonable level—and that America must produce its own rubber.

Firestone

CUT TIRE PRICES
10 PER CENT
EFFECTIVE JUNE 11

We announce a 10 per cent reduction in tires and tubes effective June 11. The lowered cost of crude rubber and the special Firestone manufacturing and distribution advantages make this possible.

Firestone factories are organized on a basis of large volume and effective production. Costs are down but quality is at its peak. Stockholder workmen are daily building many thousand of Gum-Dipped Cords—the best Firestone ever produced and, we believe, the leader on the market today.

Firestone Cords took the first four places and eight of the ten money positions in the Indianapolis Sweepstakes, May 30, without a single tire failure.

Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords have set new standards in mileage, traction, comfort and safety. Car owners have expressed their approval of the extra value in Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords by increasing their purchases
194 per cent in the past six months.

We have replaced many expensive branches with warehouses. We have today 100 distributing points which are delivering Firestone tires to the consumer at the lowest cost in our history.

Follow the tide of economical tire buying

Ford Visits Belchertown

It has been whispered around town for some time that possibly some day Henry Ford, America's foremost automobile manufacturer and world citizen, would visit Belchertown, but like many another possibility, probably most people simply smiled at the suggestion.

It nevertheless came true Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Plantiff of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Flint of Providence, R. I. quietly rolled into town by auto, stopped to view points of interest, greeted a few of the townspeople and left for Concord as unostentatiously as they had come.

Probably no great number knew Mr. Ford was here, and likely as not some of these might not have known if they had not been told. Mr. Ford has risen to a place of distinction, but he who made a car for the people, still likes to meet the people he made the car for.

That was the refreshing part of his visit, which probably came about more or less by reason of the fact that Gaston Plantiff, Ford's eastern supervisor and intimate friend, desired to show him his old home town and introduce him to the local Ford agent, D. D. Hazen, with whom he was associated in another sphere of action in the old brick hall days.

Mr. Hazen played the part of host to the visitors, taking them to the Stone House, where the custodian,

Dedication Sunday

Sunday is a day long looked forward to by the Catholics, as their new house of worship, on which they have spent a great deal of time and money, will be dedicated. Rt. Rev. Thomas O'Leary of the Springfield diocese will have charge of the ceremonies which begin at 10 a. m. There will be a confirmation class in the afternoon.

Entertainment Tonight

The postponed High School Athletic Association entertainment will be given in Grange hall this evening at eight o'clock. A store of amusement is waiting for those who attend, as vocal selections and dancing have been added to two very excellent one-act comedies.

The ladies of Union grange will present their hour farce "Twelve Old Maids," which has been already played successfully out of town, and contains some of the best talent that the Belchertown fair sex can summon. The cast is as follows:

- Mrs. Beamer, who is quite a schemer
- Gertrude Riley
- Lizy Pearl, the hired girl
- Edna Draper
- Madam Zikeffer, the fortune teller
- Mrs. Guy C. Allen
- Lizzie Lidy, awfully tidy
- Emma Dodge
- Jemima Rout, a little stout
- Edith Peeso
- Matilda Finn, rather thin
- Ruby Knight
- Lovetta McCann, who wants a man
- Mrs. Geo. Green
- Mary Ann Fites, who wants her rights
- Mrs. Aubrey Lapolice
- Kate O'Foss, who likes to boss
- Mrs. A. D. Moore
- Mandy Mentor, from Pumpkin Center
- Mrs. Geo. Davis
- Cerjinty Fling, who likes to sing
- Marjorie Richardson
- Lucindy Toot, who elocutes
- Mrs. Henry Witt
- Eliza Neff, a little deaf
- Mrs. Alvin Cutting
- Ethel McWade, a poetic maid
- Mrs. Clifton Witt
- Zelory Zook, who likes to cook
- Mrs. Wm. Kimball

Supper and Lawn Party

The United Young Peoples' societies will give a strawberry supper on the chapel lawn on Friday evening, June 29. The event will be mainly in charge of those who have been away from town at school, with Eleanor Bardwell acting as chairman. The menu will include strawberry, shortcake, salads, rolls, and coffee. There will be several booths, at which ice cream and cake, punch, candy and other lawn-fete sweets will be on sale.

An entertainment will take place after the supper. This is in charge of Miss Stella Gildemeister. Although the program has not been fully decided upon, a short play and music are planned.

These festivals have always been successful in the past years, and give the town people a chance to meet those who are away for much of the year, studying at the various colleges and schools throughout the state.

Loses Final Game

The Belchertown High school baseballers closed their season in South Hadley Falls last Wednesday afternoon, and celebrated by playing by far the poorest brand of defensive ball that they have showed all season. Although making 19 hits to 20 by their opponents, they aggregated 11 errors, made several more in judgment that cannot be put in the error column, and gave both Dewey and Landers the kind of support that is most discouraging to an over heated twirler. The score was 25-13, in 8 innings. The field is on the banks of the Connecticut, and was sweltering hot, a fact which seemed to take the life out of the local lads from the start.

A detailed story of the game would be only a tale of hard smashes and terrible misplays. There were several features. O'Connor drove a ball for a field record in the sixth inning, the sphere going fifty or sixty feet beyond deep left field. After the batter had ambled around the bases and was getting cooled off, the ball was returned to second base, and O'Connor was out for having failed to touch that sack. The hit had to be recorded as a single. Sullivan played a pretty game on the first sack. The entire infield seemed blinded by the sun and "Sully" was obliged to jump high for more than half the throws. H. Hazen was the Belchertown star. He allowed no balls to get by him, though both

"J. Caesar", a one-act burlesque on the great masterpiece, is a bit of harmless hilarity that even Shakespeare himself would laugh at and appreciate were he here to see it. It was written last year by a senior in Brookline High school and was so good that Baker immediately published it and is advertising it as one of his best. The Aggie Freshmen gave it this spring as part of the Mass. Aggie Revue, and it was the best work of that evening. The cast is as follows:

- Julius Caesar Alvin Michel
- Marcus Antonius Charles Scott
- Brutus Andrew Ketchen
- Cassius Arthur Rockwood
- Trebonius Watson Bardwell
- Casca Franklin Johnson

First Stage Hand Guy Allen
Second Stage Hand Harold Hazen
There will be musical selections before the first play and between the acts. After the drama, dancing will follow until midnight.

pitchers were at times wild, and made a try for a foul in the sixth that would have done credit to any leaguer. Only a smash into the back stop prevented the catch. Belchertown made six hits for six runs in their last time at bat, and so made the score somewhat more presentable. In spite of this defeat, the team has the best record in years, having won 6 games in ten starts. Individual records will be printed next week.

Grange Notes

About forty from Union Grange attended the meeting of Granby Grange and furnished the literary program which consisted of solos by Mr. Carl F. Aspengren and an original paper, "A Grange Picnic," by R. M. Putnam, and the play, "Twelve Old Maids," which was just as funny the last time as it was when given in Leverett and Enfield, and was much enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed.

The next meeting will be held in July, and as the original committee has left town, the program will have charge of the lecturer, R. M. Putnam, and will be announced later.

Supper and Lawn Party

Attention is again called to the lawn party which will be held tonight rain or shine. If stormy, the festivities will be in the chapel. There will be two plays. One ballad is "Lord Ullen's Daughter," and the other, "King Alfred and the Cakes." There will be singing by the B. H. S., and other vocal and instrumental selections.

Death of Anna M. Abbey

Miss Anna M. Abbey, 75, died Wednesday at her home on Federal St., where she has been cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Leon B. Ayres. Miss Abbey had been in good health, but suffered a broken hip about a week ago.

She was the daughter of Daniel and Nancy Potter Abbey, and had lived in town practically all her life, 67 years having been spent in the home in which she died. She was a sister of the late Dr. Ezekiel Abbey. No relatives survive her.

The funeral will be held this afternoon in the chapel at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Death of Orcutt Clough

Orcutt Clough, 74, who for the last 18 months has made his home with Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Austin, died last Thursday, after an illness extending over most of his stay here. Last July he suffered a shock, since which time he has been more or less helpless.

Mr. Clough was born in town and was the son of Warren and Mabel Canterbury Clough. At an early age the family moved to Enfield. In recent years Mr. Clough had lived in Pelham, but spent the winters in Florida. His wife died about twelve years ago. Aside from a nephew and niece, he leaves no relatives. During the years of Mr. Clough's activity, he was in the wood business and had quite a patronage in Amherst.

The funeral was held at the chapel Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. D. L. Hilliard officiating. The bearers were Harry Austin and Raymond Austin of Springfield, Charles Austin of this town, and David Renwick of Amherst. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Dedicates New Church

St. Francis's church was dedicated Sunday morning with elaborate ceremonies. It was, indeed, a great day for the Catholics. Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Leary of Springfield summarized the occasion in his well-chosen words at the close of the service when he complimented the people for their sacrifice, Father McGrath for his untiring efforts, and the town of Belchertown for the establishment of another bulwark against evil and another means of propagating peace and happiness.

The day was significant also because two of those who officiated, Rev. John Griffin of the Rosary church of Holyoke, and Rev. John Griffin of All Saints' church of Ware were Belchertown boys. The former celebrated the mass, assisted by the latter and Rev. W. E. Foley of Holyoke, while Fr. Griffin of Holyoke preached the sermon.

Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Leary of Springfield occupied the place of honor in the dedication ceremonies and sat upon the throne during the services. Music was furnished by the choir of St. Bartholomew's church of Bondsville.

Fr. Griffin preached a sermon most appropriate to the occasion and of great eloquence. He prefaced his discourse with words of commendation to the people of the parish, who by the exercise of faith and sacrifice had made possible another house of worship in this historic village. He congratulated the pastor who had guided and directed their efforts and crowned the day with pomp and splendor.

He asked them, however, to put aside this veil of symbolism, to get the inner life and meaning of the ceremony, and called attention to the fact that the social, civil and moral life in every community in which the church takes root, is affected. A church, he said, is the acknowledgment of dependence on a higher power. Ever since God walked with Adam he has spoken with authority. He has kept alive the knowledge of himself by a long line of prophets, flashes, as it were, through the passing years.

He then spoke of the coming of the Son of Justice who dispelled the darkness of the past and came to build up a kingdom of which John was the cornerstone. Christ came to save the race but He saves it by saving the individual. The individual soul is the pearl of great price. It was this that prompted the shepherd to leave the ninety and nine and seek the one that was lost.

B. H. S. Graduation

Another graduation has passed and eleven more scholars have received diplomas certifying that they have completed their study at B. H. S.

The church, wherein graduation ceremonies have taken place for many a year, but now possibly for the last time, found itself arrayed in blue and gold Wednesday evening, the colors of the graduating class, while "Onward", the motto, was emblazoned in similar colors.

The school marched in to the processional by Miss Mary Allen, after which prayer was offered by Rev. D. L. Hilliard. Then after a selection by the school, came the address of welcome by M. Watson Bardwell, who held first honors in the outgoing class. This was the only oration by a member of the class, as a speaker was secured for the evening in the person of Prof. Geo. S. Miller of Tufts college. He was introduced by Everett C. Geer and gave a timely address.

He spoke on Going Forward, and enumerated certain things that enter into true success.

He named three essentials, the first of which was Fitness of Body. He cited the unfitness of so many youth at the time of the war, and attributed it to the fact that in our athletic contests we had trained a few specialists, while the great mass had sat on the bleachers and applauded.

He said that physical training was on an equality with any educational department and that any one aiming for success in life would be hopelessly handicapped without it. Furthermore one not only owed this development to himself, but also to the community. He mentioned Roosevelt, a weakling in youth, as one whose name finally became a synonym for strength.

Training of the Mind was his second essential. He showed how this is necessary, even in athletic contests, and went on to say that the successful man not only knows a great deal about one subject, but something about many. This idea of diversity he also found exemplified in Roosevelt, who was author, historian, explorer and statesman. As a means of training the mind he also mentioned the necessity of associating with men and women of ideas.

Loyalty was his third essential, something needed in school, by the alumni, and in daily living, where success or failure hinges upon it. Some people blame fate or environment for their lack of success, while lack of loyalty is the real reason.

But no life is complete, he said.

Baccalaureate Sermon

Rev. D. L. Hilliard gave the baccalaureate address at the Sunday morning service of the Federated church, taking as his theme, "The reconstruction of moral ideals" from the text, "Old things are passed away. Behold all things are become new."

He showed how moral ideals affect life and conduct. He took as an illustration, Saul, who, being exceedingly jealous, persecuted oft in every synagogue and verily thought he did God service. With the change in his moral ideals, came the great change in his life. The Inquisition and the Reformation were also referred to as examples of what men would do for the sake of the things which seemed important to them.

Mr. Hilliard developed his theme along three phases of life, the church business and education. The old idea of the church as a way to gain heaven is giving way to the idea of building the right sort of life here and now, socially as well as individually, in fact of building the kingdom of God on earth. In business, too, we need to reconstruct on moral ideals, that the materialistic shall not take precedence over the spiritual. As to the third point, education, he said, "What does education mean? Do you accept it as placing you higher than your fellow men, giving you an advantage over others, or do you regard it as a preparation for service for others?"

Mr. Hilliard closed with a few words addressed directly to the graduating class, a majority of whom were present and occupied seats in front.

Christ, he said, spoke to the multitude, but he dealt directly with the individual. He spoke of forgiveness but he individualized it when He forgave the Magdalene; He spoke of pity, but He individualized it when He sympathized with the widow of Nain. His miracles were given as rewards to individual personal co-operation. He came to redeem all, but as an aggregation of individuals who should co-operate.

But He cannot save the individual against his will. He leaves us the great prerogative of will.

He came to redeem the race, but to redeem them as individuals through His own means and methods and the co-operation of the individual. At the last day He shall pass upon the individual and be the arbiter between right and wrong. One He shall send to happiness and the other to perdition. The tree that bringeth not forth good fruit shall be hewn down.

Speaking of Christ's commission to the disciples, Fr. Griffin said that no ambassador to any great country ever went forth with any clearer mission. All power was given them, they were to go out and teach in His name, to teach what He had commanded them. He would send upon them the Holy Spirit, and He would be with them to the consummation of the world.

He then spoke of the coming of the Holy Ghost upon the disciples on the day of Pentecost, when was breathed into that body a soul.

The church was born on that day. Peter preached to the Jews and Paul to the Gentiles. For awhile the Roman empire faltered, but it finally accented the truth.

For fifteen centuries this church born at Pentecost, remained the only undisputed, authoritative teacher. Then prophets arose that denied God's dealings with men.

In the last 200 years bodies and sects claiming the name of Christian have grown so numerous that even the census taker can't keep track of them.

Speaking of the splits in denominations in recent days, he said that they were not over forms and rituals but over the great fact of the divinity of Christ, and he said that only one man of prominence, and he a layman, was trying to uphold the faith.

He deplored the spectacle of college presidents and certain professors taking the liberty of setting up their own opinions in the face of only one great authoritative message.

He deplored the idea of tearing the supernatural out of human hearts and leaving one walking in the wilderness with false philosophies of life and death, of time and eternity.

He referred to the Catholic church that had, through the years, proclaimed the authoritative message.

He said that the message of the pulpit is not sufficient: the buildings, the ritual, the music, the pictures, the candles, etc. were all to actualize and individualize religion.

This was his main message. The church touches the community conscience, but that is actually an aggregation of consciences. He spoke of the family as the unit of society, and stressed the sanctity of the home.

In closing he again complimented the congregation for showing their love for Jesus of Nazareth, for the fine spirit they had manifested in establishing another source of divine life and another place where Christ might lay His head.

He asked them to ever keep in remembrance the early settlers of the town who did not have the church privileges now available and asked them, in turn, to transmit their faith, untarnished, to their children.

As before stated, Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Leary of Springfield spoke words of congratulation following the sermon. He also welcomed them to the Springfield diocese, over which he has charge. He called upon his people to love the church, to find their delight in it, to be often found therein, and to make further sacrifices for it.

The church has been put in fine repair and the interior attractively furnished. The altar was profusely decked with flowers for the occasion, which is one long to be remembered, both by the constituents of the church and by those of other faiths who had the pleasure of being present at these memorable ceremonies.

Bishop O'Leary confirmed a class of 36 young people at a service held in the afternoon, at which many were present.

American Legion Notes

"Flashes of Action", the official moving picture of the World War, will be exhibited in town on July 4th under the auspices of the American Legion.

The scenes in "Flashes of Action" were taken under fire by photographers of the United States Signal Corps, who were with the troops from the training camps to the trenches. The film is five reels in length and includes the best of the millions of feet of film ground out by the army camera men during the war. Nearly every division is shown. This picture has attracted capacity crowds in all the large cities.

Following a record breaking attendance in New York, the owner of a New York syndicate of theaters said, "The popularity of this film convinces me that we are now far enough away from the World War to sit down and coolly see what modern warfare is."

Don't miss "Flashes of Action." You may see yourself, perhaps your son, your brother, or your neighbor's son go over the

M., all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage deed, and described therein substantially as follows: The land in Belchertown, County of Hampshire and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, with the buildings and improvements thereon, bounded and described as follows:

Bounded on the east by the highway known as So. Main St.; on the south by land now or formerly of Tertius and Samuel D. Coles; on the west by land of Doctor George F. Thompson; and on the north by land formerly of Romelia L. Clapp, being the whole of the premises of which the half part was conveyed to Dwight P. Clapp, by Edward L. Clapp, by deed recorded in said Hampshire County Registry of Deeds, in Book No. 524, page No. 376, on July 24, 1899.

Also all that other parcel of land situated in said Belchertown bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a stone monument at the northwest corner of land of Dwight P. Clapp, and at the southwest corner of the premises described, and running thence north 14° W. 20 links, to a stone monument; thence N. 76° E. 1 rod and 21 links, to the west side of the barn formerly of Everett Clapp, thence southerly on the side of said barn 3 feet, to the south end of said barn; thence N. 76° E. 16 rods and 3 links to the highway leading to Palmer; thence southerly on said highway 22 links, more or less, to land of said Dwight P. Clapp; thence southerly 76° W. 18 rods to the first mentioned point; containing 15 rods, more or less, together with the shed building standing thereon. Being the same premises conveyed to Dwight P. Clapp by Everett Clapp by deed recorded in said Registry, book No. 550, page No. 339, on September 28, 1901.

Also all that other parcel of land in said Belchertown bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the northwest corner of the described premises and at the southwest corner of the house lot formerly of Dwight P. Clapp (said lot having been formerly a part of the estate of James H. Clapp) and running thence the boundary line goes north 73° and one-half ° east 7 rods and 19 links to the northwest corner of land now or formerly of the heirs of Tertius Coles, thence S. 15° E. 1 rod, to a stake; thence S. 73 1-2° west 7 rods and 19 links to George F. Thompson's east line; thence N. 15° W. 1 rod to the place of beginning. Containing 7 3-4 square rods more or less. Being the same premises conveyed to Dwight P. Clapp by Addison H. Bartlett, Trustee. Recorded in said Hampshire County Registry of Deeds in Book No. 611, page No. 334, on November 23, 1906.

Being the same property conveyed by Frank E. Fuller to Frederick G. Button November 28, 1919, and recorded in the Hampshire County Registry of Deeds December 17, 1919.

Said premises to be sold subject to a mortgage for $6,000.00, given to Frank B. Mason, of Springfield, Mass., also subject to any and all unpaid taxes or municipal assessments, and $200.00 in cash will be required of the purchaser as earnest money at time and place of sale. Other terms will be announced at said sale.

that is satisfied with selfish success. We have obligations to society and must accept responsibilities. We must do our duty as a soldier with enthusiastic loyalty. We must get into dirty politics or they will always be dirty.

We must uphold the law when it is designed to protect others as well as ourselves, and whether we like it or not. To change it is our privilege but to disobey it, never.

He warned against becoming a knocker in the world, where only constructive criticism is needed. Not even a pupil, he said, can do well under the strain of constant criticism.

Prof. Miller deemed it wise to go slow in changing our form of government, in view of Russia's experiences, and thought that the supreme court should be upheld, maintaining that a one-man decision there was more apt to be unbiased than a one-man decision in Congress.

In closing he told the graduates that they had been laying foundations and were now going out to build the superstructure. He said that years hence they would more fully realize the importance of these days. He concluded with a recital of good parting advice, Play the Game.

Principal Allen then spoke a word about the alumni fund being raised to furnish a domestic science room in the new building, and then presented the graduates to the school committee for their diplomas.

Everett Geer, who made the presentation, expressed regret that the exercises could not be held in the new hall as planned, but said that the class would go out no less auspiciously because of this. His parting advice was to keep out of ruts, to mingle with others, to have an open, inquiring mind, to keep up with the times, to have a wide reading, and to forge ahead.

Several selections were rendered by the school during the program and were ably directed by Mrs. Gildemeister, supervisor of music.

At the close of the exercises the audience repaired to the chapel lawn where the class of '24 tendered a reception to the graduating class, who shook hands with their well-wishers as the wind played with the red and white streamers that decked the bower of the receiving line. Dancing at Grange hall completed the graduation festivities.

"J. Caesar" and "Twelve Old Maids" drew a capacity audience at the Grange hall last Friday evening. Both plays "took". The first was quite a distortion from the original masterpiece but the flavor of the old days was preserved. Plots and counter plots matured with rapidity and the cast nearly all succumbed.

As for the "Twelve Old Maids" Belchertown is getting to be quite famous because of them. This was their third appearance and they seemed just as anxious to be "took" as ever. They made no bones about naming off local celebrities that they had their eyes on, which, of course, amused the audience. Their methods of attacking the problem of future happiness were unique, but they

Closing Exercises

The auditorium of the grade school building was well filled last week Thursday evening for the closing exercises of the Center Grammar school. The eighth grade occupied the platform, other members of the school being seated near them.

A program of music, declamations and essays had been well prepared and all was interestingly presented. "The Future Mail Box" and the class will provoked much merriment.

The class gift to the school was a picture of Niagara Falls, to replace one awarded to the Grammar school a few years ago for the highest percentage in attendance and punctuality for a year, but which had been lost when the old school building burned. Edward Gildemeister, '24, accepted the class gift.

Following the parts taken by the members of the school, Miss Shattuck called upon Theodore Hazen of Harvard college, who gave the young graduates practical advice as to their work and duties in the High school.

He introduced the motto of the class, "Keep at it," and illustrated it with incidents from the life of Edison. He spoke of his zest for work, stealing time even from his sleeping hours. He also related the story of the burning of Mr. Edison's factory when he was seventy years old and of his building it up again at once. He characterized him as a stepping-stone from the idealist to the practical man of affairs.

Mr. Hazen recommended concentration in work, also studying with the ultimate aim of helping others, not merely helping one's self, and as a goal gave the motto, "Work for work's sake," adding that then everything else would come. He took Sir Isaac Newton as an example, citing an incident which turned him from an indifferent student to one determined to get ahead.

Among the qualities recommended as worth while cultivating in life was that of courtesy. "Be courteous and kind. Look to your manners. Tip your hat when you meet your mother."

In closing Mr. Hazen said: "Practice concentration, work hard, be courteous and kind; remember that you are masters of circumstance and environment, and if you stick to it as practically every one did who ever achieved anything, success will be yours."

Following the address came the presentation of certificates of award by Miss Shattuck. For being per-

Game Ends with Accident

The Granby-Belchertown Fourth of July game of baseball ended badly in the eighth inning, when Z. Thibadeau, third baseman for the local team, broke his leg as he was tagging out a runner coming from second. The playing was clean and it was an accident pure and simple.

Drs. McPherson and Watkins of the State School, where Thibadeau was employed, were called, but it was decided to take the young man to the House of Providence hospital in Holyoke.

Thibadeau's home is in Wilder, Vt. He was a carpenter on the State School job and was boarding at the Park View hotel.

Much sympathy is expressed for the young man, who is quite popular in town.

GAME CALLED

After the accident there was no desire to play further, and so, although the score stood 7-6 in favor of Belchertown, and their half coming to them, it was declared a tie, so that the game will be played over. The contest Wednesday was an interesting one, there being several double plays and a number of ticklish situations.

The game abounded in close decisions as regarded fouls and fair balls, and as to whether the ball hit the trees or not, thus entitling the runners to only one base. These decisions came at times when runs depended upon them. Holland was called out at the plate on another close decision.

Grayson pitched a good game for Belchertown. He knew what it was to have the bases full and only one out, but he kept his nerve and nothing serious happened.

In the morning, Belchertown played Granby in the latter town, the former winning 7-4 in a ten inning game. E. Thibadeau pitched for Belchertown and Fairchild for Granby.

Supper and Entertainment

Threatening skies in the afternoon of last Friday decreed that the lawn party would not be held on the lawn but in the chapel. This did not detract from the quality of the supper, however, although the number of those attending was probably diminished.

Ice cream and punch were on sale, and with a little added punch on the part of the committee in charge, the patrons were induced to cool off often.

The entertainment consisted of selections by the pupils of the High school, duets by Alvin Mitchel and Watson Bardwell, and a play, "King Alfred and the Cakes," presented by the Misses Stella and Ruth Gildemeister and Newell Booth and Earl Witt.

The entertainment closed with two interesting songs in Spanish, by Miss Stella Gildemeister, sung to her own accompaniment.

Loses to Enfield

The American Legion ball team, organized by the athletic committee of that organization, lost to Enfield last Saturday afternoon in an interesting game. Belchertown led off for four innings, but the visitors finally found the ball and made everything count when things went their way. They turned in three runs in both the 5th and 6th innings, which seemed to settle the game.

Grayson was put on the mound in the 7th, which sort of stemmed the tide, but the locals failed to recover. They had touches of hard luck all through the game. Early in the innings, Grayson made a smashing hit to right, and made a complete circuit because of it; only to have to go back to first, when it was discovered that two or three maple leaves were injured.

Grayson figured prominently in the game. In the second, he made a three-base hit, bringing in Lynch. He also did the spectacular stunt of stealing home, and in the sixth, hopped around to the plate on a succession of passed balls.

In the seventh, Grayson came near cleaning out the opposing pitcher by throwing him a quickly returned surprise ball, which struck Taylor on the head.

For errors, Lynch bid for honors, by missing a fly aimed right for his mit, which gave the visitors a run. Blackmer, who played second, made a fine catch in the eighth.

fect in attendance and punctuality since her entrance last October, Madeline Sears. For good class work, Howard Snow. For general improvement in the second and third terms, Leodore Couture.

Miss Shattuck also presented the following with prizes which had been promised to the boy and the girl in each grade obtaining the highest per cent. in spelling:

Grade VIII
Madeline Sears, highest per cent. since her late entrance in the fall.
Lillian Eskett, highest per cent. for the whole year.
Elwyn Wood, highest per cent. of the boys.

Grade VII
Mandy Eskett
Henry Roy

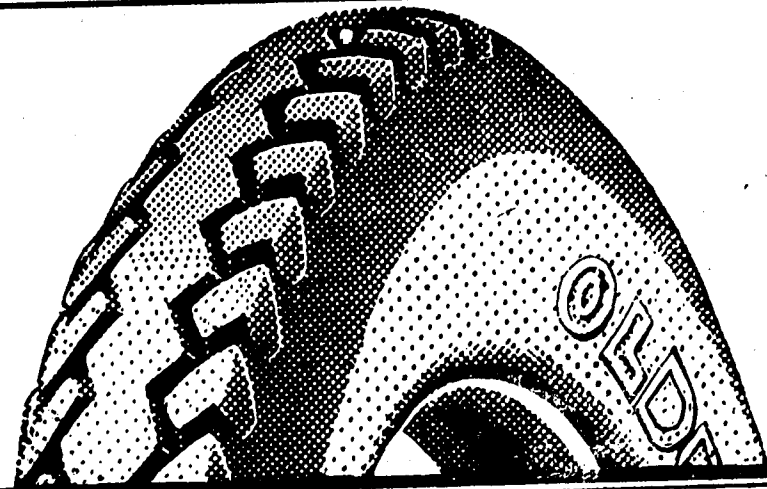

The prizes were books; for the boys, "A Man without a Country"; for the girls a copy of, "Evangeline" with the exception of Mandy Eskett who received a "Life of Frances Willard."

Miss Shattuck then introduced Mrs. Randolph, secretary of the school board. After a few congratulatory words regarding the fitness of the new building for an occasion like this, Mrs. Randolph gave certificates of promotion to the following:

- Lena Elizabeth Bock
- Leodore Arthur Couture
- Lillian Esther Eskett
- Gladys Merle Hazen
- Frederick Edward Holcomb
- Mae Evelyn Holcomb
- Edna Austin Howard
- Cora Avis Hussey
- Harold David Landers
- Margaret McPherson
- Madeline Rose Sears
- Howard William Taft Snow
- Esther May Squires
- Minnie Louise Squires
- Claire Alice Vezina
- Elwyn Henry Wood

The exercises closed with the benediction pronounced by Rev. D. L. Hilliard.

Saturday the class spent the day at Aldrich Lake, enjoying the bathing, boating and a picnic dinner. They were accompanied by Miss Shattuck and Supt. A. R. Lewis.

Alumni Letter

In accordance with the vote taken at a meeting of the B. H. S. alumni some time ago, a letter has been sent out to former students of the school, soliciting funds to equip wholly or in part a domestic science room in the new building.

The addresses of students and alumni have been rather incomplete, so that undoubtedly many names have been missed in the sending out of the letters. If any apparent oversights will be reported to the committee, letters will be forwarded. The committee in charge consists of Prin. Allan, L. H. Blackmer and Mrs. H. F. Putnam.

Loses Benefit Game

Granby's steady hammering of Belchertown Wednesday evening in a six inning twilight game brought victory to the visitors by a score of 12 to 2.

Thibadeau pitched for Belchertown and he stuck gamely through to the finish. The contest was never in doubt. The visitors' score kept steadily mounting and the expected rally did not materialize.

The most spectacular part of the game was the conflicting decision of the umpires whose field of activities was not understood, thus making a rather interesting spectacle, especially in view of their contrasting decisions.

But the best part of the game was that it was a benefit game for Z. Thibadeau, Belchertown's third baseman, who broke his leg in the afternoon game on the Fourth. One hundred special tickets were printed on Tuesday and sold out by night, many not baseball fans subscribing to the cause.

As before stated, this was not a regular league game, so does not count in the regular averages.

Lawn Party Coming

There will be a meeting of the women of St. Francis's church in the church basement Sunday evening at 7 o'clock to plan for a lawn party to be given some time in August.

The Girl Scouts of Pine Cone Troop No. 2 hiked to Lake Metacomb last Saturday. Twelve of the local troop and two Scout visitors, all with lunches and bathing suits, strolled along the woody back road. At the lake, swimming, eating, sports, were the order of the day. Many of the troop passed part of their second class nature test by identifying flowers and trees as they went along.

The next regular meeting will be held Saturday, July 21, at the Scout rooms at 2.30 p. m.

Death of Ruth Ellen Hanifin

Miss Ruth Hanifin, 24, died at her home in the Cold Spring district Monday morning at 5 o'clock, after two years' illness. Miss Hanifin was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hanifin and was a graduate of B. H. S. She later graduated from the training school of the House of Providence hospital in Holyoke.

She is survived by her father, Peter Hanifin, five sisters, Mrs. Cornelius Sullivan and Misses Lucy, May, Agnes and Irene Hanifin, and two brothers, Thomas and Robert.

The funeral took place Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Bartholomew's church, Bondsville. The burial was in St. Thomas's cemetery, Thorndike. Rev. James W. McGrath read prayers at the grave. The bearers were her brothers, Thomas and Robert Hanifin, Dr. James Byrnes of Holyoke, Frank Cavanaugh of Holyoke, Garrett Cavanaugh of Belchertown and William Austin of Belchertown.

Four Sisters from the House of Providence hospital attended the funeral.

To B. H. S. Alumni:

Copy of letter being sent to B. H. S. Alumni as voted at recent meeting. Show this to any you may think interested.

Belchertown, Mass., June 27, 1923

Dear Alumnus,

The purpose of this letter is to raise money to equip wholly or in part the domestic science room of the new high school. If sufficient funds accumulate, the surplus is to be used for minor matters of current need that arise from time to time.

It is proposed to administer this fund through a committee elected from the contributors or to turn it over to the town, as may be deemed best.

We take it for granted that you know that the old building was burned the evening of Nov. 8, 1921. Perhaps you do not know that the new building will be ready for occupancy next fall. This building is being erected in conjunction with the Lawrence Memorial Hall on the site of the Highland House, burned years ago, opposite the south end of the park on the corner.

While we realize that you have many calls upon your generosity, we hope this one will not go unheeded. No sum too small, none too large to put to good use.

Please send contributions to Belding F. Jackson, Belchertown, Mass.

Committee appointed to secure funds,

Thomas Allen, Principal
Lewis H. Blackmer
Mrs. H. F. Putnam

Water District Meeting

It had been hoped that there would be a meeting of the water district the first part of next week, as the committee, after a long period of investigation and conference, is about to report, but it will have to go over a few days as matters stand now. The commissioners had drawn up a warrant for the meeting, but were obliged to withhold it as one point relative to by-laws for the district, has not been cleared up, the attorney general, who must approve any draft, not having been heard from.

The committee has a plan to submit for a complete water system, and will probably ask that bids be called for. The committee have not been as fortunate in securing a quick solution of the water problem as was hoped for when they were appointed, but the town still needs water, a fact which should not be overlooked if a reasonable plan is submitted. It is hoped that even though a complete system is not installed, at the start, the public buildings will at least receive protection, for the town can ill afford to stand again any such colossal loss as it recently experienced.

H. A. Killmer and daughter of Springfield made a short call at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Killmer of Main St. this week.

Earle L. Sanford of Ludlow and Miss Eva Mae Meeker were married Wednesday morning at Somers, Ct. Mrs. Sanford is a graduate of the Springfield Central High school and of the Springfield Hospital Training school, and was overseas two years during the war. Mr. Sanford was born in Belchertown and now owns, with his brother, Fred Sanford a large poultry and dairy farm in Ludlow.

A Quaker Woman's Sermon

The following clipping was taken from the "Windham Herald" for April 30, 1807.

"Dear friend:-

"There are three things I very much wonder at. The first is that children should be so foolish as to throw up stones, brick bats and clubs into fruit trees to knock down fruit; if they would let it alone, it would fall itself. The second is that men should be so foolish and even wicked as to go to war and kill one another; if they would only let one another alone, they would die of themselves. And the third and last thing which I wonder most of all at, is, that young men should be so unwise as to go after the young women; if they would only stay at home, the young women would come after them."

Evidently the above Quaker lady fully believed the old adage, "All things come to him who waits," but had failed to grasp the "rule that's slicker; He who goes for what he wants Will get it all the quicker."

Legal Notice
SALE FOR NONPAYMENT OF TAXES

The owners and occupants of the following described parcels of real estate situated in the town of Belchertown in the county of Hampshire and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and the public are hereby notified that the taxes thereon severally assessed for the years hereinafter specified, according to the list committed to me as collector of taxes for said Belchertown by the assessors of taxes, remain unpaid, and that the smallest undivided part of said land sufficient to satisfy said taxes, with interest and all legal costs and charges, or the whole of said land if no person offers to take an undivided part thereof, will be offered for sale by public auction in front of the collector's office on Main Street in said Belchertown, on Saturday, Aug. 4, 1923, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the payment of taxes with interest, costs and charges thereon, unless the same shall be previously discharged.

Taxed to C. D. Pomeroy of Springfield, Mass., a certain tract of land in Belchertown, Hampshire County, Mass., bounded as follows: Easterly by land formerly of Sewell Randall, Alfred Ward and David Randall, northerly by land of Alfred Ward; westerly, by land now or formerly of Ruth Ward, southerly by land now or formerly of said Alfred Ward and the highway, containing 20 acres more or less, and being known as the Taft lot, being the same premises conveyed to said Pomeroy by Byron L. Holt by deed dated Nov. 19, 1907 (see deed of Arthur C. Burpee to Byron L. Holt dated June 4, 1906 and recorded with Hampshire County deeds Book 607, Page 108). The tax assessed for the year 1921 is four dollars and eighteen cents, and the tax assessed for the year 1922 is four dollars and sixty-three cents.

Also two other tracts of land situate in said Belchertown and taxed to Smith B. Fisher's heirs.

Tract No. 1, described as follows: Beginning at a stake and stones on Salem Fisher's east line near the Stacey farm, running northerly to Josiah Clark's corner to a stake and stones; thence easterly to A. Thayer's land to a stake and stones; thence southerly to a stake and stones; thence easterly to the first mentioned bound, containing 8 acres more or less; conveyed to said Smith B. Fisher by deed of William Phelps dated Feb. 1853.

Tract No. 2. A certain tract of land situate in said Belchertown, bounded and described as follows: bounded westerly by land of Reuben Sikes and land of George Gay; northerly by land of Michael McKillop and land of widow of Josiah Clark; easterly by land of Alvertus Morse, containing ten acres more or less, conveyed to said Smith B. Fisher by deed of Salem Fisher dated Mar. 23, 1870. The tax assessed on the two tracts above mentioned for 1921 is $6.68 and for 1922 is $7.40.

A party of four from South Hadley, of whom Miss Rebecca Smith, a descendant of Justus Dwight, was a member, called at the Stone House, Wednesday.

Rev. and Mrs. Harold W. Curtis and children, Robert and Wallace, of Saco, Me., are spending their vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wallis of Waltham called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Spencer Monday, returning Tuesday.

Miss Mary Sullivan of So. Belchertown was injured in an automobile accident near Bondsville, Tuesday morning, while teaching her cousin to drive. The sandy condition of the road was responsible in a measure for the accident. Miss Sullivan was taken to the House of Providence hospital in Holyoke, while other members of the party were attended by Dr. Smith of Bondsville.

Turkey Hill Items

Correcting an item of July 6, H. F. Putnam and family were entertained at J. R. Garvey's. We hesitate to have Mr. Newman think that his lawn was used by the neighbors to display their fireworks as we understand he was visiting in Winchester at the time. The reporter has new batteries in her telephone this week.

Mrs. Nellie Sears and her granddaughters, Madeline and Barbara, are visiting in Chicopee.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Norton of Springfield are prepared to spend some time at J. W. Hurlburt's in their tent house.

Mrs. H. E. Thomas of Three Rivers is visiting her granddaughter, Mrs. Edward Isaac.

J. W. Hurlburt figured in an auto accident this week, which just escaped being serious. As he was driving with the milk from Turkey Hill, on the Holyoke road, near Eskett's corner, he was struck by a recklessly driven car, and his horse, which is of mature years, was forced backwards, while striving to go in the other direction, until the whistle-tree broke and Mr. Hurlburt was thrown to the ground. The driver of the car stopped, as his next move was to strike an oak tree, and still moving rapidly, he landed in a field beside the road. Mr. Hurlburt was badly shaken up.

Louis R. Blanchard of Chicopee, whose death from scalding on board the destroyer Williamson, occurred last week, outside Narragansett, was a brother of Mrs. Alfred Sampson, who resides on the Conkey place on the road from the Turkey Hill to the Holyoke district.

Mrs. J. W. Hurlburt entertained on Wednesday, her brother, Charles Munsell and wife of Orange, who have just returned from a 900 mile auto trip in Maine.

Death of

Lowdzer Antanavitch

Lowdzer Antanavitch died Tuesday morning at 10.30 o'clock at New Britain, Ct. where he has been for the last three or four years. His whereabouts were not known until the message came of his critical illness. His mother, Leon Antanavitch, was able to reach him before he died. He graduated only a few years ago from the High school.

The funeral was held this morning at the Polish church in Bondsville.

Ladies Social Union Notes

The Ladies' Social Union and invited guests to the number of fourteen, including the hostesses, Mrs. J. R. Newman and Mrs. C. L. Hubbard, were entertained at Mrs. Newman's home Wednesday afternoon. Refreshments were served, after a very social hour spent with sewing, games, stories and "moving pictures". The next thimble party will be held with Mrs. C. R. Green.

Water Supply Assured

At last Belchertown is to have a water supply. It has been talked about for decades, the fact that Springfield secured first rights on Jabish has been moaned over for one reason or another for years, committees galore have investigated and have passed into oblivion, and a gravity system was turned down a few years ago after a series of town meetings that will long be remembered, but now, after another lapse of time, a water district has been formed, the inhabitants of which have voted $50,000, not for investigation, but for the article itself.

The impetus that put the successful venture across was, no doubt, the installing by the state school of a big pumping system, right before our face and eyes. That huge stand pipe on South Main street, running over, was evidently a little too much, for since then there has been a determined effort made to hitch on. Some said that it couldn't be done, and that there was no use trying, but for five years at least the town will be able to get water from the state, and few people are worrying but what with pipes and hydrants in the town of Belchertown, the people will see to it that they are supplied from some source when that time is up.

The meeting that voted to install the system and bond the district was held in the High school room in the Methodist vestry Monday evening. The school room seats were all taken, extra chairs and settees were soon filled and even then some people had to stand.

Wm. Shaw, clerk of the district, called the meeting to order and Thos. Allen was elected moderator.

It developed early in the meeting that it was a wet crowd, and the only difficulty that there was going to be was to satisfy the Federal Street people who had not taken kindly to the announcement of the commissioners that the $50,000 loan limit set by the special act of the legislature would not be sufficient to provide water for the whole district and that they had recommended the Federal St. section be temporarily cut off.

So, before the motion to bond the district was put, it was voted to petition the legislature for permission to borrow an additional sum, not exceeding $20,000, so that water can be supplied to all the district.

The crisis of the meeting passed with the adoption of this motion so that the vote for the $50,000 construction was carried 104 to 4.

Full authority was granted the commissioners to go ahead and install the system. The board, chosen last year for terms of three, two and one years respectively, are E. C. Witt, Mrs. Emma R. Shaw and H. B. Ketchen.

The meeting Monday evening closed with a few words by Dr. McPherson of the State school, who expressed his pride in Belchertown for its action in securing water and happily alluded to the overflowing stand pipe as greasing the ways for the increasing supply that will some day be needed.

Belchertown Makes It Four in a Row

The Belchertown team of the Hampshire County League looks to be on the road to pennant land after starting the second round with an 11-8 victory over Granby in that town last Saturday. Both sides took advantage of loose fielding and few hits to get three runs in the first. In the second, Lynch walked, Dewey singled to left, and Ironsides filled the bases by walking Masseur. Holland's center field fly was dropped, and Lynch counted; Sutherland's bunt scored Dewey before Grayson sprung a surprise by fanning. It was not Em's day with the willow, but Story kept up his slugging, and was ably seconded by Dewey, who dropped three singles into left field. Granby came close to tying matters in the third, when Lafley was hit, and scored on a muffed fly sacrifice, and a fielder's choice.

The fifth was the big frame for the locals and sent Ironsides to the catcher's box and gave McCain a chance to finish the game, which he did in fine style. Story started with a double, followed Keyes with a single and stole second, and both advanced on Allen's sacrifice, and Lynch's long sacrifice fly to center scored Keyes. With two out and none on, Dewey, Masseur, Holland, and Sutherland hammered the pill for three more tallies and rang the curtain on Ironsides.

Granby tried to stay in the game, scoring in the last two frames, but the lead was too much. Belchertown was good with the sticks, but weak in the field, making 10 bingles. Granby was rather listless.

Death of

Albert Slater of Granby

Albert Slater died last Thursday at the home of his son, Albert Slater of South Main St., after a ten days' illness. Mr. Slater was born April 17, 1836 in Chicopee Falls, the son of Horatio and Lucindy Fuller Slater. He lived in Chicopee Falls until seven years of age. Sixty years of his life was spent in Granby, nineteen in Enfield and one in Dwight. He was a farmer by occupation. His wife died in 1916.

He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Eva Bryant and Miss Emma Slater of Amherst and Miss Lizzie Slater of this town, besides his son, Albert Slater, in whose home he died.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. D. L. Hilliard, officiating. The bearers were Harry Bryant, Ermine Bryant, Raymond Dickinson and Samuel Paul. Burial was in the Bachelor St. cemetery, Granby.

The Thinking of Today

All thinking is not commendable. All true thinking must be catholic in its sympathies. We can never say too much in favor of a catholic mind. There is warfare between science and religion unless one has a catholic mind. He who is universal in his thinking finds that science and religion are friends, not enemies. Many of the problems which distress the world today would be well on their way to a satisfactory solution if the men who discussed them had a catholic mind. In solving the problems of industry and education and religion, we need to bring personalities which are catholic in their sympathies.

In any true thinking are found wide interests. Religion, for example, is far more than in saving souls; it is saving the whole social order. The larger number of contacts a man has in his thinking, the more value will be to the community. The wise man endeavors to have as large a variety of interests as possible, knowing that a multiplicity of interests tends to sane and broad thinking.

True thinking must be constructive and not destructive; thinking which tears down the structure on which we stand is undesirable unless we can be given a firmer foundation. Criticism is not necessarily beneficial unless it is constructive. Beware of the individual who always pulls up without planting something better to take its place.

Well, that makes four of 'em a way. It looks as though some of the other clubs better strengthen a little. Grayson surely means a lot to any team he is with. It isn't his pitching or hitting, as much as the confidence which his baseball brains inspires in those not so experienced. Some day McCain will pitch a whole game against Belchertown.

and the boys want to be careful. The Granby catcher has relieved hampered twirlers twice and allowed us but 9 scattered blows in 14 frames, which is better than most pitchers can boast. Mac says he's going to polish up, and then—?
Pelham stayed in the race by trimming Enfield. The Swift River boys are having hard luck. They gave Belchertown a fine battle in the game a while ago.

"Herb" Story must have shot some rabbits last winter. He is slamming the ball harder than ever before in his checkered career.

Massee gives life to a team, but his errors were costly. He seems to be better behind the bat than in the infield.

High and Prep. schools are well represented on the nine. Holland, Sutherland, Dewey and Allen are still students, and improve with each game.

The locals have four twirlers now, Rogers, Grayson, Thibadeau, and Dewey. They can all hit, and play other positions well.

Pelham and Belchertown both had a little trouble with the Granby arbiter, Taylor. He was a little off on balls and strikes, but did not seem purposely unfair. We must remember that umpiring brings ten bucks a game, now-a-days.

But both teams ought to tell their field umpires where to stand. They would need a telescope to see close plays on third base.

What color do we want for the flag? But there's many a slip from the hip pocket to the stomach pump these days.

Destroyed by Fire

TURKEY HILL NEWS

The old Nelson Sheldon house, more recently known as the A. D. Moore place, owned and occupied by Mrs. Andrew Wilczek, was burned on Thursday about noon. The fire engine was called and responded, but it was too late to save the building. $200 in money and about 35 small chickens, which were in the cellar, were among the things lost.

Married in Bethel, Ct.

News has been received of the marriage of Marguerite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick B. Richardson of New Rochelle, N. Y., to Dr. Payne P. Larsen on Saturday, July 28, at their summer home in Bethel, Ct.

Until a few years ago, Mrs. Larsen, with her parents, was a summer resident in town. Since her graduation from Mt. Holyoke college, she has been a teacher, her last position being in the high school in Brooklyn, N. Y.

After October 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Larsen will be at home at 1118 East 32nd St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

There will be a special business meeting of the Historical Association at the Stone House Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

Rev. Harold W. Curtis and family left for Waltham last Saturday, where they will spend the remainder of their vacation.

Controversy

You and I are too much afraid of controversy. It is foolish to refrain from speech simply because we are likely to raise commotion. A man is a coward who is silent when he sees injustice done or keeps quiet when he knows his ideas are repugnant to others and will bring down opposition on his head. Sometimes calmness and quietness is a sign of death and not life. There are occasions when one does not do his duty unless he stirs up smooth waters and causes turmoil. A man is not true to himself if he does not combat ideas that he knows are wrong and withstand with all his might false statements. Many things are of such small moment that we would be wise to let them pass without comment. A wise philosopher declared that he was going to let things pass more and more the older he grew. But some things must not be allowed to pass.

How are false ideas to be shown in their true light unless someone calls our attention to them? The world is set free by argument. The only way the world gets free from erroneous views is by some one bearing witness to the truth.

The religious controversy existing today is not a bad thing. As a result of it we shall get nearer to the truth. The quicker false notions are abandoned, the better. The sooner time honored views are shown to be untenable, if they are untenable, the better for us all.

It is not pleasant to bear witness to the truth. It is easier to keep out of all controversy. It requires courage to make statements which will nettle and antagonize. He must be brave who dares to utter an unwelcome truth. But we are not here to live tranquil lives, we are here to live righteous lives.

WHY

Nature Has Arranged for Sap to Rise in Trees.

The very interesting results obtained by Sir J. C. Bose, at the Bose Institute, Calcutta, in the investigation of the phenomenon of the ascent of sap are summarized in Nature Magazine. It is shown that the ascent of sap is a process of physiological activity dependent on the pulsation of living cells. This process is arrested by the action of poison, either in entire plants or in cut shoots. The active pulsating cells are not confined to the root, but are continued throughout the stem. It has been ascertained that in the stem of dicotyledons these cells constitute the cortical layer which abuts upon the endodermis.

The velocity of the ascent has been determined by three independent methods which give concordant results. The ascent takes place in plants even in the complete absence of transpiration. In "varnished" plants this velocity has been found sometimes to be as high as 70 meters per hour.

The cellular pulsations have been investigated and their characteristics determined from automatic records; they consist of alternate contractions and expansions. The direction of propulsion is determined by the phase difference of the adjacent cells. The velocity increases with the wave length of the propagated impulse. This wave length is determined experimentally from definite points of electric maxima and minima. Enhancement of velocity is associated with corresponding increase in the wave length. The enhanced rate of ascent is also attended by the increase of amplitude and frequency of cellular pulsations.

Ascent of sap depends upon cellular pulsation in tall trees as well as in herbaceous plants. There is, however, in the former the special adaptation of the woody tissue which serves as a reservoir to meet the excessive demand for water in the season of active transpiration. When this reservoir is more or less depleted, the phenomenon of "negative pressure" is manifest.

How Moon Affects Earthquakes. Earthquakes are more frequent in those parts of the world where there is evidence that geological processes may be slowly shaping the major contours of the earth's surface and where the mountains may be reckoned, geologically, as comparative newcomers. In digging a trench or building an embankment, if the earth is left at too steep a slope it will find its natural one by falling toward its base. An analogous process is suggested by the tremendously steep descent from the Andes to the Pacific ocean. A glance at the map shows that that great range of mountains is almost standing with its feet in the water; as a matter of fact, the slope to the Pacific varies from 1 in 0 to 1 in 30. In calmer regions of the earth's surface the slope from the high land to the sea varies from 1 in 70 to 1 in 250. The simplest explanation of the constantly recurrent earthquakes along the Pacific coast would be the great thrust from a vast mountain range the "batter" of which has not yet reached an angle of repose.—Manchester Guardian.

How Some Insects Walk on Water. What makes it possible for the long-legged water flea to run right over the surface of a sheet of water? If we observe it closely, says Science Sitings, we see that the end of each of its six long legs make a slight depression where it rests upon the surface. The surface is elastic in fact, and acts like a springy mattress.

The physical basis of this mode of action may be explained as follows: The separate molecules of water cohere with considerable firmness and therefore offer a certain degree of resistance to penetration by any solid matter—but this is true only in case the body cannot be wet, i. e., if it has a composition like that of the fats. The resistance is a result of the surface tension of the liquid, which acts like a stretched membrane. This is sufficient to support the weight of the water flea, though it would be practically negligible for ourselves.

HOW

MODEST ONION GETS ITS CHARACTERISTIC AROMA.—Onions of moderate size contain about 91 per cent water; they are succulent and tender, and as thoroughly digested and as easily absorbed by the stomach as are other similar vegetables. They are not only rich in vitamins, but have other nutritive and medicinal properties as well. There is in them, for instance, much food iron, good for those suffering from anemia, and very little starch or sugar, which makes them suitable for diabetics.

The sulphur compound which gives them their characteristic aroma, is believed to stimulate the flow of digestive juices, and also to act as a mild laxative. In cooking, much of this acid volatile oil, which is called allyl sulphid and has an effect on the eyes similar to that of tear gas, is lost. That is why cooked onions have so much less taste than raw ones, and also why a silver spoon, if used in stirring them sometimes acquires a black coating, which is silver sulphid.

As an article of trade, onions rank third among the truck crops of the United States, and, in addition to the large home-grown supply, considerably over a million bushels every year are imported, the majority now coming from Spain. Also there used to be heavy imports of this vegetable from Bermuda, but those islands have been losing out in the last few years, principally because so many onions are now grown in Texas. Other localities specializing in the succulent bulb are Ohio, western New York, Connecticut and Conchella valley, in southern California, where a very sweet variety, closely resembling the Egyptian, is being raised.

EFFECTS OF VARIOUS FOODS

How Investigation Has Determined Value of Certain Forms of Nourishment—Some Best Uncooked.

A German investigator has conducted a series of experiments to determine the effects of various foods, beverages, condiments and spices, as well as the effect of cooking, chewing and digestion upon the pulse and cardiac (heart) activity, and found that all the foods, accessory foods and spices, with the exception of very acid substances, coffee, tea and cocoa, had a stimulating effect on the heart. Water inhibits the depressive effect of stimulants from heating.

The depressive substances become stimulating after they are heated and water increases the stimulating effect. If the substance tested is applied to the palate the effect is greater than when applied to the mucosa (lining) of the cheek.

Different portions of the same vegetables have different effects. Acids applied to the tongue cause depression of the pulse; applied to the mucosa of the cheek and palate, they cause an increase of the pulse, but applied to the whole oral (mouth) cavity, there is depression of the pulse.

All foods are more stimulating when eaten raw than when cooked. Cold and heat are repressive, and moderate heat has the most stimulating effect.

WHY

Nature Has Arranged for Sap to Rise in Trees.

The very interesting results obtained by Sir J. C. Bose, at the Bose Institute, Calcutta, in the investigation of the phenomenon of the ascent of sap are summarized in Nature Magazine. It is shown that the ascent of sap is a process of physiological activity dependent on the pulsation of living cells. This process is arrested by the action of poison, either in entire plants or in cut shoots. The active pulsating cells are not confined to the root, but are continued throughout the stem. It has been ascertained that in the stem of dicotyledons these cells constitute the cortical layer which abuts upon the endodermis.

The velocity of the ascent has been determined by three independent methods which give concordant results. The ascent takes place in plants even in the complete absence of transpiration. In "varnished" plants this velocity has been found sometimes to be as high as 70 meters per hour.

The cellular pulsations have been investigated and their characteristics determined from automatic records; they consist of alternate contractions and expansions. The direction of propulsion is determined by the phase difference of the adjacent cells. The velocity increases with the wave length of the propagated impulse. This wave length is determined experimentally from definite points of electric maxima and minima. Enhancement of velocity is associated with corresponding increase in the wave length. The enhanced rate of ascent is also attended by the increase of amplitude and frequency of cellular pulsations.

Ascent of sap depends upon cellular pulsation in tall trees as well as in herbaceous plants. There is, however, in the former the special adaptation of the woody tissue which serves as a reservoir to meet the excessive demand for water in the season of active transpiration. When this reservoir is more or less depleted, the phenomenon of "negative pressure" is manifest.

How Moon Affects Earthquakes. Earthquakes are more frequent in those parts of the world where there is evidence that geological processes may be slowly shaping the major contours of the earth's surface and where the mountains may be reckoned, geologically, as comparative newcomers. In digging a trench or building an embankment, if the earth is left at too steep a slope it will find its natural one by falling toward its base. An analogous process is suggested by the tremendously steep descent from the Andes to the Pacific ocean. A glance at the map shows that that great range of mountains is almost standing with its feet in the water; as a matter of fact, the slope to the Pacific varies from 1 in 0 to 1 in 30. In other regions of the earth's surface the slope from the high land to the sea varies from 1 in 70 to 1 in 250. The simplest explanation of the constantly recurrent earthquakes along the Pacific coast would be the great thrust from a vast mountain range the "batter" of which has not yet reached an angle of repose.—Manchester Guardian.

How Some Insects Walk on Water. What makes it possible for the long-legged water flea to run right over the surface of a sheet of water? If we observe it closely, says Science Digest, we see that the end of each of its six long legs make a slight depression where it rests upon the surface. The surface is elastic in fact, and acts like a springy mattress.

The physical basis of this mode of action may be explained as follows: The separate molecules of water adhere with considerable firmness and therefore offer a certain degree of resistance to penetration by any solid matter—but this is true only in case the body cannot be wet, i. e., if it has a composition like that of the fats. The resistance is a result of the surface tension of the liquid, which acts like a stretched membrane. This is sufficient to support the weight of the water flea, though it would be practically negligible for ourselves.

HOW

MODEST ONION GETS ITS CHARACTERISTIC AROMA.—Onions of moderate size contain about 91 per cent water; they are succulent and tender, and as thoroughly digested and as easily absorbed by the stomach as are other stamular vegetables. They are not only rich in vitamins, but have other nutritive and medicinal properties as well. There is in them, for instance, much food iron, good for those suffering from anemia, and very little starch or sugar, which makes them suitable for diabetics.

The sulphur compound which gives them their characteristic aroma, is believed to stimulate the flow of digestive juices, and also to act as a mild laxative. In cooking, much of this acid volatile oil, which is called allyl sulphid and has an effect on the eyes similar to that of tear gas, is lost. That is why cooked onions have so much less taste than raw ones, and also why a silver spoon, if used in stirring them sometimes acquires a black coating, which is silver sulphid.

As an article of trade, onions rank third among the truck crops of the United States, and, in addition to the large home-grown supply, considerably over a million bushels every year are imported, the majority now coming from Spain. Also there used to be heavy imports of this vegetable from Bermuda, but those islands have been losing out in the last few years, principally because so many onions are now grown in Texas. Other localities specializing in the succulent bulb are Ohio, western New York, Connecticut and Coachella valley, in southern California, where a very sweet variety, closely resembling the Egyptian, is being raised.

EFFECTS OF VARIOUS FOODS

How Investigation Has Determined Value of Certain Forms of Nourishment—Some Best Uncooked.

A German investigator has conducted a series of experiments to determine the effects of various foods, beverages, condiments and spices, as well as the effect of cooking, chewing and digestion upon the pulse and cardiac (heart) activity, and found that all the foods, accessory foods and spices, with the exception of very acid substances, coffee, tea and cocoa, had a stimulating effect on the heart. Water inhibits the depressive effect of stimulants from heating.

The depressive substances become stimulating after they are heated and water increases the stimulating effect. If the substance tested is applied to the palate the effect is greater than when applied to the mucosa (lining) of the cheek.

Different portions of the same vegetables have different effects. Acids applied to the tongue cause depression of the pulse; applied to the mucosa of the cheek and palate, they cause an increase of the pulse, but applied to the whole oral (mouth) cavity, there is depression of the pulse.

All foods are more stimulating when eaten raw than when cooked. Cold and heat are repressive, and moderate heat has the most stimulating effect.

Special Business Meeting

At a special business meeting of the Belchertown Historical Association, held at the Stone House on Saturday evening, Mrs. H. F. Curtis, corresponding clerk, announced that Henry Ford, a recent visitor at the Stone House, had offered to furnish funds with which to repair or replace the present barn.
Gaston Plantiff, a son of Belchertown, who is eastern manager for Mr. Ford, will act as his representative in this matter. After a discussion or feasible plans, a committee, consisting of D. P. Spencer, D. D. Hazen, R. E. Bond, Mrs. H. F. Curtis and Mrs. D. P. Spencer was chosen to cooperate with Mr. Plantiff. The new structure will probably be known as the Annex and will house a collection of old-time vehicles and farm implements.

The Ford Gift

There is a rather strange coincidence in connection with Henry Ford's gift to the Belchertown Historical Association. For many years Belchertown was a great center for the manufacture of vehicles. Miss Lucy Thomson in her paper presented at the Old Home Day celebration in 1902 said. "Our largest industry was carriage making. The first wagon made in town was light blue outside and yellow within and was known as 'Warner's Butterfly', but eventually we made much more conventional vehicles and for many years stood at the head of the carriage industry in the United States; orders came from all over the country and even from Persia and Australia. By 1855 the annual output was about $100,000."
Gradually, the shops closed as machine made goods competed in the markets. And now autos are the vehicles of the day, and Henry Ford of Detroit, the automobile center of the world, having a hobby for the things that used to be, causes to be erected in the vehicle center of other days a building that shall house carriages and conveyances which were made, not according to the efficiency formula of today, but according to the best methods then known, turning out a product that commanded the admiration of the world.

Reunion of Class of 1920, B. H. S.

Holland Glen was greatly enlivened Saturday afternoon by a visit of the class of 1920. This was the second reunion of the class. Seven of the ten graduates were on hand to enjoy those bacon sandwiches, cooked while you wait. The girls of the class proved themselves excellent cooks and the boys showed ability as dispensers of liquids.
Several members of the class of 1922 joined with the class of 1920 in these festivities.
Those present from the class of 1920 were, Francis Allen of the College of Business Adm. of Boston University, Miss Eleanor Bardwell of Massachusetts Normal Art, Boston; Miss Alice Booth, School of Religious Education, B. U.; Newell Booth, College of Liberal Arts, B. U.; Osborne Davis, M. A. C.; Miss Gladys Gay, graduate of Northampton Commercial college; Earl Witt, M. A. C.

Grange Notes

Several from Belchertown attended the Hampshire County Pomona Field day at Aldrich lake Tuesday. Although the weather did not look favorable in the morning, there was a large attendance and an entertaining program carried out. Granby secured the silver cup which went to the grange having the largest number participating in the sport. There were two other cups which went to the boy and girl gaining the largest number of points. The state master, chaplain and lecturer were present, also the state master of New Jersey.
A small attendance at Union grange Tuesday evening made it necessary to omit very important business. The next meeting will be held Sept. 4.

Wins from Enfield

Belchertown made its record 5 to 1 in the series by defeating Enfield last Saturday afternoon and so stands a good show for pennant honors.
Thibadeau and Masse were the battery for Belchertown, and Gage and Spooner for Enfield.
Early in the game the visitors let three runs swing around the circle, thinking the umpire had called the third out. The final score was 9 to 3.
Tomorrow Granby meets Belchertown here, and next Wednesday night a special game has been booked with the Amherst nine that Geo. Williams coaches.

The Death of President Harding

We were shocked and grieved when a week ago word was flashed over the wires that President Harding had died. There would have been sorrow in our heart had he not been the chief executive of the land for he was a man of friendliness and good will, a man of courtesy and humility. All who knew him loved him and esteemed him. But because he was our chief magistrate, our grief was all the keener. None have tried to serve the country more faithfully than Warren G. Harding.

Mr. Harding, never overestimating his own powers, had the rare ability of gathering about him men of ability and insight. It may be too early yet to say how his administration will go down in history. But it would seem that his own phrase, "back to normalcy," was the keyword of it, and in attempting this he carried out the wishes of a great majority of the people. No president has been in the White House who has exerted more power for temperance than he. But doubtless his greatest achievement was the calling of the Washington conference, and for this he will be the longest remembered.

The chaplain declared that he was a martyr, and who is there who will dispute it? His valedictory was a strong appeal for America to join a World Court. Perhaps he was a martyr to this cause. There is no better way of honoring him than by speedily joining the other nations in such a court.

How Temperature Affects Fish.
Fish are very quick to feel a change of temperature in their native element, and sudden cooling or heating of the water is very injurious to them.

A hot summer has been known to drive herring to find cooler waters at a distance. Some years ago a fearful storm raged along the eastern coast of North America. After it had subsided the sea was strewn with millions of fish, a weight of 50 pounds or more. A vessel was sent to discover the cause of the strange phenomenon. It plowed straight ahead for 150 miles and estimated that an area of 5,000 square miles was covered with dead fish. It was discovered that the storm had brought icebergs in its train, and the consequent great cold had proved too much for the fish, accustomed as they were to warmer waters. The cod has an objection to sudden changes of climate, and if put in colder water than that to which he is accustomed will be numbed. Experiments have been tried to acclimatize English salmon in Tasmania, but the difference in temperature has caused these experiments to fail.

How Fuel Supply May Be Increased.
Researches have been made in France with respect to the use of grape pommace as fuel. Moreover, attention has been invited to various kinds of material that might be used in this way to a good advantage, and the calorific power of which possesses considerable value. It has been found that grape pommace, when well dried, is an excellent fuel and has a good heating quality. In the researches mentioned, it was demonstrated that the substance dried at 115 degrees centigrade shows 4,400 calories.

It is also shown that as this substance has much resemblance to dried peat, it can be used in suitable producer gases, and it has an advantage over peat in that it can be dried rapidly. Combustion allows of recovering most of the phosphorus compounds and potash contained in the ash, and only the nitrogen is lost. A ton of well dried pommace has the same heat value as 0.4 ton of coal. By this estimate the annual wine production in France of 1,250,000,000 gallons represents at least 175,000 tons of coal, so that the interest of this application is considerable. Pommace of other fruits could no doubt be employed.

WHY
Proper Study of Insect Life Is Important.

How far can flies travel, and what determines the direction of their flight? They have occasionally been reported many miles offshore; but in such instances it may have been the winds rather than their wings that were responsible for the long-distance transport. In the course of a series of investigations of insects affecting the health of man and animals, the bureau of entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture has sought definite knowledge regarding the question just raised. Thousands upon thousands of marked flies, notably the common house fly, screw-worm fly and the black blow fly, have been liberated, so as to ascertain the direction and speed of their travel. The maximum distance or speed from the point of release as recorded for the common house fly was 13.1 miles. The dispersion was in all directions from the point of liberation.

Modern progress in medicine has shown again and again how important a knowledge of the habits of insects is for human welfare in general and many public health problems in particular.

It is obviously futile to plan anti-fly or anti-mosquito campaigns with reference to small localities if the insects concerned can readily be disseminated from far beyond the boundaries of the places under control. Efforts to eliminate insect breeding places in order to relieve a particular region may be entirely nullified if neighboring breeding grounds are near enough to keep up the supply of the offending insect.

GUIDE SEARCHERS FOR HONEY

Why Some Flowers Have Far Greater Attractions for Bees Than Others of Like Species.

Do flowers use rays not visible to the human eye to attract insects to them? Certain insects can spot ultra-violet light that cannot be seen by man, and some blossoms, in addition to their ordinary brilliant hues, vary in the kind of short light rays that they emit.

Prof. F. K. Richtmeyer of Cornell university told the Optical Society of America, meeting at the bureau of standards in Washington recently, that these "invisible" rays may guide pollen-bearing insects to the flowers in their search for honey. Giving signals in rays shorter than the deepest violet that we can see brings the flowers the pollen that is necessary to it in producing seed. Experiments made by Professor Richtmeyer on Colorado flowers show that flowers apparently differ in their reflection of ultra-violet as much as in their visible colors.—Cleveland News-Leader.

Memorial Service

Belchertown paused in its activities last Friday afternoon out of respect for the departed president, and many gathered at the Congregational church at 2.30 o'clock to pay tribute to his nobility of character and friendliness of life.

The pastor of the Federated church being on his vacation, Rev. E. F. Blackmer was asked to have charge of the ceremonies, which were carried out with appropriate dignity and feeling.

Following the prelude by Miss M. Louise Allen, Rev. Mr. Blackmer gave the invocation, after which a quartet sang, "Lead, Kindly Light". After scripture reading and prayer, Belding F. Jackson gave two appropriate readings, following which Rev. E. F. Blackmer paid tribute to the departed president, stating that the record of Warren G. Harding was worthy of thoughtful perusal. He gave his life, he said, because he would not think of self.

Mr. Blackmer called attention to the fact that many of our presidents had come from lonely homes, where prosperity and greatness were absent, but had nevertheless moved upward in a manner almost sublime. As they retreat, instead of growing dim, they seem to increase in power and influence. It seems as though we could not get along without them.

The speaker said, "How well Harding has done in guiding the affairs of the nation will be for historians to declare, but the place he holds in human hearts is secure. He walked the ways of life as one who loved his fellowmen, and in all his councils there was a place for divine direction and heavenly wisdom. He was one not without an appeal to the One who loves us all."

In conclusion Rev. Mr. Blackmer said, "There is no death, what seems so is transition." Warren G. Harding is not dead, but still lives and will continue to exert a tremendous influence in the lives of his countrymen."

After "Nearer, my God, to Thee" by the quartet, Rev. C. G. Burnham pronounced the benediction.

The service will be remembered.

not because of its roll of stirring drums, or political oratory, but for its simplicity of character and brotherliness of atmosphere, which were indeed characteristic of the man in whose honor the ceremonies were held.

Dedication Aug. 28

The Lawrence Memorial hall and High school building will be dedicated Tuesday, August 28. Word was received yesterday morning from Payson W. Smith, state commissioner of education, the chief speaker of the occasion, that he can be present on that date.

Upon this occasion the keys of the new building will be turned over to the town by the building committee.

W. F. Nichols is chairman of the program committee and will announce further details later.

Catholic Lawn Party

The Catholics will hold a lawn party on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week. Supper will be served the first night from 6 to 8, the price being 50 cents.

Wednesday evening, sandwiches and coffee will be on sale. There will be several booths to add gayety to the occasion. An entertainment will be provided both nights. It is hoped to realize a good sum of money for St. Francis's church.

Still Winning

Belchertown has maintained its lead in the Hampshire County League by scoring two easy victories in the last fortnight, humbling Enfield 9-3, and Granby 11-6. Thibadeau was the master of the Swift River team in the first game, and though allowing nine hits, was steady in the pinches, and extremely stingy when men were on the sacks. Lack of baseball brains cost Enfield many runs. In the third, Rogers tripled with the bases full, and scored on Story's single. With everything set for a close game, four more tallies came in the fourth on only one hit. Randall, usually an excellent fielder, missed Allen's easy fly. Dewey fanned, but an error and a wild heave brought Allen to third and Thibadeau to second. Keyes fied out, Massee walked and Rogers was hit, forcing a run. Story hit an easy roller, but beat out the throw by inches. Dufresne, thinking Story was out, held on to the ball while three runs came rambling in, clinching the tilt. L. Dufresne slugged two doubles and a homer, while the local team made but a brace of misplays, a remarkable feat for them as playing has gone this summer.

The second game was one of free hitting and misplays. Both infields were ragged, and McCain, though fanning eleven, allowed hits at unfortunate times. Both teams used makeshift line-ups. Page Piper, local Grammar school lad, brought the crowd to its feet three times by remarkable catches in the right field.

Our Thirtieth President —His Inauguration

The thirtieth president of the United States was inducted into office with profound simplicity. Though of great significance to the civilized world, the event was not a public one. A sad providence forbade that and made previous announcement of its hour impossible. There were none of the usual accompaniments of presidential inaugurations, no parade of military or civil organizations, no multitude of interested citizens looking on, no gathering of high officials of the nation, no representatives of friendly governments to dignify the occasion by their presence and no crowd of the agents of the mighty press of the land to tell the story of it to their eager readers.

He who took the oath of office as the thirtieth president stood in the sitting room of a humble New England farm house, his father's home among the hills, and in the presence of a mere handful of people, neighbors, friends and reporters, his father, a farmer and notary public, administered the oath of office.

Our Thirtieth President

Never in the history of our nation has such an important occasion been so devoid of ceremonial and spectacular features, yet never has there occurred an inauguration the incidents of which are more worthy of narration and their significance of memory.

There are some features of this occasion that deeply appeal to us and more than compensate for the absence of pomp and ceremony. Its simplicity should make it ever memorable. To call this an example of democratic simplicity does not do justice to its rare character. The adjective could be used had there been more of ceremony and spectacle. It is an example of a profound, august simplicity, seldom seen, that emphasizes and honors democracy, and we are pleased to take it as a token that our president is a genuine lover of democracy.

There is something that should be inspiring to our American boys and girls in this inauguration. May they not fail to see the high filial attitude of the president to his father whom he desired to have to administer the oath of office, and also, the tender remembrance of his mother shown by his visit to her grave. That walk to his mother's grave speaks to our hearts more impressively than could a triumphal procession through the streets of Washington. Can we do otherwise, as good citizens, than to wish success to one who in the induction to such an exalted position, has shown such a spirit of democracy and has given to the youth of the land such a fine example of regard for that ancient and fundamental law of the home: "Honor thy father and thy mother." —C. G. B.

One was a low liner that he nabbed off his shoestrings, rolling over several times before he could rise with the sphere firmly held in his gloved hand. Keyes and Rogers hit well. League Standing:

Table with columns: Team, Won, Lost, Pct. Rows: Belchertown (6-0-1.000), Pelham (4-2-.666) (game lost to Granby protested)

Score by innings: Enfield 3 4 .428, Enfield 0 7 .000

Pelham-Granby game, played in Granby on July 14, was protested by Pelham on umpire's decision. The Belchertown-Pelham game, played in Pelham on July 28, was protested by Belchertown because Pelham used a pitcher not on their regular lineup. The game was won 8-1 by Pelham. Both protested games will probably be replayed.

HAMPSHIRE HUNCHES

Still too much umpire baiting. Not a close decision but brings its fuss. Grammar school stuff. Belchertown and Pelham are not finding enough opposition. Some of the local team are making a joke of the games, and their playing is rather humorous in consequence.

Three put-outs in right field was not bad for Page. Not one easy, either. His batting is still weak, but wait a couple of years.

Sutherland and Holland are either very good or they are like they were in the Granby game, in which they amassed five errors.

The fans would like to see more out-of-league games. Bill Williams and his Amherst team failed to materialize Wednesday night, and a scrub tilt had to be played.

Granby has a lot of fault to find with the local field. Can't blame them much, but this is the first year in a long time that Granby can boast a diamond without trees for bases and sidewalks for base-lines. McCain had that chance he has been looking after.

Pelham comes here Saturday and hopes to put a kink in the local aspirations for pennants.

Have Game Anyway

They had a game anyway last Wednesday night, even though the Amherst nine didn't show up. It was too good an opportunity to let slip by, so Parent and R. Blackmer chose sides and a barrel of fun was forthcoming.

Roy Shaw, Joe Kempkes and Carl Aspengren umpired and coached the various players at the same time. Their friendly advice was worth staying to get, and the way they moved runners back and forth on the circuit reminded one of a game of checkers.

Blackmer's aggregation won by a score of 12-8. Only 6 innings were played, sometimes there were three outs in an inning and sometimes two, sometimes the ball in play was used to get a man out, and sometimes a "spare" was put on to turn the trick—it did not matter.

The principal idea was to keep things moving and that was done to perfection. It was a tragic comedy in six acts, and well worth the price of admission—for there was none.

10th Anniversary

An occasion of much interest was the tenth anniversary of Union Sunday School at Ludlow City Aug. 12. It took the form of an Old Home day. The principal speaker of the morning was Rev. R. B. Lisle of Holyoke, formerly of Ludlow Mills.

In the afternoon three ministers together with Mr. Wellington, founder of the Sunday School, occupied the platform under the maples in the spacious school yard, Rev. C. H. Smith of Granby, Rev. Sanderson, a retired minister of Chicopee, who was the first teacher at the school, hired by Mr. Osborne Kendall, and the pastor now occupying the parish at Ludlow Center.

Five minute talks were given by pastors, teachers of the day school, (of which six were present) an original poem written by Rev. C. H. Smith, also a poem by Mrs. Flora Frost Moody of Springfield, written for the occasion, which was eloquently rendered; a history of the building was given by E. H. Carver; Mrs. George Jensen and Mrs. Charles Fuller rendered solos. Chas. M. Fuller acted as organist and Miss Harwood, a violinist, accompanied the organ. A chorus of fifteen or more past pupils of the school led the singing.

A basket lunch at noon was supplemented by lemonade furnished by the school.

The grounds were decorated with evergreen and cat tails, of which a screen was formed to shut off the traffic. In the school room, which is being improved with a new floor, photographs of former residents, pupils and teachers were displayed. Altogether it was an occasion long to be remembered by those present. —R. M. P.

Town Items

Mrs. Arthur Ward and children, Mildred and Forrest, return to their home in Dayton, Ohio, today, after spending the summer in town.

Myron Gamwell of Greenwich is visiting at the home of Myron Shaw. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gregory of Brooklyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Canterbury of Easthampton called on friends in town Wednesday.

George H. B. Green, Jr., and son, George, of Watertown, are expected for the week-end in the home of George H. B. Green, Sr.

A. J. Sears entertained a few friends at their home with a Cracker-Jack party. It was not intended to celebrate any special occasion, although Mrs. Nellie Sears's birthday occurred a few days after, nor was it a surprise party, although there were many surprises, especially when the twins disappeared and Rastus came on the scene with his giant watermelon and Andy passed the living grab bag around, with a prize in every package. One young man bartered for each young lady present, and finally ended up with eloping with them all. There were selections on the piano and mandolin, and pianola and vocal solos and chorus in many languages. Refreshments were served and a "moonlight" auto ride ended the pleasant occasion.

AS WE GO TO PRESS

As the chairs for Lawrence Memorial Hall cannot be delivered by next Tuesday, the building committee voted last night to postpone the dedication ceremonies.

Catholic Lawn Party

A fair of no mean proportions was the lawn party staged by the Catholics on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Running it two nights did not seem to detract from the intensity of the affair, for enthusiasm ran high to the finish.

The amateur doll, blanket and confectionery men beat professionals to a frazzle by the hold-up methods which they adopted in dispensing the "last" ticket.

The event was staged on the lawn to the south of the church and proved a convenient and attractive spot for the gay event. Booths were ranged around the enclosure and three rows of electric lights diffused artificial sunlight to a late hour. The national colors were everywhere in evidence.

The ice cream and soft drink men did a thriving business and the fancy articles table was an attractive spot for the women.

While a goodly company patronized the supper of Tuesday evening, the crowd was out principally for the fair. Many came from out of town.

In the cake guessing contest, Miss Green of the State school guessed the correct weight. Other prizes will be announced later.

The crowd did not crave a set entertainment, so not much was put on. Mr. Chaney, however, put on a few stunts Wednesday night.

Father McGrath of Bondsville was on hand for the mammoth event and the local Catholics under the leadership of Mrs. Garvey, did their part with a will.

The New Building

The biggest thing on the horizon of great events in Belchertown is the dedication of the Lawrence Memorial Hall and High school building next Tuesday. The opening of the grade school building last winter was a significant occasion, but that was only a preliminary to what is now about to take place.

The completion of this pretentious edifice at a cost of approximately $2,000 indeed makes a landmark in our history for we not only have a High school to be proud of, but we also have on the most prominent corner in our town the Lawrence Memorial Hall, a gift outright to our citizens by Mrs. Sara Lawrence Robinson in memory of her father, Honorable Myron Lawrence. Distinct in purpose, and in construction these two units of the new building are blended together in one structure and there is no doubt but that as the years pass, the harmony of the enterprise will be more and more apparent.

Gothic in design and of red tapestry brick with art stone trimmings, there is a dignified beauty about the building that is most appropriate to the uses to which it will be put.

Entering the Hall, which is the most prominent part of the structure, one is as favorably impressed with the interior as with the exterior. Neutral in tint, matching the western chestnut finish, there is a home-like beauty that invites one to further investigation.

Upon the walls are to be seen five large oil paintings, which will serve, not only to adorn the room but to remind all who enter of the debt of gratitude Belchertown will ever owe to this family, who once lived in our village and walked our streets.

Capacious as well as beautiful, Lawrence Memorial Hall will seat, including the gallery, 500 people, and provide, as well, on the ground floor offices for our town officials. The room at the right will be occupied by the selectmen, while the one at the left will probably be used by the school committee. A large vault has been constructed adjoining the selectmen's room.

Here there is utility and beauty written into our community life in a way that will endure. Passing the stage at either side or coming in from either direct entrance at the side of the hall, one finds the High school section of the building in keeping with all that has been previously described.

The science room lies at the right, the commercial room is at the rear, while at the left is the room to be used as a kitchen which may also be utilized for domestic science classes, equipment for which is being furnished by the B. H. S. alumni.

Dies in Athol

Mrs. Lyda Munsell, 78, widow of Rufus Munsell, died in Athol last Friday. While she had lived there some years, most of her life was spent in Belchertown. She leaves two sisters, besides several nephews and nieces. The funeral was held in the chapel on Monday, with burial in Mt. Hope cemetery.

A Fair for Farmers, Not for Fakirs

Time flies and it has been flying since, and even before, some old Roman observing the phenomenon expressed the result of his observation in the immortal phrase "tempus fugit." The time allotted by the sun, moon, stars and all mundane calendars to 1923 is speeding away. The spring is out of sight behind us. The summer days are almost gone and soon the autumnal season devoted to fairs will have come. If Belchertown is to have a fair this year, the writer would like to suggest as a guide to the gentlemen who make its arrangements the following motto: A fair for farmers, not for fakirs.

The writer admits that the motto is not original with him but he thinks it is worth considering. It has been used elsewhere with creditable results in rescuing the annual fair of a community in an agricultural state from the low condition into which it had fallen and in making it a credit to the community and, also, representative of its honored industry, farming. The people of Belchertown would like such a fair. We could have such an one. There is no question, of course, of the ability of those who manage the fairs to produce such an one.

But when in recent years we have made the round of our fair grounds, the beautiful, tree-bordered common we have not found that the motif, the central and controlling idea of the show was the farmer.

Belchertown farms produce milk and eggs and fruit but the meager exhibits of the products of our fine herds and large poultry plants and splendid orchards inadequately represent the extent and value and importance of our farm interests.

PublisherA Fair for Farmers Not for Fakirs

The Merry-go-round, The Ferris Wheel, pop-corn and candy stands suggest a thought or two for the amusement of the farm house children, but as we proceed along the mid-way, the tents for palmists and fortune tellers, the booths for the disposal of gewgaws and other articles of doubtful value we find more signs that the occasion is for the benefit of fakirs and other seekers of easy gains from the gullible than for the industrial or social or moral good of the people of a farming community, while the tickets whose numbers drew no prize which litter the grounds the following morning suggest that a gambling event rather than an agricultural fair was held beneath the elms and maples.

Why not change the center of interest, discard the undesirable features, emphasize the good ones or, if the situation calls for it, introduce new features reorganizing the whole plan of the day. Around a new center, surely, something can be evolved that would more fully and creditably represent the business, life and character of a farming community.

Belcher Towne

A New Note

We appreciate greatly the article by Belcher Towne regarding the Fair and think it strikes a note worth considering in a controversy that has lasted many years with varying degrees of bitterness.

Nothing is so bad but what it can be rescued and nothing is so good but what it can be bettered.

We want the fair to be a positive asset to our community and not something simply to be endured. There is unquestionably enough gray matter in town to solve the question, for there is no denying the fact that it is such.

We welcome a discussion of this matter which vitally concerns us all and shall be glad to print any helpful suggestions which our readers may offer.

MORTGAGEE SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Frank E. Austin of Belchertown, Hampshire County, Massachusetts to the Holyoke National Bank, a banking corporation duly established by law, with its usual place of business in Holyoke, Hampden County, Massachusetts, dated Nov. 14, 1921, and recorded with Hampshire County Registry of Deeds, Book 774, page 123, and of which mortgage the Holyoke National Bank is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, and for the purpose of foreclosing same will be sold at public auction at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on the 17th day of September, 1923, on the front steps of the town hall, in said Belchertown, Hampshire County, Massachusetts, all and singular, the premises described in said mortgage to wit:

The following tracts of land situated in Enfield, Hampshire County Massachusetts, and Belchertown, Hampshire County, Massachusetts:—

1. A certain parcel of land situated in the Easterly part of said Belchertown, bounded and described as follows: Being the same premises conveyed to Addison Burnett from Harrison Root in a deed dated April 28, 1864, and recorded in Hampshire County Registry of Deeds, book 220, page 171; and from Alanson L. Blackmer in a deed dated December, 1880, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 359, page 388; meaning to convey all the land left Bathie S. Stebbins by will from said Addison Burnett at the corner of Enfield and Dwight road, so called, containing sixty-one (61) acres more or less; being the same premises conveyed to me by deed of said Bathie S. Stebbins dated September 9, 1912, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 683, page 244.

2. Certain parcels of land situated in said Belchertown, with buildings thereon. For a more definite description of said parcels reference is hereby made to a deed from Wyatt Barlow to Ira F. Barlow recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 130, page 181; also to deed from Henry W. Barlow to Ira F. Barlow, recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 130, page 183; also one and one-fourth (1 1/4) acres lying contingent to home lot of Charles Austin and described in deed recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 146, page 219.

3. A parcel of land situated in said Enfield, containing fifteen acres more or less, bounded and described as follows:— Beginning at a white oak tree marked on the line of J. J. Howe land; thence NORTH 21 rods and 5 links to a stake and stones; thence north 9 degrees 30 minutes East twenty-one (21) rods and seven (7) links to a stone wall on line of J. J. Howe land; thence WESTERLY on the line of said Howe's land to the line dividing the towns of Enfield and Belchertown; thence SOUTH on said town line fifty-four (54) rods to a stake and stones at the Northwest corner of land formerly owned by Henry M. Woods; thence EASTERLY to the first mentioned corner.

Parcels 2 and 3 above described are the same premises conveyed to me by Charles Austin by deed dated March 1, 1907, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 616 page 161;

4. A certain tract of land situated in said Enfield, described as follows: Beginning at the corner of land formerly owned by Daniel Trask on upper side of highway leading from Belchertown to Enfield; thence running Northerly on the line of said Trask's land about eighty (80) rods to a stake and stones; thence WESTERLY on land formerly owned by the Minot Company (Enfield) to William Gilbert's land about fifty (50) rods to a stake and stones; thence SOUTHERLY on said Gilbert's land about sixty-five (65) rods to highway leading to Amherst thence on said road EASTERLY to the first mentioned bound. For a more definite description, see book 87, page 224.

5. A certain tract of land situated in said Enfield, described as follows: Beginning at a stake and stones in the SOUTHEAST corner of the lot in the Westerly line of land formerly owned by Daniel T. Trask; running thence NORTH-

A heater has already been installed and a new stove purchased.

Up stairs are the main class rooms, five in number, that will be fitted to accommodate 200 pupils. Here in the High school section of the building is to be found equipment of the finest sort and accessories of which any school may be proud, principal's rooms, rest rooms, lockers, sanitary equipment and a mammoth heating plant, of both direct and indirect heating units.

Pipes have been laid to the street to tap the new water supply shortly to be installed, while a temporary pressure tank system has been put in for immediate use.

Go where one will, he finds satisfaction in the fact that innumerable details have been provided for. And it is also true that the appearance of the whole building is such that other towns, notably Enfield and Greenwich are looking this way to send their high school pupils. The building will however provide for the Junior High school department as well.

After next Tuesday night, there will be a number of things remaining to be done. A driveway and walks are yet to be put in and the committee will find its responsibilities have not ceased, even though the keys will be transferred to the town officials.

But the building will stand out on the day of its dedication, a monument to posterity, and to the far sightedness of the living who want the best yet to be.

Both as a matter of record and as a tribute to those who have carried their duties with a sense of high responsibility, we must mention the Lawrence trustees, Messrs. Roberts and Hazen, who have sought to carry out the wishes of the deceased and the need of the living in a most harmonious manner with the town's special building Committee of which Geo. E. Scott and W. F. Nichols have acted as chairmen, cooperating with them being A. R. Lewis, Everett Geer, H. H. Ward and Mrs. Geraldine Howard.

Town Items

Mrs. Mary Dodge has returned from a visit with her son in Holyoke.

Maurice Colbert of Pasadena, Cal. who lived for a time with Rev. J. H. Chandler, was in town last Saturday. Mr. Colbert has been studying in the University of California and has also been interested in aviation. He expects, after a two weeks' visit in this vicinity, to be connected with the Del Monte fruit concern in the Hawaiian Islands.

Georgia and Roger Chapman are visiting relatives and friends in Rumney, N. H.

The Young People are planning for a meeting at Lake Arcadia on Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. Cars will leave the chapel at 15 minutes before that hour. Societies in other towns have been invited.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Cook entertained at dinner last Friday night Rev. H. P. Rankin of Boston and Theodore Hazen.

Date Not Determined

Although the date of the Memorial Hall dedication has not been determined, the committee hopes that it can be held next week.

Installing Water System

A start has been made on Belchertown's new water system. A trench is being dug on South Main street, beginning at a point where the State school pipe line crosses the street near the home of W. F. Nichols.

The first effort of the commissioners is to put water into the school houses. This can be done without the use of the auxiliary pumps which are to be installed later to secure adequate pressure for second story use in houses on the hill.

The commissioners have let no contracts as yet for excavation and pipe laying, preferring to try out the policy of personal supervision with local help.

Bridge Being Constructed

The Chapin bridge, about which many a town meeting has been held and many a heated argument indulged in, is now giving place to a new iron structure. The heavy girders were trucked through town Wednesday. The contract price of the bridge is $4900.00. Belchertown has to pay 25% of the total cost of the structure.

Hampshire League Standing to Date

B'town	Won 7	Lost 1	Pct. 875
Pelham	Won 5	Lost 3	Pct. 625
Granby	Won 4	Lost 5	Pct. 444
Enfield	Won 1	Lost 8	Pct. 111

This standing does not include the protested game between Belchertown and Pelham, when the latter used an illegal pitcher. There seems to be no doubt but that this game will have to be replayed. It does include the protested game between Pelham and Granby, which may or may not be ordered replayed. If both games should be replayed, and Pelham should win them both, it would make her tied with Belchertown for League leadership. Enfield's break into the win column, and Granby's defeat of Pelham last Sunday were the upsets of the past fortnight.

—B. F. J.

Clambake Monday

The Metacomet Fox, Rod and Gun club is to hold a clambake Monday at Spencer's pond. This is the first event of the kind put on by the organization. Not only will the members enjoy clams, but sports as well, for quite a layout of events is on the program, most of which will be strenuous enough to reduce the bad effects of over eating to a minimum.

While the bake is for members only, there is a possibility that if there are not too many casualties after this venture, something larger will be put on later, to which the public will be invited.

More Contributions

The following people have subscribed to the Memorial building domestic science fund:

Miss Caroline Holland, Springfield
Philip Bridgman
Donald Bridgman
Robert Bridgman
Mrs. Abbie Walker's boys
Mr. William E. Shaw, Town
Mrs. William E. Shaw, Town
Miss Nettie Sanford, Springfield
Mrs. Harry Sutcliffe, Monson
Mrs. C. L. Morse, Town
Miss Ethel Dewey, Worcester
Mrs. Z. W. Thayer, Avon
Mrs. G. A. Norton, Northampton
Miss Grace Towne, Town
Miss Edith Towne, Town
Miss Laura Goodell, California
Earl M. Witt, Town

The total now amounts to $188.00, which with the $60.00 of the Community club, swells the fund to $248.00. It is very interesting to hear from people who have been away from town for years, and receive their contributions which are given so gladly.

Just at present, the larger contributions have for the most part come from out of town, which may or may not indicate the truth of the old adage about absence and fondness of heart.

Only a few over forty have as yet been heard from, and an average of a bit over $4.00 has been maintained.

Money never went for a better cause than the education of young people along lines that will make them better homemakers and citizens.

You need not have been graduated from B. H. S. to contribute to this. Several people have sent a dollar a year for the two or three years they were pupils here.

A five-hundred dollar limit is by no means too much.

—B. F. J.

Death of Joseph R. Gould

Joseph R. Gould died at his home on Jubish St. last Thursday after an illness lasting about four years. The death of Mr. Gould removes one identified with the business life of Belchertown for quite a number of years.

He was born in Bristol, England, Jan. 3, 1833, and was the son of Joseph and Mary Raymond Gould. On July 4, 1858 he was married to Sarah E. Corbett of Palmer, who survives him. In 1862 he enlisted with Co. H., 25th regiment volunteers, (in which his father also served) and participated in a number of campaigns.

For five years Mr. Gould conducted a carriage factory at Coventry, Conn. He then moved to Belchertown where he lived on the place now known as the Knight farm. He later moved to the house which he occupied at the time of his death. He built the block on the corner near his home in one part of which he conducted a grocery store and meat market. This was the outgrowth of a business started in a smaller building that stood nearby and which was burned in 1893.

Mr. Gould leaves besides his widow, a son, Henry R. Gould, and a daughter, Mrs. G. B. Demarest, both of this town; three sisters, Mrs. Olive Fraser of Nyack, N. Y., Mrs. Geo. Waterman of Orange, N. J., Mrs. Henry Banta of Hackensack, N. J.; six grandchildren, Harry Gould of Freeport, L. I., Joseph R. Gould, Mrs. H. B. Ketchen and Mrs. Clinton Hamilton of this town, Mrs. Robert Bardwell of Amherst and Mrs. H. M. Alden of Springfield. There are also four great grandchildren.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. C. H. Smith of Granby officiating. The bearers were the grand children with H. H. Ward, D. D. Hazen and E. E. Fairchild as honorary bearers. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

The Fair

Anent the fair, Mr. Editor, I am glad your columns are open for expression of opinion, pro and con, regarding it.

If it is a question of a fair, as I have seen the fairs, or no fair, I vote: no fair. Sorry that another alternative is not presented. If the question is put: a fair with modifications or no fair, I vote: a fair.

I like the idea of an annual gathering of citizens, former residents and friends of Belchertown. I like the idea of exhibits of our home industries, but I do not like the fakirs and the humbuggy features or the games of chance features. These things are an offense to the moral sense of the community.

If there is not time now to organize a fair on better lines and interest our citizens in it, as perhaps is the case, why not omit the fair this season, and with the new year begin plans for something that will be a benefit and a credit to the town.

MORTGAGEE SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Frank E. Austin of Belchertown, Hampshire County, Massachusetts to the Holyoke National Bank, a banking corporation duly established by law, with its usual place of business in Holyoke, Hampden County, Massachusetts, dated Nov. 14, 1921, and recorded with Hampshire County Registry of Deeds, Book 774, page 123, and of which mortgage the Holyoke National Bank is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, and for the purpose of foreclosing same will be sold at public auction at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on the 17th day of September, 1923, on the front steps of the town hall, in said Belchertown, Hampshire County, Massachusetts, all and singular, the premises described in said mortgage to wit:

The following tracts of land situated in Enfield, Hampshire County Massachusetts, and Belchertown, Hampshire County, Massachusetts:—

1. A certain parcel of land situated in the Easterly part of said Belchertown, bounded and described as follows: Being the same premises conveyed to Addison Burnett from Harrison Root in a deed dated April 28, 1864, and recorded in Hampshire County Registry of Deeds, book 220, page 171; and from Alanson L. Blackmer in a deed dated December, 1880, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 359, page 388; meaning to convey all the land left Bathie S. Stebbins by will from said Addison Burnett at the corner of Enfield and Dwight road, so called, containing sixty-one (61) acres more or less; being the same premises conveyed to me by deed of said Bathie S. Stebbins dated September 9, 1912, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 683, page 244.

2. Certain parcels of land situated in said Belchertown, with buildings thereon. For a more definite description of said parcels reference is hereby made to a deed from Wyatt Barlow to Ira F. Barlow recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 130, page 181; also to deed from Henry W. Barlow to Ira F. Barlow, recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 130, page 183; also one and one-fourth (1 1/4) acres lying contingent to home lot of Charles Austin and described in deed recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 146, page 219.

3. A parcel of land situated in said Enfield, containing fifteen acres more or less, bounded and described as follows:— Beginning at a white oak tree marked on the line of J. J. Howe land; thence NORTH 21 rods and 5 links to a stake and stones; thence north 9 degrees 30 minutes East twenty-one (21) rods and seven (7) links to a stone wall on line of J. J. Howe land; thence WESTERLY on the line of said Howe's land to the line dividing the towns of Enfield and Belchertown; thence SOUTH on said town line fifty-four (54) rods to a stake and stones at the Northwest corner of land formerly owned by Henry M. Woods; thence EASTERLY to the first mentioned corner.

Parcels 2 and 3 above described are the same premises conveyed to me by Charles Austin by deed dated March 1, 1907, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 616 page 161;

4. A certain tract of land situated in said Enfield, described as follows: Beginning at the corner of land formerly owned by Daniel Trask on upper side of highway leading from Belchertown to Enfield; thence running Northerly on the line of said Trask's land about eighty (80) rods to a stake and stones; thence WESTERLY on land formerly owned by the Minot Company (Enfield) to William Gilbert's land about fifty (50) rods to a stake and stones; thence SOUTHERLY on said Gilbert's land about sixty-five (65) rods to highway leading to Amherst thence on said road EASTERLY to the first mentioned bound. For a more definite description, see book 87, page 224.

5. A certain tract of land situated in said Enfield, described as follows: Beginning at a stake and stones in the SOUTHWEST corner of the lot in the Westerly line of land formerly owned by Daniel T. Trask; running thence NORTH-

ERLY thirty (30) rods and four (4) links bounding on said Trask's land; thence WEST 4 1/2 degrees South fifty (50) rods to stake and stones on William S. Gilbert's east line; thence SOUTH on said Gilbert's land thirty-four (34) rods and one and one-half (1 1/2) links to a stake and stones; thence East 9 degrees North to the first mentioned bound; containing seventy (70) acres, more or less. For more definite description, see book 87, page 195, in said Registry of Deeds.

Parcels 4 and 5 above described are the same premises conveyed to me by Rebecca Crosby Davila et al., by deed dated January 27, 1908, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 626, page 341.

6. A certain tract of land situated in said Belchertown, bounded and described as follows: Beginning near a corner of James Hanks' land, on the west side of Great Hill road, so called; thence SOUTHERLY across said road to lands of Josiah B. Woods and on said Wood's land to a stake and stones; thence EASTERLY on lands of Zenas Woods to a stake and stones, near a large chestnut tree; thence NORTHERLY to a stake and stones near the corner of James Hanks' pasture; thence WESTERLY on lands of said James Hanks to the first mentioned bounds; containing forty-five acres, more or less, being the same premises described in deed Barlow-Wyatt to Henry W. Barlow dated November 22, 1847, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 121, page 204.

7. All other real estate of every description owned by me and situated in said Belchertown and said Enfield.

Dies in Anacortes

Anacortes, Washington.

Editor of the Sentinel:—

It is with regret that we record the death of Mrs. Mary Barrett Shumway, who lived many years south of the village, where her father, Silas Barrett, and her husband, the late George N. Shumway, were engaged in the manufacture of farming tools. Mr. Shumway and his brother, Edward came to Washington territory in 1880.

Mr. and Mrs. Shumway brought to this new land the sterling qualities of their New England ancestors; absolutely honest, generous and kindly to all with whom they came in contact, their home in the forest was a haven of refuge to many of the homeless young men who had come to this wild region to better their fortunes, and they will be held in blessed memory by many of the pioneers who survive them.

—F. G. A.

We quote from the Anacortes Citizen as follows:

"Mrs. Mary Barrett Shumway, the first white woman to settle on the Samish river above Edison, passed away Tuesday at her home, 1010 Twenty-second street, after an illness of several months. Mrs. Shumway was in her eightieth year, having been born at Hinsdale, Massachusetts, in 1844. She came to the territory of Washington with her father in 1883 and with her husband, the late George N. Shumway, took up a homestead on the site of what is now Belfast, in Skagit county, living there until March, 1905, when they sold their ranch and moved to Anacortes, where Mr. Shumway engaged in the hardware business. Mr. Shumway passed away in July 1916.

"Mr. Shumway was a veteran of the Civil War and a prominent member of the local post of the G. A. R. Both were members of the Pilgrim Congregational church and took active parts in the worth while affairs of the community before they were incapacitated by advancing years.

"They had no children and Mrs. Shumway had no immediate relatives. Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Shumway had lived alone. The true spirit of the pioneer asserted itself in her declining years and she made light of her infirmities, her close friends not being aware until two weeks ago that she was in a serious condition.

"The last rites were held Thursday afternoon at two o'clock at the Congregational church with Rev. J. D. Hudson, of Seattle, former pastor of the church here in charge, assisted by Rev. A. I. Fereh. A choir from the Congregational church sang several numbers and the remains were taken to Bow for interment in the family plot, beside those of her husband."

Ford Announcement

Introduction of a higher radiator, bringing new and improved body lines to all types of Ford cars is announced today by the Ford Motor Co.

The changes have just gone into effect and the various types are now in production.

While the larger radiator has been made standard on all types and while it has made possible other betterments in body design, there is no radical departure in construction, but rather a general improvement which has resulted in more graceful lines.

The new radiator sets an inch and a half higher than the former and has an apron at the bottom which joins a similar apron effect of the fender on either side, giving a highly finished appearance to the front of the car. The larger radiator also increases cooling efficiency.

Most conspicuous among the new types is the Ford Coupe which is of entirely new body design and construction, resulting in a more trim exterior appearance, more comfortable seating arrangement and a greater luggage carrying capacity.

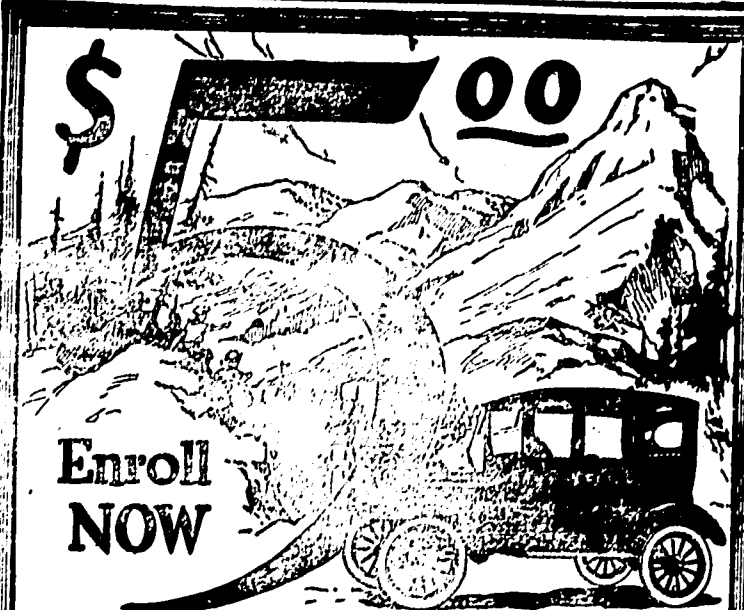

From the dash there is a graceful sweep in the cowl to the radiator, bringing a pleasing effect to the front. The doors are wide and open forward making access and exit easy. They are heavily framed for rigidity and strength. The compartment at the rear has been enlarged to afford increased carrying capacity. The gasoline tank is under the seat, with divided cushions to afford easy filling of the tank from the right side, making it unnecessary for the driver to leave his seat. Ventilator in the cowl and a visor over the windshield add much to the attractiveness of the car. A new rear fender of more sturdy character also is a feature.

Marked, too, is the improvement in the Four-Door Sedan. Highly popular since its introduction a year ago, because of its low, graceful lines, the car now presents even much better lines and a sturdier appearance.

This has been brought about by the installation of an entirely new cowl with a graceful sweep from the dash blending into the larger hood and radiator. The change also affords an increase in leg room for occupants of the front seat.

In the open types, the Touring car and Runabout, the cowl has been enlarged and flows in a graceful curve to the higher hood.

The result brings a most pleasing effect to the exterior appearance of both types. The improvement in the Touring car which came when the one-man top and slanting windshield were introduced, is greatly enhanced by the larger radiator, the car appearing lower and more attractive than ever. The effect on the Roadster is likewise most appealing, giving it a more rugged and sturdy appearance.

The new radiator also is extended to the Ford Truck Chassis, affording improved appearance and better cooling to delivery services.

These new Ford types and the generally recognized performance ability of the Ford under all motoring conditions, promise to bring a greater demand than ever before as the public becomes more fully acquainted with the higher standards and greater values which have been incorporated. No changes are contemplated in prices.

Sanford Euchre

Mrs. Fred B. Purdy and Kittie P. Spellman entertained an old time euchre party of ten tables at the Purdy homestead Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sanford of Los Angeles, California, former residents. It was a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Sanford and was composed of members of the old club, of more than twenty years ago, and of which Mr. and Mrs. Sanford were members.

First prizes were won by Mrs. Louise Sherman and George H. B. Green, and the consolation prizes went to Mrs. W. S. Piper and J. A. Peeso.

A gift of a framed picture of the Historical building was presented to the guests of honor, who formerly lived in the Stone house.

Palmer road was the scene of quite a bit of excitement Wednesday night. Edward Robinson reports that he was held up below Leach's underpass as he stepped out of his car to pick up a tire in the road. William Squires came along later and secured the tire in spite of the fact that he stalled his car on the spot. Sheriff Allen was called to the scene by Robinson, but all that was found out of the ordinary on the road was a man farther up the road, in a partially intoxicated condition. He shortly came to and was taken to Palmer where he resides.

Clambake a Success

The clambake of the Metacomet Fox, Rod and Gun club at Spencer's pond on Labor day proved as big a success as was expected of it. The club members are quite elated over the outcome and many of the townspeople are itching for a public demonstration.

About 50 sat down to the clams produced by the local chefs. The dinner committee consisted of E. L. Schmidt, Milton Baggs, Carl Aspengren, Roland Shaw, Roy Shaw, and the president, J. W. Jackson.

Trap shooting was the chief amusement of the day, and while no prizes were awarded, there was just as keen competition as though there had been. Milton Baggs secured the highest score, getting 9 out of 10, while Robert Baggs came through with 8 out of 10.

The fusillade was not confined to the experts, however. Members of lower rating had their chance and felt at home.

A number of out of town members were present to enjoy the day. Speaking of members, the probability is that the club membership will swell considerably by reason of the success of the first clambake.

Ceremonies Today

Today is a great day for Belchertown. At 4 p. m. Reuben L. Roberts of Boston, senior trustee of the Robinson estate will lay the cornerstone of Lawrence Memorial hall with appropriate ceremonies, while at 8 p. m. the dedication of the Hall and High school building will take place.

The program tonight will be rendered as printed in last week's issue. The music will be in charge of J. G. Heidner and Son of Holyoke, who have a well earned reputation for presenting musical talent of ability.

All is in readiness for these epoch making ceremonies. Much outside work has yet to be done, but the interior of the building, is practically in its finished state. The High school rooms are ready for the beginning of school next week.

CORNER STONE CONTENTS

Among the papers to be placed in the corner stone this afternoon are the following:

Will of Sarah T. Robinson.
Petition of trustees to collaborate with the town.
Answer of attorney general.
Deed of Probate Court in above petition.

Agreement between trustees and town.
Copies of Sentinel and Hampshire Gazette containing legal notices.

Extracts of various reviews and notices of the publications of Mrs. Robinson and of her husband, Dr. Charles Robinson, first governor of Kansas, and two prints of buildings of the Kansas State University at Lawrence, Kansas.

Sentinel of Aug. 24, 1923 and other papers containing articles regarding building.

Management Replies

Belchertown, Mass.
Sept. 4, 1923.

Mr. Blackmer,
Dear Sir—
Will you please give this space this week?

In reply to the Belcher Towne sketch in the Sentinel of Aug. 24th, would say: The management of our annual Fair were interested in suggestions made and if Belcher Towne will come out in the open, he will have an invitation to prove his ability and persuasive powers to improve our one-day gathering. I venture to say not one of the B. F. & M. club officials would hesitate to resign in favor of such a progressive, wide-awake individual as he must be.

He is evidently a new comer, as the management in years past have, without success, tried to get suggestions from any source that would improve in any way our Fair.

Nearly everyone who comes annually from surrounding towns to enjoy meeting old friends once more say: No place like good old Belchertown for a day's enjoyment. Some people delight in the pleasure afforded the great number of young folks who would be absent but for the Merry-Go-Round, Ferris Wheel, etc., and while we cannot oblige the progressive farmer, fruit and poultry men, of whom we have some of the best, to interest themselves in action net words, we endeavor to have a clean, moral day of enjoyment for all who attend with a spirit of cooperation.

Just criticism inspires improvement, but a grouse receives no special invitation to attend.

The Fakirless Fair

One of our lady citizens has sent us a copy of The Country Gentleman for March 3, 1923, which contains an article entitled "A Fair for Farmers, not Fakirs," the motto which inspired Belcher Towne to write under a similar heading in a recent issue. The article is valuable in that it demonstrates an actual oc-

The Earthquake and Its Lessons

An appalling catastrophe has befallen Japan. An unknown number of people have been killed, an unknown number of others have been injured, an unknown number of homes and other buildings have been shaken to ruin by the resistless earth tremors or devoured by the unquenching flames that followed.

It staggers our imagination to compass the suffering and sorrow this awful calamity has brought upon the Japanese. There are the homeless to be housed, the naked to be clothed, the hungry to be fed, the sick and the injured to be relieved — and help from the outside so far, far away! The world will hasten to the rescue. Why? Because, as an early Christian teacher proclaimed on pagan Mars Hill: "God hath made of one blood all nations of men." The earthquake awakens us to a fresh realization of the essential unity of nations. We are of one blood.

Nothing can annul this great human fact. Distance does not annul it; nationality does not annul it; color does not annul it; speech does not annul it; culture and religion do not annul it. It is a fundamental fact of human nature.

But at times distance and boundary lines and differences of color and speech and civilization and faith obscure the light of this great fact and lead men and nations to act as though it were annihilated.

Today, in contemplation of the suffering and woe that have fallen upon the people of Nippon, we feel the strength of this unity and acknowledge the obligation of the high law of brotherhood which should be the guiding star of all nations in all their dealings at all times with other nations.

MORTGAGEE SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Frank E. Austin of Belchertown, Hampshire County, Massachusetts to the Holyoke National Bank, a banking corporation duly established by law, with its usual place of business in Holyoke, Hampden County, Massachusetts, dated Nov. 14, 1921, and recorded with Hampshire County Registry of Deeds, Book 774, page 123, and of which mortgage the Holyoke National Bank is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage, and for the purpose of foreclosing same will be sold at public auction at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on the 17th day of September, 1923, on the front steps of the town hall, in said Belchertown, Hampshire County, Massachusetts, all and singular, the premises described in said mortgage to wit:

The following tracts of land situated in Enfield, Hampshire County Massachusetts, and Belchertown, Hampshire County, Massachusetts:—
1. A certain parcel of land situated in the Easterly part of said Belchertown, bounded and described as follows: Being the same premises conveyed to Addison Burnett from Harrison Root in a deed dated April 28, 1864, and recorded in Hampshire County Registry of Deeds, book 220, page 171; and from Alanson L. Blackmer in a deed dated December, 1880, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 359, page 388; meaning to convey all the land left Bathie S. Stebbins by will from said Addison Burnett at the corner of Enfield and Dwight road, so called, containing sixty-one (61) acres more or less; being the same premises conveyed to me by deed of said Bathie S. Stebbins dated September 9, 1912, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 683, page 244.

2. Certain parcels of land situated in said Belchertown, with buildings thereon. For a more definite description of said parcels reference is hereby made to a deed from Wyatt Barlow to Ira F. Barlow recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 130, page 181; also to deed from Henry W. Barlow to Ira F. Barlow, recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 130, page 183; also one and one-fourth (1¼) acres lying contingent to home lot of Charles Austin and described in deed recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 146, page 219.

3. A parcel of land situated in said Enfield, containing fifteen acres more or less, bounded and described as follows:— Beginning at a white oak tree marked on the line of J. J. Howe land; thence NORTH 21 rods and 5 links to a stake and stones; thence north 9 degrees 30 minutes East twenty-one (21) rods and seven (7) links to a stone wall on line of J. J. Howe land; thence WESTERLY on the line of said Howe's land to the line dividing the towns of Enfield and Belchertown; thence SOUTH on said town line fifty-four (54) rods to a stake and stones at the Northwest corner of land formerly owned by Henry M. Woods; thence EASTERLY to the first mentioned corner.

Parcels 2 and 3 above described are the same premises conveyed to me by Charles Austin by deed dated March 1, 1907, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, Book 616, page 161;

4. A certain tract of land situated in said Enfield, described as follows: Beginning at the corner of land formerly owned by Daniel Trask on upper side of highway leading from Belchertown to Enfield; thence running Northerly on the line of said Trask's land about eighty (80) rods to a stake and stones; thence WESTERLY on land formerly owned by the Minot Company (Enfield) to William Gilbert's land about fifty (50) rods to a stake and stones; thence SOUTHERLY on said Gilbert's land about sixty-five (65) rods to highway leading to Amherst thence on said road EASTERLY to the first mentioned bound. For a more definite description, see book 87, page 224.

5. A certain tract of land situated in said Enfield, described as follows: Beginning at a stake and stones in the SOUTHEAST corner of the lot in the Westerly line of land formerly owned by Daniel T. Trask; running thence NORTH-

ERLY thirty (30) rods and four (4) links bounding on said Trask's land; thence WEST 4½ degrees South fifty (50) rods to stake and stones on William S. Gilbert's east line; thence SOUTH on said Gilbert's land thirty-four (34) rods and one and one-half (1½) links to a stake and stones; thence East 9 degrees North to the first mentioned bound; containing seventy (70) acres, more or less. For more definite description, see book 87, page 195, in said Registry of Deeds.

Parcels 4 and 5 above described are the same premises conveyed to me by Rebecca Crosby Davis et al., by deed dated January 27, 1908, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 626, page 341.

6. A certain tract of land situated in said Belchertown, bounded and described as follows: Beginning near a corner of James Hanks' land, on the west side of Great Hill road, so called; thence SOUTHERLY across said road to lands of Josiah B. Woods and on said Wood's land to a stake and stones; thence EASTERLY on lands of Zenas Woods to a stake and stones, near a large chestnut tree; thence NORTHERLY to a stake and stones near the corner of James Hanks' pasture; thence WESTERLY on lands of said James Hanks to the first mentioned bounds; containing forty-five acres; more or less, being the same premises described in deed Barlow-Wyatt to Henry W. Barlow dated November 22, 1847, and recorded in said Registry of Deeds, book 121, page 204.

7. All other real estate of every description owned by me and situated in said Belchertown and said Enfield.

"Time," was arranged and produced under the direction of Miss Michelson, the girls' physical director, to whose untiring efforts the success of the affair may be attributed. The program was as follows: Opening chorus, Let's Have One Good Time, the entire company Songs, Strut Yo' Stuff, Oow Bells, Aunt Jemima's Jubilee.

The Black Face Quartette Song and dance, I'm Hungry for Beautiful Girls,

The entire company Song and dance, School Days, Highland Fling, done in costume by the twins

Solo, The Rose of No Man's Land, in costume

Dance, The Snake Charmer, from Dancing a Ling's Circus

Solo and dance, Alice Blue Gown

Specialty, The Athletes

Song, I Know What It Means to be Lonely

Dance, The Hawaiian, in costume

Dance, Three O'Clock in the Morning, the entire company

Native Indian dance

Closing chorus, the entire company

Between the numbers just enough plot was interspersed to rate the show as a true musical comedy.

A three piece employees' orchestra furnished music for the show and the dance which followed.

Grange Notes

The members of Union grange were treated to an unusual and interesting entertainment Tuesday evening, the lecturer having carried the program as outlined at the beginning of the year, combining surprise night of the August 21 meeting with the state speakers' night.

Rev. C. H. Smith, deputy of the State grange and Mrs. Smith, also Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Randall, former residents of the town, were present from Granby, Mr. Smith having been invited to speak, which he did in his usual interesting manner.

Mrs. Bert Collis of Ludlow and Principal Thomas Allen sang "Hark, Hark My Soul," which was greatly appreciated, as was also a solo by Carl Aspengren, accompanied by Mrs. Aspengren. Mrs. H. F. Curtis read an amusing little sketch. Peanuts were the last thing on the program.

Each one of the 30 present went home feeling they had spent a very profitable evening.

Pomona grange met at Leverett yesterday.

Benefit Entertainment

The chapel was in gala attire last Friday for the benefit entertainment arranged by Mrs. Hattie Taylor. Streamers of pink and white festooned the audience room where the young folks, assisted by their elders, gave an entertainment, liberal in length and varied in subject.

Home-made candy was on sale during the evening, helping to swell the proceeds which amounted to $27.27.

Another Win

The Belchertown base ball team scored another win last Saturday afternoon when it defeated Granby 10 to 3. Thibadeau pitched a good game allowing only four hits. In the 7th Clark took Ironsides' place on the mound for Granby.

W. Grover Snow of Minneapolis, Minn., is expected in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Peck Sunday. The Ladies' Social Union will hold a business meeting with Mrs. Elmer Peco Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m. A large attendance is desired as there is a lot of work to be finished. Dr. Charles Nichols and family, who have been visiting at the home of W. F. Nichols, returned Wednesday to Minneapolis, Minn. Dr. J. L. Collard returned Tuesday from the Holyoke City hospital where he has been for the past few weeks.

Belding F. Jackson accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Bridgman and daughter on their return to Schenectady.

The annual fair of the Farmers' and Mechanics club will be held October 17.

Painters have begun work on the Congregational church, funds for which were subscribed a few weeks ago.

Papers were passed Saturday transferring the Ira Damon property from Palmer N. Taylor to Mr. Johnson of Springfield. The new owner is making many improvements on the place.

Miss Dorothy Upham of Weston and Miss Eleanore Yenton of Auburn, Me., are in town in readiness to take up their duties in the B. H. S.

Miss Marjory Richardson, who resigned to accept a position in Waltham, visited in town this week.

Mrs. Charles Foss, Mrs. A. E. Warner, Miss Margaret F. Moriarty and Miss Ella Stebbins spent Tuesday with Mrs. Emily Gilbert of Westfield, the occasion being Mrs. Gilbert's 86th birthday. The hostess, a former resident of Belchertown, is remarkably active for her years and retains all her interest in Belchertown and its doings. She was well remembered with gifts from friends in California, Springfield and Belchertown.

currence, not a theory. We quote a few paragraphs:

The motto of this festival is: A Fair for Farmers, not Fakirs. Its president, Charles S. Putt, said to me: "Years ago we had out south of town the usual kind of a county fair with a race track, grand stand, buildings for the livestock and other exhibits, a high board fence all around it and an entrance fee of fifty cents. Fakirs and girl shows killed it, as they have killed and are killing and will kill hundreds of other county fairs. It got so that the midway and fakirs' row were about all there was to the fair, and then it died. Several years went by and then, eight years ago, this fakirless fair was born here. It began small, with a few hogs and some exhibits of school work. It has grown each year until it has reached what you see here—one of the best county airs in Kansas, but without a fence, without a fake."

In three days upwards of 12,000 people went to the fair in Mankato, and there wasn't a fakir to get a penny from one of them; not even a cane rack or a baby rack or a concession of any kind except a merry-go-round for the boys and girls.

It is all free. The stores are open all the time; it is the biggest business week of the year for them, and the beauty of it is the money all stays right here; none of it is carried off by fakirs. For every penny spent full value is given; there are no fakes and no skin games of any kind to create bad feeling between town and country. The farmers and town folks mix together for three days right here in town, and the community spirit thus created is one of the fine features of the fair.

There are anywhere from 5,000 to 10,000 people. This fair draws them. What is the purpose of a fair? We think its two prime purposes are educational and social, one about as important as the other, and coming third in importance is the amusement end of it. We have the educational features, better than the average fair.

In the parade were floats by the merchants of the town. A hardware dealer had one ingeniously made of giant saws; a furniture dealer had a pretty girl in a bower of roses, sitting at a dressing table arranging her hair; a lumber company had a house, mother on the doorstep with a baby in her arms, the father working in the garden in front. Every church and Sunday school in town and country had a float; there were hundreds of Sunday school children in it; and the schools of the county, the different lodges, the G. A. R., the American Legion, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. had floats. There were several individual floats by farmers. One of the best was by Elmer Runyon, a farmer who lives two miles west of town. It was made of corn stalks, kafir corn, oats, wheat, pumpkins, squash and different fruits, grains and vegetables grown on his farm.

"It took me three days to build it, but it's worth it," he said. "A man that wouldn't give at least three days a year to this fair isn't much account. See what a crowd it brings in and what fun everyone is having, and everything clean. My children are here just running around loose; we don't have to watch them like we would at an ordinary fair where there are so many fakirs and crooks."

"One thing we do know," said Ira L. White, a farmer in charge of the poultry and farm-products tent, "Jewell is the banner poultry county in the state, and it's largely because of the influence of this fair. This county is first in alfalfa, too, is considered one of the banner counties in corn, and I am told that there is only one other county in the state that has as many farm homes with modern conveniences, such as running water and electric light."

"Another thing you don't want to overlook," interrupted Mr. Thompson, the county agricultural agent. "This fair has made Jewell the leader in livestock in Kansas. Statistics show that we ship out more cattle and hogs for slaughter than any other county in the state."

The editor of the Mankato Advocate, who has taken a deep interest in the fair from the first, said: "Now don't get the idea that because we bar out the fakes and low-down shows we are against amusement and play. We are opposed only to rotten amusements. For this fair we have in the street a free acrobatic show and a high-class opera singer, band music and the parades. We have Cho Cho, the Health Clown, in the opera house for the children, and a good play, a dance, and baseball and football games, horseshoe pitching and other things. That is all clean amusement."

Large Enrolment

The High school used its new quarters on Monday for the first time. 123 students enrolled themselves that day, while on Tuesday the total went to 126. 25 of these came from Enfield and Greenwich. 17 entered the commercial department, which is a new course, offered for the first time this fall.

Miss Sayles is the temporary instructor in this department, taking the place of Mrs. Shirley Brown, who is in the hospital.

True to its record in emergency situations, the school got under way in remarkably good time, considering the fact that new quarters were being used, necessitating the transfer of books, etc. Lessons were assigned Monday, and on Tuesday practically all classes in the various courses were heard.

Accounting at Post Office

During the period from Sept. 21 to Oct. 20 inclusive the Post-office Department has requested postmaster Pratt to furnish much detailed information which the department will use for the purpose of determining the cost of handling the various classes of mail. Only one other third class office in the state has been requested to furnish this data, and it is accepted as a tribute to the efficiency of the Belchertown post-office that it has been so selected.

This involves a count of revenue on the different classes of mail, the weight thereof by classes to states of destination, the number of pieces by classes of outgoing and incoming mails handled, and the number of transactions of each kind completed each day, also a record of the different classes of mail delivered and collected at each stop by one of the rural carriers.

At times when the mail is heavy, the furnishing of this data may cause a slight delay in the delivery of mails, but such delay will be reduced to the lowest possible minimum. Postmaster Pratt requests the indulgence of the public during the short period mentioned.

Patrons of the office will also confer a favor and assist in the prompt dispatch of their mail by depositing their outgoing mail as early as possible before closing time for train dispatches.

Cornerstone Laying and Dedication

The exercises in connection with the opening of Lawrence Memorial hall and High school took place last Friday. Shortly before 4 o'clock, the appointed hour, a goodly company of the townspeople gathered to witness the laying of the cornerstone, which, in the words of the senior trustee, Reuben L. Roberts of Boston, had not been rejected, later to become the head of the corner, but had been carefully preserved for the ceremonies of the afternoon.

Rev. D. L. Hilliard offered prayer, after which Mr. Roberts made remarks concerning the various documents that would be placed in the stone for future generations to view in case any were foolish enough to think that they could tear down and build better.

At the close of the remarks, the papers alluded to were placed in the metal container, which, after being sealed, was put in the cornerstone. The singing of America concluded the ceremonies of the afternoon.

The exercises, though somewhat informal in nature, were, however, carried out with a true appreciation of the real significance of the event.

THE DEDICATION

Lawrence Memorial hall and High school bade the people of Belchertown Welcome on Friday evening. Men and women dedicated the building, to be sure, but it was quite apparent that a new personality had manifested itself in our midst and wanted to greet those for whom it had come into being.

There were many who accepted the silent invitation at this time of the first coming together, and to all appearances the meeting was a happy one. Lawrence Memorial hall and High school were accepted that night, even had there been no formal observance. The people came, not simply to see the hall, but to appreciate it.

It was in such an atmosphere that D. D. Hazen, junior trustee of the Lawrence estate and master of the dedication ceremonies, announced the Heiders of Holyoke, who gave a pleasing half hour's musical entertainment with violin, cello and piano, preliminary to the formal exercises of the evening.

After the musical selections, the various town officials came to the platform and occupied seats of honor with the trustees and building committee.

Prayer was offered by Rev. D. L. Hilliard, after which Reuben L.

Another Clambake

Owing to the general demand for a clambake open to the public, the Metacomet Fox, Rod and Gun club have decided to hold such a bake on Wednesday, September 26, at Spencer's pond. As it is quite necessary that the approximate number attending be known, it is urged that people contemplating so doing, procure tickets by the 20th. These can be obtained at J. W. Jackson's store.

Four Questions

Belchertown, Mass.,
Sept. 11, 1923.

To the Editor of the Sentinel:-

With your very kind permission, I should like to take this opportunity of asking, through your columns, a few questions of the so-called Belchertown Farmers' and Mechanics' club. They are:

1. When and by whom was the B. F. & M. club given the right to rent the common, which is public property?
2. What becomes of the money secured from the rental of this public property?
3. Why is it that the town itself does not receive a portion, at least, of this money?
4. By what right can any person or group of persons rent public property without the express permission of a majority of the voters of the town?

I am sure many of our citizens who have been long uninformed regarding these matters will await with great interest such answers as the officers or members of the B. F. & M. club may see fit to give.

A Believer in the Right

To Further Piano Project

A meeting was held Tuesday evening of all those interested in securing a piano for Lawrence Memorial hall. W. F. Nichols of the special building committee stated that about $265 had already been pledged, and it was his desire that an organization be formed to take over the pledges and the responsibility of carrying out the project.

It was therefore voted to form an organization for the furtherance of music in the community and for the raising of the necessary amount to purchase a suitable piano. The one used at the dedication ceremonies is

Roberts, senior trustee, presented J. V. Cook, chairman of the selectmen, the deed of the land on which the building is located. This land was bought by Mrs. Robinson during her lifetime in the expectation that the proposed Memorial hall would be erected there. In presenting the deed, Mr. Roberts cited many facts of interest regarding Myron Lawrence, in whose memory the hall was built, Governor Robinson of Kansas, and other relatives whose portraits he pointed out on the walls.

In accepting the deed Mr. Cook paid high tribute to the trustees for the part they played in the erection of the building, stating that they had built better than they knew.

Music was then rendered by a chorus of sixteen voices, with Miss M. Louise Allen as accompanist, following which George E. Scott, in a few well chosen words, presented the town through its chairman of selectmen, with the keys of the building. In responding, Mr. Cook said that "no committee had served more faithfully or more honestly."

Musical selections were given at this point, including a cello solo by Miss Bowers and a piano solo by Miss Helen Parker, both of the Heidner party.

Dr. Payson Smith of the State Department of Education, was then introduced. Dr. Smith interpreted to his audience the true meaning and object of this "temple of education," which he said was for the "furtherance of education of all of us, and not the children alone." He said that the business of education is important, not because of the amount of money involved, or that one-fifth of our entire population starts to school this fall, but because of the results that shall come from it.

He added further that education is not simply to attain a successful career and to make one keener than another in order to outdo his fellows, but it is to insure a better and a higher type of citizenship.

Dr. Smith stressed the kind of citizenship that has the quality of intelligence, that is able to see the truth, see facts and make decisions in accordance with them. He said, "It is hard to face facts you don't want to believe, facts that cut across one's personal interest and welfare," and called attention to the tremendous need in our country today of this type of thinking.

The speaker deprecated the forming of blocs for the furtherance of selfish interests and said that he who decides on that basis rather than on that of his country's need is not big enough to represent his own ward.

Dr. Smith emphasized individual responsibility, and cited how progress had come about by some one discovering new truth and following it with the minority till the majority were willing to accept it.

He called attention to the necessity of teaching children to help themselves—which alone constitutes true teaching, and stated that in spite of an efficient building committee and a grand building in consequence, these can only help in attaining the real objective.

Dr. Smith said that education is not "a short cut around a job to a position", but it is to help one find his work and make him efficient when he finds it.

The speaker's closing words were ones of hope, hope for the young people in whom he had the greatest confidence and trust that this new temple of education in Belchertown would be a means of emphasizing the kind of education which he had been trying to portray.

After a selection by the chorus, the building was inspected by those present, who went from room to room, commenting to one another regarding the fine equipment, and all with an air of ownership and an added sense of comradeship with those of other days whose eyes did not behold this building of beauty, but whose spirit helped to make Belchertown's latest building project possible.

Red Cross to the Rescue

The following letter from the Hampshire Co. branch of the Red Cross has been received by Mrs. Aspengren.

To the Branches of the American Red Cross, Hampshire Co. Chapter.
In accordance with the proclamation of President Coolidge, Hampshire Co. Chapter, American Red Cross is receiving and forwarding contributions for the relief of those suffering from the great disaster in Japan.

Our Chapter quota has been fixed at $2,500, and we invite the people within our jurisdiction to forward their subscriptions to Warren M.
King, treasurer, or Nancy A. Trow, executive secretary, in Northampton. Make checks payable to the Red Cross. There will be no organized canvass for money.

Do not give to solicitors unless you are well acquainted with them and confident of their integrity.

Send your check or post money order, or subscribe through your local Red Cross officer. All contributions will be acknowledged through the Gazette. The need is urgent and early gifts will do most good.

W. E. Shannon, Chairman
Nancy A. Trow, Executive Sec'y

In compliance with the above request, a free-will offering for the relief of the suffering people of Japan will be taken at both the morning and evening services of the Federated church on Sunday.

Camping Out

What is more fun than camping out? We Girl Scouts think there is nothing like it. Of course some things always happen which are not on the original schedule, but making the best of it is part of the fun of camping. There was the bag of sugar which burst open and spilled its contents, but nobody seemed to mind that some of the cocoa was meagerly sweetened, or that the fudge was rather limited in quantity. Even forgotten knives and forks could not upset the equanimity of Girl Scouts (though we would hate to be checked up on table manners in consequence thereof).

Just to add to the excitement, we always have some little accident on the program, first or last. This time it was first, and in the unsettled condition of camp, even the limited supply of first aid material could not be located, but again resourcefulness overcame lack of resources.

The first trip to the spring for water provoked another flurry of excitement. Wandering along paths that showed no source of water supply, retracing the course and trying again, the final arrival at the spring and the attempt to adjust the pipe so as to hasten the flow of water, the long wait while the thin stream trickled slowly into the pail, the unfortunate spill and the long wait repeated—by this time the home camp had started out en masse to search for the missing.

But why dwell on your troubles, past or present? Remember rather the camp fire with the hot dogs, the roasted corn and potatoes, the flames leaping in the darkness, the toasted marshmallows, the gleaming embers of the dying fire as "taps" was sung.

And don't forget the hikes for milk,
the encounter with the woodchuck, the swim in the lake, the pitching of quoits, the 16-4 baseball game, the night in the open, O, there are lots of things we'll all remember.

And we would not forget those who made this venture possible. First of all are our mothers and fathers who let us go and supplied us with no end of good things. Then there was "Eleanor" who went with us to camp and made good things for us to eat, and bound up our wounds, and told us stories, and hunted us up when we were lost, and captained and coached our baseball team, and everything. Then there was "Don" who furnished transportation to and from camp for luggage, eatables, girls and all. And last, but not at all least, there were Mr. and Mrs.
Kelley who gave us the use of their cottage at Lake Arcadia with its full equipment for camping. How could we have gone if any of these people had failed us? We count them all our good friends and are grateful to them for every minute of our fun in camp last week.

Special Meeting

A special town meeting has been called for Thursday evening, Sept. 27, at 8 o'clock in Lawrence Memorial hall to consider the following articles:

Art. 1. To choose a moderator to preside at said meeting.
Art. 2. To see if the town will vote to appropriate a sum of money to complete the sidewalks and grading at the Lawrence Memorial hall and High school building.
Art. 3. To see if the town will vote to appropriate a sum of money to meet the expenditures of the Poor department for the remainder of the current financial year.

Art. 4. To see if the town will vote to appropriate a sum of money for the school department.

Clambake for All

The clambake to be given by the Metacomet Fox, Rod and Gun club next Wednesday at Spencer's pond is for all. Tickets are $1.25 and are procurable at J. W. Jackson's or at the grounds on the appointed day. The only safe way, however, is to buy them in advance.

Dinner is scheduled for 1.30 and trap shooting and other sports will occupy the afternoon.

CLUB SHOOT TOMORROW

The club will hold a trap shoot tomorrow afternoon on their own account, at Spencer's pond.

It is hoped that at no distant date a club house will be erected on the grounds where this year's festivities are being held.

Contributions to Red Cross

In response to the special appeal for funds for relief work being carried on in Japan, Belchertown has contributed $32.76, the money coming from the following sources:

Federated church offering $24.89
Collection at Legion dance 4.87
From friends 3.00

$32.76

Additional Tablet

It develops that a few names have been omitted on the bronze tablet in Memorial hall, which contains the names of those from Belchertown serving in the World war. It is therefore proposed to add a smaller tablet with the names of those who have been overlooked.

Edward Parent of the American Legion, who is attending to the matter, requests that any having knowledge of unrecorded names, report the same to him immediately by calling 7-12.

$83 More

The Domestic Science fund was swelled to $292 this week, $83 having been added in a few days. The sixty dollars given by the Community Club has just been expended for installing the hot water tank and heater, and connecting them. This leaves an unexpended balance of $178, more than which is needed to equip the room with sewing machines and cooking implements. But friends and alumni are doing wonderfully well, and there are hundreds more to be heard from.

Dies in Wilbraham

Asa C. Smith, a former resident of this town and for several years a member of the board of selectmen, died in Wilbraham Wednesday. Mr. Smith was born in Belchertown and was engaged in manufacture and agriculture, until his retirement a few years ago.

Besides his widow he leaves one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Smith Bartlett, and three grandchildren; also one sister, Mrs. Julia McKendrick of Boston.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Beers' undertaking rooms in Palmer. Burial will be in the South cemetery in Belchertown.

The funeral took place in Amherst yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. John A. Hawley officiating. A service was held here at 3.45 o'clock and interment was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

ning and furnished a very interesting program, consisting of readings, vocal and instrumental music. There were also visitors from Enfield and North Dana, an attendance of about 75. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be a mixed program in charge of the lecturer.

Union grange accepted an invitation to Ludlow Monday evening and 25 members attended. Granby and Hampden were also invited guests. An interesting program was furnished by the three granges. Refreshments were served by Ludlow grange and dancing was enjoyed. Ludlow grange has recently purchased the hall which they occupy and among other improvements is a fine new floor in the upper hall. The dedication of the building as a grange hall will be held this fall.

Pomona grange will meet at Whately October 4.

Dies in Amherst

The death of Mrs. Sarah Walker Cowles of Amherst on Tuesday afternoon removed a person well known in Belchertown where she spent a good portion of her life. She was the widow of Samuel Cowles who with Tertius Cowles, did a thriving carriage business in the days when Belchertown was noted for this particular industry.

Mrs. Cowles moved to Amherst on her husband's death and has since lived with her son, Prof. William L. Cowles of Amherst college. Her other son, Herbert T. Cowles, of the First National bank, also resides in Amherst. She leaves besides, a brother, Oliver Walker of Northampton.

Mrs. Cowles was approaching her 95th birthday, which would have come Oct. 5. She was very active for a woman of her years, enjoying an automobile ride to Belchertown only recently. About a month ago she suffered a shock, but the immediate cause of her passing was appendicitis.

The funeral took place in Amherst yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. John A. Hawley officiating. A service was held here at 3.45 o'clock and interment was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

What the Seniors Say

The opinion of the younger people of Belchertown concerning the Annual Fair is mirrored by essays written recently by the twenty-three members of the Senior class on "Should Belchertown Have an Annual Fair?"

- 1. Should Belchertown have some kind of a fair? Yes, 18; No, 4; no choice, 1.
2. Should fakirs have a place in the fair? Yes, 7; No, 6.
3. Is drunkenness a bad feature of the fair? Yes, 6; No, 5.
4. Does the fair help the children? Yes, 5.
5. Are the exhibits worth while? Yes, 9; No, 5.
6. Should we use the common for the fair? Yes, 3; No, 4.
7. Is the parade a good thing? Yes, 4.
8. Are sports worth while? Yes, 3.
9. Does the fair serve as a place for old friends to meet? Yes, 14; No, 1.

Following are a few prominent extracts from the essays:

"What would a fair be without some fakirs?"
"There may be drunkards on the fair grounds, but have you ever noticed that there are some people who always go around looking for people of that sort, while others could go through the whole crowd and not see anything improper?"

"At the other end of the table is a box containing a lonesome hare which captures all prizes—because there are no others to compete."

"If a fair could be held on grounds where the hotel entrance

"At the Fair, of course, as well as at other places, objectionable people are found but these can quite easily be avoided by people not caring to be near them."

"The fakirs add to the picture-ness of the Fair."

"I sincerely believe that the day of the fakirs in Belchertown is rapidly drawing to a close. Let's get together and boost both fakirs and an improved fair—the one out, the other in!"

Wins First Pennant

The final standing of the Hampshire County League was as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Team, Won, Lost, Pct. Belchertown: 8, 2, 800; Pelham: 6, 4, 600; Granby: 4, 7, 363; Enfield: 3, 8, 272

Even if Pelham were credited with a win in the game which Belchertown lost at Pelham, and in which Pelham used Murphy, before he was registered as a League member, the standing would be: Belchertown, won 8, lost 3, and Pelham, won 7, lost 4, with respective percentages of 727 and 636.

The wins are as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Team, over, Pct. Belchertown: over Granby 4, over Enfield 3, over Pelham 1; Pelham: over Enfield 3, over Belchertown 2, over Granby 1; Granby: over Pelham 2, over Enfield 2, over Belchertown 0; Enfield: over Granby 2, over Pelham 1, over Belchertown 0

So Belchertown captured its first pennant.

Neither Granby nor Enfield were able to defeat the locals, while Pelham tripped them up twice, only to have the tailenders upset them when a win was necessary to tie the leadership. Enfield won three out of its last four games, after dropping seven in a row.

The League was a very good one for the first year, and the average fan may well hope to see it made larger for next season. The local American Legion deserves credit for the way in which it has supported the proposition, when every game meant a loss of money.

Further Installation

The first objective of the water commissioners was to put water into the new school buildings. Now that this is done, they expect to put in more mains and connect up water takers, inasmuch as a contract has been signed with the state allowing them to do this. The complete system cannot be installed this fall, but it is the plan to do as much as possible.

The Clambake

The clambake given by the Metacomet Fox, Rod and Gun club on Wednesday will be remembered for some time. It was the fulfillment of an old truth recognized long since by women-kind that it's easy enough to cook for the home circle, but entirely different when one prepares for company.

The club put on a bake for their own members a short time ago and it was considered one of the very best, but Wednesday's presentation came out differently.

It seems too bad to say anything about it at all, but the outcome was all taken so good-naturedly that it should be mentioned because of that fact alone.

Early in the afternoon the bake was reported as going slow, and later bulletins were no more consoling. Nevertheless no one whined. The men simply tightened up another notch on their belts and blazed away at the clay pigeons with renewed zeal.

The chefs, however, were getting a bit heated, and in final despair took off the lid in the late afternoon with the hope that things would be better than expected. But fate did not decree it so. Things were wondrously rare from start to finish. Even the watermelons needed another hour or two of sun.

But then came the funniest part of the whole proceedings. The chefs were so conscience stricken that they didn't want to take any pay and so declaimed that people would be refunded their money. But no one felt inclined to accept of it. The announcement was repeated time and again up and down the line, but the result was the same.

The ticket takers brought back word to the committee how things were going and all of them vowed it wasn't right and the money must be handed back. "Well, you try it!" brought volunteers to storm the benches again, but all to no avail. United States money had depreciated.

In what used to be an old road, now abandoned, the oxen tested their strength on a load of stone and sand. The farmers' boys used the main highway in many athletic events. All the farmers of Athens and their families must have been there.

A Model Fair

I have just returned from what seems to me a model fair in the town of Athens, Vermont, a little country community which has only one-sixth the population which Belchertown, my native town, possesses. This Athens fair was carried on so successfully in a community where the handicaps were much more numerous than in my own native town, that I venture to write about it, believing that a similar kind of a fair on a larger scale in Belchertown is quite feasible.

It was a "fair for farmers". Having spent a portion of my vacation in this little community, I was amazed to see the splendid exhibition of everything agricultural. The upstairs of the old brick church was used to display farm produce. Everything that is raised on a farm was there. The women also had their fancy work booth and their food table, while things ancient were fittingly displayed in one section of the old meeting house. The vestibule of the church was likewise filled with corn and beans, beets and squash, pumpkins, melons, etc. Throughout the day these rooms were so crowded as to remind one of the Five and Ten cent stores at Christmas time. Outside the church over the stone wall in a pasture was the stock exhibit, worthy of a town five times its size.

An agricultural program was rendered in the afternoon on the lawn. A platform had been built by the farmers, and rude benches provided for those who did not care to sit on the grass. A state grange man spoke, and a senator from a near by town gladly accepted the opportunity to orate on the glories of Vermont, even though he was compelled to vie with the oxen in being heard.

Stores from near by towns, (for Athens is not large enough to boast of a store) displayed their wares, and even an enterprising printer, who lived two doors away, brought up his cases of type and distributed samples of his printing.

The ladies served a 50 cent dinner to a big crowd who came from surrounding towns, and the ice cream stand and soft drink places did a big business.

In what used to be an old road, now abandoned, the oxen tested their strength on a load of stone and sand. The farmers' boys used the main highway in many athletic events.

All the farmers of Athens and their families must have been there.

Four Answers

To the Editor of the Sentinel:—
With your very kind permission, I should like to take this opportunity of answering through your columns as near as I can ascertain a few questions of "A Believer in the Right". They are:

1. Sixty odd years ago by the town officials who had charge of town property. (Ques. When and by whom was the B. F. and M. club given the right to rent the common, which is public property?)

2. Pay premiums on exhibits, printing, bands, and all obligations to our fellow citizens, and when funds admit, donate to different societies. (Ques. What becomes of the money secured from the rental of this public property?)

3. From the fact that the town itself, composed of more than two thousand "Believers in the Right", nine-tenths of whom, no doubt, are as anxious we have a fair as the other tenth who object, and who have common sense and confidence enough in neighbors and friends to believe the receipts properly and honestly handled by the "so-called" F. and M. club officials. (Ques. Why is it that the town itself does not receive a portion, at least, of this money?)

4. When the town elects officials whose duty it is to manage their affairs, no fair-minded citizen will try to smirch their doings under the name of "A Christian", "Belcher-Town", "A Believer in the Right" or any other fictitious name. (Ques. By what right can any person or group of persons rent public property without the express permission of a majority of the voters of the town?)

R. E. F., Sec'y

The "Fair" Discussion

We have noted with interest the discussion in regard to the annual fair. It seems to reveal the fact that there is a feeling that the fair is not coming up to the expectations of the people. The secretary of the F. & M. Club stated that the club could not compel our widely known agriculturists to come forward with exhibits.

If we are going to have a fair, we surely want a good one—one of which we may all be proud, and it is essential therefore that these be represented and that the agricultural life of our community be shown up as it is. The exhibits of the past few years would give to strangers in value more than the German mark.

And so the shadows of night came on with the committee gathered around the smouldering ruins, vowing that if they ever gave another clambake, they'd make it right—and they would.

But the trap shooting was a howling success. All day long the "shots" of the town fired at the pieces of clay. 8 out of 10 was the highest score made. Coney, Doolittle, M. C. Baggs and Ardell made this record, but none could go higher. An interesting feature of the shoot was the contest between teams chosen by R. M. Shaw and Dr. F. M. Austin, the former winning. M. C. Baggs won a box of shells in a final tryout of the high scorers.

Starting with a full barrel of "pigeons" at noon, all were "dead at night."

and hosts from surrounding towns. It was a great visiting day for all.

By four thirty o'clock the farmers began gathering up their produce and returned to their homes proud of the prizes awarded them and eagerly looking forward to another year. By six o'clock every one had departed with grounds as tidy as when the day began.

Such a fair binds a community together as few other things do. Athens, though small, has long been divided between the Hilliers and the Brookers, but both worked side by side at the fair, and the only contention which an outsider could observe was whether the name of the town should be pronounced with a short a or a long a.

Not a fakir was there; all the money taken in went to the farmers and farmers' wives. As I went homeward I said to myself, "This is the kind of a fair I would like to see in my native town."

Notice to Property Owners

You are hereby required on or before December 1, 1923, to destroy the gypsy and brown-tail moths on your property in this town.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 381, Acts of 1905, as amended by Chapter 268, Acts of 1906, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown-tail moths, under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same, and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land.

The Selectmen ask owners and tenants to co-operate with the town in its work on highways and other public grounds by doing effective work on their premises. Citizens who have cleaned their premises of the moths but find their trees endangered by the neglect of owners of adjoining estates, should make complaint to the Selectmen. The infestation of a residential neighborhood by the neglect of a few will not be tolerated.

The eggs of the gypsy moths should be destroyed at once with cresosote. They should never be scraped off the object on which they are laid. Careful search should be made for gypsy moth egg clusters, not only on trees, but also on house walls, stone walls, fences and in rubbish heaps, etc. (Trees in which cavities occur and which if is not desirable to cut should have the cavities tinned or cemented. This is important.) The present and future cost of combating this insect can be greatly reduced by cutting and burning worthless brush, hollow trees, etc. A few trees well cared for are more valuable to the property owner and the community than a large number of neglected trees.

The nests of the brown-tail moths should be cut off the trees, carefully collected and burned in a stove or furnace.

Full instructions as to the best methods of work against the moths may be obtained from the local Superintendent, or from the State Forester, Room 1009, 6 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

Work done by contractors should be inspected and approved by the local Superintendent before payment for the same is made.

no idea whatsoever of the status of our community.

We believe that our large fruit growers and farmers could by some means be induced to show their produce in their own community. As it is now, to see Belchertown at its best, one must go to any place but Belchertown to see it.

Some way or other, there must be more confidence between the management and the farmers, fruit growers and people of Belchertown. If confidence can be aroused, then enthusiasm may follow and success be assured.

We believe that if the F. and M. club would throw the past to the winds and personally call into conference our representative leaders along the above mentioned lines, if they would at the same time also call in our merchants and representatives of some of our community organizations and demonstrate once and for all that the club exists, not for its own interests, but for the interests of the people of Belchertown, that its idea is to put the old town on the map, then we would be getting a good start on the right road.

If this whole proposition is viewed from this standpoint, the fakir side of it will be on a way to solution. A way will be found whereby our own merchants can have the field and at the close of the day feel that they have done more than make up for trade they have lost by foreign competition as the case stands at present. We believe that our merchants would surprise everyone by the initiative they would show along their respective lines.

We believe that if our churches and other organizations were called in to the above mentioned conference, they would see that the people were fed.

What we would like to see would be an elimination of the professional type of fair and a coming in of the townspeople to their own. The crowd would not be quite as large, we admit, if the shady brand of fa-kir were eliminated, but those who came would realize that here was Belchertown at her best in exhibits, in business and in hospitality.

We hope that the B. F. and M. club will weigh well these suggestions and see if there is not some measure of wisdom in them.

Just so long as there is a suspicion that the club is pocketing money by the renting of public land to fakirs at a dollar a foot, this annual wrangle will keep coming up, and whereas some gains may be made in decency and order, as we believe has been the case, the fight will be an up hill one at best. But let the club definitely invite by a personal invitation all the above mentioned parties into conference and we believe that they would come to some working agreement and that this ever recurring unpleasantness would be eliminated.

We trust that the fair this year will be the best that it can be made under the circumstances—we note with pleasure the prizes to be awarded to grange exhibits—and we trust that as the dawn of a new day seems to be coming in in our other community endeavors, there will be a new turning to the light by the club management and a hearty response from our townspeople.

Let Belchertown start out, not to duplicate the fair of some other community, but to develop something entirely different and distinctive.

In all this discussion we have not said a word about any possible cooperation of the state school, which it would be well to investigate, as this school alone could put on an exhibit that would be worth traveling miles to see. We have said nothing about finances, but we believe a real representative committee would not be baffled by this. Blue ribbons might take the place of dollars and public spirit fill many another gap with no harm to anyone.

The Town Meeting

The special town meeting in Memorial hall last Thursday night, the first one to be held in the new building, was not largely attended. The principal business was to make up shortages in various accounts. As the investments of the Robinson estate did not yield quite as much as expected, it was voted to meet the extra expense thrown on the town, by appropriating money from the 1922 overlay.

A shortage in the Poor department was made good by the transfer of $900 from five other departments and $700 from the surplus fund.

To assist the school department that has had the extra expense of laying a pipe line from Manle St. to the grade school building and the additional cost of continuation school charges in other towns, $1725 was appropriated from the surplus fund, $250 of this amount being taken from the Bridgman fund.

At a meeting of citizens following the town meeting, it was voted to purchase a bronze tablet to be erected in Lawrence Memorial hall in appreciation of the services of those having in charge the erection of the hall and school buildings. Rev. D. L. Hilliard, H. F. Peck and L. H. Blackmer were elected a committee to carry out the wishes of the meeting.

Larger Premiums This Year

The Farmers' and Mechanics' club are issuing their Judges and Premium lists this week. In quite a number of departments the club offer larger premiums than heretofore.

For herds of 10 or more cows the prizes offered are $15, $10, $5; and for 5 or more, $8, $5. Two-year old heifers are listed $4, $3, $2, and one-year olds at $3, $2, $1. Bulls and sheep also come in for increases.

$15 more is offered in the heavy draft horse class, this being set ahead as the first prize. Best collections of poultry will receive $3, $2, $1, and pigeons and rabbits, $2, $1, .75. For the best collection of vegetables the premiums have been increased to $5, $3, $2; and for that of apples to $4, $2, $1. Prizes are also offered for best single specimens in a number of different kinds of canned goods.

The size of baby show judges has also been increased to include A. D.

Moore and others of his class. Instead of offering premiums for double teams the club this year has gone back to emphasizing floats. These are listed at $25, $20, $15, $10, $5.
Comic make-ups come in for $10, $8, $6, $4, $2.

A tug-of-war with no less than ten men on a side is scheduled, with a $10 prize, and wheelbarrow, potato and sack races have also been added to the list.

Death of Elmer E. Peeso

Elmer Everett Peeso died last Saturday at his home on No. Main St. While the immediate cause of his death was pneumonia, from which he had been suffering for about a week, he had been in a state of nervous exhaustion for about four years.

Mr. Peeso was born in Belchertown, Jan. 7, 1859, and was the son of Martin and Elizabeth Billings Peeso. In 1882 he was married to Jennie C. Lillibridge, who died Nov. 1, 1917.

Much of Mr. Peeso's life was spent as warden of almshouses. He served in that capacity in his native town, in Leverett, Sterling and Ware. He resided in Leverett one year, in Sterling fifteen years, and after a year or two of residence here went to Ware where he remained fourteen years.

Mr. Peeso was a man of integrity and made staunch friends wherever he resided. He had been steward, overseer and master of Sterling grange, and a member of the state and national granges. He was a 3rd degree Odd Fellow, a member of the Rebekahs of Clinton, and had also been a member of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Sterling and became a Master Workman.

Mr. Peeso was married to Mrs. Iva White, Nov. 22, 1920, and has since resided in town, on No. Main St.

He leaves besides his widow, three grand daughters, Eva May, Barbara Louise and Caroline Lillibridge Peeso of Sterling, and two grandsons, Elmer Willard and George Everett Peeso, also of Sterling, a sister, Mrs. Henry Lamson of this town, and three brothers, John M. Peeso of Springfield and Edward R. Peeso and James A. Peeso of this town.

The funeral was held in the chapel Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. D. L. Hilliard, officiating. The bearers were James A. Peeso, Harry H. Ward, Edgar C. Witt and Frank Peeso. Burial was in the South cemetery.

Seniors-Freshies Win

EXCITING BASEBALL GAME

Tilt goes 11 innings before 17-13 decision is reached

The Senior-Freshman baseball team defeated the Sophomore-Junior aggregation by a score of 17-13, in an eleven inning struggle on the common last Friday afternoon. Although most of the men were out of practise and many of them had rarely played much baseball, the tilt was replete with snappy playing and was hard fought throughout.

Weakness in backstopping and an inability on the part of Landers to find the plate gave the winners a five-run lead on only two hits in the first three innings. Dewey's pitching and good support kept the edge until the last half of the ninth when singles by B. Wood and M. Keyes and a triple by Mike Oseep scored two runs and left the count tied at ten all. Neither side was able to score in the tenth.

With one out in the eleventh, Wallace singled and Keyes walked. Dewey hit an easy one to short, for what should have been double killing, but Wood threw uncertainly to first and the ball could not be located by McNally in time to prevent two runners scoring and Dewey reaching second.

When finally discovered, it was lying in the sand within half a foot of the base. Elwin Wood, coaching for the Freshies, had sent McNally on a fruitless search all over the highway and, after the runs were in, pointed out the real location of the missing horse hide. A long and violent discussion followed, the team in trouble maintaining that the ball had been blocked and was dead, and that no runs should be allowed. Umpire Allen ruled otherwise. Play was resumed, but Keyes and Landers had lost heart, and five more runs came in. The folly of their listless playing was shown when three runs were made by hitting Dewey hard in the last half, but the lead was too great to be overcome. E. Landers, the Wood brothers, George, and T. Austin were among the new players whose work was good.

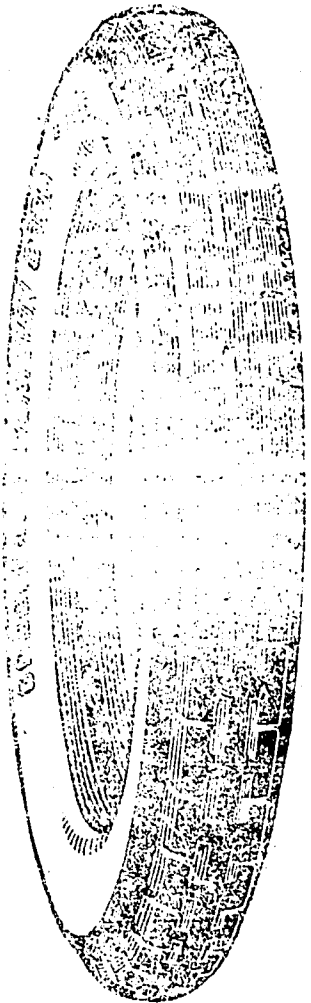

The winning classes are credited five points each in the Field Day to be held on the common this afternoon at one o'clock.

The score:

The "Four H" float of the center clubs took first prize at the Northampton fair, Tuesday. This means that the silver cup which came to Belchertown two years ago, is here "for keeps". Mrs. D. D. Hazen who has charge of the club work, received assistance from others in putting on the float, among them being Mrs. D. P. Spencer of the Community Service committee of Union grange. The third prize on floats also came to Belchertown, due to the efforts of the Blue Meadow clubs in charge of Mrs. D. C. Randall.

Theodore D. Hazen, of Harvard while driving on the Revere Boulevard last Sunday night, was run into by a car in the hands of a careless youth who attempted to cross traffic from the left and without lights. Mr. Hazen was taken to the Chelsea hospital where he will remain for a week or ten days although his cuts and bruises do not place him on the danger list.

Parents-Teachers Association

An interesting meeting was held in the Junior High school room last Friday afternoon, which was attended by several parents of the pupils of those grades. The opinion expressed was in favor of organizing a Parents-Teachers association in the Center grade schools.

A unanimous vote was taken to invite all parents or guardians and teachers of pupils of the grade schools to attend the meeting in the Junior High school room, Friday evening, October 19, at 7.30 to organize a Parents-Teachers association.

Junior High Notes

Members of the Junior High school are planning to sell Christmas cards, folders, postals, seals, tags, calendars, and other novelties this year as has been their custom for the past two years. There is a much finer assortment to select from this season, and the quality and low prices cannot be duplicated elsewhere. Plans are made to begin taking orders the week of October 22nd, that order to be delivered around Thanksgiving time. Courtesy and the best of service will be extended to all who place their orders with the school.

Social Union Sale

The Ladies Social Union will hold a sale of fancy and domestic articles in the vestibule of the M. E. church on Cattle Show day. They have a large variety of articles suitable for Christmas gifts. Among them are home-made aprons, both dark and light, in prices ranging from 35c to $3.00. Other articles offered for sale include fancy bags, hand towels, table mats, stocking dolls, rag dolls, crocheting and knitting bags, crib spreads, bureau pockets, balsam pillows and many other articles too numerous to mention. Sale begins at 9 o'clock.

Weds in Stafford Springs

A wedding of interest to Belchertown people took place Tuesday night in Stafford Springs when John Leach of that place was married to Miss Wilhemina Adams, also of Stafford Springs.

Mr. Leach was born in this town and was the son of Maynard Leach who conducted a carriage business here for a number of years. The couple called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Bishop on Wednesday on an auto trip to Vermont.

Mr. Leach is Supt. of Streets and Water Commissioner of Stafford Springs.

Draws Vital Lessons

Rev. D. L. Hilliard touched on local problems at both the morning and evening services of the Federated church on Sunday. In his morning discourse on "The Carcass and the Eagles," he drew the lesson that the reason undesirable people are present on certain occasions, is because undesirable conditions are prevalent with which such are seeking to satisfy themselves.

Not only did he proclaim this a fundamental truth as concerned one's company, but also as it had to do with social events. He spoke of the dance hall and the Fair, which were apt to draw undesirables, and stated that it was no chance that brought them hither. It was simply an indication that there was a "carcass" somewhere upon which to feed.

Mr. Hilliard did not favor the abolition of any of these social events, but took a strong stand that they should be purified and changed so that they would accomplish the thing for which they were intended.

At the evening service the pastor hewed to the line on the subject of "Gambling." He told of the laws that had been framed by the several states to prohibit it, indicating that the people saw therein a menace.

He commented on the fact that gambling is being camouflaged by a pretense of legitimate sale, but that fundamentally it is gambling, pure and simple. One bets a certain number will win, and he either gets an article for less than its value while others lose, or he loses his bet while another wins.

"It is not my duty to tell you whether to buy a ticket or not," the preacher said, "but it is my duty to tell you what the transaction involves."

Not only did he pull the wool off popular methods of sale just alluded to, showing them in their true light, but also stated that the idea of playing various kinds of games for money or prizes had lurking in them the idea of gambling. While skill was involved, still there was always more or less a measure of chance which determined the outcome.

Mr. Hilliard was for building a sound economic life, where full values are given and full compensation received. Any other method, he said, has no measure of justice and has an undermining effect, especially on the youth.

Showers

A miscellaneous shower was given Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Fred Bisnette in honor of the approaching marriage of her daughter, Catherine, to Wilfrid Noel, which will take place Monday, October 15, in St. Francis church.

About fifty friends of the bride-elect were present from Ludlow, Indian Orchard, Springfield and Belchertown. The gifts consisted of linen, cut glass and silver.

A mock marriage was given by Miss Exiline Flebotte, minister; Miss Emma Williamson, bride; Mrs. Bessie Barnes, bridegroom; Mrs. Jessie Evans, best man; Miss Lizzie Lyarts, bridesmaid, and Mrs. Irene Williamson, ring bearer.

The evening was enjoyed with games and music. Piano selections were given by Miss Odene Flebotte and Miss Jeanette Talbot. A buffet lunch was served.

Miss Irene Vezina gave a shower at Dr. Collard's Monday evening in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Catherine Bisnette to Wilfrid Noel, which is announced for Monday, Oct. 15. There were about twenty friends present. Many useful and beautiful gifts were presented.—Turkey Hill Item

Light Wines and Beer

Wayne B. Wheeler, National Counsel for the Anti-Saloon League has brought to light the reason as to why the Volstead Act should prohibit the sale of drinks containing more than one-half of one per cent. alcohol. Some very good and innocent people have been led to think that the Act is too stringent and should be modified so as to include the sale of light wines and beers.

Now a light wine is a wine containing any proportion of alcohol up to 13 per cent. There are many persons who have been led to think from statements they have read that drinks containing as low per cent. of alcohol as 4 or 5 or even 6 per cent. are not intoxicating and consequently should be permitted. Of course the answer is that it all depends upon the person who drinks and the quantity drunk. The army experts during the war claimed that drinks containing as low as 1.4 per cent. of alcohol would intoxicate the average healthy soldier, if a sufficient quantity was imbibed.

We would like those who hold up their hands in perfect horror as to the return of the saloon but who are declaring that the Volstead Act goes too far, and that the per cent. of alcohol in drinks should be raised from what they have been led to believe is altogether too low, to bear in mind the fact which Mr. Wheeler has brought to light, namely, that at the request of the liquor interests the one-half of one per cent. had been established and maintained for a period of twenty years as a government standard. This was done to protect the liquor interests from bootlegging. Since this was the standard which the government set up at the request of the liquor interests, surely the liquor interests cannot with propriety advocate now any drink containing alcohol above one-half of one per cent. We do not hesitate to say that the liquor interests should abide by their own definition.

Girl Scouts Try New Stunt

The treasury was empty, simply and completely. Not that the treasurer had absconded with the vast funds nor had they wasted away. But the fact remained that the treasury had a lean and hungry look.

But among the friends of the Girl Scouts was one who was willing to give them work to do and pay them for it. (Possibly he will never be so rash again.)

And so on Saturday morning the Scouts began to gather. Some were frank enough to say, "You'll never earn fifteen cents." (They were the ones who didn't go.) Some were not ambitious enough to get up early and do their home work in time to go. Some couldn't go and some, it is too bad to have to confess it, some didn't want to go. But about half the troop were game for whatever the day might bring of work and fun, and piling into the truck, started for Turkey Hill.

Picking apples proved to be lots of sport. Armed with baskets, most of them brand new ones, they swarmed around the trees like bees. Ladders, light and heavy, new and old, were all in use, but the really popular stunt was to "shiny up" the trunk and climb along the branches. No fatalities occurred, due doubtless to the helpful presence of "Davie" who with her blue checked overalls was often detailed for the hard places.

A rather cool breeze made all seek shelter in the big barn during the lunch hour, but the rest hour in the afternoon was spent on the sunny side of a great rock in the pasture near by, where "you could see the whole world," according to the report of the first one to get there. Here everybody had an apple to munch while a story was read in turn.

The autumn day was full of fun. Even during the picking process, there was singing to be done. But the climax came at the close of the day when the barrels of apples were counted, 19 in all, and a check was received which made the poor treasury look quite fat again. We wonder: Was it sympathy for its leanness which made the treasurer stick to her work longer than anybody else, or does she just naturally like to work?

Men's Supper

Next Friday night the men reign supreme, when a supper concocted and served by them alone will be forth coming at the chapel. The supper will be held under the auspices of the Men's class of the Federated church and the proceeds will be for the benefit of the church.

The event is scheduled for seven o'clock. The hash protein percentage is not for publication; the gridle cakes will not carry insurance policies; the maple syrup may not bear analysis, and the coffee may contain salt. All that is guaranteed is a good time. The price is 50 cents.

Grange Notes

The first and second degrees were conferred on a class of three Tuesday night.

The third and fourth degrees will be conferred at a special meeting Tuesday night. The degree staff from Leverett has accepted the invitation to confer the third degree. Refreshments will be served.

Bisnette-Noel Wedding

Miss Catherine Bisnette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bisnette, and Wilfrid Noel were married Monday morning at St. Francis church, Father McGrath officiating. The single ring service was used. The bride wore a gown of gray georgette crepe, with hat to match, and carried bride roses. The attendants were Miss Williamson of Indian Orchard and George Bisnette, brother of the bride.

The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls and the bride's gift to the groom was a signet ring. The bride's gift to her attendant was a string of rosary beads and the best man received a pair of cuff links from the groom.

The church was attractively decorated with autumn foliage and flowers. After a visit to Montreal and New York, Mr. and Mrs. Noel will be at home at the Noel farm after December 1.

Petition

The following petition has been presented the selectmen:

Belchertown, Oct. 12, 1923. To the Chairman of the Honorable Board of Selectmen:-

We, the undersigned citizens, hereby petition the honorable board of selectmen to call a special town meeting at a date as soon as you find it convenient, to make arrangements to consider the following article.

To see if the town will direct its selectmen to prepare a division of the town into 2 voting precincts, or to take any action relative thereto.

Signed by E. F. Flaherty and 20 others.

Presented by Wm. Sullivan.

The Fair

It was Belchertown fair and no mistake. The parade looked like it, the exhibit in the town hall looked like it and both ends of the common road looked like it.

There was the same meagre parade, a larger display than usual in the hall, about the same amount of cattle at the south end of the park, more poultry, pig-cons and rabbits than is sometimes the case, and more fakirs than ever before. It was as if the final stage of the play was being enacted and all were assembled for the last act.

Especially fine weather the two days preceding had induced everyone with anything to fake to set up and be ready. How all could make a fortune was hard to see. The crowd was a large one, but not as large as on some previous occasions. The result was that the vendors had to put in some real work to get attention, and to all observations they fagged out easily.

The parade contained two floats of considerable merit. The one entered by the boys' and girls' clubs easily took first prize, being somewhat similar to the one entered by them at the Northampton fair. This float represented a garden with a vine covered arbor, set in the midst of trees and flowers and surrounded by a variety of prize vegetables. At the front, a giant sock was being darned by two small girls, who thus demonstrated the first lesson given in the sewing club work. Other girls, all dressed in white, showed work done in this club and in the canning club, while boys in farmer rigs represented the poultry and pig clubs with the real article in their hands. Red and white bunting formed the base of the float and with the red of the salvias and barberries brightening the green of the "garden", gave a very pleasing effect to the whole. Mrs. D. D. Hazen, who has directed the work of the boys' and girls' clubs, was assisted in the preparation of the float by Mrs. D. P. Spencer of the Community Service committee of Union Grange.

Second prize went to Union Grange with its float entitled "Agriculture Enthroned." In this float Miss Irene Vezina represented agriculture, and the Misses Irene Howard and Gertrude Riley, Flora, Pomona and Ceres. Four other young ladies were on the float, the color scheme of which was green and white.

John Pranaitis entered the only comic event in the parade. Extra prizes seemed to make no difference in the number of entries.

There were two decorated autos, one quite elaborate, with the occupant costumed, entered by Alton cons and rabbits than is sometimes

Music was furnished by the Col-eighteen pieces. E. F. Flaherty led the parade as chief marshal, with Walter Dodge, Nannie Howard,

Marjorie Peeso, Margaret McPherson, Frances Sauer, Jean Warren and Emile Vezina as aides.

H. B. Ketchen brought up the rear of the procession with four new cars, two trucks and two passenger cars.

After the parade the draft horses were the center of attraction. With the combined classes this event was not over till about 2 p. m.

As before stated, the hall contained a fine display of farm products, fancy work and miscellaneous articles.
C. H. Egleston had a good collection of apples and vegetables, and E. C. Howard and C. R. Green had larger displays of apples than usual. C. R. Green fell only one short of the "57" varieties.

Mrs. Bert Hurlburt of Ludlow had some antique dishes on exhibit, and Mrs. Howard Spencer displayed a pot of English ivy obtained from a slip taken from her home in England.

The exhibit by the sewing club of Franklin school was a most praiseworthy one, evidenced not alone by the number of articles, but by their quality as well. The exhibits of the canning clubs of the Center and Dwight were also deserving of special mention.

But the crowning feature of the hall display was the grange exhibit.
Union grange had no competition, but the single showing was decided-

PROBATE COURT

To all persons interested in the estate of Sarah T. D. Robinson, late of Lawrence, Kansas, deceased:

Whereas, Reuben L. Roberts and Daniel D. Hazen, the trustees under the will of said deceased, have presented for allowance the fourth and final accounts of their trust under said will:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Northampton in said County on the sixth day of November, A. D. 1923, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be allowed.

And said trustees are ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to all persons interested in the estate fourteen days at least before said Court, or by publishing the same once in each week for three successive weeks, in the Belchertown Sentinel, a newspaper published in Belchertown, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate seven days at least before said Court.

A bit of genuine public service was performed by the Girl Scouts, who conducted a "lost and found" room at the hall and partially succeeded in bringing the lost and found together. A grey cap and a bunch of keys which strayed from their respective owners, had not returned at nightfall; addresses are being held by the scouts in case they appear later.

But by far the most exciting adventure of the day for the scouts was caring for a two and a half or three-year old youngster who, left at home in the care of an older sister, had started for the fair "on his own." No one knew who he was and he, enjoying the undivided attention of several girls and the luxury of chocolate creams, had no intention of revealing his identity. In fact he rebelled at being taken from the midst of so much fun when, after an hour or two, his parents were found in the crowd. In sharp contrast was the loud protest of another lost youngster, on being taken to the "lost and found." His parents arrived on the scene in time to rescue him from the black future which he faced. In the late afternoon, Prof. Miller, the "western entertainer," with another ranger, gave an exhibition of cowboy stunts at the south end of the park.

As usual, the fair drew many classes of people, but the most welcome feature on the landscape was the meeting of friend with friend. In coming to the fair, these people cared not so much for taking a chance on a blanket as for taking a

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

New Sedan

Changes featured in the new Ford Sedan make it a better looking, roomier car.

A higher radiator with a trim apron at its base lends dignity befitting a closed car. The higher hood and enlarged cowl curving gracefully to the dash give a stylish sweep to its body lines, and afford additional leg room for occupants of the front seat.

All body fittings—window regulators, door grips, door latch levers, door lock, dome light—are finished in nickel. The upholstery carries a fine dark line on a soft brown background that does not easily show dust or dirt. Silk window curtains to harmonize for the three rear windows enhance the style of the car and add to the comfort of its passengers. See the new Sedan and other new Ford body styles at our showroom.

Another Meeting Monday

There will be a meeting of the Parent-Teachers association in the assembly room of the grade school building next Monday evening at 8 o'clock. At the last meeting a committee was appointed to draw up a Constitution. This will be voted upon at the coming meeting. All parents are invited to come and get in touch with this new organization. Only temporary officers so far have been elected.

Death of Myron S. Barton

Myron Sylvester Barton, one of Belchertown's most respected citizens, died at Northampton, Wednesday morning after an illness of three years, death being due to a shock. Mr. Barton was born in town and spent all his life here. Only a few weeks ago was he taken to Northampton to be cared for. He was born in 1837, the son of Theodore and Rachel Corwin Barton, in the Barton home in the westerly part of the town and lived there until about 25 years ago, when he built a home on South Main St. Mr. Barton was twice married, his first wife being Celeste Fisher, who died in 1902. On October 11, 1904, he was married to Maria L. Smith of Athol, who survives him.

Mr. Barton served in the Civil war, enlisting in Co. B, 37th Mass. Volunteers, in which he was promoted to sergeant. Not only did he serve his country in war, but he was also its servant in peace, which is attested by the various places of responsibility to which he was chosen. He was a member of the House of Representatives for one term, for 14 years he served his native town as selectman, holding a number of other town offices, also. He was a deputy sheriff in Hampshire county for 18 years.

In local orders and societies he held positions of trust. He was Commander of the G. A. R. for a number of terms, likewise a trustee and vice president of Clapp Memorial library. He was a member of the Board of Trustees of the Pils-terical Association and was for a number of years treasurer of the Park Association. He was also an associate member of the Congregational church, a member of Vernon Lodge, of which he was once its treasurer, and a past patron of Mt. Vernon Chapter, O. E. S.

Mr. Barton leaves besides his widow, two sons, Frederick S., of Norwood, Mass., Harold E., of Berwyn, Ill., and three grand children, Ruth, Clifton and Donald Barton, of Berwyn, Ill.

The funeral will be held this afternoon in the Congregational church at 2 p. m. Rev. D. L. Hilliard will officiate, while the committal service will be in charge of Vernon Lodge. The bearers are R. E. Fairchild, M. G. Ward, A. R. Lewis and H. H. Ward. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery.

High School Field Day

The report of B. H. S. Field day was sent us for publication last week, but lack of last minute space compelled us to postpone insertion till this week. Perhaps it cannot be classed as news, but it still has value, at least, as a permanent record.

The annual Belchertown High School Field Day was a huge success this year, the issue not being decided until the final event. This was the pie eat, which Berkley Wood of the Sophomore class captured, and gave the Sophs a 79-75 1/2 victory over the Seniors, who had seen-sawed the lead with them all the afternoon. It was about the same finish as last year, when Wood's superior gastronomic ability won a tie for his group.

Enthusiasm ran high through all the twenty events. A banner will be presented to the winning class, and numerals to boys gaining ten points and to girls getting six. Paul Austin of the Seniors was the high point winner for the boys, with 19 1/2 points, including first place in the high jump, the shot put and the half mile, and second in the 220. Lena Bock of the Freshmen was the "dark horse" of the yearlings, and won 15 points of the class total of 27 1/2. She was first in every event.

$351 But—

Contributions for the Domestic Science room in the new Memorial building have come to a practical stand-still, with the amount pledged by alumni now $351.00. Perhaps the fact that numerous different requests have been made for various worthy projects of late has taken interest away from the only thing that the alumni have ever tried to do in years. Only a comparatively small number have been heard from, and the needs for the room have not been met yet by any means. It is not too late to send your bit now, and help to make this room one which all past members of B. H. S. can visit with pride.

Grange Notes

Thrift grange of Leverett showed the kind of live folks it is composed of Tuesday night by coming to Belchertown with their Ladies' Degree Staff and other members, about 25 in all. The executive committee was on the job, having provided transportation for the company. The 13 ladies conferred the third degree in a most creditable manner, after putting on a very fine march, spelling the word "Gleaners" on the floor. Three new members were added to our number. Cake, cream and cocoa were served by the refreshment committee. A very pleasant meeting in spite of the downfall of rain.

Town Items

William Bridgman and family have returned to their home in Schenectady. Mrs. Bridgman and children have been at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Cook for the past few weeks.

The Metacomt Fox, Rod and Gun club were notified of the lifting of the ban on hunting, by a telegram last Saturday morning.

A number from the Congregational church attended meetings of the National Council, recently held in Springfield.

The Girl Scouts of Belchertown will attend church next Sunday in uniform (as far as possible) and will sit together. This action is in conformity with that of other troops throughout the country who are doing it in connection with the National campaign Oct. 20-31, Oct. 31 being Founder's day, the birthday of Mrs. Juliette Low of Savannah, who founded the Girl Scout movement in this country.

Mrs. Lizzie Forward Gaylord of South Hadley was in town yesterday accompanied by her nephew and wife from Chicago, who came to Massachusetts to attend the National Council in Springfield. They visited friends and looked up old places of interest—the church, the Forward homestead, and the South cemetery, where their ancestor, the Rev. Justus Forward, the second pastor of the Congregational church, lies buried. Rev. Mr. Forward was ordained here in 1756, and labored in this parish for 58 years.

The Social Guild has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Hattie Taylor; vice-presidents, Mrs. George Scott, Mrs. J. V. Cook, Miss Maggie Hales, Miss Marian Bardwell, Mrs. R. E. Bond; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Thomas Allen; directors, Miss Grace Towne, Miss Lucy Bardwell, Mrs. Kittie Spellman, Mrs. Sarah Randall.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Bond, who have spent the past few weeks in Buffalo, returned yesterday.

Looking at the new touring car from the side, you are at once favorably impressed with the effect of longer, more graceful lines secured by enlarging the cowl and raising the radiator.

Slanting windshield and one-man top lend material aid in giving the entire car a lower, more stylish appearance.

An apron connecting the radiator with the fender skirts is also a decided improvement.

A comfort feature much appreciated by owners, is the additional leg room provided by the enlargement of the cowl.

The Men's Supper
 Considerable interest attaches to the Men's supper in the chapel tonight. In other years these events have been quite distinctive and this season's venture will undoubtedly be no exception.

A novel feature tonight will be music by a local orchestra during the supper hour. Even though maple syrup should make the flap jacks slip along the ways, easily, the music will make them go even better yet.

The men are as busy as can be on hash and pan cake formulas, and a special committee of research is preparing antidotes for every possible emergency.

The supper is under the auspices of the Men's class of the Federated church and the proceeds will go toward church expenses. Supper is scheduled for 7 o'clock.

Rules for Freshmen
 The High School Sophomores this year have drawn up a set of rules for the Freshmen to obey. These rules, approved by the faculty, are as follows:

1. Freshmen shall bow to faculty members, Seniors, and Sophomores whenever they meet them on the streets.

2. Freshmen shall step aside for upperclassmen and faculty in corridors and when passing from class to class.

3. Freshmen boys shall wear a green tie.

4. Freshmen girls shall wear a green ribbon, and shall wear their hair down.

Rules one and two are to remain in force throughout the year, and three and four until Thanksgiving, unless the Freshmen can beat the Sophomores in a tug-of-war.

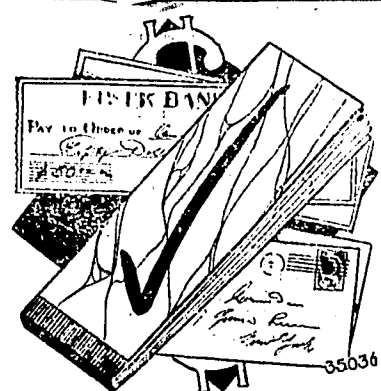

These rules were made in a spirit of fun, and have been well adhered to, with a few exceptions.

A Student Council was elected last week by the student body for the purpose of treating with reported breaking of rules, and of taking general supervision of student affairs. The following were elected:
 Charles Scott '24
 Edward Gay '24
 George Dewey '24
 Jean Warren '24
 Ruth Aldrich '24
 Andrew Ketchen '25
 Cassie Sullivan '25

Social Guild-Social Union supper

Union Grange Entertains

It remained for the Grange to observe Halloween with a supper and entertainment on Wednesday night in Grange hall. Shortly after sundown the hall took on the customary wiewd appearance, brought about by orange and black festoons, the glow of candles, and electric lights shaded with the appropriate colors.

It was in such surroundings that the oyster stew was brought in, and escalloped potatoes presented to those otherwise minded or capable of both. The supper was deserving of a larger patronage.

No ghosts appeared; although the program was appropriate to Halloween. Mrs. George Davis gave a reading, three children sang, and Mrs. Henry Witt favored the audience with two readings as she only can render them.

Then "The House That Jack Built" was presented in a series of illustrated readings, a number of Grangers taking the various parts and acting them out with plenty of action. Dancing completed the evening's program.

The Halloween cake was won by Mrs. Charles Trainor.

Historical Association Meeting

Bright lights shone out to welcome a goodly number of the members of the Historical Association to their pleasant rooms at the Stone House Monday evening.

The occasion was the semi-annual meeting of the association. Mr. W. A. Stebbins of Chicopee, president, was present and presided. Mr. D. D. Hazen gave the trustees' report and statement of the financial condition of the association.

Mrs. H. F. Curtis as custodian of the Stone House reported that there have been 602 visitors who have registered and many who did not register. 17 different states have been represented. This number includes California, Georgia, Washington, D. C., Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey besides

Dies in Detroit

The death by pneumonia this week of Israel Towne Cowles of Detroit, removes one who has long been identified with the life of Belchertown. He was born here in 1854, and while the number of years of his residence here was not many, he was a frequent visitor to his native village and was always interested in its progress.

Mr. Cowles not only expressed his interest in words, but he also helped along a number of worthy enterprises that needed an added lift financially. His latest contribution was to the alumni fund of the B. H. S., to which he gave a substantial sum.

Mr. Cowles was the son of Tertius and Jane Lucretia Towne Cowles, and was a graduate of Yale University. He married Elizabeth Howard of Detroit, and was for many years lawyer for the Union Trust Co. of that city. A few years ago he was elected to the vice presidency of that institution. Mr. Cowles is survived by his widow.

Birthday Observance

The Masonic club gave a supper Monday evening in honor of Bro. R. E. Fairchild's 75th birthday. About 35 people were present from Belchertown, Granby and Dwight. A large birthday cake with sixteen candles was presented Mr. Fairchild. This number represented not the exact age of the recipient, but the age he felt himself to be.

Cards were enjoyed both before and after the supper. Messrs. Lewis Allen and other prominent men of the town responded to guests.

Catholic Supper

A strenuous week of public suppers was ushered in with a chicken supper served by the members of St. Francis church last week Thursday night in the church basement.

Chickens were contributed by members having henneries and a score or more were bought and turned in by those not so fortunate. But a hundred and sixty eight people can eat some chicken, so that a large number was needed. The attendance was especially good considering that a more elaborate dinner was served than is usually the case, with a consequent increased charge. But a dollar is not excessive for a chicken dinner, and especially when it is for the good of a church.

Since St. Francis church was put in condition, the members have held a number of public events to help defray the expenses, which were considerable.

The patronage Thursday night represented not only the townspeople, but quite a constituency from the Holy Rosary church of Holyoke. The entertainment was put on entirely by these friends from Holyoke, and consisted of songs, dances etc. The dancing features rendered by the young girls of the party were especially entertaining.

It was a festive occasion and highly successful.

The Men's Supper

The men's supper in the chapel last Friday night was what it was advertised to be—a distinctive event. People have had hash before, griddle cakes before, and maple syrup before, but to see the men manipulate the menu is half the fun and that undoubtedly was what exchanged many a fifty-cent piece for a ticket.

The guests sat down at the tables with an air of expectancy which found an answering call in special greeting cards the men had placed at each plate. These were hardly digested when the orchestra struck up and the hash commenced to come from the kitchen, which was a veritable bee hive of industry. It reminded one of a boiler room on an ocean liner. The sweat was rolling

The Use of Money and the Idea of Pleasure

The recent Dempsey-Firpo prize fight leads the thoughtful to wonder concerning America's use of money and her idea of pleasure.

$1,250,000.00 was paid by 85,000 people to witness this prize fight, and 25,000 others would have been glad to have purchased tickets at almost any price. They crowded and pushed and almost tore each other's clothes in their eagerness to buy.

This amount of money and more would have been gladly paid to see what? Not a real manly sport like a football game, not a boxing contest, but a brutal fight, a relic of barbarism. Even though we thought we had sufficiently advanced in civilization to make almost impossible in any state of our union the staging of such a fight, yet here it is, more popular than the Yale-Harvard foot-ball game.

What does this mean? Have we returned to savagery? We understand that this fight was attended not simply by a class of people commonly designated the lower strata of society, but by men of prominence and high position who sit on thrones in the land.

Why so easy to secure a million and a quarter of dollars for something useless and base, when it is so hard for the oldest missionary society in America to find $250,000 this summer to do countless good to people of every race? What does this mean?

Even the sporting pages refer to the fight as brutal and savage and not as manly and heroic. It is a return to primitive days. Evidently the savagery of other ages is not passed.

Is this the way America spends her money? Is this America's conception of what real pleasure is? If so, we need to learn many lessons in a more profitable use of money and in a different idea of pleasure.

Prize fighting will not be outlawed till the people come to see its baneful effect on public morals and how it ministers to the brute instincts of man.

from the faces of the griddle cake and hash men, red neckties were melting, and everything and everybody was in a "het-up" condition. Windows and doors were alternately thrown open, but the boilers commenced to cool and speed slackened, so the men had to take their medicine.

Meanwhile the orchestra was delighting the patrons with a continuous stream of music and the output from the power house was being consumed at an astonishing rate.

The entertainment consisted of further selections by the orchestra, a confidential "giving away" by the men's class teacher of the recipes used by the men, a recitation by the pastor, and a number of solos by Mr. Washburn of Holyoke. Those assisting in the orchestra presentations were J. Raymond Gould, Paul Barrett, A. R. Ketchen and Messrs. Chadbourne and Durant.

The supper was under the auspices of the men's class of the Federated church and was for the benefit of the church. As announced last week the ladies' organizations expect to serve a supper Nov. 16 for the same purpose.

Halloween at the State School

Halloween at the State School was most enjoyable. Four separate building parties were conducted under the able direction of the teachers.

The day-halls were prettily decorated with orange and black streamers woven into various designs, while ghosts and goblins hid in piles of cornstalks and pumpkins in darkened corners. Witches and cats (all cut out by the children during weeks of preparation) adorned the walls and presented a wierd background for the paper-costumed figures.

While the entertainment varied in the different buildings, still, "ducking for apples" and all the other old time games found their way into all the programs at some time during the evening.

Refreshments of sandwiches, apples, cider, peanuts, and ice cream and cake were served as an excellent finale to a most enjoyable evening.

Fire Protection

Hardly a disaster occurs anywhere but it is found on investigation that adequate provision had not been made to meet the emergency. Then public opinion is aroused and something is done, but too late to retrieve previous losses.

We have made no investigations as to the adequacy of our fire fighting equipment, we do not know how it correlates with our new water system now being installed, etc., but we do know that in times of transition such as we are now passing through, these things are apt not to receive attention. We hope that no serious conflagration will occur, but it is well to have our conscience clear as to having done all we could in the matter of protection.

A number of people have stated in our hearing that the pumping outfit we now own would be of immense value in case of fire if it could be attached to our hydrants. With no auxiliary standpipe for pressure, some such method as this is rather timely at this time for an appropriation might come hard if things were going too smoothly.

Grange Notes

About thirty-five attended the Grange meeting Tuesday evening, the literary program of which was in charge of the Master, Mrs. Henry Witt. Two members were admitted by demit. $46 was turned in by the committee on the exhibit and float for Fair day, and about $16 by the young people.

The program was somewhat different from the usual as was to be expected. Mr. and Mrs. William Kimball, Walter Dodge and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Putnam were the actors in the moving picture, "Not By a Dam Site." If you didn't see it, no description of costumes or acting can do them justice, and if you were there, none will be necessary. Lewis Blackmer assisted with the reflectoscope.

Old-time songs and clippings read by the members and a game of consequences helped to make a very enjoyable evening. Refreshments furnished by Mrs. Witt, were served.

Annual meeting Nov. 14. Supper before the business meeting.

Receives Injuries

Ira Squires, while sawing wood with his power outfit yesterday morning, lost the fingers of his left hand. He was working for H. F. Shaw at his wood lot near the canal when the accident happened. The birch stick which he was sawing turned quickly and carried his hand to the saw. He was taken to the office of Dr. Collard, who took him to hospital.

Special Town Meeting

At the special town meeting held last Saturday afternoon it was voted 43 to 36 to divide the town into two voting precincts.

This action was in response to a demand from the people living in the southerly part of the town, who feel that, in cold winter weather they should not be compelled to travel so far to vote.

George H. B. Green presented arguments against dividing the town into two sections, and a Mr. Sullivan advocated the measure at some length. Mr. Green cited other towns of larger population that had not found it advisable, and said that all actions upon appropriations would have to be taken at the central meeting, so that only in the case of state elections which come only once in two years, would there be any benefits derived. Mr. Sullivan thought that harmony between both sections of the town would be attained by granting this favor to the South end, while the opposition maintained that meeting together would be more apt to produce a friendly feeling.

The matter of the appropriation meeting being held on a different day from that on which the ballots are cast, was favorably commented on by both sides.

The vote on the proposition was taken by ballot, the registration list being used.

As the matter now stands, the selectmen, must within sixty days define the limits of the precinct and present the boundaries to the town for ratification. When so ratified, elections after sixty days can be held according to the new arrangement.

The Town Clock Again

Silence does not always command attention, but in the case of a town clock it may be true. For a good share of the year this old friend of other days has been plodding along trying to keep pace with our advancing civilization, but of late it has become completely discouraged. Four times last week the carefaker tried to persuade it to forget its troubles and spruce up, but to no avail.

This therefore reminds us of the discussion at the last town meeting when the matter of a new clock was quite thoroughly gone over. After much debate the incoming board of selectmen were appointed a committee to investigate the matter of a new clock and report at the next annual meeting.

We are reminded that this annual function is not much over two months away, so that perhaps this lapse into silence of our old friend is rather timely at this time for an appropriation might come hard if things were going too smoothly.

J. W. Jackson's BelchertownTwo Philosophies of Life

There are two philosophies held today regarding life. The philosophies cannot be harmonized—they are irreconcilable. The philosophies cannot be united—they are diametrically opposed each to the other. They cannot be cemented together—for they are as far apart as God and Mammon. One cannot hold to both views. If he clings to one, he must let go of the other. If he embraces one philosophy, he casts away the other philosophy.

The one philosophy of life is summed up in the little word "get". According to this philosophy a man is the greatest who gets the most, whether the thing he gets is wealth or education, position or power. Holding to this view, the successful man is he who makes society yield the most to him. If a college holds this philosophy, it works to get a big endowment, to get prestige, to get a big name. If a nation has this idea, its policy is to get as much as possible from all other nations, and the nation is the biggest who can grab the most, exploit the most, and build up the largest trade. When a person has this for his ideal, he goes to his work through the week to get wealth or business or some other good, he goes to his church on Sunday to get enrichment of soul, and he goes through life to gain heaven at last.

The other philosophy of life is summed up in the word "give". According to this philosophy the most successful man is the one who gives most, who most enriches the community, who serves most his fellowmen. He is ever endeavoring to see how much of a contribution he can make to the welfare of society and the betterment of mankind. His ruling motive is not acquisition but contribution, not being served but serving, not being saved but saving. What-

Business men—with whom the runabout has always been very popular—are well pleased with the changes embodied in this model.

Always rugged, the car has been made decidedly trimmer and more comfortable.

This result is obtained by raising the radiator and enlarging the cowl; making a decided improvement in looks and providing more leg room.

A well designed top and slanting windshield do their share toward adding a finished, clean-cut appearance.

Make it a point to see the other new models also on display in

Dies in Springfield

Mrs. Ella E. Alexander of Springfield died Sunday night at the hospital, after a long illness.

She was born in Belchertown Oct. 18, 1853, the daughter of William and Abbie Snow. She graduated from the Belchertown High school with the class of '71, the first class to receive B. H. S. diplomas. For the last thirty years she had lived in Springfield. She was the widow of Frank Alexander, a business man and merchant of that city, who died twenty years ago.

She leaves a twin sister, Mrs. Edwin Atwood of this town, also several nephews and nieces, Carroll, Harry and Sidney Atwood of Springfield. Mrs. Vera Amidon of Springfield and Mrs. Caroline Miller of this town.

The funeral was held Wednesday at 1 p. m. at Graham's Undertaking parlors, Springfield. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery, Rev. D. L. Hilliard officiating.

Armistice Day Observance

Last Sunday the patriotic organizations of the town observed Armistice day. The Legion, W. R. C. and Woman's Auxiliary marched in a body to St. Francis church, where Father McGrath spoke words appropriate to the occasion.

After the service, the march was resumed to the Honor Roll board, where promptly at 11 o'clock, Belding F. Jackson, the new commander of the Legion, placed a wreath in honor of the soldier dead. Prayer was offered by acting chaplain, Dr. Watkins of the State School. Taps were sounded by Fred O. Michel.

The line then marched to the Methodist church, where Rev. D. L. Hilliard preached a sermon appropriate to the day.

Another Score for the League of Nations

Put down a new score for the League of Nations. Put it down before you forget that the League has faced a crisis and won a victory for peace. Is it so quiet now in the Mediterranean quarters that you have forgotten the war tumult of early September? Do you not remember the killing of the Italian members of the International Commission for the delimitation of the boundaries between Albania and Greece, and the startling events that followed and the rapid rise of a dark war cloud?

Well, if you have forgotten those anxious September days, take down your file of daily papers and be thankful that the war cloud blew over so quickly. But do not forget that the League of Nations had an important part in averting this threatened war.

It was a brutal outrage to shoot peaceful commissioners attending to a peaceful international duty. As the killing was done on Grecian territory, the victims being Italian subjects, Italy naturally looked to Greece for such apology and indemnity as self respecting governments make when such unfortunate incidents occur. The Grecian government disavowed connection with the affair and promised apology and indemnity. But Mussolini lost his head and issued an injudicious ultimatum and mounted his war horse and called out his troops and rushed his warships to Corfu and bombarded it. The funeral was held Wednesday at 1 p. m. at Graham's Undertaking parlors, Springfield. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery, Rev. D. L. Hilliard officiating.

Entertains Hampshire-Northfield Club

The Hampshire-Northfield club met in Belchertown last Saturday. Mrs. D. D. Hazen was hostess, assisted by Mrs. Etta Randolph of Dwight, Miss Alice Collis of Packardville, Mrs. Thomas Allen and Miss Ella Stebbins. Guests were present from Granby, Amherst and Northampton. Principal and Mrs. Dickerson of Northfield Seminary were present and visualized the present day student life to the "old girls."

Additions to Stone House Collection

BY THE CUSTODIAN

The Historical Association has recently received a number of interesting and valuable additions to its collection at The Stone House. Among them are brass ornaments from a helmet which belonged to a U. S. soldier who was on board the Maine when it was blown up in Havana harbor in 1898. The soldier was rescued in the harbor and taken to a hospital where he finally recovered. When the Maine was raised in 1912, his seaman's chest, containing his helmet, was also raised and returned to its owner, who later gave the brasses to A. L. Bishop, by whom they have now been presented to the Historical Association.

Mrs. Charles Trainor has presented quite a large collection of articles of interest in themselves as well as because they are relics of former well-known families of Belchertown's earlier days. There is an ancient bassoon which was used in the Congregational church of Enfield and later in the First Congregational church here. There is also a pitch-pipe used in this church. Quite a far cry from these days of pipe organ and piano!

An example of the skill and patience of former days is seen in a set of five music-books arranged for an orchestra of five pieces. In these books the scores are all copied by hand with the utmost neatness and care, by the late Timothy Kenfield, born 1822, who is still remembered as Belchertown's noted "fiddler."

Included also in Mrs. Trainor's gift are decanters and a set of bell glasses, historical bottles, "china-ware", ancient books, etc., which formerly belonged to the Nye family. There are many other articles which space will not permit us to mention. One—perhaps the most barded its old castle, incidentally killing a few of the refugees from the Near East who were being lodged and cared for in it by British, American and League of Nations charity.

What could weak Greece do when a power like Italy got bumptious, seized some of its territory, Corfu, and made arbitrary demands enforced by a powerful fleet. Both nations are members of the League of Nations. The Council of the League in which both nations were represented officially, was in session at Geneva at the time and Greece promptly appealed to the League to help settle its trouble with its big and angry neighbor, promising to abide by its decisions. Thus the dispute came before the League and without perilous delay the two parties to it and the other members of the Council of the League were seated at a council table to consider the difficulty in a rational and dignified manner.

Italy, at first, claimed that the League had no concern in this trouble although Greece had appealed to it. It was her prerogative to deal alone with the offending neighbor as she deemed consistent with national honor and prestige.

In the discussion that followed it was strongly maintained by the other members of the Council that a difficulty had arisen between two of the League's members that called for its good offices. And this is remembered as the purpose for which the League was evolved, to preserve peace.

In this Italian-Greek crisis, what was needed was a chance for the voice of reason to be heard and the moral sentiment of neutral and friendly nations to be expressed and focused upon it.

The tone of Italy became less imperative as the influence of the League was felt. The last step was the agreement of the disputants to refer their differences for arbitration to the Conference of Ambassadors, the body under whose authority the Commission to delimit the boundaries between Albania and Greece was working. The constitution of the League provides for such reference of difficulties to arbitrators. It was a happy solution of the difficulty and to the League of Nations is due credit for drawing the peril from the black war clouds.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John Korny and Annie Korny to Frederic E. Parsons and Alice G. Parsons, dated September 29, 1921, and recorded in Hampshire County Deeds, Book 772, Page 333, and for breach of the conditions of said mortgage deed and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction upon the highway in front of the dwelling house upon the herein-after described property, on Tuesday, the fourth day of December, 1923, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage and described therein as follows:—Three certain tracts or parcels of land situated in Prescott, County of Hampshire and said Commonwealth, and bounded and described as follows:

First tract: A certain tract or parcel of land situated in said Prescott on the road leading from Prescott to Shutesbury, near the school house in District No. 1, in Prescott, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the northeast corner of said tract at the corner of a stone wall north of the old house spot and running westerly by land now or formerly of Myron A. Pierce, to a stone post; thence southerly by land now or formerly of Myron A. Pierce to a stone wall to land now or formerly of Enoch Peterson to a corner of the stone wall; thence easterly on said wall by land now or formerly of said Peterson to the highway; thence northerly by said highway to the first mentioned bound. Containing twenty (20) acres, be the same more or less.

Second tract: A certain tract or parcel of land situated in said Prescott on the highway leading from Prescott Center to Coleville in Atkinson Hollow, so-called, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at an iron pin driven in the ground on said highway on land now or formerly of Howard I. Shaw nearly opposite the barn now or formerly owned by Golden Rule Grange; thence easterly on land now or formerly of said Shaw about twelve (12) rods to a stake and stones and land now or formerly of George H. Upton; thence northerly on said land now or formerly of Upton to a corner; thence easterly on land now or formerly of said Upton and Wald H. Pierce to land now or formerly of Lillie S. F. Browne; thence northerly on land now or formerly of said Lillie S. F. Browne to land of Enoch E. Peterson; thence westerly on land now or formerly of said Peterson to the highway above mentioned; thence southerly on said highway to place of beginning. Containing sixteen (16) acres be the same more or less.

Third tract: A certain tract or parcel of land situated in said Prescott on what is known as the Pelham Road, and bounded and described as follows:—to wit: Beginning at the northwest corner of land now or formerly of Berry and Sawtelle and Willard Putnam heirs; thence southerly on line of fence and wall on land now or formerly of said Putnam heirs to a corner; thence easterly on land now or formerly of said Putnam heirs, to the highway leading to Pelham; thence easterly on said highway to a stone monument and land now or formerly of Abbie A. Shaw; thence northerly on land now or formerly of said Abbie A. Shaw to a stone post on land now or formerly of Enoch E. Peterson; thence westerly on land now or formerly of said Peterson and Berry and Sawtelle to place of beginning. Containing fifteen acres, be the same more or less. Subject to a mortgage held by Howard I. Shaw in the sum of $950.00 on which $750.00 remains unpaid, and a mortgage held by Lucy Shaw Smith in the sum of $1,750.00. Said premises will be sold subject to said mortgages and to taxes due. Terms cash at time and place of sale.

ing to gladden the eyes of our small visitors as well as those of a larger growth.

In this gift are also included laces, embroideries, "crewel-work", etc., to add to our already extensive collection of hand needle-work. Of special interest to local people is a scarf in worsted work by Miss Emmeline Dickinson, which won a prize at the first Cattle Show held in Belchertown.

There is a piece of wood from the Nathan Hale school house and another from the prison ship Jersey. Of this it was written, "—beside her even Andersonville, with all its horrors, might almost have seemed a garden." These relics, vouched for as authentic, have been carefully mounted, with their history, by Mrs. Kelsey and they will be of genuine interest to the student of Revolutionary times. There is also a copy of the Springfield Union dated Apr. 15, 1865, giving the account of Lincoln's assassination, and the leather belt-pocket and a soldier's leather "housewife" marked U. S., which were carried through the Civil war by Chas. G. O. Hunt who was a musician of the 10th U. S. Co. I. and father of the donor.

In the same collection is the commission of Herman Hawes as sergeant of a militia company in the 3rd Regiment, 1st Brigade and 4th Division of the militia of Massachusetts. This is dated March 20, 1810, and brings to mind those troublous times when each town and hamlet must support its militia company.

These things are of more than local interest and the custodian and members of the Historical Association are deeply grateful for the proof of confidence and interest shown by the donors.

unique of all—is a very ancient table of the "butterfly" order.

Our latest acquisition is a collection presented by Mrs. Emmie Hunt Kelsey, Middletown, Ct., and Mrs. Lizzie Hunt Medbury, Worcester. Mrs. Kelsey and Mrs. Medbury are descendants of the Dickinsons and Hunts and earlier of the Hawes and Peesoes—names which figure in the life of Belchertown in earlier days. They also at one time lived in the Stone House, so it seems doubly fitting that these articles should find their final home there.

So many interesting things are in this gift that it is difficult to select from them for special mention. There are quaint dolls with their outfit, which belonged to Emmeline Dickinson, (later Mrs. Hunt) who was born Jan. 10, 1835. Besides these dolls of over eighty years ago, there is one with a very extensive wardrobe of the period of about 1866. For the use of this china lady are a bedstead completely furnished and a cradle made and decorated in his best style by the late John Hunt for his little granddaughter, who has now left them in our keep-

Another Dental Clinic

Because of the Red Cross, Belchertown is having the benefits of another dental clinic in the schools. Yesterday was the first day of the schedule. In succeeding weeks, Dr. Sherwood, the dentist, will be here on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and will be located in one of the rooms in Lawrence Memorial hall. The length of the clinic will be determined in some measure by the response of the people here to the Red Cross roll call, now in progress.

The Women Win

Of course it all depends upon one's viewpoint. To the women the supper gotten up by them and served by them in the M. E. vestry last Friday night was a great success, but to the men, with the smell of griddle cakes hardly departed, it was, well, just ordinary. One man did admit in the far corner of the room that the women probably served a more bountiful meal, but then, of course, that wasn't for publication.

The ladies cleared over $50, while the men, who wouldn't stoop to soliciting for filthy lucre, made an honest $40 and over.

The men didn't let up on the music all through the evening, while that furnished by the ladies petered out before the mashed potato was masticated. Of course, being unable to secure one of neuter gender to write this article, it is bound to be biased.

There was no question but what the program was more varied last Friday night. A reading by Miss Shattuck and a recitation by Frances Sauer was followed with a dramatized musical number by Marian and Marjorie Shaw. Mrs. H. F. Curtis gave a reading which was followed with a song by Maxine and Louis Fuller, a monologue by Harlan Davis and a sort of community singing which completed the program.

One feature that saved the evening for the ladies was the presence of 17 girl scouts at a table reserved for them. With their songs and cheers there was given a touch of novelty to the affair, a phase in which the men are still convinced that they can at least rank second.

Grange Notes

The annual election of Union Grange, preceded by a supper, was attended by about 40 members. The supper, a family affair as usual, was enjoyed by all, even the doctor pronouncing it one of the best. A list of officers follows:

- Master Mrs. Amy Witt
- Overseer William F. Kimball
- Lecturer Mrs. H. F. Putnam
- Steward H. F. Putnam
- Assistant Steward Andrew Ketchen
- Chaplain Mrs. H. F. Curtis
- Treasurer Mrs. Dora Wesley
- Secretary Mrs. George Davis
- Gate Keeper Charles Trainor
- Ceres Miss Gertrude Riley
- Pomona Mrs. Wm. F. Kimball
- Flora Miss Ruth Gildemeister
- L. Asst. Steward Darsa Dodge
- Executive committee, 3 yrs. Mrs. D. P. Spencer

There will be no Grange dance this evening.

Red Cross Roll Call

One is proud of the fact that there is such a thing as the Red Cross. It works all the time and is on hand ready for business in case of emergency. With what alertness it recently met the need of Japan in her dire distress. We all hold our heads a little higher because of the achievements of the Red Cross.

But this organization can do its work only just as long as it has funds with which to work. It remains an organization only just so long as people are willing to remain members.

Hence the urgency of remaining loyal to this flag which we stood by so loyally during the war. He is a hero twice over who brings himself to a duty when only reason tells him to act.

Mrs. Collard and her assistant, Mrs. Aspengren, offer no apologies for their drive for Red Cross members. Special causes for relief work come and go, but the Red Cross is on duty day in and day out. Canvassers are being asked to cover the various sections of the town, but any who care to contribute direct to the above mentioned persons, can have the pleasure of so doing.

The drive will continue to Dec. 1.

Dance Under New Management

A concert and dance under the auspices of the American Legion and Auxiliary will be held in Lawrence Memorial hall, Wednesday evening, Nov. 28. This is the first dance since the reorganization of the Legion, and every effort is being made to make it an affair of credit. It will be properly policed and a number of patronesses will be present.

The program, both as concerns dances and music will be suited to both young and old. The concert will be from 8 to 9, and dancing from 9 to 12. Russell's Royal Serenaders of Ware, a five piece orchestra, will furnish music.

Prices are as follows: couples, $1; gents, 75c; ladies, 50c; concert, 35c. Those who simply purchase concert tickets can remain in the balcony during the dancing.

Educational Program Today

The Junior High school will give an educational program this afternoon at 1.45 o'clock in the Memorial hall. As this week has been set aside as Education week, this school has spent a few minutes each day in observing some of the various topics under this subject. All who are interested in the future welfare of this community and of the nation are most cordially invited to these simple but instructive exercises.

Please bring any book or books you may have containing the songs in the program, as we wish some good hearty singing from all. The program is as follows:

- Flag Salute and "The Star Spangled Banner"
- Welcome Eunice Doerpholz
- Concert recitation, Preamble to Constitution of the United States
- Reading, "Obedience to the Law"
- Concert recitation, "The American Creed"
- Song, "Battle Hymn of the Republic"
- Recitation, "Respect to the Flag"
- Reading, "Keep our Language"

"Big Thoughts Make Big Men"

This is what one of our leaders of thought in America keeps saying. He maintains that "it is books, thoughts, big thoughts, and the exercise of the reason that makes big men." He holds that if one would read carefully a dozen books which he has in mind, published this year, he would be remade.

There is much of truth in this. When we know a man has on his library table the great books and the great magazines, and the books and magazines give appearance of usage, we conclude that a great man dwells there, and we are not often mistaken. When we find that a man's companions are Macaulay and Carlyle, Dickens and Scott, Bushnell and Phillips Brooks, to mention only a few of the great minds of other days, we are almost certain to find a big man.

Some people declare that the very best books have a very limited sale, that laymen as a rule do not read the great literature, that with all our countless books, the average home library shows a striking deterioration from the days of our fathers.

Whether this is so we cannot say. But we are inclined to think that the age in which we live is not conducive to reading. Where are the long winter evenings that our fathers had? The moving picture and countless engagements have taken away our winter evenings, and the automobile has lured us away from books in the summer.

Alarm is felt in certain quarters, at least, because men are not wrestling with great books. Is this the reason why the president has urged our citizens to set apart one week of the year for education? Is this the reason why the churches have a Christian Literature Sunday?

The world never had such a good supply of great books as now. All of us may not be able to read a great book a week but as some one has said, "The man or the woman who can read an hour every day is

PROBATE COURT

To the heirs-at-law, next-of-kin, and all other persons interested in the Estate of Elmer E. Peeso, late of Belchertown, in said County, deceased.

Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Edgar C. Witt, of Belchertown, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the Executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond;

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Northampton in said County of Hampshire, on the fourth day of December A. D. 1923, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Belchertown Sentinel, a newspaper published in Belchertown, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the Estate, seven days at least before said Court.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of a power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by John Korny and Annie Korny to Frederic E. Parsons and Alice G. Parsons, dated September 29, 1921, and recorded in Hampshire County Deeds, Book 772, Page 333, and for breach of the conditions of said mortgage deed and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction upon the highway in front of the dwelling house upon the herein-after described property, on Tuesday, the fourth day of December, 1923, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage and described therein as follows:—Three certain tracts or parcels of land situated in Prescott, County of Hampshire and said Commonwealth, and bounded and described as follows:

First tract: A certain tract or parcel of land situated in said Prescott on the road leading from Prescott to Shutesbury, near the school house in District No. 1, in Prescott, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at the northeast corner of said tract at the corner of a stone wall north of the old house spot and running westerly by land now or formerly of Myron A. Pierce, to a stone post; thence southerly by land now or formerly of Myron A. Pierce to a stone wall to land now or formerly of Enoch E. Peterson to a corner of the stone wall; thence easterly on said wall by land now or formerly of said Peterson to the highway; thence northerly by said highway to the first mentioned bound. Containing twenty (20) acres, be the same more or less.

Second tract: A certain tract or parcel of land situated in said Prescott on the highway leading from Prescott Center to Conleville in Atkinson Hollow, so-called, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at an iron pin driven in the ground on said highway on land now or formerly of Howard I. Shaw nearly opposite the barn now or formerly owned by Golden Rule Grange; thence easterly on land now or formerly of said Shaw about twelve (12) rods to a stake and stones and land now or formerly of George H. Upton; thence northerly on said land now or formerly of Upton to a corner; thence easterly on land now or formerly of said Upton and Waldo H. Pierce to land now or formerly of Lillie S. F. Browne; thence northerly on land now or formerly of said Lillie S. F. Browne to land of Enoch E. Peterson; thence westerly on land now or formerly of said Peterson to the highway above mentioned; thence southerly on said highway to place of beginning. Containing sixteen (16) acres be the same more or less.

Third tract: A certain tract or parcel of land situated in said Prescott on what is known as the Pelham Road, and bounded and described as follows: to wit: Beginning at the northwest corner of land now or formerly of Berry and Sawtelle and Willard Putnam heirs; thence southerly on line of fence and wall on land now or formerly of said Putnam heirs to a corner; thence easterly on land now or formerly of said Putnam heirs to the highway leading to Pelham; thence easterly on said highway to a stone monument and land now or formerly of Abbie A. Shaw; thence northerly on land now or formerly of said Abbie A. Shaw to a stone post on land now or formerly of Enoch E. Peterson; thence westerly on land now or formerly of said Peterson and Berry and Sawtelle to place of beginning. Containing fifteen acres, be the same more or less. Subject to a mortgage held by Howard I. Shaw in the sum of $950.00 on which $750.00 remains unpaid, and a mortgage held by Lucy Shaw Smith in the sum of $1,750.00. Said premises will be sold subject to said mortgages and to taxes due. Terms cash at time and place of sale.

Dance Big Success

The American Legion dance of Wednesday evening was a great success, both socially and financially. In fact it was the largest attended of any dance the American Legion has ever held.

Not only was it the first dance under new management, but it was the first function of that kind to be held in Lawrence Memorial hall. It was in charge of the entertainment committee, Dr. Watkins, chairman. Assistance was rendered by the Legion Auxiliary, the patronesses being Mrs. F. D. Walker, Mrs. George McPherson, Mrs. J. L. Collard, Mrs. W. A. Kimball, Miss Gertrude Riley and Mrs. H. M. Watkins.

Music was furnished by Russell's Royal Serenaders of Ware, the concert being from 8 to 9, and the dancing from 9 to 12. Part of the proceeds of the dance will be used for benefit purposes.

Red Cross Drive

During the past week, canvassers for the Red Cross have been soliciting members for that organization. As the returns are not all in, the results cannot be announced till next week. Full information will be given then.

Lodge Installed Officers

The new officers of Vernon Lodge were installed last Friday evening. Rt. Wor. Edwin L. Davis of Chicopee, Grand Lecturer, assisted by Wor. Bro. Miles, also of Chicopee, were the installing officers.

The meeting was open to Masons, Stars and their families. About one hundred sat down to the bounteous repast provided by the ladies of the O. E. S.

Officers installed were those named last week and the following, chosen by appointment.

Chaplain A. R. Lewis
Marshal J. L. Collard
S. D. H. M. Watkins
J. D. H. F. Peck
S. S. Edward Snyder
J. S. L. W. Ayers
Tyler Geo. B. Jackson

Girl Scout Activities

The patrols of Belchertown scouts have elected new officers. There are at present four patrols. The leaders are Marjorie Peeso, Rose Menard, Margaret Couture and Ola Campbell; the corporals are Frances Sauers, Marie Baggs, Alice Hussey and Eunice Doerpholz.

Dorothy Kimball of Patrol I was elected chairman of the business meetings for one month, Margaret McPherson treasurer, Nannie Howard color bearer, and Jean Warren secretary.

Patrol II had charge of a short party at the Scout room Nov. 23, after which the Scouts went to the Ladies' supper in a body. The Scouts had a table to themselves and made a lively evening with their cheers and songs.

Dr. McPherson of the State school gave the Scouts a fine talk on the importance and reasons for good posture. They not only enjoyed the talk but many have profited well by it, as you may see if you observe several of the girls whom you know. The Scouts are looking forward to the time when he will come again to see if we have carried out his suggestions.

—Jean Warren, Sec'y

Church Notes

The annual business meeting and roll call of the Congregational church will be held in the chapel Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock. Instead of a supper as originally planned, the Social Guild will serve refreshments at the close of the meeting. Any identified with the Congregational denomination, although not members of this church, are invited to be present at this meeting.

All Methodists are asked to take notice of the Quarterly conference to be held on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Dr. C. Oscar Ford presiding. Those whose duty it is to make reports are reminded to have the same ready.

Dr. Ford will preach at the morning service of the Federated church and administer communion.

Thanksgiving at the State School

Probably the largest Thanksgiving gathering in town was that at the State school. There are around five hundred children there and all had real Thanksgiving turkey on Thursday. Not only did they have turkey, but they had all the "fixins" of which most any family could boast, as well. All the buildings were decorated for the occasion.

In the afternoon parties were given and walks were taken about the grounds. A dance was held in the evening for both patients and employees.

Postponed

The Metacomet Fox, Rod and Gun club will hold their meeting a week from next Monday, owing to the deer hunt.

The fox hunt, scheduled for last Saturday, had to be postponed on account of the weather. It is planned to hold the hunt this week Saturday.

Parent-Teacher Association Meeting

At the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association this week Monday evening, the children of Miss Towne's and Miss Shattuck's rooms gave a Thanksgiving play.

A business meeting of the association followed. Twenty-five have now joined the organization. It is hoped to have a speaker at the next meeting.

Grange Notes

The ladies and gentlemen of Granby grange had a contest Tuesday evening to see which could give the better entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Witt, Mrs. G. H. B. Green, Miss Ruby Knight and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Putnam were invited to judge the meeting. The ladies gave the drama, "Mrs. Willie's Will," and the gentlemen, "Fooling Father." Both did excellent work. The judges decided in favor of the ladies, but had the gentlemen put on a skirt dance in as good shape as the ladies did their clog, they would certainly have won out.

Place of Fighting

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick declares that "it is not a question of Christ and war, it is a question of Christ or war," a question of war or love. Perhaps one may draw the conclusion from such a statement that if one accepts the love alternative, there is no place for a struggle, a conflict or a fight; that co-operation will always take the place of competition and goodwill will always take the place of rivalry. Such a conclusion is false. There is much competition that is useless and there is much rivalry which breeds only harm; and yet no one should think that there is something inherently evil in conflict and something inherently divine in co-operation. One can conceive cases where co-operation would be the wrong policy.

Dr. Fosdick, who accepts the love alternative, yet speaks in almost the same breath about conflicts, so that in his own mind love and conflicts are not irreconcilable.

It may be laid down as a general law that conflict results in progress or retrogression. It is so with an individual. It is so with a nation.

Every man's life is a conflict. He has a fight with himself. And he who does not overcome in the fight with himself can never become great.

No, we should not expect that the millenium will come when conflict ceases. Society would retrograde then. But we may expect that the fight will be on higher levels; not a fight with the fists but with words; not a fight with sword and spear, but a fight with ideas in an international court; not a fight for one's self, but for others; not a fight for personal gains but one for great principles; not a brutal fight, not an ugly fight, but a fair fight, a clean fight, a holy fight, in which it may not be a shame to be defeated. In a world of love and goodwill, there is room for conflict of this sort.

Be Prepared

This is the first of a series of vital health messages from Eugene P. Kelley, Commissioner of Public Health, Boston, Mass.

Now that winter is coming on, everybody is getting stocked up on handkerchiefs to be prepared for a succession of colds. Cold just naturally means colds to many people. It should not, for the cold air in itself is beneficial. Fresh air, no matter how cold it is, is a cure for sickness, not a cause of sickness. It is the bundling up in overheated houses which causes colds. Hugging the stove, with all windows nailed down for the winter,—any individual will start in sniffing and coughing.

Overeating, especially of sweets and greasy food, is another cause for colds. Going to bed late helps the cold along.
Then of course there are the germs. Kissing on the lips is the most direct way of exchanging germs. Keep miles away from coughing, sneezing people. Cover your own sneeze.

Do not let a succession of colds get hold of you this winter. Be prepared for winter, not with a supply

Inside and out, the new Ford Four-door Sedan shows improvements of far more than usual importance.

It is lower and sturdier in appearance. New cowl, hood, radiator and apron add size and finish to the front. Sun visor, and wide, well-finished aluminum doors with bar handles perfect the design of the body.

Silk window curtains, deep broad-cloth upholstery; dome light, door lock, window regulators and handles, all finished in nickel, complete a refinement you would expect only at a far higher price.

Little Mary one day strayed from her governess into the kitchen where Cortez, the cook, was opening a

O far away Hawaiian isle
I fondly think of thee;
Again I see thy mountain peaks
High lifted from the sea;

The tall palms waving o'er the beach
Where plays the brown-skinned boy
Without a care except to find
His calabash of poi.

I hear the surf break on the reef,
The lap of wave on shore,
And, welcome in my eager ears,
"Aloha" sounds once more.

Golden Rule Sunday

It almost seems as though the war days were still with us. We are asked either to have a simple meal on Sunday and donate the difference in value from that regularly served, to the Near East Relief, or have the usual bounteous meal, and contribute the same amount as would be given in case the former method were used. This is called the Golden Rule way of dealing with the countless orphans of the Near East who are in their present condition through no fault of their own.

But will these appeals never cease? Can we never eat a meal without this feeling that somebody is going hungry and that we are responsible? Can we never get away from this uncomfortable feeling?

We have been told a great deal of late that the world can never reach an ideal state until there is prosperity and happiness in all portions of it. We have been told that there is no such thing as isolation for America, that business will not be what it might be here, if all is not well abroad. With all these appeals to relieve the stricken, we have one more argument for believing this to be true.

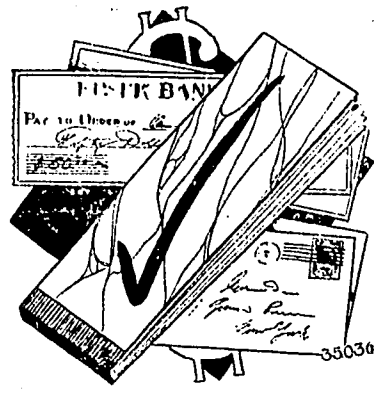

What a record America has made in the matter of running an ambulance in lands across the sea. Funds have flowed like a river to relieve the suffering.

We still want the suffering to be relieved. We want to express our own thankfulness by sharing with others, we want to be a grateful people, but as we share and as we give, let us vow that if ever the opportunity comes to help prevent such suffering from materializing, we will skip a whole meal, if necessary, to write to our representatives in national affairs to the effect that it is the only reasonable thing to do.

Really, wouldn't it be quite as sensible to help our neighbor protect his family as to go over with food for his children after he is dead and gone, and wouldn't it cost less in the long run, and wouldn't we feel better about it?

This logic will not help the orphans now depending on us for continuance of life, but its application would save other children from being thrown into the hopper that turns out such an awful grist.

We shall all feel better if we help the stricken as their piteous knocks are heard at our doors, but we shall never walk as men till we heed the call of our neighbor for assistance ere the damage has been done.

Red Cross Members

Although complete returns of the Red Cross Roll Call are not yet in, it can be stated that 105 members have already been secured. 40 subscriptions were obtained at the State school, Dr. McPherson very kindly offering his services in the work of securing members there.

Those who undertook the work in other sections of the town were:

Mrs. Aubrey Lapolice
Mrs. Lewis Blackmer
Miss Gertrude Riley
Miss Ella Stebbins assisted by Scouts Evelyn Shumway and Rose Menard
Mrs. D. C. Randall
Mrs. Arthur Ketchen
Mrs. Clayton Green
Mrs. Elmer Peeso

Mrs. J. L. Collard, who is in charge of the Roll Call, desires to take this means of thanking all the above for their community service, thus manifested.

A special feature of the Roll Call was the interest manifested by the grade schools of the center and the Cold Spring school. The children brought their pennies to go towards a school subscription, and the teachers made up the balance.

Annual Meeting

Wednesday night was not exactly the kind of a night that the Congregationalists would have selected for their annual meeting, but there was a good attendance in spite of the weather.

J. V. Cook was chosen moderator and the various articles in the warrant were acted upon. The report of the treasurer was of special interest, as it disclosed the fact that the two projects of considerable magnitude carried out this past year, the painting and repairing of both church and chapel, were most satisfactorily met financially.

After some discussion, it was voted to make the Chapman fund a permanent one, the interest only to be used.

In Memoriam was read by Mrs. M. D. S. Longley, the historian, and recorded the passing of Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Allen, Mrs. C. F. D. Hanson, Mrs. Sara Walker Cowles and Mrs. Hattie Bishop Ayers. Five former pastors, Rev. W. S. Woolworth, Rev. E. P. Kelly, Rev. C. H. Smith, Rev. J. H. Chandler and Rev. H. P. Rankin, sent messages for the roll call.

In order that Rev. D. L. Hilliard, pastor of the Federated church, might have the authority to represent the Congregational church in its varied denominational responsibilities, it was voted to have him serve in a pastoral capacity. Mr. Hilliard is already vested with that power in the M. E. church, by virtue of concurrent appointment by the Conference.

Following the roll call of resident members, the Social Guild served refreshments.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Clerk, Mrs. H. F. Peck.
Treasurer, Miss Ella A. Stebbins.
Trustees, Edward A. Randall, Alvan R. Lewis, Lewis H. Blackmer, Harold F. Peck, Wilbur F. Nichols, Geo. E. Scott.

Auditor, Rufus E. Bond.

Committee of Management (Federated church) Edward A. Randall, Lewis H. Blackmer, Miss Ella A. Stebbins.

Pastoral committee, Rev. C. G. Burnham, Mrs. A. L. Kendall.

Nominating committee, Miss Grace Towne, George B. Jackson, Mrs. Harold Ketchen.

Supt. Home Dept., Mrs. A. L. Kendall.

Committee on Benevolences, Miss Ella A. Stebbins, Miss Marion Bartlett, Mrs. Dora Bardwell.

Grange Notes

The program at the Grange Tuesday night, arranged by the Home Economics committee, was well carried out and much enjoyed by those present. It consisted of readings by Mrs. Spencer, A. E. Pease and Andrew Ketchen, a game of emergencies, a charade and several selections by a special orchestra.

December 18 there will be a Christmas tree and entertainment by a committee chosen by the master. An extra good time is promised.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Putnam were chosen as alternates to the State Grange at Worcester, Dec. 11, 12 and 13.

POMONA GRANGE

Pomona grange met at Amherst Thursday with the following program: Morning, reports from all subordinate Grange Masters; Duties of the School Nurse. Afternoon, an original musical fantasy, The Garden of the Grange, given by Mrs. Bertha Walsh of Amherst.

Special Meetings
Wednesday

Special meetings will be held in the M. E. vestry next week Wednesday, both morning and afternoon. They will concern evangelism and will be in charge of the evangelistic committee of the Hampshire East Association of Congregational churches, who will hold similar meetings in the various towns of the association.

This meeting is held, however, with the Federated church and everyone is most cordially invited. Lunch will be served at noon. The morning service begins at 10.30. Speakers will be present from neighboring churches.

The subject of the day's conferences will be Evangelism and Spiritual Development in the Churches.

Deer Hunt On

A number of deer have been shot in town during the past week. As someone has said, those that have secured one feel a lot easier than those who haven't. Selectmen Garvey has been on the trail from his camp in Enfield, but it remained for Cornelius Lynch to get the coveted prize. Among others who have been as fortunate are Dr. Collard and Fred Purdy. Red hats seem to be the popular headgear.

League Honors Girl Scouts

The Girl Scout movement came into its own, this last week, when the international sisterhood of which it is a part, was formally and officially recognized and approved by the League of Nations and by all the individual nations making up that organization. In this approval the international Boy Scout movement shares. This action was taken by the League of Nations Assembly, following a report submitted by a committee appointed to study these movements and to make recommendations.

Both the committee recommendations and the resolutions finally adopted by the Assembly render highest praise to the scout movements for the all-important work which they are doing in building up an international brotherhood and sisterhood destined to do much for the future peace of the world. The action carries with it special privileges for scouts who are travelling abroad, especially in regard to customs and the other formalities of passing from one country to another.

The resolution adopted was first submitted to the League of Nations Assembly by the delegation from Chili, and as recommended by the committee, it read as follows: "Considering that the International Boy and Girl Scout movement, which promotes closer relations and a better understanding between the younger generations of all nations, is rendering very real and valuable services in the cause of world peace, the Assembly of the League of Nations invites the governments of the States Members of the League to give favorable consideration to the question of the facilities which they can provide for these groups of scouts when such groups are travelling from the territory of one state member to or through the territory of another state member.

"The Boy Scout and Girl Guide movement," the committee report further stated, "is not one of a new movement. Founded before the 1914 war, the movement had, even at that time, a very considerable number of adherents throughout the world. Today it includes more than two and a half million young people of both sexes in every continent and in every land, and it continues to prosper.

"The Assembly is being asked to take under its protection a movement which is full of life, inspired by ideals, the noble and lofty character of which is not contested and whose usefulness is undeniable from the point of view which is of special interest to us all, world peace. It is not only necessary, but indispensable, that this movement should receive every support and assistance.

Entertainment at Dwight

The entertainment given by the school children at Union school last Thursday evening, was a great success.

Over forty parents and friends of the school children were present. Mrs. D. D. Hazen, with a party from Belchertown, attended, also Mr. Wippen, the county club agent, with four boys from Hadley who are club members, were present.

By sale of tickets and the contributions received, ten dollars was cleared. This money is to be transferred to Mr. Wippen, who will buy a handicraft set for the boys in this school. Any surplus will be used for lumber to make the articles required.

The teacher and the pupils of Union school wish to thank all those who helped make the entertainment a success.

The Legion is to hold another dance Friday evening, Dec. 28. The Royal Serenaders of Ware will furnish music. The concert will be from 8.30 to 9.30 and dancing from 9.30 to 12.30. Tickets to the former are 35 cents and to the latter $1.00.

The management expects to duplicate the reputation of the last dance which was of a high order.

Patronesses and a police officer will be in attendance.

Fellowship Meeting

The Fellowship meeting held with the Federated church on Wednesday was the first of a series to be held with the churches of the Hampshire East Association this winter. These meetings are in the interest of evangelism and are an outgrowth of the National Council meetings.

Rev. J. C. Wightman led the morning service and gave a helpful devotional talk. At its close the meeting was thrown open to discussion and prayer.

Lunch was served in the chapel dining room at noon, and following the social hour, the services of the day were resumed. Rev. Mr. Hope of Hadley in his address called the attention of his hearers to the ever increasing number of worthy causes appealing to the churches for support, which is a recognition in itself of what the church stands for.

Rev. J. A. Hawley of Amherst showed how the old type of evangelism was passing and how new and more vital methods can take the place of the old. In a very practical way he outlined how the same results could be achieved by personal contacts.

There was also allusion during the day to educational work among the young people. A number testified to the fact that there has been progress in the presentation of the gospel challenge to the young people, so that its appeal is more normal and understandable than that of an earlier period.

United Y. P. S. Notes

Be sure to be on hand at our supper this evening. The best of foods, Gould's orchestra, and an unusually good entertainment will give you something to remember the evening by. The supper is public and we have set our goal at 160 persons present. Let's all turn out for a good time!

Our semi-annual election of officers will be held Sunday evening during the regular 6 o'clock meeting. It is very important that all members should come and cast their ballots.

We are planning to return the visit that the Enfield C. E. society paid us Nov. 11. Sunday, Dec. 23, has been mentioned as a probable date for this. When we do go, we want to have a good crowd. Enfield brought over 19 people. We should double that number! And don't forget that Enfield, and probably South Amherst, is sending over a big delegation for the supper this evening.

When we were children we were given many lessons in courtesy. We were taught that it was not polite to speak disrespectfully of our elders. We were given much instruction as to our manners. We were told to use frequently such words as "Please," "Thank you" and "Excuse me." We learned not to break in when another was speaking. Parents, teachers and friends were desirous that we should give up our seat to ladies, or tip our hats when we met them on the streets. We are very grateful for all this instruction.

Courtesy is quite as beautiful in adults as it is in children. We grown-ups need to go to school to learn lessons in courtesy; for frequently we are not considerate of the opinions and views and convictions of others. How often we treat rudely those who differ with us! Conservative and liberals, modernists and fundamentalists need to learn courtesy.

The more busy we are, the more does the grace of courtesy suffer. When we are in an extreme hurry, we have no time to spend on the ordinary courtesies and civilities. We jostle one another and crowd and push in order to arrive quickly, and throw the little graceful attentions to the winds. By so doing we lose much. How the person charms us who still takes time to do the little fine and gentle things and who never forgets to be polite and gracious in his bearings!

We need to be courteous in our international relations. We only lose by treating any nation rudely or brusquely. It is bad manners to speak in a light and insolent fashion of any nation.

Of what avail is it to travel faster and grow richer and make progress in science and invention if thereby courtesy is damaged? Let us hold hard by this grace for without it life becomes drab and commonplace and loses its sweetness and beauty and charm. Neither courtes-

Dies in New Haven

Mrs. Alice C. Judd, a frequent visitor to Belchertown during quite a term of years, died in New Haven last Saturday from the effects of a shock. Mrs. Judd was a woman of winsome personality and her presence here will be greatly missed. She belonged to a number of literary organizations and herself wrote a great number of articles for the press. The Sentinel has had the pleasure of printing a number of contributions from her pen. The funeral was held on Tuesday.

Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus E. Bond celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with a family reunion at their home on South Main street on Monday. Residents of this town for only a little over two years, they have, however, by their sterling New England ideals won a place in the esteem of the community.

Mr. Bond was born in Ware, the son of Benjamin and Louisa Eaton Bond, while Mrs. Bond was the daughter of Albert and Charlotte Cook Tuttle and was born in Hadley. Mr. Bond graduated from the Ware High school and attended the academy in Meriden, N. H. Mrs. Bond attended Brimfield academy and taught school until her marriage.

The ceremony was solemnized in Fiskdale, where for about twenty years Mr. Bond was connected with the Snell Mfg. Co. During this period of service, Mr. Bond purchased a large hardware store in Orange and started in business for himself; but after three years the Snell people insisted on his return to them, which led him to sell his investment.

From Fiskdale Mr. and Mrs. Bond removed to Buffalo, N. Y., where, for a period of thirty years, until August, 1921, Mr. Bond was cashier of the Pierce plant of the American Radiator Co.

One of the pleasant surprises of the wedding anniversary was a congratulatory telegram from the above mentioned concern.

Another surprise of the occasion

Location of New Voting Precincts

Below is a description of the division of the town into two voting precincts, as ordered at the special town meeting of November 3, 1923:

Starting from Ludlow line on Chauncey Walker St. to No. Bardwell St. (extending from Chauncey Walker St., near the Springfield reservoir, past Washington school, to its junction with No. Liberty St. near residence of M. H. Jejeian) continuing on Bardwell St. to the first cross road, formerly known as the Michael Sears road, along this road to Franklin St., thence due east to Swift river.

Taken from starting point at Ludlow line, those voters living on south or right hand side of this division will vote in B precinct; those living on north or left hand side of this division, from same starting point will vote in A precinct.

Y. P. S. Supper

"The young people did it" last Friday night in the matter of a supper. They proved themselves worthy successors of the "men" and "women" who have tried to put on something distinctive. They patterned after the men in the matter of having a full-fledged orchestra both during and after supper, they duplicated the success of the ladies in providing a bounteous repast, and they put on some "fixings" all on their own account. Miniature Christmas trees were on all the tables, and each became a child again with no regard to the number of years which Santa Claus had had their names on his visiting list.

Quite a varied entertainment followed the supper. Mrs. Henry Witt gave an appropriate Christmas reading, and then came "the serious surgical operation performed on a prominent local lady" who from the evidence obtainable was Miss Maggie Hales. The doctors were Messrs. Shuttleworth, Scott and Chamberlain, and the nurse, Miss Allen. The appendix removed savored of the 5 and 10.

A duel fought by the Earl of Lardborough and the Duke of Buttrick, Messrs. Scott and Chamberlain, was realistically presented.

Both survived.

Sandwiched between the numbers were selections by Gould's orchestra and the singing of old-time songs. Games completed the evening's fun.

Fire Destroys House

The house on the Enfield road belonging to Miss Lillian Miller was destroyed by fire Monday morning. The blaze first started in the chimney next the ell during the early morning hours, but was supposed to be under control. The building itself, however, was discovered to be on fire around 8 o'clock, when a call for help was sent in. The department responded with the chemical but all that could be done was to remove the furniture from the house. Then efforts were put forth to keep the flames from spreading to the adjoining sheds and barn. Through the use of the chemical and water, and by disconnecting the sheds the latter were saved as was also the barn.

The loss was partly covered by insurance. Miss Miller is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Baggs.

Grange Notes

Thirty members of Union grange met for their Christmas entertainment Tuesday evening, and each brought the Christmas spirit with him, as well as a gift for the tree, which occupied a prominent place, decorated with stars and tinsel, and each became a child again with no regard to the number of years which Santa Claus had had their names on his visiting list.

A Christmas welcome song by the Grange began the entertainment. The winners of games and contests were rewarded with appropriate prizes. Miss Darsa Dodge received a candlestick for the candle race after several trials to eliminate the tie. Dr. Rowland and Miss Emma Dodge received stockings of candy in the Christmas stocking contest, Mrs. Lapolice a rubber ball, and Mrs. Guy Allen a jumbo pencil in the snowball contest. The old game of stagecoach in a new dress created amusement for a brief time, especially as H. F. Putnam seemed to enjoy being the central figure during the "first half."

Mrs. Curtis read the Story, which was appropriate to the occasion.

As each one deposited his gift with the committee in charge, he received a new name, and when his name was called, came forward, and blindfolded, chose a gift from the tree and also received an orange and a shiny red apple. After the merry-making was over, saltines, cake and cocoa were served.

It is hoped that the cheerful spirit of cooperation will be kept up during the year 1924, as it is those who attend, resolved to do their part, who enjoy belonging to the Grange.

An interesting feature of the evening was the report of the State grange by the master, Mrs. Amy Witt. The next meeting will be held Friday evening, Jan. 4, instead of Tuesday, Jan. 1st, with Deputy Ernest H. Russell of Hadley as inwas the call of Mrs. Frank Green and Mrs. Rufus Smith of Hadley, the former having been bridesmaid at the original wedding.

Of course the most gladsome part was the return of their five children, S. Benjamin Bond of Bathurst, New Brunswick, Ralph E. Bond of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mrs. Thera L. Corliss of this town, Ernest T. Bond of Davenport, Ia., and Louis H. Bond of Buffalo, N. Y.

This is the first time in eighteen years that the children and parents have all been together, business demands taking them to places widely removed.

Distance made it impossible for other members of the out of town families to return. There are fifteen grand children, only one of whom was present.

A unique gift received by Mr. and Mrs. Bond was a booklet of "Chronicles" of the Bond family, phrased in Bible language, by Mrs. A. H. Bartlett.

Flowers from the family, from the Federated church, and other remembrances from neighbors and friends helped to gladden a day long to be remembered.

M. A. C. Musical Clubs Coming

Something new and unusual in the way of entertainment is promised to Belchertown on the night of January 18th, when the Massachusetts Agricultural College musical clubs will give a concert and dance in the new Memorial hall under the auspices of the Belchertown High school.

The musical clubs number about thirty men, comprising the best singers and musicians in the Aggie student body. Their program is of generous length and varied, composed of songs, of both the college and more classical types, instrumental selections, and usually an act or two by the best comedian on the campus.

There is something so unique and captivating in the performances of college musical clubs that they are in constant demand wherever fun and music lovers meet. A good male chorus is just rare enough to be a drawing-card whenever it performs.

The Aggie clubs which come to Belchertown this winter for the first time usually include Holyoke, Springfield, Boston and its suburbs in their entertainment season. The nearness of this town to Amherst and the new hall here have helped to secure them in mid-season, when they should be at their best.

College orchestras are renowned for their "pep". After the concert, Bob Woodworth's five-piece orchestra of M. A. C. will play for dancing until midnight or later. This orchestra had four pieces until a short time ago, when it added a former member of Paul Whiteman's Palais Royal group.

In the combination entertainment which thirty-five young men will give on January 18th, the High school feels that it is offering the people of Belchertown and vicinity a treat, and respectfully invites their patronage.

Grange Notes

The Grange programs for 1924 are in the hands of the printer. Don't forget that the installation is Jan. 4th instead of Jan. 1st.

The Grange of Easthampton is expected to give the drama, "Prof. Pepp," in Belchertown in the near future.

Observe 55th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Killmer observed their 55th wedding anniversary on Monday. Mr. Killmer is ill on that day, but was able to receive a few callers. The couple were the recipient of numerous letters, post cards and gifts. All the children and grandchildren called to tender congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Killmer came to town from Enfield four years ago Wednesday. They were both born in Hudson, N. Y., where they lived for about thirty years. They were married by Rev. Benj. M. Adams of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. Killmer early entered the insurance business in which he continued for about thirty years.

From Hudson Mr. and Mrs. Killmer went to Waltham, Mass., where they resided for about twenty years. After short stays in Athol and Enfield, they came to Belchertown to make their home.

They have two children, Rev. H. A. Killmer of Springfield, and Mrs. W. D. Upham of this town. There are also four grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Killmer have long been identified with the M. E. church, and Mr. Killmer holds positions of trust in the local organization. He is president of the class of the Federated Sunday school and a faithful attendant at the church services. Mr. Killmer is also a Past Noble Grand of the Hudson City Lodge.

Christmas in Belchertown

"Christmas in Belchertown" is quite an exhaustive subject. One hardly knows when Christmas started or when it ended. It will soon last "the whole year through" if each year sees it lengthened on both sides of Christmas day as is the tendency at present.

The Grange had its tree last week Tuesday as reported in our last issue. In the center, the grade schools had an elaborate celebration last Friday afternoon in the assembly room of the grade school building. Santa Claus made one of his first appearances on this occasion.

In the evening, a large company gathered for the High School tree exercises in Memorial hall. An exceptionally fine tree adorned the auditorium, where the students were gathered for the program and presentation of gifts. The invited guests viewed the spectacle from the balcony. The program was as follows:

B. H. S. PROGRAM

- School Chorus
- Recitation Ruth Aldrich
- School Orchestra
- Reading Mr. Allen
- Trio Cassie Sullivan, Violet Wunsch, Helen Shea
- Reading Mr. Jackson
- Solo Mr. Allen
- School Chorus

After the distribution of presents, dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by Gould's orchestra. On Saturday evening, the High school tree bore another crop of Christmas presents, this time in the M. E. vestry, where the Federated Sunday School held its exercises. The children were out in full force, and a number of parents were present. The children furnished quite a program, and Howell Cook furnished the unfailling Santa Claus.

Christmas was observed in the churches on Sunday morning with appropriate sermons, while in the Congregational church in the evening, a cantata, "Promise and Fulfillment," was effectively rendered by a large choir.

Forward!

One of the signs that a man is alive is that he desires to go onward and upward and forward. It is a splendid indication if one finds that with every January first he is determined that in the new year he shall reach higher levels than he has ever attained. That is normal. That is healthy. That is the way it should be. We know that that aged man who declared "I have not yet attained; I press onward," was alive to his finger tips, and that in him could be found no symptoms of death or decay. All healthy life cries, "Forward," no matter how great and good the past may have been.

What makes life worth living is our vision of larger things. Death has already begun to take place when smug complacency sets in. "A man's reach must exceed his grasp,

Or what's a heaven for?" the poet wisely asks.

A nation must go forward to keep alive. If we stay back in isolation as we were in the days of Washington, corruption is beginning to take place.

In many respects President Coolidge's message to Congress was forward looking and yet it left much to be desired. His advocacy of America's participation in the World Court is a step forward in the right direction; but why should he hesitate before our entrance to the League of Nations and call it a "closed incident"? An association of nations or a league of nations is a forward step. We are bound to take it some day. Perhaps Mr. Coolidge is taking us a good distance if he persuades us to join the World Court, but many of us wish he had such a vision of a new world that he would call us to an even more heroic venture which we believe humanity needs in these tragic days. —R.

Christmas in Belchertown

AT THE STATE SCHOOL

The story of Christmas would not be complete without mention of its observance at the State School, for if there were any who appreciated Christmas, it was the hundreds of boys and girls who are in this institution.

The celebration started Monday with exercises in two of the buildings in the afternoon, and in three others in the evening.

The rooms were most beautifully trimmed with red and green and each had its Christmas tree and Santa Claus.

The evening's exercises were by the older children and were most effectively carried out. Some of the presentations were quite involved, but the parts were learned to perfection.

The first entertainment was given by the girls, who appeared in costume representing the Shepherds, Wise Men, Angels, etc. These parts were very finely taken.

The next entertainment was given by the boys who had a jolly time, representing the various Mother Goose characters as well as that of Santa Claus.

The concluding exercises of the evening were held at the farm house. Here the boys and men, many of whom had been here since the first days of the institution, dressed in costume representing Rip Van Winkle, The Man in the Moon, Jack Frost, and similar characters, recited, danced, gave Indian drills, and sang Christmas carols.

One will not soon forget the singing of this group of farm hands, who joined their voices with the multitude of earth in the singing of the old-time Christmas carols. They did not render them as would a trained choir, but one did not doubt but that the music reached the same White Throne.

At the completion of the exercises Santa appeared in the person of Dr.

Rowland, who delighted the boys with his funny sayings.

Another collection of presents was dispensed, some from relatives and some from the school—all had something.

The day following, Christmas day, two more exercises were held including one for the children in the infirmary.

Not alone were all remembered with presents, but after the turkey dinner on Christmas day, each inmate had a stocking containing all the good things to eat that any normal child might desire.

To one who witnessed quite a portion of the Christmas observance at the State school and saw the friendly interest quietly manifested by the doctors and instructors, the thought kept reasserting itself that had it not been for the Christ of Bethlehem, to whom people of every condition and race turn their eyes at Christmas time, no institution such as Belchertown now has, would have ever come into existence, for all humanitarian enterprises trace their beginnings to Bethlehem.

Dies in Bellows Falls

Albert J. Bixby, a resident of Belchertown for many years but later of North Dana, died Dec. 21 in Bellows Falls, Vt., where he went in November to visit relatives.

He was born in Rupert, Vt., and was one of a family of seven children, only one of whom is now living, Mrs. Julia Hubbard of this town. He enlisted in August, 1862, and was a member of Co. G, 46th Regt., M. V. M., and was stationed at Newburn, N. C. He was a member of Athol Post, G. A. R., Thomas Lodge of Palmer, and of the grange at North Dana.

Besides his sister he leaves five nieces and nephews.

The funeral was in the home in North Dana Sunday noon. Rev. Dr. Brown, pastor of the M. E. church, officiated. A delegation from Athol Post attended, also many neighbors and friends. The casket was draped with a flag, and there were many beautiful flowers. Burial was in the cemetery at North Dana.

Men's Sunday

Sunday is to be Men's Sunday at the Federated church. The men are taking it upon themselves to make that day a memorable one. They have arranged a number of special features that should prove worth while. A men's choir will sing in the morning and there will be a men's chorus in the evening. The evening service will be entirely in charge of the men and the general theme will be, "Men's Work in Community Improvement." The following addresses will be given: "Men's Work in Civic Life,"

E. C. Witt
"Men's Work in Creating and Developing Public Opinion," Belding F. Jackson
"Men's Work in the Religious and Moral Life,"
Dr. Rowland
The men are working on the psychology that the New Year is a first rate time to start a good habit.

Special Town Meeting

The special town meeting Monday afternoon to see whether the town would accept the limits of the voting precinct at the south end as outlined by the selectmen was an interesting one.

It was not a meeting where arguments figured greatly. Each faction had made up its mind quite strongly. Sentiment in the center was quite strong that the number of people to be accommodated was so few and the expense involved so much that the whole proposition should be vetoed at every point. It is also the feeling that the whole town should be present at the central meeting to vote on appropriations and that voting booths elsewhere would tend to lessen responsibility in this respect.

Dates Spoken For

Jan. 15
Extension School.
Jan. 18
M. A. C. musical clubs.
Jan. 23
St. Francis church whist party and food sale.

Those in the proposed precinct feel that they are only asking something fair and what anyone in the center would want under the same circumstances.

Things did not go well for the people of the southerly part of the town at the meeting. In the first place, their constituency were late in arriving, on account of bad road conditions. Mr. Sullivan, their spokesman, tried to defer the vote till their arrival, but the voters were unwilling so to do. Then when there seemed an effort on to talk against time, the previous question was called for and the vote taken at once, which went against the precinct layout.

A motion for adjournment was made as the precinct supporters came in at the door and a determined effort was put forth to prolong the meeting for reconsideration but the added strength was not sufficient to stop the steam roller. Practically all votes were "doubted".

Mr. Sullivan stated in the meeting that the proponents had anticipated no opposition, thinking that the town had voted the project and would not balk at this turn.

It remains to be seen how dead the matter is.

Meeting Monday Night

There will be a meeting Monday evening in the High School room at Lawrence Memorial of those who contributed to the fund raised for the domestic science department.

It will be remembered that the letters of solicitation stated that this fund would be administered either by a committee chosen from the donors or turned over to the town. Some equipment has been purchased—that which needed to be put in with the erection of the building—but most of the articles to be used in the room are yet to be bought.

In the opinion of some, it would be a good thing to turn the money over to the school authorities and let them purchase the necessary supplies. The meeting Monday night is to come to some decision regarding the matter.

The meeting is called for 7.30 sharp as there are other engagements later in the evening.

Extension School for Farmers

Through the efforts of Roland A. Payne, County Agricultural Agent, an extension school for real dirt farmers will be held Jan. 14. Mr. Payne has secured the services of C. J. Fawcett and J. B. Abbott for a limited number of such schools and Belchertown is to have one of them.

There will be morning and afternoon sessions and a variety of farm subjects will be discussed. Poultrymen have had their day, and this will be a day for the dairymen. Soils and crops, feeds and feeding, will all come in for consideration.

Miss Mildred Boyce, home demonstration agent, will also be present on that day to meet the ladies, discussing with them home furnishings and conveniences in the kitchen.

TURKEY HILL NEWS

The people of Turkey Hill tried something new Monday evening in the way of a community supper. Mr. and Mrs. Newman were host and hostess, and Mrs. J. W. Hurlburt with Mrs. H. F. Putnam, committee of arrangements. Every family between Croney's corner and the Ludlow town line on the south, and the Granby line on the west was invited. Supper was served soon after 6.30 and consisted of mashed potatoes, turnips, roast pork, salads, rolls, pies and fixings.

The ladies, upon arriving, were presented with paper stockings, which they tore in two, depositing one piece and retaining the other. The gentlemen then drew the remaining pieces and matched them for partners.

The costumes of those present, except a few less daring ones who wore their best, were all that could be desired. Mention should especially be made of Mrs. Mary Shumway, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Green, Mrs. Newman, A. E. Pease and Leon Williams.

The crowning feature of C. R.

Old Calendars

We have taken down the calendars of 1923. Why? Because they have told the tale of a year that is past, they have rendered their full measure of service and are no longer serviceable.

The taking down of the old calendars and the putting up of new ones is symbolical to me of a process of replacement of the old by the new that should be continuous that we may be up to date.

We do not use the old time candle for light in our homes, we use electricity, but many a person refuses to use the light which the new knowledge of this age of science and progress throws upon some of the most vital questions and concerns of life.

They keep up old calendars. This is true in a large measure in politics. The mere politician stands by the old party platforms and policies, cries the party slogans and waves the party emblems or any old rag around which narrow partisans will rally for a campaign.

The church has often shown a strange reluctance to change calendars. On December 25, 1923, for the first time in more than three centuries, Christmas was observed by the whole Christian world on the same date because the great Eastern Church had within a year taken down the ancient Julian calendar.

As church people we nurse our denominational preferences and prejudices, we emphasize our divisive "isms", because the denominational calendars still hang in conspicuous places and we fail to recognize that in the providence of God the hour has struck to replace them by new ones that embody the ideal of unity which the great Head of the church voiced in his prayer: "that they may be one."

What an outcry is being made in some quarters against those who accept the new light that has been cast upon the Bible by modern study and research and modify their theological beliefs accordingly. On many a wall hangs a Westminster or Calvinistic or Wesleyan calendar with hardly a single leaf torn off. Yet the passing years have yielded new light upon religious beliefs and practices. He who taught as one having authority said: "This is the condemnation that light is come into the world."

The practice of replacement symbolized by the change of an old calendar for a New Year's one has ethical value and obligation. The Great Teacher insisted upon it. "Ye have heard that it was said unto them of old time. . . . But I say unto you." The early Christian writers following Him expressed the idea in other terms and emphasized this replacement as the law of progress in right living. "Put off the old man." "Put on the new man."

Be up to date, gentle readers, in measurement of time, in acceptance of new knowledge and in the practice of new standards of right living, and A Happy New Year to you all.

American Legion Dance

Bad weather and one or two other considerations seemed to conspire against the American Legion dance of last Friday night, so that it was not quite the banner occasion expected, but it was a pleasant affair, nevertheless. The management regrets, however, the absence of Mr. Robinson, leader of the orchestra, who was ill.

The following patronesses were in attendance: Mrs. F. D. Walker, Mrs. Guy C. Allen, Mrs. Roy Shaw, Mrs. Roland Shaw, Mrs. Raymond Goodell, Mrs. J. V. Cook, Mrs. H. B. Ketchen, Mrs. J. L. Collard and

Social Guild Supper

Those "good old days!" How we long for their return, with baked bean suppers and the like at low prices! But when people have the opportunity to return, they don't always do so, which explains, maybe, aside from the icy going, why there wasn't a grand rush for the supper tables at the chapel, Wednesday evening. We are getting thoroughly modernized.

But the menu was good enough for anyone and the entertainment was good, too. It started with "bean porridge hot" and wound up with "Jenkins"—all for a quarter.

Like a small college, such events have their advantages—there is more opportunity for individual attention.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Stacy left town Christmas Day for Syracuse, N. Y. From there, accompanied by Mr. Stacy's aunt, Mrs. Addie Riegal, they went to Tampa, Florida, where they expect to spend the winter. A letter, postmarked North Carolina, has just been received by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fairchild, in which comment is made of the summer zone they were entering. They also mentioned meeting a number of northern friends who likewise have been lured to the South land.

Miss Ida Shaw of Wilmington, and the Misses Mary and Margaret Power of Worcester have returned, after spending the Christmas recess in town.

Miss Mary Howard, who has been employed in Philadelphia the past few years, has accepted a position at the State school.

New Year's Party

Green's attire was his father's wedding hat, and Mrs. Green's costume of gray silk with a scarlet corsage bouquet, pearl ear rings and jet beads, which looked like a dream from a distance, must have dated still farther back, judging from the perforated condition of the silk. A carved coral comb of her grandmother's was the envy of the party.

Mrs. Shumway was beautifully attired in black silk with yellow daisies and coral ear rings "to match." L. E. Williams was becomingly attired in a dotted blue shirt, brown jeans and kerchief, and a brand new pair of boots topped with white. A. J. Sears and H. F. Putnam also came in their best boots. A. E. Pease must have slipped on the reverse pedal when he jumped into his overalls, though of course no comments were made.

Mrs. Newman wore her scarlet satin over blue crepe with many beads of rubies and captivated all the gentlemen present, both with her daring dress and winning smile.

The ladies, who would have been only too glad to have dressed in such beautiful costumes, vowed they had grown so stout that only their common house dresses were available.

Many comments, perhaps from envy, were made because the mail man and his partner occupied the parlor nearly all the evening with only three lamps for illumination, and J. W. Hurlburt and the hostess resorted to the attic, seemingly to procure paper for the artist. They, however, were ably chaperoned by Mrs. Hurlburt.

A saxophone, harmonica, accordion and ukeleles furnished music. Several sports with ribbon badges to Christmas candles burned in the windows until they were wanted for the candle race, won by Mrs. Sears. The exchange of white elephant gifts caused much merriment, as nearly all present came prepared with their gifts. One whose origin could not be learned is well worthy of note because of its ingenious character: a small box contained a miniature King Tut, together with relics found in his tomb.

At 11.30 the refreshments of cake and coffee were served and at 12 o'clock merry greetings were exchanged and a song, "To Greet the New Year," was sung.

Shortly after midnight a party of seven from Jas. Lodge's arrived to join the party. They being from England, followed the old custom of making New Year's calls. They entered into the spirit of the hour by coming grotesquely dressed, but unfortunately did not arrive until after the other guests had departed.

Not as many responded to the invitation as was hoped, some being detained because of ill health, others having family parties or other engagements, but those present heartily enjoyed every minute of the party and hope to meet again.

Turns Over Keys

The Ford Annex at the Stone House has been completed and the keys turned over to the building committee.

The funds for this stone structure were given by Henry Ford, who visited Belchertown last summer and became interested in the Historical collection.

The building will not be formally opened to the public till early spring.

Announces Retirement

J. J. Garvey announces that he will not be a candidate for selectman this year. Mr. Garvey has been a member of the board almost continuously for twelve years. He has weathered many a political storm and leaves the office with many friends, even in the opposing party. Mr. Garvey is a Democrat.

Case for the Precinct

By Wm. J. Sullivan

It is the unquestionable duty of every man or woman who has reached the required age to cast his or her vote for the best interests of good government. The performance of this duty, because of the utmost importance which it holds in our constitution, should be made pleasant and easy when possible. I believe that every person who casts a vote on the question should bear that in mind.

The conditions with which the voters of the south end of the town have had to contend, have been difficult almost to the extent of impossibility. At the time of our annual meeting in February the weather is such that it is an extreme hardship for even the sturdiest of our citizens to brave the cold wind and snow-filled highways which extend for six miles between this settlement and the polling place.

Does it seem reasonable to ask our Town Meeting Tomorrow

There will be a special town meeting in the town hall tomorrow at 2 p. m. to act on the following article: Art. 2. To see if the town will vote to authorize the selectmen to draw up new boundary lines for the purpose of establishing two voting precincts in the town of Belchertown.

Extension School Monday

Professors J. B. Abbott and C. J. Fawcett of the Massachusetts Agricultural college are to be the speakers at the Dairy Farmers' Extension school to be held in the Methodist vestry, Belchertown, Monday, January 14. Miss Boice of the Extension Service is meeting the women, taking up Home Furnishings and the Convenient Kitchen.

D. C. Randall is making local arrangements. He suggests that everyone bring a basket lunch. Coffee will be served at noon.

Last year 45 people attended a similar school in poultry. Mr. Randall states that he expects the dairymen to do as well this year, as the speakers are two of the best men on the college staff.

Women's Sunday

Not to be outdone by the men, the women are making special plans for next Sunday — Women's Sunday. Efforts are being made along the line of special music and it is expected that there will be a ladies' quartet and chorus.

In the evening, the ladies will have charge of a stereopticon service, the subject being, "The Cross Roads of the Antilles."

The women have had only kind words for the men, but the latter are trembling.

B. H. S. Scholarship Roll

"Credit to whom credit is due" is not an uncommon phrase. I am glad to extend it to the following pupils, and only wish all stood well enough in their studies to be included.

Pupils ranking A in three subjects and B in one are given A. No one with a rank of less than B in any subject is included in the B's.

Seniors A: Charles Scott, Jean Warren.
Seniors B: Blanche Dunakin, Edith M. Shaw.

Juniors A: Cassie Sullivan.
Juniors B: Eleanor Fitzgerald.
Sophomores B: Roy Gustafson, Marjorie Peeso, Frank Shaw, Edith L. Shaw, Charlotte Snow.

Freshmen High A: Gala Pickering.
Freshmen A: Gladys King.
Freshmen B: Jason Hill.
Commercial Department
Seniors A: Sylvia Churchill.
Juniors A: Gertrude Gilpin, Cora Gula.

Juniors B: Darsa Dodge, Ralph Goodell, Irene McLean, Blanche Mulholland, Max Pike, Dorothy Rhodes, Lawrence Rhodes, Lucy Sufnaski, Alice Young.

In this department Miss Mulholland is making a good record in typewriting. Her last test of 55 words a minute net on the Remington entitles her to the gold medal offered by that firm for such proficiency. Several others are typing 30 to 40 a minute, which is very creditable both to pupils and teacher.

The Precinct Again

A voting precinct at South Belchertown seems to be one of the "live topics." The last town meeting was a surprise to the people of the southerly section of the town and engendered a rather bad feeling because the people of the center vetoed the proposition at every point, apparently with little mercy.

Loath to let the matter drop, seventy petitioners were secured for another special town meeting to be held tomorrow, when they hope that the selectmen will be instructed to present another lay-out for consideration at the annual meeting. The proponents expect the territory will be enlarged to some extent, but technically the boundary lines would probably be about the same.

In the background of the whole proposition lies the cloud of annexation to Palmer, with shouts of "good riddance" from some in the center.

This has awakened some interest as to the amount of taxation in the proposed precinct. At our suggestion, W. J. Sullivan, especially interested in the precinct, went over the matter with tax collector Shumway yesterday afternoon. A compilation of 1923 taxes of people living in the district (taxes of only a few dollars each not included) gave a total of very nearly $10,000. This amount does not include the poll taxes, neither does it include taxes of non-residents. Of this amount the Boston Duck Co. paid a trifle over $4,000. An item also to be considered is the corporation tax which the town receives from the state. This amount is close to $1,800, a large portion of which must be by reason of this company.

The expenditures at the South end are hard to compute at short notice, but it is to be questioned whether anything would be gained financially at the center by "setting off." It would seem that the only way to settle the proposition is purely on its merits. Threats on one side, and counter threats on the other get us

Last Sunday was a crisp winter's day with a strong wind doing business, but the attendance at the Federated church indicated no sudden cooling off. The men had let it be known that they were "it" for one day and, of course, a natural curiosity attended the services. A men's choir had full charge of the singing in the morning and a men's chorus was on hand in the evening, furnishing music that seemed to be very cordially received. Thos. Allen and Carl Aspengren sang solos.

The pastor preached a vital sermon on Discipleship at the morning service, while in the evening the men had charge of a platform meeting. W. E. Killmer, president of the Men's class, presided. The theme of the evening was "Men's Work in Community Improvement." E. C. Witt spoke on "Men's Work in Civic Life," saying in part:

"I am glad that I live in the United States. I am sure that no one in my audience would choose to live under any other flag than the Stars and Stripes.

"I am proud that I live in Massachusetts, with its Plymouth Rock, Bunker Hill and Lexington.

"I am glad that I live in Hampshire county. Four years ago they went over the 48 states in the union and the 13 counties in Massachusetts and in Hampshire county they found the man who is our president. We love him and will vote for him next fall.

"I am glad that I live in Belchertown. As Paul said of his home place. We live in no mean town. There have gone from here good men who have done their duty in town, county and state.

"And so I would say to the boys tonight. Begin today to fit yourselves for your civic duty. You may think there are not many offices to be filled in a little place like this but as we go over the list of men available for office, we say, 'We haven't a great deal of timber.' So I would ask the boys to think and be prepared to do their duty as citizens."

Men's Work in Creating and Developing Public Opinion

The next speaker, Belding F. Jackson, opened his subject by saying that he considered the question of creating healthy public sentiment not altogether a pessimistic one. He granted that a great deal was said about the American people spending so much time in pursuit of the almighty dollar and the amusements that it makes possible, that they had no time or thought but for themselves. He mentioned some of the things for which we are justly criticized, lynchings, strikes, murders, and though he did not try to minimize them, he characterized them as "disorders following the close of the war, natural growing pains of a nation not yet 150 years old, embodying 110 millions of people from all over the earth."

Moreover, in the relief work of the United States since the war, we have nothing to be ashamed of. Japan, the Near East, Russia—we have saved the lives of 10 million people, more than the number which met death in the last war.

its history for the last five or six years leaves no room for pessimistic thought. With its schools, water, churches, public buildings, it has progressed more than in 25 years previous. The speaker admitted that some one might say, "Oh, it was merely a lucky chance that the State school came here, and that we got water, etc." Mr. Jackson reminded his hearers that Belchertown once had a "lucky chance" to have the Agricultural college come here, but it was not recognized as such. Recent history would seem to indicate that people are thinking.

Of course there are always people who are not interested in public affairs. Some of these are people who think only of the next meal and have no time to think of public welfare. Naturally they must think of the next meal—if they don't, some one will have to do it for them. But the individual who hasn't public spirit doesn't know when the first stops and community interest begins. There should be time in every one's life to think about public affairs.

Secondly, the people not interested in public welfare are those who are too short-sighted. They are like the man who refused to put his money in a bank until interest was paid him. Belchertown refused the Agricultural college because the boys would be likely to steal their apples, not realizing that the college would produce better fruit than they were growing, that it would be a benefit to the stores and bring education to their children. The returns of an investment may not be immediate and there are those who are too short-sighted to see farther than the present.

Another reason for disinterestedness is this: Some one has a beautiful idea for community improvement. He interests a few other people and finally brings it before the town meeting. Now people everywhere are suspicious of new ideas and immediately they begin to draw their overcoats of scepticism up over their ears. The man becomes discouraged and angry and vows he'll never attempt to help his community again—and he probably doesn't. The same thing happens in a church, some one "gets out" with the minister or some deacon and says he'll never help the church again until they get a new minister, or the deacon dies.

The man or woman of public spirit it does not get in the least discouraged. Mr. Jackson said that almost the first town meeting he could "toddle" to was on the water question, and it came up again and again after that. The fact that we have water today is because some refused to be discouraged.

Another reason for lack of public spirit in a community is that the young people are not educated and interested in affairs of a civic nature. This education should begin in the home. The children should hear sane discussions of public questions in the home and the beginning of public sentiment should be taught there.

The press also is a great factor in education. We are influenced by what we read in the papers. It may be true or not, but it molds our opinions. A newspaper in a town can do a great deal of good in helping form public opinion.

The third factor in creating public opinion of the right sort is the school. Civics in general is now a subject required by the state in the high schools. In our school certain periods are set aside each week to study current events and subjects like tax reduction and the bonus are brought up, also local matters to a certain extent.

Fourth, the church should be a means of education and instruction in creating and developing noble opinion. Ministers used to preach almost wholly on such subjects as

The total amount subscribed now stands at about $350. Of this amount approximately $100 was expended for heating equipment when the building was constructed, so that $250 is the amount now in hand.

It is apparent that the alumni fund has been a success, although, of course, it is true that the amount is none too large and further contributions would still be acceptable.

Bowling Match

TURKEY HILL NEWS

The Turkey Hill bowling club showed their gameness by accepting the challenge from the LeGrand Ice Co. of So. Hadley to a bowling match. The Turkey Hill boys, with no practise, went up against the LeGrands to help dedicate the new alley at Red Men's hall, So. Hadley Falls.

C. R. Green showed his sporting blood by accepting a bet that the So. Hadleys would trim us by 100 pins. At the end of the first string the LeGrands led by 60. The Turkey Hills came back and won the second string by 32, and the LeGrands took the third by 18, winning the total by a margin of 50, Mr. Green thereby winning his bet.

The match was rolled for a box of cigars. The LeGrands showed good sporting blood by paying for the cigars, while the Turkey Hills paid for the bowling.

Another match will be rolled next week by the same team for a chicken supper.

Another feature of the evening was the bowling of Mrs. C. R. Green who won four out of five strings, and had never rolled before, and this against two men.

women voters who have waited so long for their right to vote, to contend with these conditions? Women voters in all towns and cities are anxious to vote when possible. This was evident by the large number which were present at the previous meeting on this question.

I believe that all who voted in opposition should ask themselves before returning for a like performance, how they would feel if conditions were reversed and fate should decree that they live in that locality. Let the Golden Rule come in for its share of consideration. It will bring sunshine where selfishness will only breed its like and cause discord where unity should hold sway.

nowhere. The best arguments the people in the center have are that a central voting place will tend to bring voters out to vote on appropriations and that expenses must be cut down in the town as well as in the nation.

The argument that a larger vote in the precinct would tend to put in a certain undesirable class of town officers might be real, but hardly enters into the discussion of the proposition. The town has accorded all a right to vote.

The question simmers down to whether a town having more or less of a settlement from four to six miles from the center, paying more than $10,000 taxes has a reasonable right to refuse more convenient polling facilities.

Opinions differ widely and new evidence may alter the situation. It is an important move, certainly, and it would be well to have the matter settled at an annual town meeting rather than at a special meeting. Perhaps we have transacted too much business at special meetings.

In view of the feeling that exists, would it be the part of courtesy to allow the selectmen to lay out another precinct and have the matter come up for final settlement when all are present?

On all public questions we desire articles from all angles. Mr. Sullivan has presented at our request, a statement of his case for the precinct and we endeavored to get the

Special Town Meeting

The special town meeting of last Saturday was of short duration but the attendance would indicate that there was an annual meeting on hand. Practically all the seats in the old town hall were taken and standing room was at a premium. People from the south end were on hand in full force to make sure that the matter of a precinct was not killed again.

On the vote to instruct the selectmen to bring in new boundaries, the vote was 97 to 27 in favor of so doing. Practically no arguments in the controversy were presented by either side. A. R. Lewis was moderator.

Young Peoples' Sunday

Next Sunday is Young Peoples' Sunday at the Federated church, and is the third in a series of special Sundays in which the laity of the Federated church are indulging in a little friendly competition as to which group can put on the most interesting program and secure the largest attendance.

The young people expect to furnish music both morning and evening and are arranging a combined service at 7 p. m. with the regular Y. P. S. topic, "How and When Jesus Prayed." It is hoped that this will be the banner service of the series. The young people are out for the most startling innovation yet, and it will not be their fault if it fails to materialize.

Women's Sunday

The expected happened at the Federated church last Sunday. The men were outdone by the women two to one. The men knew it was coming and were on hand to see it, which automatically helped the ladies to score one of the main objectives, viz. attendance.

But the special features presented were quite worth while. The music both morning and evening was of a high order and the platform-steropticon service at night was presented with becoming dignity. The ushering of the Girl Scouts at both services was a unique feature.

The pastor, Rev. D. L. Hilliard, preached a strong sermon in the morning on "The Women at the Cross," which drew attention to the fact that women in all ages have exercised a powerful influence in the life of the world.

At the evening meeting Miss Marian Dardwell presided at the

The Extension School

The Extension school held in the vestry of the M. E. church on Monday attracted a number past school age who still have a desire to learn. The men came to get points on farm management, while the ladies were susceptible along the lines of more efficient home-making.

Mr. Paine of the Extension service, in his preliminary remarks, stressed the point that the only hope for the farmer is greater efficiency. It is no use to shout for higher prices, for they bring about decreased consumption, which eventually brings down the market. In his opinion milk prices were as high as could be expected. He did think the farmers could make the margin of profit larger by keeping closer tabs on the business.

Prof. C. J. Fawcett was introduced as the first speaker. The burden of his remarks was that there had been too much talk on grain mixtures and too little on relating the quantity of grain to the type of cow. A low or medium producing animal should get a large proportion of protein nutrients from roughage, of which the largest possible amount should be fed all cows.

As the scale of milk productivity rises, the grain mixture should be increased, but with a lessened proportion of intensive ingredients. The object, Prof. Fawcett stated, is to get the highest possible ratio between pounds of grain and pounds of milk. He called attention to the fact that pasturage is richer in protein than dried hay and fodder fed in winter.

Prof. Abbott of M. A. C., a chemist, but a practical farmer as well, gave an interesting talk on a System of Permanent Soil Fertility. He said that if soil was good at one time, it can be reclaimed. It has simply been hayed, corned or cottoned to death as the case may be.

A chief element in reclaiming soil is fertilization. Prof. Abbott emphasized the need of manure conservation, whether with cement floors or absorbent material, either of which accomplished the same object.

This kind of fertilizer should be supplemented by phosphate, especially needed in heavy soil. Prof. Abbott stressed considerably the fact that hay crops need manure or nitrate to keep up the yield. Being a chemist, Mr. Abbott was able to tell exactly what the soils that had run out needed, and how this need could be met.

After lunch at noon with coffee furnished by the local ladies, Prof. Fawcett spoke on the importance of

The Greatest Good to the Greatest Number

When Mr. Sullivan so ably presented the case of the advocates of a new voting precinct in the January eleventh issue of the Sentinel, he also made a very strong argument against it, although the view of the case which I brought to his attention later did not seem to have occurred to him or to other advocates of the precinct. It is not the contention of the advocates of the proposed measure that all the voters in the new precinct would be better served. Many of them can go to Belchertown center to vote nearly or quite as easily as to Bondsville and certainly much easier than they can make a trip to Bondsville and another to Belchertown center to attend an appropriations meeting which will, of course, have to be held at a later date. For the convenience of a small proportion of the voters, all the other voters of the town are asked to "Brave the cold wind and snow-filled highways," which extend not only to the south, but to the north, east and west of the center.

If we follow Mr. Sullivan's advice and "Let the Golden Rule come in for its share of consideration," what is the logical conclusion? Mr. Sullivan says, "It is the unquestionable duty of every man or woman who has reached the required age, to vote," and later in the same paragraph, "The performance of this duty should be made pleasant and easy when possible." Would he have it made pleasant and easy for a few by making it harder for a much larger number?

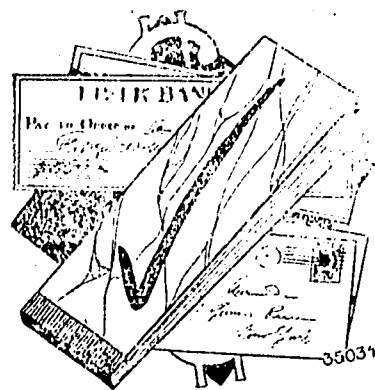

In questions of any nature where equal rights of a number of people are involved, "The greatest good for the greatest number" ought always to be the deciding factor.

—Mary E. Spencer

NOTE—This article awakens a very crucial question. Does the town desire to have the annual election on one day and the appropriation on another? Some not favoring the precinct have so expressed themselves. How would a vote on this matter result? We would like an expression of opinion regarding this.—Ed.

The expected happened at the Federated church last Sunday. The men were outdone by the women two to one. The men knew it was coming and were on hand to see it, which automatically helped the ladies to score one of the main objectives, viz. attendance.

But the special features presented were quite worth while. The music both morning and evening was of a high order and the platform-stereopticon service at night was presented with becoming dignity. The ushering of the Girl Scouts at both services was a unique feature.

The pastor, Rev. D. L. Hilliard, preached a strong sermon in the morning on "The Women at the Cross," which drew attention to the fact that women in all ages have exercised a powerful influence in the life of the world.

At the evening meeting Miss Marian Dardwell presided, at the

The Extension School

The Extension school held in the vestry of the M. E. church on Monday attracted a number past school age who still have a desire to learn. The men came to get points on farm management, while the ladies were susceptible along the lines of more efficient home-making.

Mr. Paine of the Extension service, in his preliminary remarks, stressed the point that the only hope for the farmer is greater efficiency. It is no use to shout for higher prices, for they bring about decreased consumption, which eventually brings down the market. In his opinion milk prices were as high as could be expected. He did think the farmers could make the margin of profit larger by keeping closer tabs on the business.

Prof. C. J. Fawcett was introduced as the first speaker. The burden of his remarks was that there had been too much talk on grain mixtures and too little on relating the quantity of grain to the type of cow. A low or medium producing animal should get a large proportion of protein nutrients from roughage, of which the largest possible amount should be fed all cows. As the scale of milk productivity rises, the grain mixture should be increased, but with a lessened proportion of intensive ingredients. The object, Prof. Fawcett stated, is to get the highest possible ratio between pounds of grain and pounds of milk. He called attention to the fact that pasturage is richer in protein than dried hay and fodder fed in winter.

Prof. Abbott of M. A. C., a chemist, but a practical farmer as well, gave an interesting talk on a System of Permanent Soil Fertility. He said that if soil was good at one time, it can be reclaimed. It has simply been hayed, corned or cottoned to death as the case may be.

A chief element in reclaiming soil is fertilization. Prof. Abbott emphasized the need of manure conservation, whether with cement floors or absorbent material, either of which accomplished the same object.

This kind of fertilizer should be supplemented by phosphate, especially needed in heavy soil. Prof. Abbott stressed considerably the fact that hay crops need manure or nitrate to keep up the yield. Being a chemist, Mr. Abbott was able to tell exactly what the soils that had run out needed, and how this need could be met.

After lunch at noon with coffee furnished by the local ladies, Prof. Fawcett spoke on the importance of

The Greatest Good to the Greatest Number

When Mr. Sullivan so ably presented the case of the advocates of a new voting precinct in the January eleventh issue of the Sentinel, he also made a very strong argument against it, although the view of the case which I brought to his attention later did not seem to have occurred to him or to other advocates of the precinct. It is not the contention of the advocates of the proposed measure that all the voters in the new precinct would be better served. Many of them can go to Belchertown center to vote nearly or quite as easily as to Bondsville and certainly much easier than they can make a trip to Bondsville and another to Belchertown center to attend an appropriations meeting which will, of course, have to be held at a later date. For the convenience of a small proportion of the voters, all the other voters of the town are asked to twice "Brave the cold wind and snow-filled highways," which extend not only to the south, but to the north, east and west of the center. If we follow Mr. Sullivan's advice and "Let the Golden Rule come in for its share of consideration," what is the logical conclusion? Mr. Sullivan says, "It is the unquestionable duty of every man or woman who has reached the required age, to vote," and later in the same paragraph, "The performance of this duty should be made pleasant and easy when possible." Would he have it made pleasant and easy for a few by making it harder for a much larger number?

In questions of any nature where equal rights of a number of people are involved, "The greatest good for the greatest number" ought always to be the deciding factor.

—Mary E. Spencer

NOTE—This article awakens a very crucial question. Does the town desire to have the annual election on one day and the appropriation on another? Some not favoring the precinct have so expressed themselves. How would a vote on this matter result? We would like an expression of opinion regarding this.—Ed.

"It" Company, Ltd.

The men were "It" at the services of the church on the first Sunday of the New Year, so the Sentinel reports. Good! Why should the men not be conspicuous at church services? Is there a good reason why they should not emphasize the importance of church services by their attendance, a really good reason, I mean, not merely a plausible reason that will allow them to stay at home.

The fact that the men are not always "It" is a depressing and deplorable fact that retards the progress of the church in Belchertown and elsewhere. Often the church "It" of a community is of the feminine gender and that does not seem just as it should be except in a Dorcas society or at a Thimble party. But being "It" in the general affairs of the Christian church of a community, that is just where the masculine element should be emphasized. I say this, please distinctly understand, without the slightest reflection upon the faithful women who do so much to keep churches going, often while the men hang back. Yes, it is right as right can be and seemly that the men should be "It" in church attendance and other church concerns.

But why the qualification, why the limitation to one Sunday as the report reads, why the implied denial of obligation to the other Sundays of the year? Oh! you say, that was a special day. Yes, I know it was and that is a weakness of present church life. The custom of special days is becoming established. The tendency to spurt, to make a transient effort along some line where improvement is needed and be satisfied with it, instead of the united and sustained effort that only brings enduring success in church work is not the most desirable form of church activity. Many a man's church membership has little influence in his community because his attention to church services and work is so limited to the occasional.

You started well, Mr. It, the first Sunday of the year: why not keep up the practice till the special emphasis you gave to church attendance for one Sunday becomes the weekly habit. That will give new life to the church and make your church connection more significant to yourself and the community. —A. It.

Men's Work in the Religious and Moral Life

Dr. Rowland began his address at the platform meeting on Men's Sunday by assuming that the reason for a meeting of this sort was that Belchertown was undergoing a spasmodic change at one time or another. Something is going wrong somewhere, evil forces are showing their tentacles in many directions and people are beginning to say, "Something ought to be done." (Such does not happen to be the case, so far as we know.—Ed.)

Dr. Rowland designated two ways in which a community reacts to that "funny feeling". First: the popular way to go at it is by means of the church. The minister, who is getting about half the salary he should receive and whose wife is expected to do just as much as he does, so that the community gets four times as much as they pay for—the minister is told to "get busy." And he does. If the project is a success, everybody goes around saying, "See what we did!" If it isn't a success, and the forces of evil are more strongly entrenched than ever, the minister is told to "move on." The second method as outlined by Dr. Rowland was that the work was started by people not connected with the church. A few select, socially elect persons chip in, have a supper, engage a speaker, solicit money, etc. A committee is appointed. They go to the mayor or the chief of police. Nothing is done. Some of the members of this select circle get themselves appointed an investigating committee, but all at once they find that some of the "really nice boys" are involved in the affair—and suddenly everything is dropped. The speaker argued that it took about three weeks for an uplift movement of this sort to run its course. After that it was pretty sure to be as dead as anything in Tut-ank-amen's tomb. The trouble with most movements of this kind, according to Dr. Rowland is that there is too much uplift by proxy. There is not enough individual responsibility. Anyone who begins work of this sort must face possible loss. It may be financial loss, social loss, political loss, but if you don't lose something, you may be sure that you haven't gone into it very hard. The man that does the uplifting is the man that suffers. The speaker cited the case of a man who was chairman of a meeting upon the outcome of which depended the success of a movement for bettering condi-

The recently elected officers of the Chauncey Walker Post, A. The ladies of the Auxiliary were invited to be present. After the installation, luncheon was served and later impromptu dancing enjoyed.

Men's Work

Dr. Rowland cited as another reason why these uplift movements fail, that they are unscriptural. You don't find civic improvement and kindred topics mentioned in the Bible. To be sure citizenship is mentioned, but it is citizenship in heaven.

Of course you may say that 1900 years makes a difference, that times have changed. Let me tell you that in the early days of Christianity 1900 years ago, conditions in Greece and Rome were not enviable: militarism, burdensome taxes, down trodden labor, slavery, prostitution run by the state, men and women facing wild beasts for the amusement of a crowd, and I will never see such a corrupt world as that was.

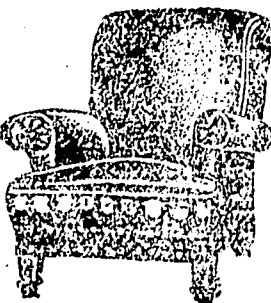

Dr. Rowland then sketched the uplift movements of the early Christians. A few fishermen picked up on the shores of Galilee, a tax gatherer, sermons (we have fragments of 13 of them in the book of Acts) and later letters to the churches. What did they preach about and write about? You will find it in your Bibles. They got above and tried to lift up. You can't better things from below. Dr. Rowland made this statement: "Any movement for com-

Methods used must be in accord with the Holy Spirit. When enough men led by the Holy Spirit get together, the only collective effort is prayer. If you really mean business, something will happen.

The Anti-Saloon League has done a great work. Why did it succeed? It was born in a prayer meeting. And that is the only way for a good movement to achieve success.

good sires in breeding dairy stock, and what could be accomplished by working along this line alone. Sometimes it is advisable for two or three neighbors to purchase a good animal together. Prof. Fawcett said that the records of immediate ancestors should be more carefully scrutinized than of those farther back.

Prof. Abbott followed with a talk on the intelligent use of lime. Lime tends to neutralize the acidity of the soil, but he pointed out that only active acids in the soil need combating, which is contrary to previous views held on this point. The amount of lime needed, he said, varies with the crop to be grown. Soil brought in by local farmers was tested by Prof. Abbott to show the degree of acidity.

At this meeting plans were made for buying lime and phosphate collectively. Mr. Paine is anxious to make the Extension service of value and has in mind to come to town later to test samples of soil that the farmers may bring to a central place, so that they may know just what their particular soil requires.

One of the points strongly stressed at the meeting was the keeping of individual records on each cow, so that the proper rating of each could be obtained. It was also pointed out that in case of sale, such information would be worth producing.

So the object of this meeting was not oratory but conversion of the farmers to new ideas, and viewed from this standpoint the speakers secured a response commensurate with their efforts. A number stated that they would be willing at least to try out the various ideas, as they were presented.

The motto for the day's proceedings could well be summed up in the words of one of the speakers, who, regarding the different farm operations, said, "Do it a little better than the average man."

The lecturer's program Tuesday evening took the form of a roll-call, those present answering to their names by giving a description of their birthplace. M. A. C. Musical Clubs

A few such visits as the M. A. C. musical clubs gave us last Friday night, would vitalize our community spirit considerable. Their coming produced an atmosphere of energetic hopefulness that is probably characteristic of all colleges, but Belchertown has made so few contacts of this nature of late that the effect was the more striking.

The Massachusetts men put on a popular program of music which was varied with some clever readings by Weatherwax. The audience could not get enough of his productions and many of the musical numbers developed an insistent call for more. Twenty men appeared in the glee club and nine in the orchestra.

At the conclusion of the concert, dancing was enjoyed, the music being furnished by Bob Woodworth's college orchestra. Here again the college spirit was quite in evidence. A gay company of visitors and townspeople mingled in this popular amusement till a late hour. Of the $150 proceeds, $75 has been turned towards the piano fund.

A Unique Referendum

A unique referendum is being taken. It is not local of a single state, it is nation wide. It is not official. No governmental body, municipal, state or national, authorizes it. It is being taken solely on the initiative of a private citizen, who, breaking all precedents of official referenda, seeks our approval of a plan. What audacity! The question referred to us is: Do you approve the winning plan in substance? Whose plan? What plan?

Was it audacity or was it vision that led Mr. Edward W. Bok to offer a prize of 100,000 dollars for the best plan to promote peace on this war-cursed world, and to ask his fellow citizens to express their approval or disapproval of it. Months ago the prize was offered and 22,165 persons representing 22 countries produced plans for obtaining peace. A competent committee has examined these plans and made the award. The name of the prize winner is not yet announced but the prize plan, known as No. 1469, has been published. Several hundred daily newspapers, as many thousand weekly papers and hundreds of magazines have printed or will print the ballot and the plan, or a digest of it, and, in addition to all this publicity given the award, millions of copies of the plan and ballot have been printed and sent to committees who are assisting in taking the referendum. The polls are open and there is chance for all registered voters, male and female, to cast a ballot in this unique and important referendum.

Mr. Bok has said: "Before the world can have peace, it must first of all think in terms of peace," and one of the chief aims of the prize was to set people thinking about peace. The method he has chosen to set us thinking on this vital question shows a new path of approach of the people to the federal government, a new medium of contact between citizens and government, and opens a new line of communication by which the citizen may voice his thought to members of the congress, who, though they may "have their ears to the ground," do not always seem to catch the people's voice. If this plan is approved by the majority of those who interest themselves in it sufficiently to use the ballot, it will be submitted to the senate.

The text of the plan was given in our daily papers of January 7. You may learn what Mr. Bok hopes the plan may do in The Atlantic Monthly of the current month, and what various editors and others say pro and con about it in The Literary Digest of January 19.

Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Citizen, have you voted upon this question? Why not express your deep interest in peace by using this ballot. There is no partisanship, no politics and no abnoxious propaganda about it. It is only intended to amplify the voice of the people as they give utterance to their great longing for "Peace on earth, good will to men."

The Town Reports

The first instalment of town reports will probably be issued tomorrow afternoon. It takes 112 pages for the various town officers to tell of their doings the last twelve months. To some these annual reports are a sort of family album, where one enjoys finding his likeness; to others it is a vast array of figures that show conclusively that there should be a "change", while to others it is a perpetuation of an old New England custom to tell all the story to all the people.

The story reveals that there have been three special town meetings in 1923, one regarding added appropriations and two regarding the precinct.

Vital statistics show that there have been 50 births, 16 marriages, and 47 deaths. 11 of the deaths occurred at the State school.

One item in the assessors' report is of interest. There were 13,295 fowls in town at the time of the assessment.

On January 1, the collector reports a balance to collect of about $9,000.

The itemized reports consume 47 pages and tell to a man to whom the town's money has gone. Then comes the treasurer's report which shows a cash balance of $21,682.37. The warden's report is followed by that of the appropriations committee which recommends that $68,133 be raised this year as against $72,419.67 expended last year.

The town accountant's report is a summarization of all town receipts and expenditures, so that one can tell at a glance how the various town departments fare. The surplus revenue item now stands at $4,742.66.

The selectmen comment on the completion of Chapin bridge, the perambulating of the town lines, and the acceptance of the Lawrence Memorial building.

The town farm inventory shows a total valuation of $4,148.90.

The cemetery commissioners record the receipt of 5 endowments this past year, totaling $550.

After the sealer's report on scales and pumps, the overseers of the poor tell of heavy expenses in the pauper department, owing to the condition of the cattle and the water system. As a board of health they record 29 cases of dangerous diseases.

Following the list of jurors, comes the school report. The committee report extensive repairs at Washington school and minor repairs at the other schools. They call attention to the condition of the Franklin school house which is exceedingly damp owing to the walls being plastered directly to the concrete blocks. They also speak of a steel flag pole being erected at the Grade school with the bell of the old building as a base.

Supt. Lewis speaks of a decrease of 248 in the number of tardinesses, changes in teachers, and the large number of pupils coming to B. H. S. from Enfield and Greenwich. He also tells of the industrial work at Franklin, Union, Blue Meadow and the center, and looks with favor on the Parent-Teacher Assn. as a means to link the school with the home.

Thomas Allen, principal of B. H. S., states that the present enrollment of the school is 120. He calls attention to the need of uninterrupted hours for home study and the better care of text books.

Mrs. Clough, music supervisor, speaks favorably of the large chorus at B. H. S., the orchestra which appeared at the Christmas entertainment, and the pageant at Franklin.

D. F. Shumway tells of 20 summonses in connection with his duties as truant officer.

The school nurse, Mrs. Hoag, records two clinics being held in town, a chest clinic in June and a dental clinic in November and December. She also speaks of the whooping cough epidemic last spring and of special cases at Franklin.

School statistics and the 1923 B. H. S. graduation program close the school report, while the town warrant articles, which we reproduce in this week's paper, complete the book.

Articles in the Warrant

Fire at Packardville

Fire destroyed the home of Ralph Longueil at Packardville last Friday while Mr. Longueil was trading in town and the children were at school. The fire was discovered by William Chaffee, who thought it was simply confined to the chimney. When he broke into the house, however, he found that the interior was all ablaze and that there was no chance of saving any of the contents.

There was some insurance on the house but none on the furniture. The girls are making their home with Mrs. Dorcas Collis and Mr. Longueil is stopping with Mr. Chaffee. A corn barn on the premises is being put in condition for a temporary home.

Young People's Sunday

Sunday was Young People's day at the Federated church and the young people made good to a remarkable degree in the matter of shouldering a large proportion of responsibility in the day's services. The choir of about twenty voices, morning, evening and at Sunday school, was the largest yet.

The pastor, from the theme, "First Things First," gave a clarion call to build the foundations of life in such a manner that posterity can safely build on the structure we are laying.

In the evening there was a combined service at seven o'clock led by Charles Scott of the Young People's society. The subject was, "In His Steps. How and When Jesus Prayed."

A novel feature of the evening was the radio program, made possible

Death of

Frederick A. Randolph

Frederick A. Randolph, 73, died at his home in the Blue Meadow district last Friday night. He had been in failing health for some time, but was confined to his bed for only about two weeks.

He was born at Dwight, Feb. 15, 1851. He lived in the west for some years, returning to Belchertown in 1893, and settling in Blue Meadow, where he has since resided. Mr. Randolph was a veterinary by profession.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Clara Austin of this town, and Mrs. Cora Russell of Hadley; also two sons, Fred Randolph and Faville Randolph at home. A brother, Lyman Randolph, of Dwight, also survives him.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. D. L. Hilliard officiating. The bearers were the two sons and the two sons in law, Henry Russell and Thomas Austin. Burial was at Dwight.

Dies in Pasadena

News has been received of the death in Pasadena, California, of Edward E. Holland, a former resident of this town. He was born in 1844 in the Holland home on Federal street, the son of Jonas and Mary (Stebbins) Holland. He served in the Civil war, being in the same regiment with Charles Davis. Much of his life was lived in Chicago, but in 1920 he went to Pasadena.

Besides his widow he leaves a daughter, Edna, in Pasadena, a son, Murray B., in Seattle, Wash., a niece, Miss Dorothy Holland of Ardmore, Pa., besides other relatives, including the Nelson Holland family of Belchertown and New York.

Ever Climbing

One visiting the Green Mountain state declared after getting many views from several eminences, "It makes no difference how high up we are, we can always see something a little higher. One height shows to us a still higher peak."

All of us are made for growth, for progress. Robert Browning declares in "A Death in the Desert" that progress is that which distinguishes man from beast.

All of us recognize this principle of progress in youth. The physical growth is one of the most obvious of our observations. The mental growth is almost as obvious.

There are so many wonderful things to see here that we are on the go constantly. Our trip over from New York to Naples was a most delightful one.

It is a glorious thought that ever we may be climbing upward, reaching higher summits of vision, of character, of love and sympathy.

Writes from Cairo

Through the courtesy of Miss M. E. King, we are passing on to our readers portions of a letter received by her from Lawrence Parsons, who is spending the winter abroad.

letter is dated Jan. 6, and was sent from Cairo, Egypt.

We have just returned from a most interesting ride, and while out I saw and stood near the spot where Moses was hid in the bulrushes and later found by Pharaoh's daughter, and I want to say right here that if the rushes in those days were anything like the ones I have seen since we have been here, you could not only hide the infant Moses, but a whole company of men in addition.

But just tell Tom Allen that while he may think he has some school, and so he has, I visited one today that makes his kindergarten of the smallest sort. I saw one where there were 12,000 scholars of all ages, all males, from 5 years to possibly 80 years, with 3,000 teachers, all in their stocking feet or barefoot, for the floor was holy, and all studying the Koran, which they have to learn by heart, which takes from 3 to 10 years of constant study.

Just imagine if you can, a thousand, all seated on the ground on mats, sitting cross-legged, and each one studying out loud, and you can have some idea of the babel they make.

There are so many wonderful things to see here that we are on the go constantly. Our trip over from New York to Naples was a most delightful one.

How Game Is Being Exterminated.

A Loucheux Indian, trapping east of Macpherson, on the Arctic coast, caught 120 white foxes last winter, besides other game, which he shot or found in his fox traps. The foxes alone netted him $1,200, while a white trapper, O. Norberg, trapping at Baillie Island in the Arctic, came out with a catch of white foxes valued at $15,000. Charles Klinkenberg, a Dane, who has lived in the Arctic for 40 years, takes in 1,000 white fox pelts at this trading post yearly, and as white foxes are fashionable, and have increased in value from $10 to $50 within three years, the Arctic fox will soon be as scarce as the sable and sea otter.

Why He Missed the Train.

A certain absent-minded Stanford professor lived in the country and each day he commuted to the university, riding to and from the railroad station on his bicycle.

One afternoon, when his classes were finished, he started home, but being engrossed in deep thought, he forgot to mount his bicycle and walked to the station, a mile away, pushing it along at his side.

Arriving at the station he saw his train just pulling away from the platform. "How exasperating," he exclaimed. "Had I not been bothered with this confounded bicycle I could have caught that train!"—Judge.

Why They Sympathized.

"The American boy is all right, after all," remarked the man who Sunday tried his skates for the first time after a long illness. He had been a good skater, but now was slow and awkward. A half dozen boys tore down the pond and stopped in front of him. "Just learning, mister?" asked one at the top of his voice. "Been sick," he replied. The boys held a consultation and offered to contribute their combined experience to help him learn to skate again.

When the boys found out that his illness was caused by injuries suffered in France, in the World war, they held up instruction until they heard the story.—Detroit Free Press.

Flies Ninety Miles Without Pilot.

The pilotless airplane, with which the army air service has been experimenting for some months, recently made a number of successful flights of more than 90 miles. The automatic control, consisting of a gyroscope and an arrangement of bellows similar to those used in piano players, is said to be more accurate and dependable than a human pilot. The tests proved it was possible to drop bombs from this plane, on targets on or off the ground, with great accuracy.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Why Women Fail as Spies. "Women do not make good spies," said Sir Basil Thompson, former head of the British secret service, speaking at the Brooklyn Academy of Music. "The real reason is that the woman spy gets compassion at just the wrong moment. She has obtained information from some one who should not have given it to her, and then when she should pass it along she feels it would be unfair to her informant and withholds it." The speaker said that there is the greatest difference between the patriotic spy and the hireling spy. None of the former type was executed by the British during the war, he said, but 11 of the latter, all men, forfeited their lives.—New York Herald.

Why Do We Keep Pets? Many pets are of direct use to us. A dog, for instance, protects our house, a cat catches mice, and so on. There are, however, two far deeper motives. A pet satisfies our instinct of ownership and mystery—one of the most profound desires at the back of our minds is to be absolute lord and master, arbiter of life and death. We gratify this wish most thoroughly by possessing a pet animal.

Why We Stop Growing. We stop growing because certain body cells lose their power to increase in size and to produce other cells. It is one of the marvels of physiology that this is so and a wise provision of nature. Why Snow Is White. Snow is white because it is formed of an infinite number of very minute crystals and prisms, which reflect all the component rays of which white light consists.

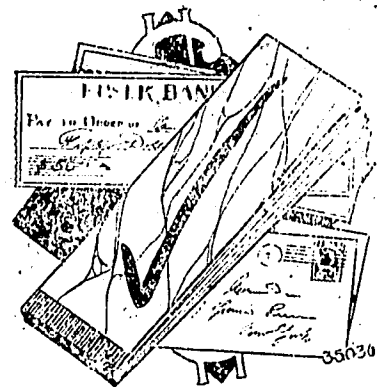

GASES ARE MOTIVE POWER

Why Rockets Rise When Light Is Applied Is a Simple Matter When Understood.

If you would see inside a rocket you would find the lower part of the case filled with powder, a chemical mixture that will burn at an enormous rate, and in doing so, will produce a very large quantity of gas. The great heat generated by this burning mixture expands the gas and still further increases its volume, till it is bursting to get out of the rocket.

At the bottom end of the rocket is a hole through which the gas rushes into the air. Now the air at the mouth of the rocket strongly resents being kicked out of the way by this rushing stream of gas; it takes a moment to "get a move on," so to speak. But the gas in the case hasn't got a moment to spare; it simply must get out, so it kicks—hard.

If you had on a pair of roller skates, and held an open umbrella in front of you, you could push it away from you slowly without feeling any resistance; but if you thrust hard at the umbrella the air would resist the sudden movement so strongly that you would be rolled backward on your skates. Science shows that is just what happens to the rocket; the stream of gas spreads out at the mouth of the case and thrusts hard at the air below it and at the rocket above. As the air won't move quickly enough, the rocket must get out of the way. And it does—quickly.

Death of Mrs. Harriet Shaw

Mrs. Harriet Brown Shaw, widow of Otis Shaw, died Tuesday night at her home in the West Ware district. Death was due to heart disease and the end came shortly after retiring. She had been in her usual health. Mrs. Shaw was born in Camden, N. J., Feb. 16, 1847, and came to Belchertown when a young woman. Later she resided in Windsor, Mass., but returned to town about eight years ago. She leaves two sons, Benjamin H. and Harry E., and a sister, Mrs. Fannie Alden, all in the home. The funeral will be held Saturday at two o'clock in the home. Burial will be in Woodlawn cemetery, Enfield.

Junior High School Notes

The National Week of Song will be observed by the Junior High school on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 19th, in Lawrence Memorial hall. The school asks for the help of the parents and all music lovers, by attending and lending their voices in singing the old-time favorite songs of our own and other countries.

In addition to the songs, the school will render a few simple exercises appropriate to Lincoln's and Washington's birthdays.

A further notice, stating the hour of entertainment and the program, will appear in next week's issue of the Sentinel.

Until it is possible to start a Boy Scout troop among the Junior High school boys, there has been formed a boys' club in the school. The boys met their teacher in the school room Wednesday night and organized, choosing for their name "Live Wires". Their motto is, "Be alive to every opportunity."

Whenever the community wishes the services of the youth, call on the "Live Wires", and they will prove the worth while of their name.

The following officers were elected:

Poultry School Wednesday

The Hampshire County Extension Service is holding a poultry school in Grange hall, Belchertown, Wednesday, February 13. Professor Wm. C. Monahan of the Massachusetts Agricultural college, will discuss the control of poultry paralysis and feeding of chickens. County Agent R. A. Payne will take up the business side of poultry production. Every one is asked to bring a basket lunch as the school starts at 10.30 a. m. Coffee will be served.

Desire Names

The committee appointed Monday to name the various cemeteries are receptive to suggestions as to desirable names. Any who have ideas along this line should communicate with Geo. H. B. Green, chairman, at once.

Town Meeting

While the town meeting this year was not quite the short-winded affair of a year ago, it was not of excessive length and considerable business was transacted. Most of the articles carried.

The regular appropriations were voted with slight variations from the recommendations of the appropriations' committee. The salary of the treasurer was increased $50, $25 extra was designated to the law department, and $500 extra was voted for the use of the fire department, to be expended for new hose and couplings to connect with the water mains. An extra amount was voted for street lights, due to an increased rate which makes a cost per lamp of $22.75 per year. The town clock appropriation was advanced to $175, to allow $125 for repairs, and cemeteries came in for $100 extra to provide for additional work to be done in outlying burying grounds.

The town voted to buy a safe for the tax collector, but turned down the matter of a truck for the highway department.

The balance of the piano fund was made up, and it was voted to print the tax list. Money was voted for three, extra street lights, one near Orlando's stone barn, another near the residence of George Oliver, and a third near D. P. Spencer's.

The town voted $150 to what was once the Farm Bureau and elected E. F. Shumway as the town's representative. It also voted that the selectmen appoint a committee to report at the next annual meeting on the advisability of establishing a town forest.

The dog license fund was voted to the library as usual, and the treasurer was authorized to borrow money in anticipation of taxes.

G. H. B. Green, W. F. Nichols, C. G. Bartlett, Wm. E. Shaw and G. E. Scott were appointed a committee to draft by-laws for the town.

The matter of having ten on the appropriations' committee instead of three was voted down. The committee that served last year was re-elected, G. E. Scott, W. F. Nichols and Guy C. Allen.

No money was at first voted to the Bondsville and Three Rivers roads, because the state will only match money on a single road. Therefore the Turkey Hill road was selected and $6,000 appropriated, which with outside help will bring it to completion this year. But as the Bondsville road would have to wait quite a while for state help, the meeting retraced its steps and voted $1,000 to that road.

Money was appropriated for oiling the streets, but the matter of oiling highways permanently repaired was voted down.

It was voted to install electric lights at Franklin school and repair the sidewalk at the South End. The town refused to appropriate any money for a sewer in that section.

No money was voted for the park this year. On the matter of selling permanently abandoned school

Woodrow Wilson

Woodrow Wilson is dead. With our fellow citizens and with many peoples of other lands, we mourn his passing.

He lived nobly. He toiled with unflinching diligence and fidelity to accomplish the great tasks given him by the people and to realize the high ideals that inspired him. He has fought a good fight, he has finished his course. Rest for the wearied workman. Peace for the soldier soul.

It was a sad tragedy that his last days were darkened by a cloud of partizan suspicion and enmity. In coming years men will view his life and service with clearer eyes, and honor him not only for his unsullied character and far-sighted statesmanship, and sincerity of purpose, and lofty patriotism, but for his great heart that went out to oppressed peoples and war-torn nations, seeking to win them into a covenant of justice and enduring peace. He has fallen, but his cause of international good will and harmony to which he sacrificed the full measure of his strength, is not lost. With it "his soul goes marching on."

Grange Notes

Twenty members, with the interest of the Grange at heart, notwithstanding the fact that the proclamation had gone out that there would be no meeting, faced the disagreeable weather and held an interesting meeting Tuesday evening. Miss Edith Peeso presided at the piano for the opening and closing song and also played the march for the installation of Miss Ruth Gildemeister as Flora by Past Master Rosabelle Putnam.

It was Turkey Hill night and Mr.

as the only member present from Turkey Hill. The lecturer read the opening chapter of the serial story which is to run throughout the year.
Each of the twenty present was asked to bring another member with him next time.

The next meeting will be held which is being prepared by Mrs. E.

C. Howard, will be read. This bids fair to be an interesting feature of the year's program and it is hoped will bring out a larger attendance.

Report of Building Committee

MEMORIAL HALL AND HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

Your building committee will be obliged to make a report of progress on the Memorial and High School building, as a few details remain unfinished although your school department and town officials have occupied the building, and the hall has been used for entertainment purposes since Sept., 1923.

The contract for constructing the building was awarded to the lowest bidder, The H. P. Cummings Construction Co. of Ware, on June 20, 1922, at $66,130.00.

The corner stone of the Lawrence Memorial Hall was laid during the afternoon of Friday, Sept. 7th, 1923, the trustees of the Memorial fund officiating. During the evening of the same date, dedicatory exercises were held in the hall, during which the senior trustee transferred to the town, through the chairman of the board of selectmen, the deed of the land on which the building stands.
The value of this lot has been conservatively estimated at $5,000, and is in addition to the $39,456.73 in cash which the trustees have paid towards the construction of the building.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank the voters for their co-operation in the construction of these two buildings. No building committee can do their best unless they are backed by the voters.

We also wish to thank the trustees—it has been a pleasure to work with them in planning and erecting the building.

And last, but not least, I personally wish to thank the individual members of the committee. They have been faithful in attending meetings, and not only willing but anxious to perform any duty assigned them.

Respectfully submitted,

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE

DINE F. HOWARD, Everett A. Geer, Harry H. Ward.)

GRADE SCHOOL

At the annual town meeting held February 6, 1922, it was voted that your building committee erect, equip and furnish a grade school building on the site of the old school, according to plans drawn by Malcolm B. Harding.

On May 5th, 1922, the contract for constructing the building was awarded to W. W. Davis of Springfield for $26,663.00.

The building has been occupied for school purposes since December, 1922, and is now complete in every detail, including furnishings, grading, and a concrete walk to Maple street, a distance of approximately 475 feet, at a total cost of $32,206.83.

Respectfully submitted,

THE BUILDING COMMITTEE

(George E. Scott, Wilbur F. Nichols, Alvan R. Lewis, GERAL-DINE F. HOWARD, Everett A. Geer, Harry H. Ward.)

What Adjusted Compensation Is

This article is taken from The American Legion Weekly, and is printed by request of the publicity officer of Chauncey D. Walker Post.

Under the terms of the Adjusted Compensation Bill now before Congress, every American World War veteran up to (and including) the grade of captain in the Army and Marine Corps and lieutenant in the Navy is entitled to an adjusted service credit of $1.25 a day for service overseas and of $1 a day for home service. From this credit, which every veteran can readily compute for himself if he remembers the important dates of his service career, must be deducted $60, representing the discharge bonus given every man on leaving the service. Service must be computed between the dates April 5, 1917, and July 1, 1919. The maximum adjusted service credit to which a veteran is entitled is $500 for home service and $625 for foreign service.

The bill contains the following provisions:

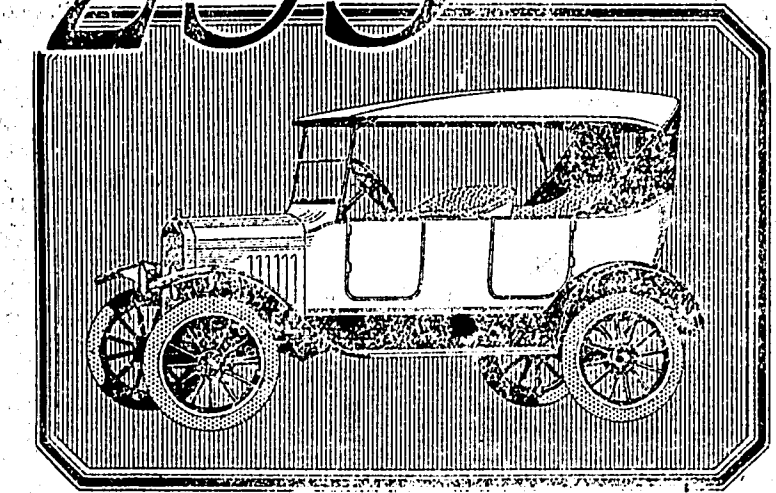

1. Adjusted Service Pay. This, the only cash feature provided for in the Adjusted Compensation Bill, is payable only to men whose adjusted service credit, after deducting the $60 discharge bonus, comes to $50 or less. Roughly, it affects only men who served less than four months. (This provision must be accepted by veterans who are not entitled to more than $50.)

2. Adjusted Service Certificates. These certificates are paid-up endowment insurance policies, payable at the end of twenty years to the veteran if he is still alive, or, if he dies in the interval, to his estate. The certificate would have a redemption value at the end of the twenty-year period of the adjusted service credit plus twenty-five per cent., the whole plus 4½ per cent. interest compounded annually. This would come to 3.015 the value of the adjusted service credit. Adjusted service certificates would have a loan value on the following basis: For the first 3 years the certificate holder would be allowed to borrow from a bank fifty per cent. of the value of his adjusted service credit plus the interest thereon at 4½ per cent. compounded annually. From three to six years following issuance of the certificates he could borrow 85 per cent. of his credit plus interest, after six years 87½ per cent. plus interest. In case of failure to make payments on these loans when due the veteran would not lose his certificate. The Secretary of the Treasury would be required to take them up and veterans would have the option of redeeming them by paying loan and interest, this provision to remain in effect during the twenty-year life of the certificate.

3. Vocational Training Aid. This provision allows the veteran to apply his adjusted service credit, computed in this option at $1.75 a day, to complete an education interrupted by the war.

4. Farm or Home Aid. Veterans who wish to make improvements on city or suburban homes, or purchase or make payments on city homes or farms or pay off landed indebtedness may receive for this specific purpose

Poultry School

The Poultry school is, without a doubt, the popular elective among the adults of Belchertown. Other schools have a following and cannot be termed unsuccessful, but the Poultry school draws out the people and almost runs itself on the very fact of attendance. About every year such a school has been held here and each year has brought new "scholars". Men were in the majority, but women were there with their note books and were as inquisitive as any.

Considering the increasing attendance, one pondered the words of Mr. Paine, the county agent, which were to the effect that it is going to take more careful planning than it has, to make the poultry business pay, due partly to the fact that more people are entering it. In this connection, he said that probably the Extension service with which he is associated, is as much to blame as anyone, by reason of its activities.

But the people would not long come to the school if nothing is offered of value. Both Mr. Paine and Prof. Monahan have the confidence of the poultrymen even though they occasionally get such answers as, "I don't know," or "You tell me." They admire them only the more for their frankness in this respect.

When one considers that these gentlemen of the road are faced with such questions as, "How much do cabbages flavor eggs?" and, "What will you get if you double cross a black rooster with speckled hens?" one realizes that their fund of knowledge must be quite complete.

Prof. Monahan talked on diseases of poultry at the morning session and emphasized, as he has in the past, the necessity of using every precaution against disease. Prevention—continued on page 2—

Amherst-Belchertown Road

The selectmen were called to Boston Wednesday to attend a hearing given by the state highway commission regarding the Amherst-Belchertown road. They propose building the ten mile stretch at a cost of $40,000 a mile, and are asking Amherst to raise $30,000 for her three miles and Belchertown $20,000 for her seven. The idea is to build five miles this year and five next. Amherst has a meeting Monday to decide upon her part of the proposition.

The Belchertown selectmen told the commission that it was their unanimous opinion that this town would not stand for higher taxes this year. They, however, agreed to submit the matter to the voters in a meeting to be called later, and ask that in the meantime the proposition be considered.

The Belchertown apportionment, it seems, was figured from the amount this town voted for roads and general appropriations at its annual meeting this year.

It is now definitely known that the Federal road, previously laid out over this route, has been changed to go west of the center to make a more direct route for through traffic.

Assembly Hall Opened

For some time the State school has felt the need of an assembly hall, so that the patients could all come together in one place whenever the occasion required. Of course such a hall is on the building program, but as there was no prospect of that materializing in the immediate future, a room has been fitted up in the laundry building which will temporarily answer all requirements.

This hall, sheathed in good finish and with a spacious stage, was used for the first time last Friday evening, when a play, entitled "Food," was given by the employees.

Part I of the program consisted of singing of popular music by members of the school and solos by Dr. Rowland and Miss Magee.

Then came the play, the scene of which was laid in New York City, fifty years hence, when only the rich will be able to procure even a slice of bread or an egg, and matrimony will turn on such slight possession.

Dr. Westwell acted the part of "Basil, A New Yorker," Miss Michelson was "Irene, His Wife," while the part of "Harold, An Officer of the Food Trust," was played by Mr. Stowe.

It was not an involved play or any thing pretentious, but was an appropriate presentation for an opening night in the new quarters.

On Sunday this hall was used for religious services instead of one of the girls' dormitories as has been the case. Father McGrath of Bondsville conducts mass at the school each Sunday while Rev. Mr. Hilliard of the Federated church conducts a service in the afternoon.

School rooms are also being fitted out in the building, which is a large one. Of course the structure was designed to be used entirely as a laundry and will be so used when the plant gets running at full capacity. When that time comes, however, a large assembly hall will be available.

Song Festival

The Song Festival and exercises to be given by the Junior High school, will be held in the Lawrence Memorial hall next Tuesday afternoon. It will be necessary to begin the exercises promptly at 1.15. All who enjoy music are most cordially invited to be present. Please bring any books you may have containing the songs listed at the end of the program, so that we may have an inspiring song service.

Poultry School

rather than cure, was his motto. He laid considerable emphasis on heredity and gave an illustration of a farm that was run on the plan of "the survival of the fittest." He realized the danger of running any such proposition for one's self, but did say that eggs and day old chicks from such stock would not be so bad.

He paralleled the case to the exceptional constitution manifested by some people that had grown to a good old age on the schedule of warming one's feet in the oven, followed immediately by the baking of a tin of biscuits.

Speaking of paralysis, Prof. Monahan said that poisoning could be produced by ill balanced rations, and called attention to the fact that in the few weeks just preceding a pullet's laying, proper fat forming foods should be fed. Treatment for worms was specifically outlined.

Of course new land was emphasized in regard to raising chickens, and attention was called to the necessity of spraying with corrosive sublimate and of disinfecting before the brooder houses are moved. Another thing that was advocated was the feeding of tobacco dust along with the mash just before the pullets reach maturity. Gold leaf dust in sealed containers was strongly recommended.

After lunch, Mr. Paine gave some helpful hints regarding poultry keeping and drew crayon sketches of some labor saving devices. "Of course," he said, "if you adopt some of these things it will mean you'll have time to work at something else." He preached no doctrine of an extra ball game because of them. He advocated watering chickens by means of the "old fashioned hard cider keg and spigot," placed some distance from the coop, and the placing of scratch feed as well as mash before growing chickens all the time. Mr. Paine said that in spite of talk of 200 egg hens and over, a 160 egg hen was a pretty good one, and proceeded to show the percentage which should be secured in the several months. In order to cash in on early eggs, which tell the story of profit or loss, of course he advocated the early hatching of chickens.

He also pled for raising pullets every season, even if it is more work, and proceeded to prove by actual figures that the old hens could not match the youngsters on production. He admitted that those of a sentimental disposition would have hard work to carry out this program. Mr. Paine also pled for volume in business. He said that no person with 200 hens could with any truth say he in the hen business. That number could simply constitute a side line. Speaking of good egg production, Mr. Paine dropped the statement that George E. Scott stood second highest in the county in that respect. On the observation of that gentleman that all poultrymen do report, the rejoinder came that egg records appear bigger stated verbally than they do actually put on paper.

Prof. Monahan gave the closing message of the day on the Care of hens. He said that there is so much in the power of suggestion as to be given with actual reasoning that had that over the door of every house a slab might be placed with the words "You Can't Starve a Chicken." He advocated this because he thought overfeeding a common sin among poultry raisers. He said he had known of quite large flocks of chickens that had starved a week without food. Of course Prof. Monahan did not recommend the foodless method.

Regarding litter, he favored shavings on sand. He also spoke a good word for buttermilk for poultry of all ages and advocated it especially as a first feed.

Prof. Monahan also stated what has been emphasized before, that a brooder stove in a well ventilated house provides ideal conditions for brooding chickens. One of the comparatively new features stressed was the abolition of windows in brooder houses. He said that on the Pacific coast, quantities of chickens are raised that never have the opportunity to go out on the ground. The reason this is possible, he said, is that there is no glass in the brooder houses and science has shown that sunlight that streams through glass has lost some of its qualities in the process.

Prof. Monahan also stated that whereas we raise chickens here with from 300 to 500 in a brood, out west these units run into the thousands.

Regarding cleanliness, the professor advocated sweeping surface dirt away from brooder houses before rains to allow for a sweeter run for the chickens and a safer walk for

Looking Ahead

LAST Spring a total of 350,000 people were disappointed in not being able to obtain deliveries of Ford Cars and Trucks, as orders were placed faster than cars could be produced.

The demand for Ford Cars and Trucks this Spring will, according to all indications, be far greater than last Spring.

Winter buying has been increasing at a greater rate than ever before.

Actual retail deliveries the past 60 days totaled 308,170 Ford Cars and Trucks, an increase of 1,961 a day over a year ago.

Over 200,000 people have already ordered Ford products on our purchase plan, the majority of whom will take delivery in the Spring.

The above facts are given with the suggestion that you list your order promptly with a Ford dealer if you contemplate the purchase of a Ford Car or Truck for use this Spring or Summer and wish to avoid delay in delivery.

Church Meeting

The regular prayer meeting of the Federated church will be omitted next week as the trustees of the Congregational church have called a meeting of that church next Thursday evening in the chapel at 7.30 o'clock to see if the Congregational church will withdraw from the Federated church.

Considerable interest attaches to this meeting. Federation has not proved a panacea for all ills; in fact, a larger outlook has been demanded by the coming together of the two churches. But something has been gained. The Sunday school has not only federated but united. The federated socials of the last few years will long be remembered and activities of this past season have been productive of a get-together spirit.

There are some, however, who see little but continual discord and a mechanical maneuvering in the federated relationship and desire to return to a state which, to them, seems rosier at this distance. As the air has been filled with these conflicting opinions, an attempt will be made to settle the whole matter at this meeting.

The action to be considered is quite momentous as it is to be doubted whether any such merger will again be tried in this generation. Thoughtful action is necessary both from a church and community standpoint and should be considered not only as it has to do with present ills but in the light of a permanent program.

Parent-Teacher Assn. Meeting

The Parent-Teacher Assn. was fortunate in having for its speaker last Friday evening, Jason Cook, superintendent of schools of Amherst. Mr. Cook's message was an optimistic one, not in respect alone to the days to be, but as well to the immediate times in which we are living. His subject was "Education, Why? How much? How?" He referred to education in its broadest sense, stating that it is a process that goes on in a human being from infancy to old age. He did not confine to the school, but stated rather that from the baby's first cry, the process begins. The infant soon finds out what crying will bring him and what results are to be expected from certain actions.

Failure to educate the child in these early days, Mr. Cook said, simply turns the problem over to society and the public school has to eliminate any childish traits.

As to the Why of education, the speaker said that one could not escape it. There is a cry for trained men and women that is insistent. As to teachers he said that there is a strong movement on to dignify all lines of teaching and the time is coming when an equal amount of training will command equal pay, no matter what the grade taught. Mr. Cook also laid stress on the necessity for further training while in service.

If anyone has had the idea that preachers only are called, Mr. Cook dispelled it with the assertion that we are going to tell certain ones in early life, "You teach."

As to how much education one should have, the speaker said that our laws are becoming more stringent in the matter of what shall be required of our youth. An increased length of training is being demanded in all professions.

Mr. Cook spoke of the large number of schools that are teaching subjects innumerable either directly or through correspondence. He cited trade schools being conducted in near-by cities and spoke of the strong probability of having a state university in this commonwealth. To prove that there is a strong desire to learn amongst people of mature years, Mr. Cook spoke of the poultry school recently held here which was so well attended.

Mr. Cook thought it was a good thing for all children to come under the public school system or thereby the youth are taught to get along with each other, a very important requisite in life. He also illustrated how play time can be well used to keep the educational process going and spoke of Scout activities in this connection.

Night schools and kitchen classes were mentioned as useful factors in our educational system. The latter he said, were held largely in homes where the parents are foreign born and unacquainted with modern ways. These people, the speaker said, are anxious to learn, but would not go beyond their homes to get this knowledge.

When the whole matter is sifted down Mr. Cook thought that the amount of knowledge to be acquired should be limited only to one's capacity and cited it as one of the most hopeful signs of our times that people are willing to pay so much in time, effort and money to secure a broad education.

As to the How of education, Mr. Cook said he had largely answered that question in his previous remarks. He showed how the Parent-Teacher association could render a public service by molding public sentiment, so that the people might know, want and have the best things possible.

Supt. Cook's closing appeal was for the spirit of good-will as it affects parents, teachers and scholars. It is a known law, he said, that friction produces heat and nothing but heat, and it causes loss of power.

Before leaving, Mr. Cook gave some definite suggestions as to studies the newly formed association can take up. Child psychology was one of them.

Grange Notes

It was officers' night at the grange Tuesday evening, all officers being present but one. Nearly all took part in the program with a pleasure very noticeable to all. Mrs. Howard presided during the lecturer's hour, owing to the absence of Mrs. Putnam. Everbody seemed to enjoy the meeting very much, one of the young members telling an older Granger who didn't go that they had a very good time.

A spelling match was much enjoyed. Mrs. Witt and Edgar Shumway gave readings. The other officers furnished entertainment in the way of games and stunts. Mrs. Howard read the second chapter of the serial story.

The next meeting will be presidents' night.

Masonic Ball

Every expectation was fulfilled at the ball given by Vernon Lodge, F. and A. M., in Lawrence Memorial hall Wednesday night. Perhaps the weather conditions were not anticipated, but even these did not seriously affect the affair and were not the fault of the management.

Will Hardy's 8-piece Tivoli Orchestra of Worcester gave a concert from 8 to 9 and played for the dancing which followed. This was their first appearance here and they were certainly most favorably received. It was evident that there was a reason for their services being wanted at so many select occasions.

The dance Wednesday evening was one of a succession of such occasions that Vernon Lodge had been in the habit of holding for many years at this season, but which were discontinued when the World war broke out. The event this year was informal. It called out a large representation of home people and quite a number from out of town. Refreshments were served during the evening.

The committee in charge was Dr. J. L. Collard; C. F. Aspengren, W. M.; B. F. Jackson, S. W.; W. F. Forward of Granby, J. W.; Dr. H. M. Watkins and H. E. Sessions.

Votes to Withdraw

The Congregational church voted last evening to withdraw from the Federated church. Under the by-laws, six months notice is necessary, but by mutual consent arrangements may be completed sooner, if advisable.

Under the Old Locust Tree

One who has written a number of verses for our paper, but prefers initials at times to adorn his works, recently sent us a negative showing himself standing by "the old locust tree" near his home. We cannot reproduce the picture, and "Nuf-Ced" is all we can publish, but there are few, probably, but what can guess the author.

Two old fossils in the shade of the old locust tree,
Standing by the roadside, as you see;
Together their years number two fifty three,
Considered by some longevity.
Standing part way down the hill,
Like a sentry I stand there still,
Looking down on Arcadia's waters,
As pure and sweet as the town's fair daughters.
Holland Lake and early home
Near old Burrow's cave is known;
Also Lake Metacomet dear.
All those I've watched year after year.
I've heard the songs of the human load
As the stage passed on the old Bay road.

Stood here the roadside by;
The stage coach has gone, it will never come back;
Just below is its rival, the railroad track.
Then came the wonder, electric light,
Almost as incredible as the Arabian Knight.
The changes so many, sadly I feel;
With other inventions came the automobile.
Great forests have disappeared from my back door;
Now the last straw has appeared, it's the airship Shenandoah.
When they pierced my side to install the telephone
I submitted (thought it was best) without a groan,
But when the radio arrived and they talked through the air.
I was discouraged and almost gave up in despair,
And would have but for him who stood by me—
With heart so light and hair so white
Under the old locust tree.

more Ford cars and trucks were produced last year than the previous year, an increase of over 50 per cent.

In spite of this tremendous increase in production, it was impossible to meet delivery requirements during the spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 Ford Cars and Trucks could not be filled.

This year winter buying for immediate delivery has been more active than ever before—and in addition 200,000 orders have already been booked through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan for spring delivery.

These facts clearly indicate that the demand during this spring and summer will be far greater than ever, and that orders should be placed immediately with Ford Dealers as a means of protection against delay in securing your Ford Car or Truck or Ford's Tractor.

CLING TO PRIMITIVE CUSTOM

How the Modern Arab Takes His Coffee, as Told by American Consul General Official.

Coffee houses in Aden are crowded day and night, says Consul Raymond Davis in response to an inquiry from the Department of Commerce on the market for percolators, but they have shown no improvement in the methods of preparing cups that cheer but do not inebriate.

The Arabian method of coffee making, as described by the consul, requires the use of small clay mugs, made locally, which cost 6 to 12 annas each. In one corner of the shop a charcoal fire is kept burning and on it are placed the mugs containing water, powdered coffee and sometimes a little ginger and sugar to be brought to a boil. As soon as it comes to a boil the coffee is consumed, with or without sugar, and always without milk. The coffee-house price is one-half anna a mug. Patrons seem to be satisfied with this primitive method, and cafe proprietors say it would cause too much trouble and take too much time to familiarize the servants with the modern coffee machine.

Unveiling of Tablet

The tablet containing the names of the trustees and building committee, having in charge the construction of Lawrence Memorial hall and school buildings, will be unveiled Monday evening, Mar. 10, with appropriate exercises. It is expected that this will be quite a community occasion.

Anniversary Party

Thirty-five people gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lincoln in Blue Meadow district last Friday evening to help them celebrate the 10th anniversary of their marriage. The gathering was made up, not only by people from the neighborhood, but by quite a delegation from the center.

Mrs. Henry Witt and Miss Frances Sauer gave readings. Games were played and a program given on the radio. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln were the recipients of a purse of money, Harold F. Peck making the presentation speech.

Basket Ball Notes

The Belchertown Independent Basket Ball team has returned from Rest Camp and faced the fast Palmer K. of C. five at Palmer last night.

The town team has been re-organized and the fans will be pleased to find Em Grayson and Red Ball in the new line-up which is as follows:

Grayson	Center
Arcoutte	Right Forward
Connie Lynch	Left Forward
Red Ball	Right Guard
Red Wood	Left Guard
Fairchild	Right Guard

Enfield will play here next Wednesday night, and judging from the line-up on both sides, it will be the fastest game played in the old town hall. A return game will be played next Friday night in Enfield.

Last Dance Before Lent

On March 4th the Ladies' Auxiliary and American Legion will give a combined dance in the new Memorial hall. They have succeeded in engaging the Bob Woodworth M. A. C. orchestra, the same orchestra that played for the High school Jan. 18.

Come early. Dancing begins promptly at 8, continuing until 12.
Committee

Churches Separate

Unity in diversity seems to be the only goal for Protestant church life in Belchertown for the present. As briefly stated last week, the Congregationalists voted last Thursday evening to withdraw from the federation. That the dying pains might not be prolonged, the Federated committee, to whom arrangements were left, voted Friday night to dissolve the federation at once.

Each church held separate services Sunday. The Congregational

Sunday School organized and the young people's organizations met separately, so the ties have all been cut.

Rev. D. L. Hilliard has been retained as pastor of the Congregational church, while Rev. George E. Mayer of Springfield, a member of the Troy conference and connected with the Springfield Y. M. C. A., has been secured by the Methodists to complete the conference year. Harold Snape of Boston University theological school preached at the M. E. church last Sunday.

Business Meeting and Social

The Christian Endeavor society held a business meeting and social in the chapel Wednesday evening. The following officers were elected: President, Wm. Chamberlain; vice president, Charles Scott; secretary, Edward Shuttleworth; treasurer, Mrs. J. V. Cook; chairman prayer meeting committee, Miss Maggie Hales; flower, Miss Marjorie Peeso; social, Miss Marjorie Ayers; missionary, Helen Camp; lookout, Belding Jackson; music, Miss Dorothy Kimball.

A finance committee was created, consisting of the president, vice president, secretary and Miss Dorothy Peeso, with the treasurer as chairman. The society voted to take up the matter of buying a piano for the chapel.

It was voted to have a sleigh ride the first of March and Miss Dorothy Peeso was appointed a committee to have the matter in charge.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, games were played and a general good time enjoyed. About thirty were present, including guests from the Epworth League.

Historical Association Meeting

A special meeting of the Historical association was held in the Stone House Monday evening. President W. A. Stebbins, of Chicopee, presided. The purchase of a tablet to be put on the newly completed Ford Annex was authorized at this meeting.

Why Adjusted Compensation Should Be Enacted

This article is taken from The American Legion Weekly and is printed by request of the publicity officer of Chauncey D. Walker Post.

A debt is owing the ex-soldier and ex-sailor.

1. The war was not won by the uniformed forces alone. Capital and labor performed services, universally recognized to be as patriotic and necessary to victory as the services of soldiers. Men were legally exempt from military duty on that assumption, and were assured that they rendered the greater service to their country by remaining apart from the armed forces as members of the great industrial army which supported the fighting forces.

2. Equal service was not equally rewarded. There was a great discrepancy in pay between those in uniform and the civilian war worker and war contractor—between the members of the fighting forces and those of the industrial forces. This disproportionate payment increased the cost of the war by several billion dollars. To pay this cost a national debt has been incurred.

3. The returned soldier is bearing his share of the burden of paying off this debt, which was contracted for the prosecution of a war which yielded enormous sums in increased wages and profits to those who stayed at home, but imposed a distinct economic handicap on the soldier.

4. The soldier asks no reward for his services, while in uniform. But returning home, he asks that, in providing for himself and his family and in bearing his share of the national debt, he be given economic equality with the man who stayed at home. The soldier has not had this equality because of the superior economic position attained during the war by those who did not go to war, and because they did not go.

5. Therefore a debt is owing, and some adjustment of compensation or equalization of economic values is due the soldier to balance the scale in the daily economic struggle between him and his competitor who did not fight and by reason of that fact was able to improve his economic position at the expense of those who did fight.

II

This debt has been acknowledged by the country and payment has been promised to the veteran.

1. In the national elections of 1920 and of 1922 a majority of the candidates of all parties for national legislative offices, campaigned and were elected on platforms which contained the statement that an adjustment of compensation was due the veterans and should be paid. The late President Harding, as a candidate, placed himself explicitly on record as favoring the passage of the Adjusted Compensation Bill. Candidates who declined to go thus on record in nearly every instance were defeated at the polls.

III

The country wants this debt paid.

1. The people of twenty states at general elections have voted in favor of adjusted compensation.

2. The legislatures of twenty-three states have petitioned Congress to enact the federal Adjusted Compensation Bill.

3. The governors of thirty-three states called on the President to sign the Adjusted Compensation Bill when it was before him.

4. The legislatures of twenty-two states have acted favorably on state legislation of a similar nature.

5. The House of Representatives has passed the Adjusted Compensation Bill three times, the last vote being 333 to 70.

6. The United States Senate, through its finance committee, has approved of this bill three times, the Senate as a whole passing it once by a vote of 47 to 22.

7. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, a national organization which has been a consistent and active opponent of compensation, polled local chambers of commerce throughout the country on the four options of the bill. The result was 4,116 votes for and 2,657 against adjusted compensation.

8. The American Federation of Labor and many other organizations of large membership have endorsed the bill.

9. In addition to The American Legion, every recognized national organization of war veterans, from the Civil War down, has endorsed the bill and urged its enactment.

Unveiling Monday

Belchertown pays tribute Monday evening to those who have had in charge the erection of the school buildings and Lawrence Memorial hall, and places in bronze the names of those who have rendered this service so that succeeding generations may know who they were and realize that the citizens of the town were not unappreciative of their efforts.

The money for the purchase of the tablet was a free-will offering on the part of the people—no other method would have been appropriate. The pennies of the school children and the checks of adults mingled as the fund grew.

While the program for next Monday evening is somewhat tentative, its outlines can be given. The presentation of the tablet will be made by Rev. D. L. Hilliard, chairman of the committee for its purchase. Belching Jackson will give a reading, Dr. Rowland will sing a solo, while Dr. McPherson of the State school will be the speaker of the evening. The High school has been asked to sing and it is hoped to have Gould's orchestra, both on the program and for the dancing afterwards.

Social Guild Supper

One of the most largely attended social events of the season was the Social Guild supper of Wednesday evening. While the travelling was not all that could have been desired, it seemed to keep no one at home.

Everything was on the menu and more, that could be expected or even thought of for the 35 cents asked.

Gould's orchestra played for the occasion, furnishing music both before and after the regular program which was as follows:

- Monologue, The Rich Old Maid
- Miss Frances Sauer
- Recitation, What Snowball Did
- Evelyn Sessions
- Song Maxine and Louis Fuller
- Vocal solo Thos. Allen
- Reading Mrs. Curtis
- Recitation, A Troublesome Call
- Ruth Spencer
- "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight"
- Miss Rachel Randall
- Vocal solo Thos. Allen

Grange Notes

The regular meeting of Union grange Tuesday evening was quite a lively affair, although the program was not as extensive as usual. There were readings by Irene Howard and Emil Vezina, and Reminiscences of the Presidents of the United States.

Each member is requested to bring his pet suggestion for the good of the order, to be read at the next meeting.

If you are interested in the original serial story, don't fail to come March 18. We have some able authors on the program which runs throughout the year and you cannot afford to miss their works. Come and get your program and know what is booked for the year.

An open meeting and supper is being planned to procure money for and explain the Massachusetts State Grange Educational Aid fund. Rev. C. H. Smith of Granby is to be the speaker.

A contest is on to stimulate a larger and more regular attendance. It's up to you as a Granger to help out. Pass the word along.

Pomona Grange was held Thursday in Hadley.

Condoning Evil

This is what we often do. We are quite ready to do it easily if the evil is at all popular. We fall into it easily if success seems to follow the evil doer. We are almost certain to do it if the crowd follows the culprit.

And we do it on the ground of being broad minded. We declare that after all there are two sides to every question and it may be that we are seeing only one side. We desire to be generous and so we find an excuse for a man's evil actions. So we are quite likely to soft pedal any evil, calling it merely a blemish or a minor defect which will be eliminated by time.

Generosity is a virtue. And so is long suffering. And likewise is patience. And yet it must be borne in mind that there are those individuals who are bad. There are those who are cheats and liars and demagogues and scoundrels. They are bent on evil. And we show a weakness when we refuse to condemn what we know to be wrong. There are times when we should call things by their right names. There are times when it is cowardly to withhold censure.

Castigation is to be administered very judiciously and yet at times it should be rendered unsparingly.

If it be possible, we should live peaceably with all men,—and yet it is not always possible nor desirable. The desired goal is not peace, but righteousness. And righteousness does not come save as one combats error and condemns the culprit and abhors the cheat.

There is nothing which evil men like so much as to be let alone. We should refuse to let them alone. The way the world is to be set right is not by excusing the wrongs but by condemning them.

—R.

Some More Reminiscences

We are happy to pass along to our readers more reminiscences by Arthur E. Ferry of Lansing, Mich. Although far removed from the scenes of his early days in time and distance, he has vivid recollections of his boyhood and a large place in his heart for the old town.

Editor Belchertown Sentinel

I think my last letter to the Sentinel closed by relating an interview with Squire Shaw, in his apple orchard. He was a tall, well built, powerful man, and when he sprang from his hiding place and grabbed me, he gave me a shaking that I never forgot. I was scared stiff, and never again did I have any appetite for his apples. He was a unique character, but very much respected, and considered quite wealthy. He owned the entire frontage from the town hall north to the Enfield road, and running east to where the north and south Enfield roads united. The house now occupied by Mrs. Lou Bridgman was his home. From the residence of his daughter, the late Mrs. Calvin Bridgman, to the corner was a field of grass, with a tumble-down stone wall along by the sidewalk.

One day as we were going home from school, one of the children saw something glistening in the grass, and climbed over the wall and found it was a bright new dollar. Soon another one was found, and then we all swarmed over and picked up new dollars to the number of about fifty. The generosity of Squire Shaw was heralded far and near, but alas, our joy and his glory were soon dissipated, for those dollars were found to be counterfeit. That eliminated the Squire from the incident, for no one could suspect him of anything crooked. There was great excitement through the town and much speculation as to where those dollars came from, but the mystery was never solved.

There was an era of spelling schools during my boyhood days which stimulated the study of "Town's Speller" wonderfully. They were held in different schoolhouses during the winter evenings, and the Federal Street school, which I attended after 1855, had an enrollment of 75 pupils, and always had a large attendance at those spelling schools. Whenever one was announced, whether in Logtown, Turkey Hill or Blue Meadow, the big boys got busy, fixed up a rig with seats on a wood sled, then borrowed some horses from the farmers, (for nobody had any money with which to hire a conveyance, and there was none to hire, anyway) and with plenty of robes and blankets we would stow away as many as possible, and were always comfortable.

There was great rivalry among the 18 school districts in spelling at that time. Albert Burt was our champion, and Federal Street school was never spelled down when he was present. We often had a few declamations and songs by way of variety, and there must be some readers of the Sentinel who will remember "Bill" Freeman and his song about going hunting and scaring up a great lot of game, I forget whether it was wild turkey or rabbits, but there lingers in my memory one verse of that song which was:

I bent my gun a circle, Sir,
And fired around the hill,
And out of five and twenty,
Five hundred I did kill, kill,
Five hundred I did kill.

Jerry Squires was always our driver, and very skilful, too, but his skill was often taxed. Those horses! Such horses! Well, we had a name for them then, but it would not be nice to mention it here.

Sometimes we had four, and quite likely not one of them had ever been hitched up with another horse and they would get confused, and did not seem to know whether to go ahead, back up or lie down, and often they would try to do all three things at once and we got many a spill in the snow.

Once we were going to Blue Meadow school on a bitter cold night with a big load and four horses. The road was drifted so full we had to detour through the fields, and when a big drift loomed up before us, Jerry went ahead to examine it and pronounced it safe to drive over, and started up, but when we reached the top of the drift which was directly over a stone wall, those horses all went down to the tips of their ears in the snow, plunging and kicking, but the big boys got the horses out while the rest of us pulled the sled over and after tying up the harness with ropes which we always carried, we finally arrived at the school house an hour late and with lots of frozen ears and noses.

APPRECIATES MR. FERRY'S ARTICLES

It seems appropriate at this time to quote from a letter we received the first of the year from Mrs. H. M. Bassett of Barre, who lives the old days over again with Mr. Ferry. She writes: "There are not many names familiar to me in the paper, but when I read the articles by Arthur Ferry, I find those are worth the price of the paper. I knew all the

the privilege, more often than we do, to hunt or fish his premises, instead of taking for granted that we can trespass, better co-operation and feeling will surely result between both parties.

We deplore those who cut wires, tear down walls and fences, and pilfer fruit under the guise of sportsmen. They are not such, and as club members we ought to discourage and frown upon such actions. We wish to hunt and fish. We want the privilege of having free access to land and streams in this commonwealth and to do so we are ready and willing to play the game on the square. Club members will not damage property or wear out their welcome in some particularly good covert or stream. We need your help. Come in.

Miss Irene Vezina is having a week's vacation from her duties at the State school.

Mrs. Julius Weiland visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lodge, last week-end.

The Early Bird Catches the Worm

Sleep is not a waste of time. It may seem like lost time; but we must not measure the value of sleep by what we are aware of—or not aware of—at night. It is the morning after that counts. If we wake up refreshed, full of energy, our sleep has been worth a great deal. If we are cross and irritable, it probably means that we need more sleep.

Eight hours of sleep is a good standard for adults. Children should have twelve or more. Although sleep is a form of inactivity, it is an important part of our lives. Early bedtime makes a person brighter, happier, and healthier. And the person who goes to bed in good season is almost always the one who "catches the worm".

Next Spring—

With over 200,000 orders for Ford Cars and Trucks already placed for delivery during the next few months, we are facing a record-breaking spring demand.

Each successive month this winter has witnessed a growth in sales far surpassing that of any previous winter season. This increase will be even greater during the spring months, always the heaviest buying period.

These facts suggest that you place your order early to avoid disappointment in delivery at the time desired.

Death of Mrs. Ellen Sears

TURKEY HILL NEWS

Mrs. Ellen Sears, widow of John Sears of Chicopee, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Nellie Sears, of Turkey Hill, Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock after a short illness. Mrs. Sears was an old resident of Chicopee, but spent the latter part of her life on Turkey Hill. She leaves 3 daughters, Mrs. Mary Austin of Chicopee, Mrs. Nellie and Miss Nora Sears of this town, eleven grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

The funeral was held at the home Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, followed by solemn high mass of requiem at the Holy Name church, Chicopee. Rev. Eugene Marshall was celebrant. Burial was in Calvary cemetery, Chicopee. The bearers were her six grandsons, Andrew J. Sears of Belchertown, William, John and Andrew A. Sears of Chicopee Falls, Thomas Sears of Middletown, Ct., and Robert Sears of East Longmeadow.

There were many beautiful flowers from friends, neighbors, relatives, and from the teachers of the public schools of Chicopee.

Young Folks' Social

The social in the M. E. vestry last Friday evening was largely attended and reminded one of the socials of other days when something was doing every minute.

People of various ages attended, but they were all young. Boys and girls of all ages, the youngster below school age, gray haired men and maidens, all took some part in the varied stunts and games. The lucky ones drew prizes of a doughnut cutter, a clothes-pin doll, etc.

Sandwiches, cake and cocoa were served, and the evening's program was concluded by an old fashioned spelling match with variations.

Boys, Attention!

Any boy of this town, between the ages of 12 and 18, has now a splendid opportunity of becoming a Boy Scout. The "Live Wires" of the Junior High school met in their school room last Friday evening, at which time Miss Shattuck turned the meeting over to Mr. Washburn of the State school. Mr. Washburn has been a Scout Master before coming to this town, and is both willing and anxious to form a Scout movement here.

Any boy wishing to become a Scout is most cordially invited to attend the meeting tonight at the J. H. S. room at 7 o'clock sharp. It is required that each boy bring a written permit from home stating the parents' willingness for the boy to become a Scout.

Sixteen names have been received so far. We want more, for "the more, the merrier". Very evidently the "Live Wires" are of the past, but what matters if they are becoming genuine Boy Scouts?

One interested in the youth of this town.

Social Union Supper

The M. E. vestry was a busy spot on Wednesday evening, but the Social Union ladies proved equal to the task of satisfying the appetites of the large number that came out to revive old memories of baked bean suppers. At 25 cents one got his money's worth long before he got through.

Harold Booth brought up his radio outfit and did his best to provide the guests with a radio entertainment, but, due to hidden defects in wiring, was unable to tune in until the lecture of the evening was under way.

The lecture was given in the church auditorium by Mr. Dunning of Springfield, a veteran newspaper man who delighted his audience with a fund of stories, almost inexhaustible.

Mr. Dunning told of contacts he had made with great men, starting with Gladstone, whom he had reported in the House of Commons.

He paid high tribute to Gladstone's eloquence and especially his strength of character which not even his enemies could question, and said that the secret of his greatest hold upon the people was his habit of going out of his way to do good in unknown ways.

Mr. Dunning then spoke of Disraeli, who for 50 years fought Glad-

Tablet Ceremonies

The trustees and building committee having in charge the erection of the Lawrence Memorial hall and school buildings were honored in a rather formal way at the dedication last summer, but the old fashioned neighborly word of appreciation was left till Monday evening with just the home folks gathered round.

Not even the modern printed program was in evidence. It was just a movement of, by and for the people.

The tablet, the inscription of which we printed last week, had been put in place before the ceremonies and was a fitting memorial to the committee who had labored so conscientiously.

Rev. D. L. Hilliard, chairman of the committee procuring the tablet, presided. The program follows.

DR. MCPHERSON'S ADDRESS

We have gathered here to-night in this delightful Memorial hall to pay our tribute of respect and gratitude to the committee of townsfolk who have so generously given of their time and thought. The measure of their success as planners and builders lies before you in the silent witness of this room so splendidly furnished. A large share of the commendable public works, in this country and under our form of government, to a considerable extent, have only been made possible by the activities of public-spirited citizens such as these.

So well has this committee wrought that we have this memorial which is far superior to the assembly halls usually available in towns twice the size of Belchertown. A memorial "is anything intended to preserve the memory of a person or event." The donor of the Lawrence Memorial hall chose a method of preserving the memory of her father which excels the erection of a marble monument or the presentation of a gift which might not be permanent. This hall happily combines

Tablet Ceremonies

the qualities of a monument with permanency, but beyond these characteristics appears the inestimable worth of a utilitarian project.

Belchertown now possesses a memorial hall which is intended for the welfare of the citizenry of this town. Such a gift, with its consequent opportunities, carries with it equal responsibilities, the discharge of which must be accepted by the men and women of this town. A citizen is described as "an inhabitant of a city or town, especially one who enjoys its freedom and privileges." Such acceptance of "freedom and privileges" carries with it certain duties which honest citizens must be prepared to meet.

Three hundred years ago, men and women, convinced that life in a new land held more for them than did their own country, set sail for this new world. From the start of their communities on this side, success at government was accomplished by mutual consent and common activity. So, today, to be successful in the business of being a respectable town; a desirable place in which to live; a suitable environment for the rearing and educating of our children, co-operation, mutual confidence and respect are absolutely essential to civic well-being.

What is civic pride? "Civic" as is well understood, relates to citizenry and all its functions. "Pride" is described as "a sense of one's worth or abhorrence of that which is beneath or unworthy of that self." Worth is that quality or sum of qualities of a thing which render it valuable or useful. Such value may lie in either moral or material properties or in both.

If, therefore, we have worth, as citizens, civic pride will operate to demand that right (or upright) community life, coupled with punishment of wrongdoing (which alone is consistent with the privileges and responsibilities of citizenship) shall actuate our lives. No longer can men alone be blamed for failure. Women now must join forces with the men, taking their stand for right and progress. Progress is everywhere demanded. The day is passed for the isolation of small towns. Transportation improvements; better services of communication by post, wire and by air; the increased use of press, newspapers and otherwise; all these facilities have ended in good measure rural isolation.

Presumably there must have been uppermost in the mind of the donor of this hall the desire to provide a public place for education, enlightenment, recreation and amusement. The accomplishment of such uses we should secure by absolute and friendly co-operation. Surely no town deserves so fine a gift if unable to "get together" for mutual entertainment and profit. Consider also the favorable impression made on a newcomer or visitor who may see so complete a building in so central a location.

One may well ask for what purposes should this hall be used. It appears that its donor intended this to be a gathering-place for the townspeople in pursuit of education, entertainment, or other lines of development which by their nature are appropriate for this public building.

What varied interests may be cared for in this place! This may be a room for lectures, less formal talks, for the reading of papers, and so on. Here are the facilities for musical entertainments, for plays and for dances, which are desirable, each in its own manner. All persons may here meet on common terms and of equal footing. This is their hall. To insure the success of this memorial, in any such manner as intended by the donor, there will be required of each and every self-respecting citizen, male or female, old or young, all together, full acceptance of the responsibility to discharge the duty upon which depends success.

Of late, distrust of those in public office has risen like a storm cloud to disturb the public's mind. Perhaps people have been too complacent. Perhaps they have not asked enough of genuine service from the elected representatives. At times, it appears too easily possible for wrongdoers to escape suitable punishment. It may be that the time has arisen in which affairs will be faced squarely, examined in a true light and actions governed accordingly.

Two years ago the speaker came to Belchertown, a stranger to be sure, attached to a growing institution in your midst, and you have been most cordial and considerate. In 1922 it seemed that many of the respectable people in town hesitated to express disapproval of wrong in any certain terms. There may have been reasons for this varying from indifference on the one hand to fear of unknown consequences on the other. 1924, it seems, has produced by a process of moral awakening, an insistence upon right which I am assured by citizens generally has become quite pronounced. Certain it is that one cannot expect the officers of this town to perform their functions unless they are sure of the moral support of our citizens, both men and women.

Some More Reminiscences

By Arthur E. Ferry, Lansing, Mich.

I am reminded right here of another incident which happened earlier, about 1852 or 1853. For some years the Amherst Cattle Show was the great event of the county. I remember the great wagon that was rigged up with two pairs of cart wheels with long timbers fastened to the axles, and a platform with seats with a row of small white birch trees around the outside. That van was loaded with people and with 50 yokes of oxen attached driven to the fair at Amherst. There were several drivers, and they had tribulations, for the long string of oxen was hard to manage, then the connecting chains would break, the women would scream, the children cry, and as a pleasure trip it was not a success; but when at last that caravan arrived on the fair ground at Amherst, there was a great sensation, and the shouts and cheers that arose from that crowd would make a regiment of rebel yells sound like a Quaker meeting in comparison, and Belchertown was put on the map that day for keeps. That van was the great grandmother of the big floats we see in parades today.

A very funny thing happened during the winter of 1862 and 1863. There was a funeral in the southeast part of the town in the neighborhood of Dea. Daniel Phelps, Amos Shaw, Artemas Owen and others, and was in mid-winter with deep snow. The funeral services were finished, and a neighbor farmer had taken the minister, (The Rev. Blake) in his sleigh and driven down the road some distance and waited while the hearse and other sleighs formed in line for the trip to the cemetery. When the signal to start was given, the farmer clucked to the horse to go; but the hard worked horse was tired and perhaps asleep, and did not move. Then out came the whip from the socket and the poor old nag got a fierce undercut with disastrous results.

Now those old fashioned sleighs were made in two parts: the runners with the platform, and the body with the seat. In this case the fastening had loosened, and when the horse sprang in response to the whip, he took the runners about six feet at the first jump, while the body and seat went over backwards in the snow with the minister and farmer on their backs, with their legs straight up in the air, and they were so bundled up with robes they could not wiggle until assistance came to them. The farmer had lost hold of the reins, and was shouting "Whoa! whoa!" to the horse which was trotting down the road until overtaken by one of the mourners and returned to his proper place. A wooden pin was quickly whittled out, the sleigh fastened together, and the funeral march resumed, but the solemnity of the occasion got a fearful jolt.

Associates Co-operation

Belchertown, Mar. 11, 1924.
The Editor of the Sentinel—
The trustees and building committee, desire to publicly thank citizens of Belchertown for showing their appreciation of our work providing the commemorative tablet that was unveiled last evening. We wish especially to acknowledge our gratitude to the committee who have had the matter in charge planned the program so successfully carried out.

The speaker last night spoke several times of the need of co-operation in matters of civic improvement. Perhaps unwittingly or perhaps unwittingly, he touched on the one thing that has made the erection of buildings a possibility and the carrying out of the plans a success. From the first meeting, when the organizing committee was appointed, to the present time, the vote of the town has generously aided every movement that has been made and unanimously voted money needed.

Your loyal support, which has been given us on every occasion, has made our work not only pleasanter and easier, and we wish to acknowledge our indebtedness to the citizens. To work for such a community—both a pleasure and an inspiration to do the best.

Daniel D. Hazen,
Trustee.

LETTER FROM MR. ROBERTS

Boston, March 4, 1924.
Mr. D. L. Hilliard,
Belchertown, Mass.
Dear Mr. Hilliard:

I have your kind invitation on behalf of the committee for installing a tablet to honor and perpetuate the fame of the committee which had charge of the erection of the Lawrence Memorial hall and school building, and which is to meet on March 10th at 8 p. m. Through you I wish to thank the committee for their kind attention, but regret that I shall be unable to be present at this appropriate ceremony.

That was a most efficient and enthusiastic body and I am glad that the town is endeavoring to show its due appreciation of the successful result of the efforts of that committee.

Sincerely yours,
Reuben L. Roberts

stone. He characterized him as an astute and subtle politician with a wonderful intellect, but who in the last analysis, by his own word, was no match for the great statesman.

Coming to our own shores, Mr. Dunning said he had known intimately all our presidents since Cleveland. He spoke of him as one who meant what he said and whose word carried great weight in the Old World.

Regarding Roosevelt, he said that a truer heart than his never beat. He paid high tribute to his straightforward character and to what he had done to inspire young America.

Mr. Dunning said that he was not at first attracted by Wilson, but that later contacts convinced him of the greatness of the man to whom he attributed a "God-instilled uprightness of purpose".

Mr. Dunning drew his conclusions, not simply from the public utterances of the great men he had mentioned but from day by day association with them.

Water District Meeting

The annual meeting of the Belchertown Water District will be held in the town hall next Wednesday evening at 7.30 o'clock. The articles will be found on page 2.

The reports of the treasurer and water commissioners are being printed and will be ready for distribution the first of the week. These will be procurable at C. G. Bartlett's drug store.

The commissioners, in their report, tell of their contract with the Department of Mental Diseases, state the amount of pipe already laid and call attention to the fact that the more water takers there are, the cheaper will be the rate. At present the charge is $2.50 per month, which entitles the consumer to 3000 gallons. Their report states that there are 15 water takers besides the school houses, on the lines already installed, whereas there are 30 abutters who have not as yet connected.

The commissioners recommend that the district, for the present at least, take the water from the State School standpipe as is now being done, without going to the additional—

Amherst-Belchertown Road Again

The Amherst-Belchertown road again came to the fore on Tuesday afternoon when Mr. Hodgkins, county commissioner, had a conference with the selectmen and finance committee.

It will be remembered that in the middle of February the selectmen went to Boston and gave it as their opinion that the voters of this town would not be willing to appropriate money for the road in question by reason of the excessive taxes now being borne. $20,000 was asked of the town at that time, and $30,000 of Amherst, the total cost of the road to be $400,000. Since then Amherst has voted the $30,000, and Mr. Hodgkins came to town Tuesday to renew the proposition. His special mission was to have this town vote $6,000 for construction this year, so that Amherst's three miles and Belchertown's two, (1/2 of the whole road) could be put in this season.

The local committee foresaw that next year a demand would be made for the balance desired and were furthermore convinced that Belchertown's share was excessive as compared with that of Amherst's.

Three arguments were thereupon put up to Mr. Hodgkins. The first was that such allotments are usually based on valuation and that Amherst's is six times that of this town.

The second was that Amherst's tax rate is around $25 while Belchertown's is $38, and the third was that Amherst, in spite of her valuation, is spending for roads only three times as much as Belchertown.

The selectmen and finance committee stated that, in their opinion, the town would stand for a $10,000 allotment, payment to be made over a term of four years.

After hearing this side of the case Mr. Hodgkins was of the opinion that perhaps the town was being asked to pay more than it should and agreed to recommend to the state authorities that the smaller allotment of expense be made.

Of course the matter is for the town to decide ultimately, but it looks as though the conference of Tuesday had put the town in a way to save considerable on the proposition and at the same time to bear its proper share of expense.

The town last year spent nearly $2,000 for repairs on this road, so that a sum a trifle more than that for four years more for a permanent road may prove a business proposition.

more Ford cars and trucks were produced last year than the previous year, an increase of over 50 per cent.

In spite of this tremendous increase in production, it was impossible to meet delivery requirements during the spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 Ford Cars and Trucks could not be filled.

This year winter buying for immediate delivery has been more active than ever before—and in addition 200,000 orders have already been booked through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan for spring delivery.

These facts clearly indicate that the demand during this spring and summer will be far greater than ever, and that orders should be placed immediately with Ford Dealers as a means of protection against delay in securing your Ford Car or Truck or Fordson Tractor.

"Parents can help a school by becoming good citizens; by studying the nature of the child before its needs; by standing by the local school system; by being good parents before the child goes to school; by sending the child to school in as good condition as possible; and by helping to carry out the school projects.

class of profession, cannot choose her own material, she has to take anything that comes along. Right here is where the Parent-Teacher association helps. It is to put parenthood on a professional basis. When the parent gets to know the school conditions, criticism ceases; when the parent finds out his or her responsibility, the teacher will be helped. Until then no teacher can do her best for the child and community."

Mrs. Mason closed her address by repeating a poem which taught that when people are dissatisfied with conditions of the town or community, "It is not the town, but you,"—a clear call for individual awakening and interest and a hearty co-operation to better the existing conditions. A full announcement will be made next week.

Death of

Mrs. Clinton R. Rhodes

Mrs. Maude Fuller Rhodes died of Bright's disease last Saturday in the Springfield hospital where she was taken Feb. 20. She was ill about three weeks previous to her going for treatment.

Mrs. Rhodes was born in Ludlow April 9, 1877, and was the daughter of Albert E. and Susan Fisher Fuller. May 1, 1907, she was married to Clinton R. Rhodes, who survives her. Their married life was spent in Ludlow, Springfield and Belchertown, the family coming here in 1918.

Mrs. Rhodes was a member of the Congregational church of Ludlow and an associate member of the local Congregational church. She was a member of the Ludlow church choir during her residence there and also served as choir leader and organist. She was generous with her talents, often coming to town to sing at social functions. The liberality of her life was silently attested by the floral tokens given as a last tribute.

She leaves besides her husband, three children, Lawrence, Stanley, and Harlan Rhodes; her father, Albert E. Fuller of Springfield; a brother, Clarence Fuller of Ludlow; and two sisters, Mrs. Howard King of North Wilbraham, and Mrs. Byron Fair of Pittsburg, Pa.

The funeral was held in the Congregational church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Hilliard officiating. A quartet, consisting of A. R. Lewis, Thomas Allen, Carl Aspengren and Roy Shaw, sang. The bearers were Thomas Allen, Harold Peck, Carl Aspengren and Harry Conkey. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Parent-Teacher Association Meeting

The regular meeting of the Parent Teacher Association will be held Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock in the Lawrence Memorial building. Besides the regular business meeting there will be music in charge of Mrs. Warren, and a social half hour under the direction of Mrs. Guy Allen.

Water District Meeting

The water district meeting of Wednesday evening reminded one of the town meetings of other days. It was a "water" meeting, but it savored more of "fire" than of water. Had there been a hydrant in front of the old town hall, it would have been well to have tested out the subsiding qualities of the new liquid.

In the formal discussion the voters got quite excited, while in the before and after combats, fingers, umbrellas and canes fanned the air frantically.

Wm. Orlando, the local contractor, held the commissioners up to ridicule, claiming that they were rock dodgers, poor pipe buyers and punk in about all their doings. He asserted that if pressure were applied to the system, it would come out of the ground like a jack-in-the-box.

Others found fault with the small main connection, lack of fire protection, no change in insurance, etc.

The commissioners tried to explain away as many of their sins as possible. They said that they followed the advice of a competent engineer and claimed that the pipes were to be relied upon; that there was hardly a short piece in the whole system, that the small connection with the State School main was only temporary, though large enough, that the insurance rates would not drop anyway till the system is all in, and that an auxiliary standpipe and pumps are the ultimate goal, but that it is not sensible to install them with only 15 water takers.

Ex-Senator Morse gave a clarion call for people to take water, now that they have the opportunity. When high rent was given as an excuse, it was countered that if all who said they would take water, did so, the rate would be no more than was stated.

W. F. Nichols said that he was the first one in town to take water and was fully satisfied with it. He called attention to the fact that pressure would increase as one got

Health Week Observance

The observance of Health Week with a two-day program of exercises by school children, including those from the districts, with speakers from out of town, state officials and county workers, marks a height of interest in the Modern Health Crusade hitherto unattained locally. The simple rules of health, fresh air, sunshine, good food, sleep, exercise, cleanliness, etc., have been repeated in pageant, song, play and recitation. Mothers, as well as children, have had brought home to them the importance of gaining in childhood good health and good health habits as a foundation for the work of the years to come.

Mrs. Grace Hoag, school nurse, has been the prime mover in this enterprise, ably seconded by the teachers and splendidly carried out by the children. The music, the acting, the dancing, the costumes, everything seemed perfect in its completeness and detail and impressed the audiences with the well thought-out plan, the skill in training the children and the children's ability in executing it.

Further reports of the out of town speakers will be given later.

State School Minstrel

The minstrel show at the State school last Friday night was a "real" show in every way. The stage was filled with the happiest set of darkies that ever were and the audience was about as exuberant.

Solos and choruses made up Part 1, while dancing and specialties comprised Part 2. In the last half, actors appeared in costume with special scenery and lights.

It was almost unbelievable that the parts were all taken by inmates, so commendable was the production.

Much credit is due Dr. Westwell for his painstaking drilling and for his directing. He also took the part of interlocutor.

Miss Giguere assisted at the piano, Mr. Barrett with clarinet, Mr. DeVaudreuil with violin and Mr. Chadbourn with drum.

Tweedledum and Tweedledee

I confess that the difference of meaning between these two words has puzzled me. I like to use words correctly when I use them, and I have not always felt sure that I have given these their proper significance on the infrequent occasions when I have ventured to speak or write them. My unabridged dictionary informs me that the words are "humorous expansions of tweedle," but what the difference in meaning between tweedle expanded by dum, and tweedle expanded by dee may be, the dictionary does not reveal. A suggestion of the difference has come to me from an unexpected quarter and, for the sake of others who may be puzzled as I have been, I pass it on.

Teapot Dome and the prominence of oil in the news of recent days recalled lines of an old song that may illustrate one tweedle and a parody suggested itself that may illustrate the other tweedle.

"You meet a friend upon the street; He greets you with a smile, And in a hurry tells you He's just struck oil."

This is tweedledum, let us say.

You meet a friend upon the street; He greets you with no smile, And in a hurry tells you, "I've been struck by oil."

This is tweedledee.

My dictionary affirms that the two words used together indicate distinctions that are almost imperceptible. Can a lexicographer err or does time and changing events make distinctions in the meaning of words more evident?

What a scarcely perceptible difference between striking oil and being struck by oil! Our school children who are learning the conjugation, or inflection of verbs will perceive a grammatical difference. Those men who have been haled before the congressional committee because of their real or supposed connection with Teapot Dome are learning that there may be a moral distinction between the tweedledum and the tweedledee of oil, that it is one thing, morally, to get money from oil by the usual process of boring for it and another thing, morally, to get money from oil or any other source of national wealth by graft and bribery.

Although the investigation of the oil scandal is disquieting and humiliating, we hope it will go on till all who have encroached or have abetted the encroachment of others upon the government's reservation, are brought to judgment and until public officials and private citizens more quickly discern the difference between tweedledum and tweedledee.

Belchertown High School

What's What at B. H. S.

The second division of the Senior declamations were given last Friday afternoon. Scott can be safely named the first choice of the audience, giving in Latin a portion of Cicero's First Oration Against Catiline. There were a number of visitors present and it is hoped there will be more when the Juniors make their appearance today at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Lewis, Mr. Allen, and Mr. Jackson with about ten boys of this school attended the Third Annual Connecticut Valley Hi-Y Conference at Northampton last Saturday afternoon and evening. Four things were emphasized in the afternoon discussion groups and by the speakers at the banquet in the evening, clean living, clean athletics, clean scholarship, clean language. There is no Hi-Y here, but all High school boys were invited.

About thirty young people from this school attended a surprise party at the home of Eleanor Gay last Saturday evening. Games were played and a lunch served.

A surprise party was held at the home of Gala Pickering, class of '27, in Greenwich, in observance of her birthday. A number from this school attended.

The boys have started their spring base ball training under the direction of Belding Jackson. Ten new suits were ordered today. The sight of nine men with anything like similar equipment will be something of a shock to school fans.

The first shipment of Domestic Science equipment arrived from Jordan Marsh Company of Boston last week. Other orders will be filled soon, and the room will soon take on the appearance of a real kitchen.

Grange Notes

Considering the weather, which, though appropriate to the Day, was far from appropriate to the season, there was a fair attendance at the regular Grange meeting Tuesday evening, April First, and the first and second degrees were conferred on a class of six and one member was taken in by demit. The first degree was worked by the "regular officers" and the second by a men's degree team.

Thomas Allen was on hand with the 4th chapter of the serial story, which is progressing finely.

The next meeting will be held April 15 and is anticipated to be one of the best of the season.

Pomona Grange met at Williamsburg, April 3.

Y. P. S. C. E. Notes

The Y. P. S. C. E. will serve a supper this evening in the chapel from 6 to 7.30. After the supper an entertainment consisting of musical numbers and readings will be given. Games will follow.

The new piano will be used and also be on exhibition. All of you who are interested "Come and see it."

On Easter morning a seven o'clock Sunrise Service will be held in the chapel. We are planning an interesting meeting for you. Special music will make up a part of the program. "All come."

"Dulcy" is Some Girl!

The High school takes real pleasure in announcing something exceptional in the way of entertainment for the people of Belchertown and vicinity. The Roister Doister Dramatic Society of the Massachusetts Agricultural College will present its annual Junior Prom play, a three-act comedy, "Dulcy," in Memorial hall one week from tonight, April 11th, at 8.15 o'clock.

This is a spoken play and not a motion picture. It carries a cast of eleven male and three female characters. It played for a full season.

Death of

Anna McKillop

Anna McKillop, seven months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael McKillop, died last Saturday of bronchial pneumonia after an illness of only two days. The funeral was held from the home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Burial was in St. Jerome's cemetery, Holyoke.

Parent-Teacher Association Meeting

The Parent-Teacher association meeting of Monday evening in the chapel was largely attended and several new members were added to the association, so that there are now 50 names on the roll. Considering the fact that the society was not organized until Oct. 29, this is a very good showing.

A quartet, consisting of Mrs. H. A. Hopkins, Mrs. L. G. Warren, Mrs. B. E. Shaw and Mrs. William Shaw, sang two selections.

Mrs. Harbour of Fall River, member of the State Board and Chief Councillor, was the speaker of the evening. Her talk was especially appropriate to the needs of a newly formed organization. Much of what she had to say had to do with definite things other organizations are doing all over the country.

Mrs. Harbour told of the birth of the Parent-Teacher association in Washington 27 years ago, and of its three-fold aim: Every Home Reached; Every Parent Helped; Every Child Developed. She spoke of the friendly attitude of great men, including Roosevelt, and said that there are now associations in the 48 states, with 10,000 members in Massachusetts. No other organization, she said, brings parents and teachers together as this does.

She reiterated what Supt. Cook stated at the last meeting that education starts with birth and spoke of the importance of dealing wisely with children of pre-school age. Very often, she said, some serious mental disturbance develops in middle life as the result of some fear unnecessarily inflicted on the subconscious mind in youth. Her admonition was, "Be careful of the thoughts you put into the children's minds."

Mrs. Harbour's comment on the "More Sleep" campaign in Indiana was interesting. She said that statistics showed that 90 per cent. of disciplinary trouble is due to lack of sleep. Speaking of the effect of prohibition on children, she said that there are 500,000 more babies who live every year.

Meeting Tonight

There will be a meeting of the Belchertown Water district tonight at 7.30 o'clock in the town hall to act on the articles given below. The immediate necessity of the meeting is the election of another commissioner as A. F. Bardwell, chosen at the last meeting, has refused to serve.

Art. 1. To choose a moderator.
Art. 2. To choose a commissioner to fill the unexpired term of Emma Shaw, resigned.

Art. 3. To see if the district will vote to rescind the vote passed Mar. 26, 1924, in reference to paying a salary to the treasurer.

Art. 4. To see if the district will vote to pay the treasurer for services rendered to date and to be rendered to Sept. 1, 1924; and if so, what amount.

10th Anniversary

Expected surprise parties do not always turn out as expected. That was what Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Peck thought when they were whisked away last Wednesday evening from their Cottage street home, all set for the occasion, to the Towne home on Maple street, where about thirty people waited in the dark to greet the couple who had been groping in that atmosphere quite adventurously for the past few days. It was a relief to all when the light finally broke.

Progressive games with merit badges for high rank were the order of the evening. Refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Peck cutting the wedding cake. The couple were presented with a package of "confetti" which proved to be ten silver dollars, each wrapped in as many coverings.

Church Night Service

The first of a series of Church Night services was held in the chapel last Friday evening. The trustees and the pastoral committee met and business was transacted. At the devotional and business meeting Mrs. Louise Sherman was elected to the pastoral committee, to take the place of Mrs. A. L. Kendall, resigned.

Mrs. Sarah Randall was chosen superintendent of the Home department as Mrs. Kendall is unable to serve longer in that capacity. Mrs. Kendall organized the department thirty years ago and has had charge of the work ever since. At one time there were about sixty members. At present there are twenty-seven.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of business.
